REDS ASK TALKS TO RESUME

Eddie Lopat Hurls Second Five-Hit Win

M'Dougald Hits Grand Slam Homer In Third

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—The New York Yankees home run power of old was displayed today in the Polo Grounds as the Bronx Bombers walloped the Giants, 13-1, and took an edge of three games to two in the world series. It was the biggest series score in 15 years.

Rookie Gil McDougald broke up the ball game as early as the third inning when he drove a homer off starter Larry Jansen with the bases loaded, to spark a five-run Yankee outburst.

Little Phil Rizzuto poked another round-tripper in the fourth inning with a mate aboard, and the Yankees kept up the merry base-hit tattoo to back up southpaw Ed Lopat's five-hit pitching.

Now the series shifts back to the Yankee Stadium, where the Yanks need only one more victory to wrap up a third straight world championship for Manager Casey Stengel.

Raschi To Face Koslo

Stengel will send Vic Raschi, beaten 6-2 in the third game of the series, against the Giants in an attempt to clinch it tomorrow. Manager Leo Durocher of the Giants said he would start Dave Koslo, the lefthander who beat the Yankees, 5-1, in the opener last Thursday. During the season, Raschi, a righthander, won 21 and lost 10 games. Koslo had a 10 and 9 record during the year.

Today's game was played under clear weather conditions, with the temperature at 61 degrees, and the forecast for tomorrow was mostly fair, with the temperature around 65. Many hundreds in the crowd of 47,530 left the game today as early as the seventh inning.

The Yankees smashed out 12 hits, getting at least one safety off each of five Giant hurlers. Only two other players had hit grand slam homers in the series, Elmer Smith of Cleveland against Brooklyn in 1920, and Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees against the Giants in 1936.

Later the smiling San Francisco youngster said he didn't realize he had bagged a homer, himself, until he was rounding second. In the 1936 game in which Lazzeri cleaned the sacks, the Yanks trounced another Giant team, 18-4. The only other player ever to bag the limit was Elmer Smith of Cleveland in the 1920 playoffs.

Yanks Belt Spencer

The scoring details of the latter part of the dreary contest scarcely are important. The Yanks loved George Spencer, the former Ohio State football star who bulwarked the Giants' relief staff all season. They belted him for two runs in the sixth and then slammed him out of there with only one out in the seventh. Three runs scored as Al Corwin took over and delivered a wild pitch for variety and DiMaggio laced a double down the left line. By that time a good part of the crowd was talking football.

Adding to their other miseries, the Giants committed three fielding errors, one of them by Clint Hartung, who replaced Hank Thompson in right field in an effort to get some righthand power against Lopat. Thompson will be back in there tomorrow.

INDIA AMBASSADOR—Chester Bowles (above) was confirmed by the Senate yesterday as ambassador to India over sharp protests by Senator Taft of Ohio and other Republicans. The vote 43-33 largely followed party lines after Taft accused Bowles of not being "a diplomatic man." Bowles is a former governor of Connecticut and wartime price administrator.

New Ambassador To India Is Chester Bowles

Senate Confirms Nomination 43-33

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—The Senate tonight confirmed Chester Bowles as ambassador to India over sharp protests by Senator Taft of Ohio and other Republicans.

The 43 to 33 vote, largely following party lines, came after Democrats praised Bowles, former governor of Connecticut and wartime price administrator.

Replying for Republicans, Taft said he knew of no one "less qualified" to be diplomatic spokesman for the nation in one of the touchiest parts of the world.

Democratic lines held steadier than Republican ranks on the test. Only one Democrat, McCarran of Nevada, voted with 32 Republicans against confirmation while favorable votes came from 38 Democrats and five Republicans: Aiken (Vt), Langer (ND), Lodge (Mass), Morse (Ore) and Smith (Me).

Taft's criticism of Bowles came in answer to praise of the nominee from Senator McMahon (D-Conn). McMahon said Bowles "fits the picture better than any man in public life."

McMahon contended that Republicans were opposing the Bowles nomination in a political move.

Taft said that Bowles, as wartime price Czar, "antagonized" both Republicans and Democrats who had to deal with him and "followed the CIO all down the line."

"He is not a diplomatic man," Taft shouted. "I've had a lot of experience with him."

Defeated For Reelection

McMahon and other Bowles supporters listed the nominee's experience as governor of Connecticut as evidence of his qualifications.

"The people of Connecticut thought he did not make good as governor and they fired him," Taft shot back, referring to Bowles' defeat for reelection last year.

Princess Proud At Welcome

QUEBEC, Oct. 9 (AP) —Princess Elizabeth said tonight at a glittering state dinner that her heart was filled with pride and joy by the warmth of the Canadian welcome given her and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

In a brief, simple speech, the princess told the 250 dinner guests she had had some misgivings about crossing the Atlantic and coming to the new world, but that all her doubts vanished the moment she set foot on Canadian soil.

Speaking in French, the usual language in Quebec Province, she said:

"I found myself in the midst of friends and fellow countrymen. And today in passing through your magnificent city, my heart was filled with pride and joy at the warmth of this first welcome which Canada had saved for my husband and me."

It was the first full-dress affair of the royal couple's tour, which began officially this morning when they left their 10-car special train at historic Wolfe's Cove for a busy day of sight-seeing and public appearances.

Early next year, the Princess and Duke are to tour Australia and New Zealand as representatives of King George and Queen Elizabeth. Buckingham Palace made the announcement. The King and Queen had planned to start such a trip in January, but his long convalescence from a lung operation will prevent it.

Peron Steps Aside Until Nov. Election

Acting Argentina Head To Be Named

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 9 (AP)—Juan D. Peron announced tonight that he is stepping down from the presidency of Argentina until after the election of Nov. 11 in which he is a candidate for re-election.

He called the Congress to meet on Oct. 11 to approve an acting president in his place.

Interior Minister Angel Borlenghi announced to a news conference that Peron had decided to delegate his presidential office to someone else during the political campaign.

Insures Impartiality

He explained that the motive for Peron's action is that, being a candidate of a political party himself, he does not want to be chief of state when the election occurs but to assure that the polling shall afford "the most complete guarantees of impartiality."

The minister said this was the reason why Congress had been called in special session Oct. 11. He said it would be asked:

1. To grant President Peron a leave of absence from office.

2. To send out an invitation to the newspapermen and labor leaders of Latin American countries to come to Argentina to observe the elections.

Borlenghi did not reply directly to the question of who could serve as acting president during the election campaign.

Vice President Ill

He told a reporter that the "constitutional provision" would be followed. The constitution provides that the vice president should act in case of the death or disability of the president.

However, Juan Hortensio Quijano, the vice president and Peron's run-

Churchill Favors U. S. Friendship

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Winston Churchill said tonight the anti-Americanism of British left-wingers will threaten American-British cooperation if the Labor Party wins the Oct. 25 parliamentary election.

A Conservative government, on the other hand, would "be able to rebuild those relations of cordial and intimate comradeship and understanding with America which played so important a part in the war," he declared.

The Conservative leader and wartime prime minister spoke at suburban Woodford, his constituency.

He accused the left-wing laborite followers of former Health Minister Aneurin Bevan of prejudice against the United States.

Prime Minister Attlee carried the Labor Party's campaign into rural East Anglia. For the last six years, Attlee said, the socialistic labor government has undergone incessant partisan hammering from Churchill's conservatives.

Recalling that Churchill has been urging an end to party strife, Attlee said: "You would thing that Mr. Churchill never takes part in political strife at all."

And who do you think serves the breakfast? None other than the sarge! He was Sgt. First Class Charles M. Flick of Wilmington, Ohio, in this case.

Finnegan Tried To Quit Post As Tax Collector

Fell Behind In Own Income Tax Payments

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—James P. Finnegan told a House inquiry committee today that his own income tax payments fell $2,444 short during a three-year period of his job as federal tax collector at St. Louis.

Deficiency assessment for that amount were levied against him by the internal revenue office in Chicago, he said, for 1947-48-49 when he was making more than $30,000 a year practicing law while holding the post of collector.

Finnegan, who is under grand jury as well as congressional investigation, said earlier he had tried to quit the collector's job three times to devote all his time to law, but that President Truman and others had talked him out of it.

Supplies Figures

He supplied income tax figures that showed his law work brought him $36,783 gross in 1947, $30,867 in 1948 and $37,406 in 1949.

Finnegan's tax return for 1949 showed deducations of $4,631 for entertainment, $3,093 for transportation and $3,212 for hotel bills.

Rep. Curtis (R-Neb) commented: "To a country lawyer like me, those expenses are a surprise."

Finnegan, who served from 1944 until last April, told a house investigating committee that he wasn't particularly interested in the $10,000 collector's salary and spent only three or four hours a day on the job. He said he was making more money practicing law.

He tried first to quit in 1949, he said, and went so far as to telephone the "little White House" in Key West, Fla. where Mr. Truman was vacationing.

The last time, he said, was in October 1950 but he was advised to remain in office after talking with Presidential Secretary Matthew Connell and "also the President of the United States."

He explained "they weren't in a position to appoint a successor at the time and asked me to stay on."

Assured By Hannegan

Finnegan was a witness before a House ways and means subcommittee investigating reports of widespread irregularities in federal tax collector offices.

A federal grand jury is looking into his handling of the St. Louis office. Intelligence agents for the internal revenue bureau have told the House group that Finnegan or his family received $6,193 from a St. Louis insurance firm which the agents said specialized in business with people who were in trouble with the collector's office.

Finnegan said the money was for legal fees. He said that when he

Sweet Toothpicks, Sold At School, May Contain Dope

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 9 (AP)—Students in Eastern High School at nearby Middletown have stopped a toothpick-sucking fad after being told of rumors the toothpicks may have been soaked in dope.

A school official said the students "threw the toothpicks away like they were poison."

Police said they learned enterprising students recently conducted a flourishing business at the school. The students bought toothpicks, dipped them in synthetic oil of cinnamon and sold them to fellow students, two for a penny.

Custodians told Principal Jack Dawson toothpicks littered the school grounds. Head Custodian P. M. Thornton added he had heard two men on a bus suggest the toothpicks might contain dope. Parents of two students made a similar report to Jefferson County police, who told Dawson the fad must stop at once.

Stassen Charges Are Refuted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP) —The State Department today raised a triple challenge against Harold E. Stassen's sworn testimony on events linked with U. S. policy toward Red China.

In rapid succession, the department sought to refute Stassen's contentions:

1. That the United States secretly considered the recognition of Communist China.

2. That Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup advocated shutting off U. S. aid to the Chinese Nationalists at a White House conference on Feb. 5, 1949.

3. That the administration pushed India toward the Communist camp by a 15-month delay in acting on India's plea for 1,000,000 tons of American grain to help stave off a threatened famine in India.

The department's latest move came tonight. It said Ambassador Warren Austin, chief of the American delegation to the United Nations, had reported that official records showed Jessup was in New York City on the day of the White House conference on aid to China.

Stassen had testified that the late Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) told him Jessup was present at the meeting. Jessup denied it.

Seek Ban Of Nazi Socialists

BONN, Germany, Oct. 9 (AP) — The West German government will demand shortly the outlawing of the growing Neo-Nazi Socialist Reich Party (SRP), a government spokesman said today.

Finishing touches are being put to a plea to the newly-established federal constitutional court that the party, by openly advocating Nazism, is unconstitutional.

Selections For Ill. Judgeships Killed By Senate

Vote Prevents Truman From Seating Picks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (AP)—The Senate took two of President Truman's federal judgeship nominations out of pigeonhole today and killed them outright.

The action made sure that Mr. Truman could not put his selections, Cornelius J. Harrington and Joseph H. Drucker of Illinois, on the bench while Congress was not in session.

In another judiciary development, the Senate voted to create 19 new federal judgeships after giving Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) a 60 to 19 vote of approval in his feud with Kefauver (D-Tenn) over a judgeship in their state.

Senate Douglas (D-Ill) led the fight on Mr. Truman's Illinois nominations, because the President picked Harrington and Drucker over men recommended by Douglas. On the voice vote of rejection, no one was heard to support the President's choices.

Before today's vote, the Senate Judiciary Committee had pigeonholed the nominations. Had nothing more been done, Mr. Truman would have been free to give them interim appointments after Congress adjourned, if he wanted to.

The bill creating the new judge-

Gave McCarthy Details

American Negro Is Held For Spying By Swiss Government

GENEVA, Oct. 9 (AP)—An American scheduled to go on trial in the Swiss Federal Criminal Court at Lausanne on Monday is charged with conducting illegal political espionage "in supplying information to Senator (Joseph W.) McCarthy."

The Swiss government charges that the activities of McCarthy's alleged informant violated Swiss sovereignty.

The charge against Charles E. Davis, 24, a negro from Pasadena, Calif., came to light today in the "acte de accusation" (comparable to an indictment in U. S. courts) which has been filed in the Lausanne court.

Davis is accused specifically of supplying a representative of the Wisconsin Republican Senator in Paris with information concerning John Carter Vincent when Vincent was U. S. minister to Switzerland.

The charge says that Davis was paid for this service.

Davis, who told U. S. consulate officials here that he was correspondent for a Communist newspaper in California, has been held in jail for nearly a year since his arrest by Swiss authorities.

For the past several months, he has been under treatment in the prison ward of a Geneva tuberculosis hospital.

Vincent was transferred from his post as minister in Bern to that of consul-general in Tangier last February.

When he was moved, he declined to discuss the background of his transfer, but authorized this statement:

"I can't fight back because of financial considerations, but I could fight back on moral grounds."

Vincent has been a frequent target for McCarthy's repeated charges of Communist influence in the U. S. state department. The Senator has asserted that Vincent followed the Communist line particularly when he was serving the state department in China during the war.

The charge against Davis alleges that at a time "which the preliminary investigation has not been able to place," Davis wrote to McCarthy offering him information.

Mother Drops Four Children Into Net, But Dies In Fire

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP) — A Brooklyn mother dropped four of her children from a third-floor window into a blanket held by neighbors today, and then collapsed and died in a fire which destroyed the building.

The fire started in the basement of a three-story frame building in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. The flames spread quickly to the top floor and trapped Mrs. Birma Randall, 35, and four of her nine children, James, eight; William, five; Michael, three, and Edward, 18 months old.

Mrs. Randall dropped the children, one at a time. None was injured.

After the fire was under control, she was found in the apartment, dead of burns and smoke poisoning. Her other children were out and her husband was at work.

Britain To Keep Troops On Guard At Suez Canal

New Proposals Seen To Settle Dispute

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Britain announced today she intends to keep her 10,000 troops on guard over the Suez Canal and all her rights in the Sudan despite Egypt's efforts to push her out.

A statement by Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said Britain intended to maintain her "full rights" under the treaties of 1936 and 1899 pending a satisfactory agreement with Egypt on the basis of new proposals which will be presented shortly.

These proposals, it was known, involve the participation of the United States in Suez' defense.

Schools Closed

In Cairo, schools were closed and crowds celebrated Prime Minister Mustapha Nahas Pasha's announcement yesterday that Egypt is cancelling both pacts. The Egyptian parliament took steps to hasten ratification of the action. Truckloads of police turned back a crowd of several thousand demonstrators shouting "long live King Farouk of Egypt and Sudan" when they tried to march on the British Embassy.

Morrison's statement said the British government took the "strongest exception" to Egypt's one-sided action in abrogating the 20-year alliance of 1936 and the 1899 treaty setting up joint rule over the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Under the alliance, Britain is allowed to keep 10,000 troops, 400 planes and supporting personnel on guard at the Suez Canal. The canal is one of the two keys to the Mediterranean shortcut between east and west and whoever holds it is in a strong position to defend the entire Middle East. The other is the Strait of Gibraltar.

Sudan Vast Territory

The Sudan is a vast territory of nearly 1,000,000 square miles and 8,000,000 people whose newly developed cotton growing projects are vital to Britain's textile industry.

Diplomatic officials in London believed that Nahas Pasha wants the Sudan as his price for agreeing to a new internationalized defense setup at Suez. He told parliament the

Peiping Radio Answers U. N. Consent Note

Panmunjom New Site For Cease-Fire Talks

TOKYO, Wednesday, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Communist high command today proposed an immediate resumption of the Korean cease-fire talks at the Red-held village of Panmunjom.

The Red leaders suggested the question they raised extending the neutral zone to include advance Allied truce headquarters at Munsan be reserved for discussion by the truce delegations later. The Allies have objected to such an extension of the zone.

The Reds, broadcasting from Peiping the text of their note to the Supreme Allied Commander in advance of its actual delivery, said they had instructed liaison officers to meet Allied officers at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Tuesday EST) to discuss resumption of full dress conferences by the major delegates.

Broadcast In English

The Peiping broadcast in the English language was monitored by the Associated Press.

The message, addressed to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Allied Commander, was signed by North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, leader of the Chinese Red Army in Korea.

It formally replied to Ridgway's message of Oct. 8 agreeing to the Red offer to meet in the Panmunjom area. Panmunjom is six miles east of Kaesong, where the first fruitless truce talks were held.

The Red leaders, however, were insistent that the first full-scale armistice talks deal with the question of extending the Kaesong neutral area to a rectangle running from Kaesong on into Allied territory around Munsan, 12 miles southeast. This would include the Red checkpoint at Panmunjom.

Ridgway was willing to consider the highway linking the three points as a free-from-attack zone but not to make it a full neutral area.

The Red leaders followed their usual custom of assailing Ridgway in the opening paragraphs of their reply. They reiterated charges that the U.N. leader deliberately held up the truce talks by creating incidents.

Then Kim and Peng became more conciliatory and agreed to defer the neutrality zone question until the first meeting of the two delegations takes place. They asked that the negotiations resume "immediately."

The U.N. command sent its senior liaison officer to pick up by hand the formal Communist reply. Marine Col. James C. Murray left Munsan at 7 a. m. by motor convoy. He was accompanied by interpreters and news correspondents.

Whether the 10 a. m. liaison session would be held depended on the speed with which the Red

Benson Charges To Be Probed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP) — A Senate inquiry committee today voted unanimously to investigate charges levelled against Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) by Senator Benton (D-Conn), who says McCarthy should be ousted from the Senate.

Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) said staff investigators have been instructed to look into the charges and report by Nov. 1.

"When we get that report, we'll decide where we go from there," Gillette said.

Gillette's group, a subcommittee of the Senate Rules Committee, voted to go ahead after McCarthy rejected an invitation to take the witness stand and reply to Benton's charges.

Gillette said McCarthy turned down the invitation in a letter declaring:

"Frankly, I do not intend to even read, much less answer, Benton's smear attack.

"I am sure you realize that the Benton type of material can be found in the (Communist) Daily Worker almost any day of the week and will continue to flow from the mouths and pens of the camp followers as long as I continue my fight against Communists in government."

Benton testified under oath before the Gillette subsocmittee on Sept. 28, accusing McCarthy of committing perjury and fraud and "calculated deceit" against the American people.

No Loafing Here

Alexandria Cops To Arrest Pilots Of Low-Flying Planes

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 9 (AP) — When a policeman in historical old Alexandria stares dreamily at the sky, no one scolds him for loafing on the job.

Everyone around here knows by now that he is hard at work: He's hoping to put the pinch on low-flying airplanes.

The Alexandria city council, urged on by Councilman Marshall J. Beverly, who lives on a hill, has passed an ordinance requiring all planes to fly at least 1,000 feet high while over the city.

Possible penalty for breaking the law: $300 fine and 90 days in jail.

Many cities have similar laws, of course. What makes Alexandria's ordinance somewhat different is that Washington's National Airport —used by President Truman and other government bigwigs—is only a couple of propellor spins up the Potomac River from here. Six hundred flights are booked in and out of the airport each day.

When wind patterns are right, pilots say, there is no way to go except over Alexandria, George Washington's old home town. And since planes can't drop vertically, but must come in at a slant, they necessarily must roar in at lower than 1,000 feet.

Wilbur B. Sprague, who has been studying noisy airplanes for the Civil Aeronautics Administration, was hunted up for the government viewpoint.

"Our sympathy is all with the poor citizens," Sprague said. "That noise can be terrible."

But Sprague isn't too keen on Alexandria's solution. He said the safest way for an airplane to come in is to slant down in a straight line.

If the air pattern demands turns by low-flying planes, he said, it will be risky not only for the passengers but also for those living in the thickly populated area below.

Sprague thinks the best bet is to get airlines and manufacturers more interested in cutting down the noise made by the planes. "Studies have been made showing that this can be done," he said, "but no one has done anything about it yet."

New Ambassador To India Is Chester Bowles

Senate Confirms Nomination 43-33

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—The Senate tonight confirmed Chester Bowles as ambassador to India over sharp protests by Senator Taft of Ohio and other Republicans.

The 43 to 33 vote, largely following party lines, came after Democrats praised Bowles, former governor of Connecticut and wartime price administrator.

Replying for Republicans, Taft said he knew of no one "less qualified" to be diplomatic spokesman for the nation in one of the touchiest parts of the world.

Democratic lines held steadier than Republican ranks on the test. Only one Democrat, McCarran of Nevada, voted with 32 Republicans against confirmation while favorable votes came from 38 Democrats and five Republicans: Aiken (Vt), Langer (ND), Lodge (Mass), Morse (Ore) and Smith (Me).

The Conservative leader and wartime prime minister spoke at suburban Woodford, his constituency.

He accused the left-wing laborite followers of former Health Minister Aneurin Bevan of prejudice against the United States.

Prime Minister Attlee carried the Labor Party's campaign into rural East Anglia. For the last six years, Attlee said, the socialistic labor government has undergone incessant partisan hammering from Churchill's conservatives.

Recalling that Churchill has been urging an end to party strife, Attlee said: "You would thing that Mr. Churchill never takes part in political strife at all."

No Loafing Here

Alexandria Cops To Arrest Pilots Of Low-Flying Planes

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 9 (AP) —When a policeman in historical old Alexandria stares dreamily at the sky, no one scolds him for loafing on the job.

Everyone around here knows by now that he is hard at work: He's hoping to put the pinch on low-flying airplanes.

The Alexandria city council, urged on by Councilman Marshall J. Beverly, who lives on a hill, has passed an ordinance requiring all planes to fly at least 1,000 feet high while over the city.

Possible penalty for breaking the law: $300 fine and 90 days in jail.

Many cities have similar laws, of course. What makes Alexandria's ordinance somewhat different is that Washington's National Airport —used by President Truman and other government bigwigs—is only a couple of propellor spins up the Potomac River from here. Six hundred flights are booked in and out of the airport each day.

When wind patterns are right, pilots say, there is no way to go except over Alexandria, George Washington's old home town. And since planes can't drop vertically, but must come in at a slant, they necessarily must roar in at lower than 1,000 feet.

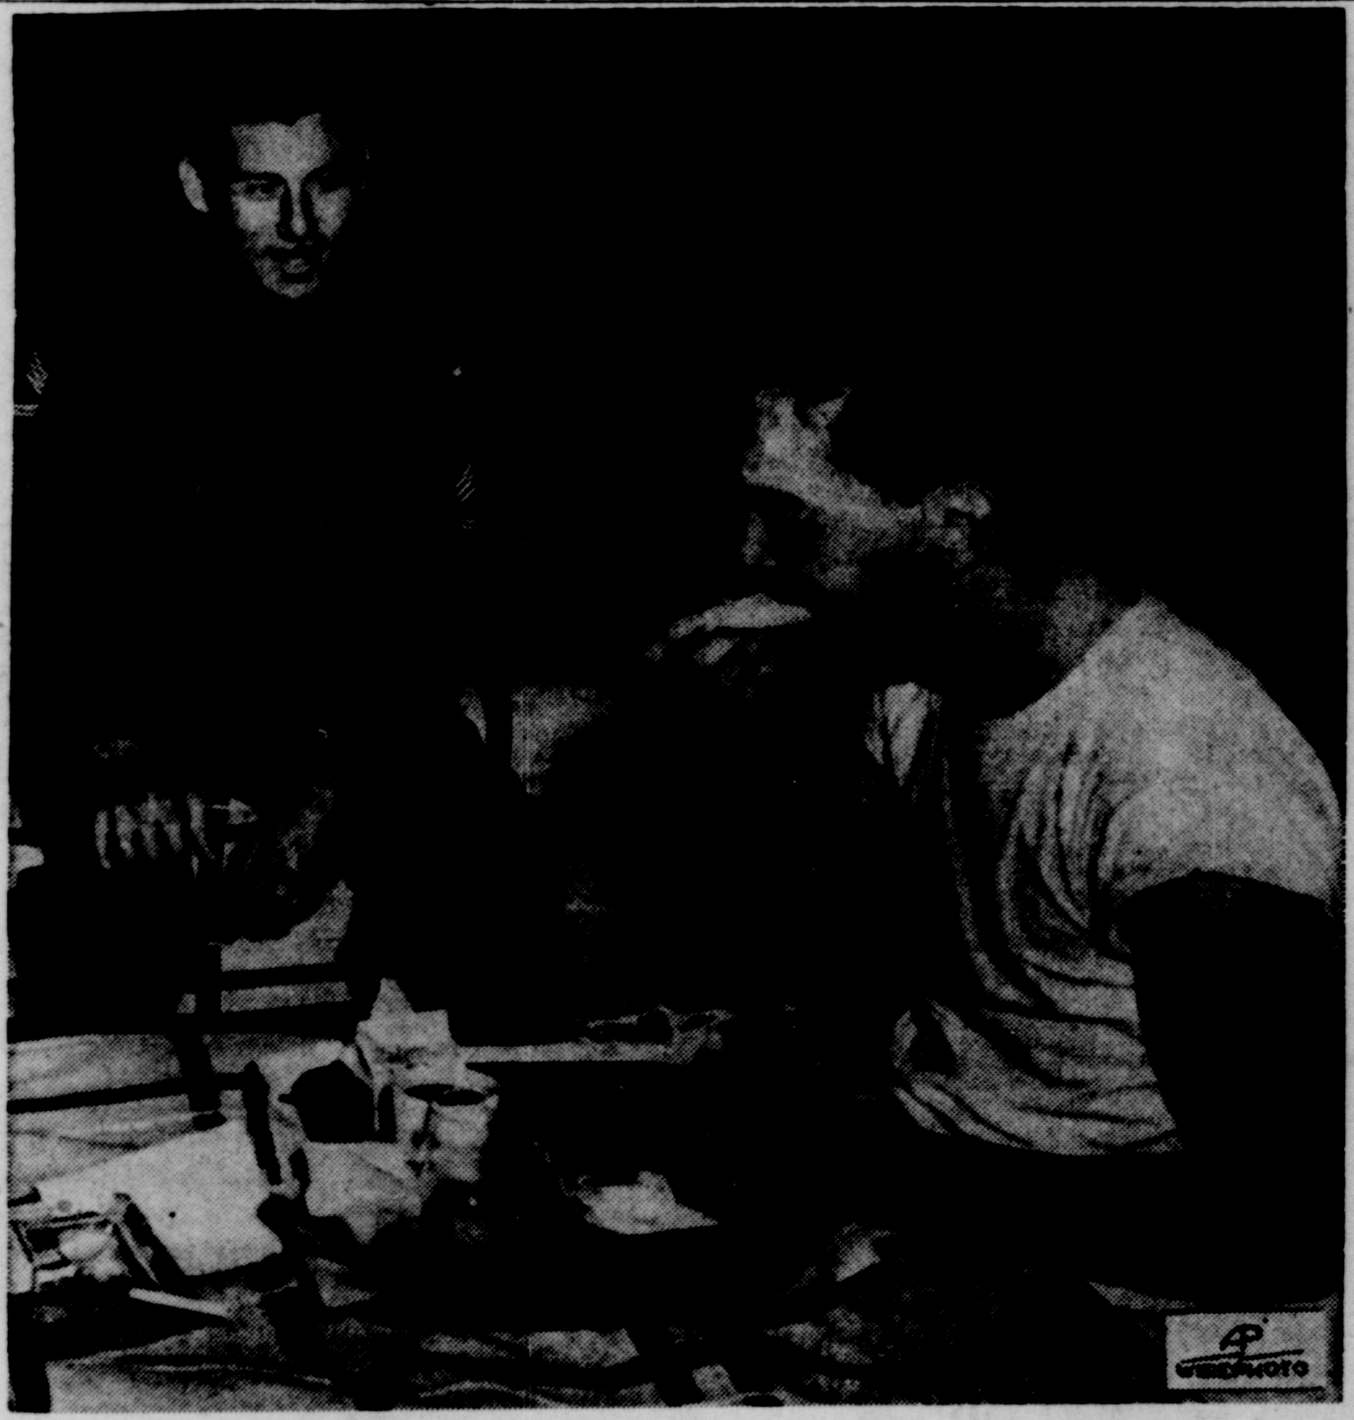
Wilbur B. Sprague, who has been studying noisy airplanes for the Civil Aeronautics Administration, was hunted up for the government viewpoint.

"Our sympathy is all with the poor citizens," Sprague said. "That noise can be terrible."

But Sprague isn't too keen on Alexandria's solution. He said the safest way for an airplane to come in is to slant down in a straight line.

If the air pattern demands turns by low-flying planes, he said, it will be risky not only for the passengers but also for those living in the thickly populated area below.

Sprague thinks the best bet is to get airlines and manufacturers more interested in cutting down the noise made by the planes. "Studies have been made showing that this can be done," he said, "but no one has done anything about it yet."



He's Not Dreaming!

Cpl. Robert C. Price, Marion, Ohio, a soldier at Fort Hayes, must have thought he was dreaming yesterday when he was given the day off and breakfast served in bed. The occasion marked the beginning of the new deal under a recently inaugurated plan at the headquarters of the Ohio Military District which grants the boon to soldiers at the fort on their birthdays. And who do you think serves the breakfast? None other than the sarge! He was Sgt. First Class Charles M. Flick of Wilmington, Ohio, in this case.

Finnegan Tried To Quit Post As Tax Collector

Fell Behind In Own Income Tax Payments

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—James P. Finnegan told a House inquiry committee today that his own income tax payments fell $2,444 short during a three-year period of his job as federal tax collector at St. Louis.

Deficiency assessment for that amount were levied against him by the internal revenue office in Chicago, he said, for 1947-48-49 when he was making more than $30,000 a year practicing law while holding the post of collector.

Finnegan, who is under grand jury as well as congressional investigation, said earlier he had tried to quit the collector's job three times to devote all his time to law, but that President Truman and others had talked him out of it.

Supplies Figures

He supplied income tax figures that showed his law work brought him $36,783 gross in 1947, $30,867 in 1948 and $37,406 in 1949.

Finnegan's tax return for 1949 showed deducations of $4,631 for entertainment, $3,093 for transportation and $3,212 for hotel bills.

Rep. Curtis (R-Neb) commented: "To a country lawyer like me, those expenses are a surprise."

Finnegan, who served from 1944 until last April, told a house investigating committee that he wasn't particularly interested in the $10,000 collector's salary and spent only three or four hours a day on the job. He said he was making more money practicing law.

He tried first to quit in 1949, he said, and went so far as to telephone the "little White House" in Key West, Fla. where Mr. Truman was vacationing.

The last time, he said, was in October 1950 but he was advised to remain in office after talking with Presidential Secretary Matthew Connell and "also the President of the United States."

He explained "they weren't in a position to appoint a successor at the time and asked me to stay on."

Assured By Hannegan

Finnegan was a witness before a House ways and means subcommittee investigating reports of widespread irregularities in federal tax collector offices.

A federal grand jury is looking into his handling of the St. Louis office. Intelligence agents for the internal revenue bureau have told the House group that Finnegan or his family received $6,193 from a St. Louis insurance firm which the agents said specialized in business with people who were in trouble with the collector's office.

Finnegan said the money was for legal fees. He said that when he

Sweet Toothpicks, Sold At School, May Contain Dope

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 9 (AP)—Students in Eastern High School at nearby Middletown have stopped a toothpick-sucking fad after being told of rumors the toothpicks may have been soaked in dope.

A school official said the students "threw the toothpicks away like they were poison."

Police said they learned enterprising students recently conducted a flourishing business at the school. The students bought toothpicks, dipped them in synthetic oil of cinnamon and sold them to fellow students, two for a penny.

Custodians told Principal Jack Dawson toothpicks littered the school grounds. Head Custodian P. M. Thornton added he had heard two men on a bus suggest the toothpicks might contain dope. Parents of two students made a similar report to Jefferson County police, who told Dawson the fad must stop at once.

Stassen Charges Are Refuted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP) —The State Department today raised a triple challenge against Harold E. Stassen's sworn testimony on events linked with U. S. policy toward Red China.

In rapid succession, the department sought to refute Stassen's contentions:

1. That the United States secretly considered the recognition of Communist China.

2. That Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup advocated shutting off U. S. aid to the Chinese Nationalists at a White House conference on Feb. 5, 1949.

3. That the administration pushed India toward the Communist camp by a 15-month delay in acting on India's plea for 1,000,000 tons of American grain to help stave off a threatened famine in India.

The department's latest move came tonight. It said Ambassador Warren Austin, chief of the American delegation to the United Nations, had reported that official records showed Jessup was in New York City on the day of the White House conference on aid to China.

Stassen had testified that the late Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) told him Jessup was present at the meeting. Jessup denied it.

Seek Ban Of Nazi Socialists

BONN, Germany, Oct. 9 (AP) — The West German government will demand shortly the outlawing of the growing Neo-Nazi Socialist Reich Party (SRP), a government spokesman said today.

Finishing touches are being put to a plea to the newly-established federal constitutional court that the party, by openly advocating Nazism, is unconstitutional.

Selections For Ill. Judgeships Killed By Senate

Vote Prevents Truman From Seating Picks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (AP)—The Senate took two of President Truman's federal judgeship nominations out of pigeonhole today and killed them outright.

The action made sure that Mr. Truman could not put his selections, Cornelius J. Harrington and Joseph H. Drucker of Illinois, on the bench while Congress was not in session.

In another judiciary development, the Senate voted to create 19 new federal judgeships after giving Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) a 60 to 19 vote of approval in his feud with Kefauver (D-Tenn) over a judgeship in their state.

Senate Douglas (D-Ill) led the fight on Mr. Truman's Illinois nominations, because the President picked Harrington and Drucker over men recommended by Douglas. On the voice vote of rejection, no one was heard to support the President's choices.

Before today's vote, the Senate Judiciary Committee had pigeonholed the nominations. Had nothing more been done, Mr. Truman would have been free to give them interim appointments after Congress adjourned, if he wanted to.

The bill creating the new judge-

American Negro Is Held For Spying By Swiss Government

GENEVA, Oct. 9 (AP)—An American scheduled to go on trial in the Swiss Federal Criminal Court at Lausanne on Monday is charged with conducting illegal political espionage "in supplying information to Senator (Joseph W.) McCarthy."

The Swiss government charges that the activities of McCarthy's alleged informant violated Swiss sovereignty.

The charge against Charles E. Davis, 24, a negro from Pasadena, Calif., came to light today in the "acte de accusation" (comparable to an indictment in U. S. courts) which has been filed in the Lausanne court.

Davis is accused specifically of supplying a representative of the Wisconsin Republican Senator in Paris with information concerning John Carter Vincent when Vincent was U. S. minister to Switzerland.

The charge says that Davis was paid for this service.

Davis, who told U. S. consulate officials here that he was correspondent for a Communist newspaper in California, has been held in jail for nearly a year since his arrest by Swiss authorities.

For the past several months, he has been under treatment in the prison ward of a Geneva tuberculosis hospital.

Vincent was transferred from his post as minister in Bern to that of consul-general in Tangier last February.

When he was moved, he declined to discuss the background of his transfer, but authorized this statement:

"I can't fight back because of financial considerations, but I could fight back on moral grounds."

Vincent has been a frequent target for McCarthy's repeated charges of Communist influence in the U. S. state department. The Senator has asserted that Vincent followed the Communist line particularly when he was serving the state department in China during the war.

The charge against Davis alleges that at a time "which the preliminary investigation has not been able to place," Davis wrote to McCarthy offering him information.

Mother Drops Four Children Into Net, But Dies In Fire

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP) — A Brooklyn mother dropped four of her children from a third-floor window into a blanket held by neighbors today, and then collapsed and died in a fire which destroyed the building.

The fire started in the basement of a three-story frame building in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. The flames spread quickly to the top floor and trapped Mrs. Birma Randall, 35, and four of her nine children, James, eight; William, five; Michael, three, and Edward, 18 months old.

Mrs. Randall dropped the children, one at a time. None was injured.

After the fire was under control, she was found in the apartment, dead of burns and smoke poisoning. Her other children were out and her husband was at work.

Britain To Keep Troops On Guard At Suez Canal

New Proposals Seen To Settle Dispute

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Britain announced today she intends to keep her 10,000 troops on guard over the Suez Canal and all her rights in the Sudan despite Egypt's efforts to push her out.

A statement by Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said Britain intended to maintain her "full rights" under the treaties of 1936 and 1899 pending a satisfactory agreement with Egypt on the basis of new proposals which will be presented shortly.

These proposals, it was known, involve the participation of the United States in Suez' defense.

Schools Closed

In Cairo, schools were closed and crowds celebrated Prime Minister Mustapha Nahas Pasha's announcement yesterday that Egypt is cancelling both pacts. The Egyptian parliament took steps to hasten ratification of the action. Truckloads of police turned back a crowd of several thousand demonstrators shouting "long live King Farouk of Egypt and Sudan" when they tried to march on the British Embassy.

Morrison's statement said the British government took the "strongest exception" to Egypt's one-sided action in abrogating the 20-year alliance of 1936 and the 1899 treaty setting up joint rule over the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Under the alliance, Britain is allowed to keep 10,000 troops, 400 planes and supporting personnel on guard at the Suez Canal. The canal is one of the two keys to the Mediterranean shortcut between east and west and whoever holds it is in a strong position to defend the entire Middle East. The other is the Strait of Gibraltar.

Sudan Vast Territory

The Sudan is a vast territory of nearly 1,000,000 square miles and 8,000,000 people whose newly developed cotton growing projects are vital to Britain's textile industry.

Diplomatic officials in London believed that Nahas Pasha wants the Sudan as his price for agreeing to a new internationalized defense setup at Suez. He told parliament the

Panmunjom New Site For Cease-Fire Talks

TOKYO, Wednesday, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Communist high command today proposed an immediate resumption of the Korean cease-fire talks at the Red-held village of Panmunjom.

The Red leaders suggested the question they raised extending the neutral zone to include advance Allied truce headquarters at Munsan be reserved for discussion by the truce delegations later. The Allies have objected to such an extension of the zone.

The Reds, broadcasting from Peiping the text of their note to the Supreme Allied Commander, in advance of its actual delivery, said they had instructed liaison officers to meet Allied officers at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Tuesday EST) to discuss resumption of full dress conferences by the major delegates.

Broadcast In English

The Peiping broadcast in the English language was monitored by the Associated Press.

The message, addressed to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Allied Commander, was signed by North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, leader of the Chinese Red Army in Korea.

It formally replied to Ridgway's message of Oct. 8 agreeing to the Red offer to meet in the Panmunjom area. Panmunjom is six miles east of Kaesong, where the first fruitless truce talks were held.

The Red leaders, however, were insistent that the first full-scale armistice talks deal with the question of extending the Kaesong neutral area to a rectangle running from Kaesong on into Allied territory around Munsan, 12 miles southeast. This would include the Red checkpoint at Panmunjom.

Ridgway was willing to consider the highway linking the three points as a free-from-attack zone but not to make it a full neutral area.

The Red leaders followed their usual custom of assailing Ridgway in the opening paragraphs of their reply. They reiterated charges that the U.N. leader deliberately held up the truce talks by creating incidents.

Then Kim and Peng became more conciliatory and agreed to defer the neutrality zone question until the first meeting of the two delegations takes place. They asked that the negotiations resume "immediately."

The U.N. command sent its senior liaison officer to pick up by hand the formal Communist reply. Marine Col. James C. Murray left Munsan at 7 a. m. by motor convoy. He was accompanied by interpreters and news correspondents.

Whether the 10 a. m. liaison session would be held depended on the speed with which the Red

Benson Charges To Be Probed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP) — A Senate inquiry committee today voted unanimously to investigate charges levelled against Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) by Senator Benton (D-Conn), who says McCarthy should be ousted from the Senate.

Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) said staff investigators have been instructed to look into the charges and report by Nov. 1.

"When we get that report, we'll decide where we go from there," Gillette said.

Gillette's group, a subcommittee of the Senate Rules Committee, voted to go ahead after McCarthy rejected an invitation to take the witness stand and reply to Benton's charges.

Gillette said McCarthy turned down the invitation in a letter declaring:

"Frankly, I do not intend to even read, much less answer, Benton's smear attack.

"I am sure you realize that the Benton type of material can be found in the (Communist) Daily Worker almost any day of the week and will continue to flow from the mouths and pens of the camp followers as long as I continue my fight against Communists in government."

Benton testified under oath before the Gillette subsocmittee on Sept. 28, accusing McCarthy of committing perjury and fraud and "calculated deceit" against the American people.

Good Will Can Settle Oil Fight

UNITED NATION'S, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP)—Iran's deputy premier said tonight only Britain's good will can bring about a settlement of the British-Iran oil disputes.

Hossein Fatemi, appearing at the first news conference since Iran's Premier Mohammer Mossadegh and his party arrived in New York Monday, again disputed the right of the United Nations Security Council to consider the case or make any recommmendations.

Britain is trying to get the Security Council to adopt a resolution calling on Iran to obey an International Court of Justice order to halt nationalization of its oil property until the whole question can be gone over again.

Fatemi dodged any outright statements that Mossadegh would walk out of the Security Council if it attempt to take any action. Mossadegh is recovering from exhaustion under the care of doctors at the New York Hospital.

Fatemi said that the Security Council has no business discussing the dispute and that Iran would not pay any attention to any neutral arbiter that the council might suggest.

William And Mary Names New Prexy

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 9 (AP)—The College of William and Mary today chose Rear Admiral Alvin Duke Chandler, a two-fisted military man, as its permanent president to succeed Dr. John E. Pomfret.

Appointment of the 49-year-old navy administrator and World War II hero came as a surprise. The board of visitors had previously indicated it would defer until next spring the selection of a new head for the college, rocked recently by a sports scandal.

The board, however, apparently concluded that a firm hand was needed at once to resolve crises growing out of the scandal.

Mountaineer Denies Living As Hermit After Desertion

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 9 (AP)—A husky young mountaineer just grinned today at talk he'd been a hounded hermit playing tag with the law while running an eight-day pass into five years and an army desertion charge.

"Shoot," said Everett C. Atkins, 24. "Guess I've been to Charlottesville a thousand times the past five years, walking all around the law."

Atkins, interviewed in a jail cell here by a Richmond News Leader reporter, was picked up Sunday by FBI agents in a woodland close to his family's home at nearby Gordonsville.

He was squirrel hunting (no license) when the government agents took him into custody to end their part in a case they called "one of the most notorious desertion cases in the files of the FBI." The army had him in custody today at Fort Lee, 20 miles south of Richmond.

Atkins, a strong open-faced man who looked just about like somebody's starting pitcher for tomorrow, scoffed at the role the FBI cast him in: a sort of Daniel Boone, living on berries and game as he beat his way through the forests.

"I've been living part time at home, part time in Pennsylvania and Maryland, staying in tourist cabins along the road."

He got by, he added, because he "didn't ask nobody nothing."

Atkins was inducted in Richmond in 1946—asked for the navy but the army got him—and shipped to Fort McClellan, Ala. After eight weeks he was given an eight-day pass and hurried home to his wife and parents, living together on a lumber tract near Gordonsville. He caught the mumps, he said, and kept putting off his return to the army.

Md. Cities Can't Regulate Speed Limits

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9. (AP)—Maryland cities can't regulate speed limits on their streets. It's a state function.

Attorney General Hall Hammond so informed Theodore L. Miazga, a Prince Georges County trial magistrate, in an opinion published today. Miazga has asked for advice on the subject.

Hall told the magistrate that the state code sets speed limits for motor vehicles, among other things, in "thickly settled or business parts of cities, towns, and villages."

The attorney general said that the provisions of the code are "intended to be statewide in their effect, and that no city, county or other municipal subdivision shall have the right to make or enforce any local law, ordinance or regulation unon any subject for which provision is made" in the state code."

Delinquent Taxes Are Being Paid

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9. (AP)—Maryland's 30-day moratorium on penalties produced returns from 450 persons delinquent in their income tax payments, a state tax official reported today.

Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the income tax division of the state comptroller's office, said the grace period "has done a lot of good."

He said the office is now preparing "a great many" liens against those who are still delinquent. The law provides for the attachment of all but $15 of their weekly earnings until the taxes, penalties and interest have been paid.

It appeared likely that allied officers would be able to keep the date since the time had been suggested by the U. N. chieftain.

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Wednesday, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Allies ground ahead one mile in Western Korea Tuesday but the Reds sprang one of their most significant war moves in months — a sudden shift of Chinese troops to the Eastern front.

The new Red maneuver, possibly involving the transfer of a major Chinese unit, checked an Allied advance in the East. This meant just two things to embattled United Nations forces on the mountainous Eastern front:

1. The unending U.N. hill assaults have at least partly ground down the rebuilt North Korean Army.

2. The battle, which was already tough, is probably going to get tougher.

U. S. Eighth Army estimates placed Red losses at 80,000 men since Aug. 23 when the Kaesong peace talks were suspended by the Communists. This is equil to eight to 10 Red divisions.

Nearly all the debate was on whether to make a new temporary district judgeship in Tennessee apply only to the middle section of the state, or to have the judge rove between middle and west Tennessee. McKellar wanted to create a judgeship for middle Tennessee alone while Kefauver said there wasn't enough court work to justify that.

Delinquent Taxes Are Being Paid

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9. (AP)—Maryland's 30-day moratorium on penalties produced returns from 450 persons delinquent in their income tax payments, a state tax official reported today.

Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the income tax division of the state comptroller's office, said the grace period "has done a lot of good."

He said the office 'is now preparing "a great many" liens against those who are still delinquent. The law provides for the attachment of all but $15 of their weekly earnings until the taxes, penalties and interest have been paid.

Mountaineer Denies Living As Hermit After Desertion

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 9 (AP)—A husky young mountaineer just grinned today at talk he'd been a hounded hermit playing tag with the law while running an eight-day pass into five years and an army desertion charge.

"Shoot," said Everett C. Atkins, 24. "Guess I've been to Charlottesville a thousand times the past five years, walking all around the law."

Atkins, interviewed in a jail cell here by a Richmond News Leader reporter, was picked up Sunday by FBI agents in a woodland close to his family's home at nearby Gordonsville.

He was squirrel hunting (no license) when the government agents took him into custody to end their part in a case they called "one of the most notorious desertion cases in the files of the FBI." The army had him in custody today at Fort Lee, 20 miles south of Richmond.

Atkins, a strong open-faced man who looked just about like somebody's starting pitcher for tomorrow, scoffed at the role the FBI cast him in: a sort of Daniel Boone, living on berries and game as he beat his way through the forests.

"I've been living part time at home, part time in Pennsylvania and Maryland, staying in tourist cabins along the road."

He got by, he added, because he "didn't ask nobody nothing."

Atkins was inducted in Richmond in 1946—asked for the navy but the army got him—and shipped to Fort McClellan, Ala. After eight weeks he was given an eight-day pass and hurried home to his wife and parents, living together on a lumber tract near Gordonsville. He caught the mumps, he said, and kept putting off his return to the army.

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Wednesday, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Allies ground ahead one mile in Western Korea Tuesday but the Reds sprang one of their most significant war moves in months — a sudden shift of Chinese troops to the Eastern front.

The new Red maneuver, possibly involving the transfer of a major Chinese unit, checked an Allied advance in the East. This meant just two things to embattled United Nations forces on the mountainous Eastern front:

1. The unending U.N. hill assaults have at least partly ground down the rebuilt North Korean Army.
2. The battle, which was already tough, is probably going to get tougher.

U. S. Eighth Army estimates placed Red losses at 80,000 men since Aug. 23 when the Kaesong peace talks were suspended by the Communists. This is equil to eight to 10 Red divisions.

Nearly all the debate was on whether to make a new temporary district judgeship in Tennessee apply only to the middle section of the state, or to have the judge rove between middle and west Tennessee. McKellar wanted to create a judgeship for middle Tennessee alone while Kefauver said there wasn't enough court work to justify that.

What's the fastest-growing line of trucks in America?
LOOK around you—in cities, on farms, at terminals and loading docks—wherever goods are moved on wheels.
More and more, the pay load's packed on a GMC.
You see those letters on medium and heavy Diesels, the most economical workers in their field. For GMC means first in Diesel power.
You see gasoline-powered GMC's front-running the highways of America—pace-setting delivery of the necessities of peace and war.
You see nimble bantamweights of the family—the highest-powered ½- to 2-tonners made—outpulling, outhauling every other truck in their class.
Ever wonder why GMC is gaining a greater percentage of the industry than any other truck-maker?
Ask the truck drivers themselves.
See the confident way they talk of the power plants, the broad-shouldered chassis—the way a GMC handles.
Ask about the tons they've hauled, the miles they've logged—the nip-and-tuck schedules they've licked time and again.
Ask these cost-wary haulers why they've made GMC the fastest-growing fleet in the land.
They'll tell you it's because GMC is the finest motor truck made.

Jap Leader Fears His Nation Will Slip Back Into Feudalistic Ways

By O. H. P. KING

TOKYO — (AP) — Will Japan retain the basic democratic policies of the occupation after the peace treaty is ratified — or will she slip back into her old feudalistic ways?

There seems to be quite a difference in Japanese opinion.

A prominent, foreign-educated Japanese leader predicts that "black reaction is an evil that faces us." He is a responsible source, but insisted in an interview that he not be identified. He asserted that "those of us on the inside" knew of plans to "junk" many occupation reforms.

Japanese and American official quarters, when asked their opinion, said the informant's fears were "exaggerated" or his information "erroneous."

"The Japanese will keep what's good and fits in with their national consciousness," said U. S. Ambassador William J. Sebald, chief diplomatic adviser of the occupation. "My own feeling is that there is a lot of exaggerated talk at present."

The Japanese source — who has a large following in labor circles — said:

"The Korean war has sidetracked the blueprint for Japan's future.

"Premier (Shigeru) Yoshida is moving to junk most of the long-range projects and reforms and return big business interests to control. His course is obvious, but there is no objection voiced by occupation officials still here.

"We who have implemented the programs and created public support for them hesitate to engage in an all-out fight with Yoshida. He has American backing. To oppose him would be to risk being branded a Communist.

"Further, it would appear we opposed America, the United Nations, the peace treaty, rearmament, stationing of U. S. defense forces here and other things of which he — and we — approve."

He asserted the government is planning revision of statutes with an eye to abolishing certain bureaus protecting the public's interest, reestablishment of the "thought control" police system, press censorship and business monopolies.

A. Miyazaki, official spokesman for the Japanese foreign office, conferred with leading government officials and then said the informant's report was "entirely erroneous."

New Amino Acid Relieves Asthma, Allergy Symptoms

PALO ALTO, Calif. — (AP) — Two Beverly Hills doctors have disclosed that they have developed a new amino acid which has relieved asthma, hay fever and other allergy symptoms.

Dr. John D. Keye and R. R. Widman told a medical meeting at the Palo Alto Clinic that the new drug, called tyral, was used with "marked success" on 1,000 patients during a 12-month trial in several cities.

Within 48 hours after tyral was taken by mouth, a large percentage of the sufferers were freed in varying degrees from that constricting symptoms of asthma, hay fever and kindred allergy ailments, said Dr. Keye.

The two physicians developed the drug in cooperation with the International Minerals and Chemical Corp. of Chicago. Clinical and laboratory tests were made at Western Reserve University and other schools.

"It appears that this drug, through an entirely new approach to the problem, may offer considable relief to people with allergies who have had difficulty in obtaining relief heretofore," Dr. Keye said.

He added that tyral is the amino acid tyrosine, combined with an activator, and that it presumably acts to correct an unbalance in the systems of allergic people which results in the excessive production of histamine.

Tyral inhibits the excessive production of histamine, he explained.

More Fighter Planes

Word of a second explosion of an atomic bomb by the Russians coincides with word from Korea that few jet planes have been destroyed in the heavy air fighting there. The Air Force announces for a three-day period in late September six enemy MIG-15's destroyed, one probably destroyed, 19 damaged. This included the heavy battles of September 26, in which 150 MIG's were engaged by 100 UN jets. United Nations forces lost even fewer planes than the enemy.

Our own low casualty rate in the air in Korea is attributed by the Air Force to the superior gunnery of American pilots and the higher rate of fire of American armament. Many American pilots had World War II combat experience. Then, too, United Nations units—unlike the Chinese—have been maintained intact and at full strength. This contributes much to the morale of personnel.

The Air Force reports heavy damage inflicted on enemy ground units. In the three-day period already referred to, United Nations planes flew 5,760 sorties and damaged 5,000 enemy supply vehicles. The loss of jet fighters on both sides has been particularly light in view of the number of planes involved.

The Defense Department is expected soon to announce a program aimed to beef up the Air Force. Whether the goal is to be the predicted 140 groups or an even greater number, much of the increase will evidently have to be in tactical aviation.

Strategic air power, involving the use of great numbers of heavy bombers, has long been fundamental to United States defense policy. But heavy bombers, if they are to reach their targets, must be accompanied by fighter planes.

Similarly, in any all-out war the United States would need great numbers of fighter planes to intercept enemy planes bearing atom bombs. In a report on August 24, following the combined hearings of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees, Senator Lodge (R., Mass.) charged that Russia was gaining on the United States in strategic aviation, was already ahead in tactical aviation and air defense.

Navy and Marine use of tactical aviation in close support of ground troops in Korea has been praised by the Army ground commanders. An Associated Press dispatch of September 2 reported that some Army ground leaders emerged from the recent maneuvers in North Carolina with a desire for more planes in support of ground troops and more control over the planes assigned to them.

The Air Force, fully committed to protecting ground troops, is resisting the current moves to give greater control over planes to ground commanders of less than a whole army, or at least of any army corps. Air Force officials point to their experience in North Africa in World War II. Though the Allies say they then had more planes available than the Germans, the Allies could not gain air superiority. When the Allied planes were split up into "penny packets," the large striking forces necessary to wrest air superiority from the enemy were unavailable.

"Wonderful Windfall"

As the American public is increasingly aware, many blessings flow from that reservoir of good will, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It has been a lucrative channel for gift cameras, turkeys, hams, perfume, Florida vacations, even a mink coat. Yet from what a Senate investigating committee has been churning up, RFC and Lady Luck have competitors.

In at least one case under investigation, the Internal Revenue Bureau has its by-products of World Series tickets and commissions—or, as one witness delicately described it, "a wonderful windfall." A New Jersey agent of the bureau, Walter Doxon, has placed in the committee records the simple story of how easy it is for a couple of alert government employes with the right connections to pick up $14,000.

The agent, now suspended for 30 days, had a friend who works for the government, too. He is John L. Kelly, a supervisor for the Labor Department in the New York-New Jersey area. Mr. Kelly, in turn, had a friend, Elmer Bobst of Montclair, N. J., whose firm has use for considerable amounts of printing.

So Mr. Doxon called Mr. Kelley, who called Mr. Bobst. All he asked of Mr. Bobst were his company specifications for printing. In due course, the ubiquitous American Lithofold Company got a printing contract, and the Messrs. Doxon and Kelly got a commission, or rather "a wonderful windfall," of $14,000.

Mr. Bobst said he was merely helping a friend, had nothing to do with awarding the contract. For their part, the Messrs. Doxon and Kelly were no doubt drafted from their government jobs for part-time private employment because of their technical knowledge of the printing business or because they were persuasive and experienced salesmen who knew how to get results.

Nevertheless, their case recalls testimony previously given by a resigned supervisor, James B. Olson, of the Alcohol Tax Unit. As it chanced, he was simultaneously on the payroll of the government and American Lithofold, too. When called to explain, Mr. Olson expressed the disquieting opinion that many federal tax collectors have "outside businesses."

Outside business for tax collectors is a practice which, if general, is symptomatic of the depressing moral climate in Washington as revealed by busy investigating committees. Moral codes to govern public conduct have been proposed officially and unofficially. It's hard to see, however, how any wordy codes can improve on the Cleveland dictum that public office is a public trust.

Obviously, in too many cases it isn't so regarded. Therefore, as Jesse Jones said in 1948, it may help at least to change the combination of the safe.

Drive For Steel Scrap

We could produce more steel, say the steel-makers, if only we could get more steel scrap. The industry doesn't promise that even then it could end the present shortage of steel for civilian use (lots of new road and bridge projects are being held up indefinitely because no steel is being allocated for them). But the industry does promise that more scrap would end the present danger of too little steel to meet the full rearmament program.

In ordinary times, about as much scrap as pig iron goes into the production of many kinds of steel. As scrap becomes scarcer and higher, relatively more pig iron must be used—and iron ore isn't exactly overabundant these days. More scrap would be coming in from the Korean battlefields were it not for a dispute on whether it belongs to the U. S. or to the U.N.

This week is to see a stepping-up, all over the country, of the current drive to get more scrap. This drive is concentrating, at least for the present, on the big stuff—such as old cars from automobile graveyards—rather than on the little odds and ends that might turn up from a house-to-house canvas or from appeals to housewives.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Chickenpox Is Highly Contagious

Chickenpox is one of the most contagious of all diseases. The susceptible are likely to come down with the malady even though there wasonly a momentary contact with an inflicted individual. It is transmitted from one to another, apparently via the air.

The causative agent is a virus that is seen as rectangular in shape when viewed under the electron microscope. It resembles the smallpox virus but is smaller. The organism is identical in size and appearance, however, with the virus that causes herpes zoster (shingles). The relationship between chickenpox and herpes zoster has aroused the curiosity of the medical profession for many years. Both the virus and the individual lesions look alike. Furthermore, an epidemic of chickenpox in children has been traced to an adult with shingles. On the other hand, an attack of one of the diseases does not confer immunity to the other as 70 per cent of patients with herpes zoster have had chickenpox earlier.

Most victims are children. The ailment generally develops between 13 and 17 days after exposure. The youngster has respiratory symptoms suggestive of a cold as well as fever, headache, loss of appetite, and lack of pep. This may persist for 24 or more hours when the typical eruption appears. Meanwhile, the family may feel uneasy because there is no way of predicting to what contagious disease the youngster is falling heir. At any rate, the rash at first consists of many small, red, flattened areas. Within an hour or two a clear oval "teardrop" forms in the center of each one of these lesions. Their contents becomes cloudy and before long the transparent membrane ruptures, leaving a small crust as the fluid dries.

The rash of chickenpox differs from that of smallpox in that the outbreak begins on the trunk and spreads to the face, shoulders, and extremities. In addition, the lesions are in all stages of development; some are red, others are in the water blister stage, and still others are covered with crusts and about to disappear. Smallpox usually starts on the extremities and spreads toward the trunk and all the lesions reach the same stage of development almost simultaneously. From five to 21 days will elapse before the crusts fall off.

Because the disease is contagious from 24 hours before the eruption to six or seven days afterward, the patient should be isolated until all the lesions dry. There is no specific treatment but this is not serious; mortality is low. Most pocks heal completely although many individuals are left with one or two telltale scars on the face. Itching may be a problem, especially in young children. Calamine lotion or an antihistaminic salve will prove soothing and when irritation is extensive a starch bath frequently offers relief. This is prepared by mixing a cup of powdered starch with hot water and adding it to the bath water. Keeping the fingernails short is helpful in preventing secondary infections.

Preventive measures rarely are needed. Convalescent serum and gamma globulin will afford temporary immunity for those who are too ill at the time of exposure to go through a siege of chickenpox. Ultraviolet light is said to reduce the incidence of the disease in schools by killing the virus.

PROLONGED SPASM

M. Z. writes: I am a long time sufferer of cardiospasm and have taken every treatment I know of—drugs, psychiatric care, faith healing, and dilations. Is there anything I have missed?

REPLY

You are a stubborn case and the only thing left is surgery, especially if the esophagus is dilated markedly above the constricted area. But you alone can decide whether your pain is severe enough to justify the risk of operation.

HYPERTHYROIDISM

L. R. writes: At the present time is operation preferable to radioactive iodine in overacidity of thyroid gland?

REPLY

This is an individual problem that the physician must decide. The method of treatment depends upon the age, symptoms, state of health, and whether the gland feels hard or soft. In some cases propylthiouracil is the treatment of choice.

•—•—•

NOISY EARS

Mrs. K. writes: Could a lazy thyroid cause whistling ears?

REPLY

The two conditions usually are not related. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on causes of ear noises.

NORMAL METABOLISM

D. E. F. writes: It is possible to have a thyroid condition even though a metabolism test shows normal?

REPLY

Yes, because in some thyroid disorders metabolism is not disturbed. In simple goiter, for example, the gland is enlarged but it may not secrete too much or too little of its hormone.

Southern Solons Squabble Over Taxes; Senator George Bitterly Opposes Increases; Taft-Eisenhower Maneuvers Engage GOP Forces

WASHINGTON — Some of the most vital congressional debates never get into the headlines. All last week, a debate affecting the pocketbook of every adult in the nation took place between conferees from the Senate and House over taxes. Newsmen and the public were not admitted.

The chief debaters were two distinguished and highly respected gentlemen from the South — Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia and Rep. Bob Doughton of North Carolina. In many respects they are similar, but on taxes they vigorously disagree.

Both are elderly—George 73 and Doughton 86. Both have served in Congress for a large part of the 20th Century—George for 29 years, Doughton 40 years. Both come from rural backgrounds, though George of late has numbered some of the nation's captains of high finance among his friends.

Doughton, despite his age, has long been the first congressman to get to work in the morning. He used to open his office at 5:30 a. m. but after passing his 80th birthday, he compromised by getting to work at 6 a. m. Down in North Carolina, Doughton used to ride a big white mule through the mountains visiting constituents, which gave him the nickname "Muley Bob."

In the recent closed-door tax debates, Senator George probably has thought that Doughton was mulish in more ways than one, for Muley Bob has been his most stubborn opponent in trying to plug the loopholes in the Senate's so-called "millionaires" tax bill.

"Cuts! Cuts! Cuts."

"All of the Senate amendments are for tax relief in one form or another," grumbled the big North Carolinian at one stormy committee session, "cuts!—cuts!—cuts!"

"The President asked us for sixteen billions in new taxes to balance the budget," Doughton continued, aiming his remarks directly at Senator George, "but the House cut this down to ten billion and finally to $7.2 billion. You can't reduce it any more without ruining our economy. How in the world the Senate arrived at the conclusion that we can get by with only $5.4 billion of new taxes is beyond me."

"The Senate figure of $5.4 billion is the maximum our economy can stand," argued Senator George. "If you tax business any more you will curtail production and destroy the incentive of free enterprise."

"Cuts! — cuts! — cuts!" roared Doughton. "That's the only language you fellows know."

Rep. John Dingell of Detroit supported Doughton.

"For every dollar the Senate bill saves in new taxes, we will lose ten dollars in the resulting depreciation of our currency," Dingell argued.

"Taxes don't hurt the people when their dollars have a high purchasing power," continued the Detroiter. "It's when their dollars depreciate that they feel the tax pinch worst. Yet this Senate bill would create more inflation by deficit spending and adding to the national debt. For we'll simply have to borrow money to meet expenses instead of raising it by taxes.

"I hear a lot of these big corporation directors say that they hate communism, but they apparently don't hate it enough to cough up some extra taxes to keep our government solvent."

Neither Doughton nor Dingell, however, could move George. He told the House conferees in effect that they could argue until they were blue in the face without changing his position.

"I want to say furthermore," the Senator added with an icy glare at Doughton, "that this is the last tax bill I'll bring in unless we get into an all-out war."

NOTE—Actually it is the duty of the House of Representatives to initiate or "bring in" tax legislation. The Senate passes on the tax bill after the House adopts it. George, as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, can exercise powerful influence over any tax bill, but it's doubtful if he could block one altogether.

Taft Vs. Eisenhower

TAFT MANEUVERS — A secret strategy meeting of Taft-for-President leaders was held in Washington last Thursday night. Present was John Hamilton, the Kansas-born GOP chairman for Alf Landon who now works for oilman Joe Pew in Philadelphia; also Taft's cousin, Dave Ingalls, who was assistant secretary of war in the Hoover administration.

Ingalls, who has been scouring the 48 states for Taft delegates, reported to the meeting that if the convention were held today, Taft would pull 500 of the 600 GOP delegates.

Others present were more conservative, estimated Taft's strength nearer 350. Ingalls also announced that the only threat to Taft was Eisenhower, but that GOP leaders figure he will not make a sufficiently aggressive fight to get nominated.

NOTE—During the session, machine manufacturer Tom Coleman, chief Taft leader in Wisconsin, telephoned in from Madison that he never expected to get Cyrus Phillips, GOP national committeeman and head of Union Refrigerator Cars, to sign the Taft pledge, but Phillips finally did so to support John Hamilton.

EISENHOWER MANEUVERS — Anti-Taft forces, fully sensing the danger that Taft will definitely pledge GOP leaders before they know whether Eisenhower is available, have now decided to take the bit in their teeth.

They will put out an announcement fairly soon that Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania will head the Eisenhower forces. Following this, they expect to get a personal statement from the General around Christmas time, possibly before. He will state that he will be available for the GOP nomination.

Reason for the early appointment of Jim Duff as Eisenhower leader is the current hemming-and-hawing among the General's supporters. As between genial ex-Senator Darby of Kansas, Governor Tom Dewey, and Senator Duff, no one has known who was boss.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Below The Belt

I recently received a letter from a young man who critically made the point that Americans do not like a person who hits below the belt. He was referring to Senator Joe McCarthy.

The logic of his position is that a man has a moral right to change his mind, his associations, his partisanships and his religion. None of us is perfect and our mistakes are numerous. They often strike back at us when we can least afford it.

Our problem, however, is to go over the past that we may be wiser in the future; to study and document the Soviet infiltration into the American government. It would even be of advantage to discover if other governments have done the same. That is why I favor investigation into the Chinese (both groups), French, British, Arab, South American and other foreign lobbies that may attempt to influence American public opinion. Let us have the entire picture clear once and for all time.

It is for this reason and not to pillory individuals that the investigations of the McCarran Committee are important.

For instance, Elizabeth Bentley testified that Gregory Silvermaster, who had been in the Farm Security Administration and the board of economic warfare, was in her espionage group when she was a Russian agent. Here is a telling colloquy:

"Senator Ferguson. What were your avenues for placing people in strategic positions?

"Miss Bentley. I would say that two of our best ones were Harry Dexter White and Lauchlin Currie. They had an immense amount of influence and knew people and their word would be accepted when they recommended someone.

"The Chairman. Harry Dexter White was in what department?

"Miss Bentley. Under Secretary of the Treasury under Mr. Morgenthau.

"Senator Ferguson. In other words, Currie and White were your instrumentalities in putting people in strategic positions?

"Miss Bentley. I would say they were our most important ones."

The Lauchlin Currie to whom Miss Bentley referred was a secretary to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Miss Bentley testified under oath. I understand that Lauchlin Currie will be given an opportunity, if he desires it, to testify under oath. If one of them is untruthful, it is up to the attorney general of the United States to obtain an indictment for perjury and to have the case tried in a court of law.

A congressional committee investigates; it does not convict. If Miss Bentley's testimony is untruthful, then doubt is cast upon her former testimony, which did produce convictions. She has just published a book, "Out of Bondage," and articles by her appeared in "McCall's Magazine." She mentions names of persons who are alive and whose remedy is in our courts. They can sue her for libel, but to do so involves them in the danger of conviction for perjury, as it does her. She takes all the risks but those who attack what she says under oath as hearsay are apparently unwilling to risk anything. They smear her but they do not impeach her veracity by due process of the law.

Further she testified:

"Senator Ferguson. But if you desired to shift a person from one position to another position you would use White and Currie?

"Miss Bentley. We would use White and Currie if we could.

"Senator Eastland. Do you know who White's principal contacts were in the government so that he could place people in government?

"Miss Bentley. It was my understanding that he knew practically everyone in Washington who had any influence.

"Senator Eastland. You do not know whom he would contact?

"Miss Bentley. No, not specifically, that was his affair, and we did not inquire into it."

Harry Dexter White was responsible for the Morganthau plan which has been one of the most damaging to American policy in Europe. This colloquy follows:

"Senator Eastland. What you say is that it was a Communist plot to destroy Germany and weaken her to where she could not help us?

"Miss Bentley. That is correct. She could no longer be a barrier that would protect the Western world.

"Senator Eastland. And that Mr. Morgenthau, who was secretary of the Treasury of the United States was used by the Communist agents to promote that plot?

"Miss Bentley. I am afraid so, yes.

"Senator Ferguson. What do you mean by 'I am afraid so'?

"Miss Bentley. Certainly Secretary Morgenthau didn't fall in with Communist plots."

Miss Bentley's testimony is under oath. Harry Dexter White is dead, but Henry Morgenthau is alive. He is privileged to tell his story.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress who have all along believed that the National Labor Relations Board was emasculating the Taft-Hartley Act by its rulings and decisions are more than ever convinced of this by the latest opinion handed down by the board restricting the right of employers to talk to their employes.

Under the old Wagner Act, the board ruled that an employer couldn't address his employes on union matters during working hours. The Circuit Court of Appeals upheld that decision, so Congress in 1947 rewrote the labor-management act specifically to prevent an empolyer from being charged wtih an "unfair labor practice" for what he said to his employes at any time.

Now the present board has found a capricious way to get around the new law by holding that the employer was guilty of an unfair labor practice for refusing to permit the union organizers to speak to the assembled employes during working hours on a parity with the employer. The board, seemingly with its tongue in its cheek, said it wasn't concerned with the free speech of the employer or what he said but solely with his refusal to grant facilities for the union organizers.

Ample Time For Meetings

What it could mean, of course, is that the National Labor Relations Board now has decided to take jurisdiction over the facilities that are provided to employes in advance of an election to hear the issues, and presumably — if the board is to be fair about it—the employer must be given access to all union meetings where any issue affecting his employes may be discussed.

The argument made by the board in its ruling was that the employes couldn't be assembled in any other way and that the meeting held by the employer was held just before the election. Actually the meeting was held six days before the voting, and there was ample time for the union to hold other meetings of its own and mail out its literature.

It was a 4-to-1 decision in a case that arose in the Bonwit Teller department stores in New York. Member Reynolds, who dissented, pointed out that the new law—the Taft-Hartley Act—was adopted "with assurances that its passage would guarantee free speech to employers in labor disputes." He said:

"Nowhere in the act or in its legislative history, however, does it appear that a concomitant of this right is the obligation to provide a forum of debate for unions. Indeed, hinging an employer's right to speak upon his readiness to make available the means by which his arguments, views, and opinions can be nullified, effectively emasculates Section 8 (C) as it applies to the right of an employer to address his employes."

Vague Definition

The majority of the board gave as a guide for future cases a vague definition:

"We believe that the right of employes, guaranteed by Section 7 of the act, freely to select or reject representation by a labor organization necessarily encompasses the right to hear both sides of the story under circumstances which reasonably approximate equality."

But what are the circumstances that "reasonably approximate equality"? Does that cover equal space in union-labor newspapers and periodicals which devote much of their space to vitriolic attacks on employers? Does this new rule mean access to union halls for employers? Does it mean that unions now can be penalized for circulating scurrilous literature during campaigns? Is the National Labor Relations Board to become the censor of the facilities afforded "both sides" in an election, since the law plainly forbids it to be censor of what is actually said?

During the period when the Taft-Hartley law was under discussion in Congress, the famous Clark case involving almost identical circumstances with the Bonwit Teller case was specifically repudiated by the insertion of language designed to overcome a previous board's ruling. There were predictions then that the board would find ways to get around the law. Unfortunately, those predictions now have been fulfilled and employers might as well realize that the present board is not going to be fair in interpreting the existing law and that only when present members are impeached or new ones appointed under another administration will impartiality be assured and freedom of speech upheld in labor disputes.

Dulles As A Nominee

By MARK SULLIVAN

News reports from the recent conference of governors at Gatlinburg, Tenn., said that much of the talk had to do with the Presidential campaign and election next year. In the discussion, the news reports said, most of the talk about the Republican Presidential nomination assumed that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio are the most probable nominees. Such mention as there was of others was more or less listless speculation as to who might emerge in the event that Gen. Eienhower and Sen. Taft should, in the political phrase, "kill each other off." The others thus casually considered included Gov. Warren of California, Sen. Duff of Pennsylvania, and ex-Governor Stassen of Minnesota, now president of the University of Pennsylvania. What went on at the conference of governors goes on wherever Republican Presidential possibilities are discussed in news channels or in common talk.

Sometimes an omission is news. So far as the present writer has observed, there has been in the current discussion of the Republican Presidential nomination next year an odd omission, considering the standing and relation to public affairs of the man omitted, John Foster Dulles.

By standards which ordinarily have determining weight in judgments which the public in general commonly arrives at about public men, Mr. Dulles has an extremely high status. A recently conspicuous reason for his standing is the treaty of peace with Japan which 48 nations signed at San Francisco a few weeks ago. Mr. Dulles was the author of that treaty and the principal active agency responsible for success in bringing about the near unanimous adoption of it. And the adoption of that treaty, with the sensational setback to Communist Russia which accompanied it, is probably the most important and hopeful development in the six years during which our controversy with Russian communism has been the major concern of the country.

Ordinarily the role of Mr. Dulles in bringing about the treaty of peace with Japan would bring him automatically into consideration for the Republican Presidential nomination. The party in power has been responsible for the conduct of our relations with Communist Russia for six years. The aim and function of the Republicans as the opposition party is to provide opportunity for expression to voters who do not approve the Truman administration's course about Communist Russia. An obvious person for consideration among possibilities for the Republican Presidential nomination would be the man who has had a recent conspicuous success, widely pleasing to the public, in relations with Communist Russia. Why then does Mr. Dulles' name not appear in current discussion?

Seeking merely the explanation of a phenomenon and without invidiousness, one might ask a supporter of Gen. Eisenhower for the Republican nomination—perhaps, for example, Gov. Dewey as the leading one—"Why not Mt. Dulles?" Without doubt Gov. Dewey would give good reasons why Gen. Eisenhower is his choice. Similarly supporters of Sen. Taft or any other aspirant would give good reasons for their choices. But the lack of any mention of Mr. Dulles would remain an unexplained phenomenon.

In any event, acquaintance with what Mr. Dulles did in bringing about the treaty of peace with Japan will give the people a sense of comfort and satisfaction that goes with knowing they have a fine and able man in public life. Probably four out of five of the nations that signed the treaty had reservations that made them reluctant to sign. Mr. Dulles reasoned with them, traveling some 125,000 miles to call on important ones. He went to New Zealand and Australia to allay apprehensions of those nations about Japan becoming independent and strong. When President Truman's dismissal of Gen. MacArthur created possibility of alarm in Japan, Mr. Dulles hurried to Tokyo to reassure them.

A trait of fairness and consideration that makes Mr. Dulles a diplomat and statesman in the best sense was illustrated by a telegram he sent Gen. MacArthur on the night the Japanese treaty was signed: "As we are about to sign the Japanese peace treaty my thought, like the thoughts of other delegates, will turn to you. You will be present in spirit, for the signing delegation and the witnessing multitude all know that without your great leadership in war and peace the result achieved here would not have been attainable. With deep personal regards and profound appreciation for the unwavering support which you have given me, I am, faithfully yours, John Foster Dulles."

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Distributed by International News Service)

When you call a senator a liar you are supposed to prove it. It requires a two-thirds plurality to nominate. The White House has the power to veto. And usually does it.

What does it say about that in the good book? Many shall be called but few shall be proven.

And we cannot even ask those battling senators to be their age. That would be an invitation to retire on three-quarters pay.

More Fighter Planes

Word of a second explosion of an atomic bomb by the Russians coincides with word from Korea that few jet planes have been destroyed in the heavy air fighting there. The Air Force announces for a three-day period in late September six enemy MIG-15's destroyed, one probably destroyed, 19 damaged. This included the heavy battles of September 26, in which 150 MIG's were engaged by 100 UN jets. United Nations forces lost even fewer planes than the enemy.

Our own low casualty rate in the air in Korea is attributed by the Air Force to the superior gunnery of American pilots and the higher rate of fire of American armament. Many American pilots had World War II combat experience. Then, too, United Nations units—unlike the Chinese—have been maintained intact and at full strength. This contributes much to the morale of personnel.

The Air Force reports heavy damage inflicted on enemy ground units. In the three-day period already referred to, United Nations planes flew 5,760 sorties and damaged 5,000 enemy supply vehicles. The loss of jet fighters on both sides has been particularly light in view of the number of planes involved.

The Defense Department is expected soon to announce a program aimed to beef up the Air Force. Whether the goal is to be the predicted 140 groups or an even greater number, much of the increase will evidently have to be in tactical aviation.

Strategic air power, involving the use of great numbers of heavy bombers, has long been fundamental to United States defense policy. But heavy bombers, if they are to reach their targets, must be accompanied by fighter planes.

Similarly, in any all-out war the United States would need great numbers of fighter planes to intercept enemy planes bearing atom bombs. In a report on August 24, following the combined hearings of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees, Senator Lodge (R., Mass.) charged that Russia was gaining on the United States in strategic aviation, was already ahead in tactical aviation and air defense.

Navy and Marine use of tactical aviation in close support of ground troops in Korea has been praised by the Army ground commanders. An Associated Press dispatch of September 2 reported that some Army ground leaders emerged from the recent maneuvers in North Carolina with a desire for more planes in support of ground troops and more control over the planes assigned to them.

The Air Force, fully committed to protecting ground troops, is resisting the current moves to give greater control over planes to ground commanders of less than a whole army, or at least of any army corps. Air Force officials point to their experience in North Africa in World War II. Though the Allies say they then had more planes available than the Germans, the Allies could not gain air superiority. When the Allied planes were split up into "penny packets," the large striking forces necessary to wrest air superiority from the enemy were unavailable.

"Wonderful Windfall"

As the American public is increasingly aware, many blessings flow from that reservoir of good will, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It has been a lucrative channel for gift cameras, turkeys, hams, perfume, Florida vacations, even a mink coat. Yet from what a Senate investigating committee has been churning up, RFC and Lady Luck have competitors.

In at least one case under investigation, the Internal Revenue Bureau has its by-products of World Series tickets and commissions—or, as one witness delicately described it, "a wonderful windfall." A New Jersey agent of the bureau, Walter Doxon, has placed in the committee records the simple story of how easy it is for a couple of alert government employes with the right connections to pick up $14,000.

The agent, now suspended for 30 days, had a friend who works for the government, too. He is John L. Kelly, a supervisor for the Labor Department in the New York-New Jersey area. Mr. Kelly, in turn, had a friend, Elmer Bobst of Montclair, N. J., whose firm has use for considerable amounts of printing.

So Mr. Doxon called Mr. Kelley, who called Mr. Bobst. All he asked of Mr. Bobst were his company specifications for printing. In due course, the ubiquitous American Lithofold Company got a printing contract, and the Messrs. Doxon and Kelly got a commission, or rather "a wonderful windfall," of $14,000.

Mr. Bobst said he was merely helping a friend, had nothing to do with awarding the contract. For their part, the Messrs. Doxon and Kelly were no doubt drafted from their government jobs for part-time private employment because of their technical knowledge of the printing business or because they were persuasive and experienced salesmen who knew how to get results.

Nevertheless, their case recalls testimony previously given by a resigned supervisor, James B. Olson, of the Alcohol Tax Unit. As it chanced, he was simultaneously on the payroll of the government and American Lithofold, too. When called to explain, Mr. Olson expressed the disquieting opinion that many federal tax collectors have "outside businesses."

Outside business for tax collectors is a practice which, if general, is symptomatic of the depressing moral climate in Washington as revealed by busy investigating committees. Moral codes to govern public conduct have been proposed officially and unofficially. It's hard to see, however, how any wordy codes can improve on the Cleveland dictum that public office is a public trust.

Obviously, in too many cases it isn't so regarded. Therefore, as Jesse Jones said in 1948, it may help at least to change the combination of the safe.

Drive For Steel Scrap

We could produce more steel, say the steel-makers, if only we could get more steel scrap. The industry doesn't promise that even then it could end the present shortage of steel for civilian use (lots of new road and bridge projects are being held up indefinitely because no steel is being allocated for them). But the industry does promise that more scrap would end the present danger of too little steel to meet the full rearmament program.

In ordinary times, about as much scrap as pig iron goes into the production of many kinds of steel. As scrap becomes scarcer and higher, relatively more pig iron must be used—and iron ore isn't exactly over-abundant these days. More scrap would be coming in from the Korean battlefields were it not for a dispute on whether it belongs to the U. S. or to the U.N.

This week is to see a stepping-up, all over the country, of the current drive to get more scrap. This drive is concentrating, at least for the present, on the big stuff—such as old cars from automobile graveyards—rather than on the little odds and ends that might turn up from a house-to-house canvas or from appeals to housewives.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Chickenpox Is Highly Contagious

Chickenpox is one of the most contagious of all diseases. The susceptible are likely to come down with the malady even though there was only a momentary contact with an inflicted individual. It is transmitted from one to another, apparently via the air.

The causative agent is a virus that is seen as rectangular in shape when viewed under the electron microscope. It resembles the smallpox virus but is smaller. The organism is identical in size and appearance, however, with the virus that causes herpes zoster (shingles). The relationship between chickenpox and herpes zoster has aroused the curiosity of the medical profession for many years. Both the virus and the individual lesions look alike. Furthermore, an epidemic of chickenpox in children has been traced to an adult with shingles. On the other hand, an attack of one of the diseases does not confer immunity to the other as 70 per cent of patients with herpes zoster have had chickenpox earlier.

Most victims are children. The ailment generally develops between 13 and 17 days after exposure. The youngster has respiratory symptoms suggestive of a cold as well as fever, headache, loss of appetite, and lack of pep. This may persist for 24 or more hours when the typical eruption appears. Meanwhile, the family may feel uneasy because there is no way of predicting to what contagious disease the youngster is falling heir. At any rate, the rash at first consists of many small, red, flattened areas. Within an hour or two a clear oval "teardrop" forms in the center of each one of these lesions. Their contents becomes cloudy and before long the transparent membrane ruptures, leaving a small crust as the fluid dries.

The rash of chickenpox differs from that of smallpox in that the outbreak begins on the trunk and spreads to the face, shoulders, and extremities. In addition, the lesions are in all stages of development; some are red, others are in the water blister stage, and still others are covered with crusts and about to disappear. Smallpox usually starts on the extremities and spreads toward the trunk and all the lesions reach the same stage of development almost simultaneously. From five to 21 days will elapse before the crusts fall off.

Because the disease is contagious from 24 hours before the eruption to six or seven days afterward, the patient should be isolated until all the lesions dry. There is no specific treatment but this is not serious; mortality is low. Most pocks heal completely although many individuals are left with one or two telltale scars on the face. Itching may be a problem, especially in young children. Calamine lotion or an antihistaminic salve will prove soothing and when irritation is extensive a starch bath frequently offers relief. This is prepared by mixing a cup of powdered starch with hot water and adding it to the bath water. Keeping the fingernails short is helpful in preventing secondary infections.

Preventive measures rarely are needed. Convalescent serum and gamma globulin will afford temporary immunity for those who are too ill at the time of exposure to go through a siege of chickenpox. Ultraviolet light is said to reduce the incidence of the disease in schools by killing the virus.

TOMORROW: Ease your back.

PROLONGED SPASM

M. Z. writes: I am a long time sufferer of cardiospasm and have taken every treatment I know of—drugs, psychiatric care, faith healing, and dilations. Is there anything I have missed?

REPLY

You are a stubborn case and the only thing left is surgery, especially if the esophagus is dilated markedly above the constricted area. But you alone can decide whether your pain is severe enough to justify the risk of operation.

• — • — •

L. R. writes: At the present time is operation preferable to radioactive iodine in overacidity of thyroid gland?

REPLY

This is an individual problem that the physician must decide. The method of treatment depends upon the age, symptoms, state of health, and whether the gland feels hard or soft. In some cases propylthiouracil is the treatment of choice.

• — • — •

NOISY EARS

Mrs. K. writes: Could a lazy thyroid cause whistling ears?

REPLY

The two conditions usually are not related. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on causes of ear noises.

• — • — •

NORMAL METABOLISM

D. E. F. writes: It is possible to have a thyroid condition even though a metabolism test shows normal?

REPLY

Yes, because in some thyroid disorders metabolism is not disturbed. In simple goiter, for example, the gland is enlarged but it may not secrete too much or too little of its hormone.

Southern Solons Squabble Over Taxes; Senator George Bitterly Opposes Increases; Taft-Eisenhower Maneuvers Engage GOP Forces

WASHINGTON — Some of the most vital congressional debates never get into the headlines. All last week, a debate affecting the pocketbook of every adult in the nation took place between conferees from the Senate and House over taxes. Newsmen and the public were not admitted.

The chief debaters were two distinguished and highly respected gentlemen from the South — Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia and Rep. Bob Doughton of North Carolina. In many respects they are similar, but on taxes they vigorously disagree.

Both are elderly—George 73 and Doughton 86. Both have served in Congress for a large part of the 20th Century—George for 29 years, Doughton 40 years. Both come from rural backgrounds, though George of late has numbered some of the nation's captains of high finance among his friends.

Doughton, despite his age, has long been the first congressman to get to work in the morning. He used to open his office at 5:30 a. m. but after passing his 80th birthday, he compromised by getting to work at 6 a. m. Down in North Carolina, Doughton used to ride a big white mule through the mountains visiting constituents, which gave him the nickname "Muley Bob."

In the recent closed-door tax debates, Senator George probably has thought that Doughton was mulish in more ways than one, for Muley Bob has been his most stubborn opponent in trying to plug the loopholes in the Senate's so-called "millionaires" tax bill.

"Cuts! Cuts! Cuts."

"All of the Senate amendments are for tax relief in one form or another," grumbled the big North Carolinian at one stormy committee session, "cuts!—cuts!—cuts!"

"The President asked us for sixteen billions in new taxes to balance the budget," Doughton continued, aiming his remarks directly at Senator George, "but the House cut this down to ten billion and finally to $7.2 billion. You can't reduce it any more without ruining our economy. How in the world the Senate arrived at the conclusion that we can get by with only $5.4 billion of new taxes is beyond me."

"The Senate figure of $5.4 billion is the maximum our economy can stand," argued Senator George. "If you tax business any more you will curtail production and destroy the incentive of free enterprise."

"Cuts! — cuts! — cuts!" roared Doughton. "That's the only language you fellows know."

Rep. John Dingell of Detroit supported Doughton.

"For every dollar the Senate bill saves in new taxes, we will lose ten dollars in the resulting depreciation of our currency," Dingell argued.

"Taxes don't hurt the people when their dollars have a high purchasing power," continued the Detroiter. "It's when their dollars depreciate that they feel the tax pinch worst. Yet this Senate bill would create more inflation by deficit spending and adding to the national debt. For we'll simply have to borrow money to meet expenses instead of raising it by taxes.

"I hear a lot of these big corporation directors say that they hate communism, but they apparently don't hate it enough to cough up some extra taxes to keep our government solvent."

Neither Doughton nor Dingell, however, could move George. He told the House conferees in effect that they could argue until they were blue in the face without changing his position.

"I want to say furthermore," the Senator added with an icy glare at Doughton, "that this is the last tax bill I'll bring in unless we get into an all-out war."

NOTE—Actually it is the duty of the House of Representatives to initiate or "bring in" tax legislation. The Senate passes on the tax bill after the House adopts it. George, as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, can exercise powerful influence over any tax bill, but it's doubtful if he could block one altogether.

Taft Vs. Eisenhower

TAFT MANEUVERS — A secret strategy meeting of Taft-for-President leaders was held in Washington last Thursday night. Present was John Hamilton, the Kansas-born GOP chairman for Alf Landon who now works for oilman Joe Pew in Philadelphia; also Taft's cousin, Dave Ingalls, who was assistant secretary of war in the Hoover administration.

Ingalls, who has been scouring the 48 states for Taft delegates, reported to the meeting that if the convention were held today, Taft would pull 500 of the 600 GOP delegates.

Others present were more conservative, estimated Taft's strength nearer 350. Ingalls also announced that the only threat to Taft was Eisenhower, but that GOP leaders figure he will not make a sufficiently aggressive fight to get nominated.

NOTE—During the session, machine manufacturer Tom Coleman, chief Taft leader in Wisconsin, telephoned in from Madison that he never expected to get Cyrus Phillips, GOP national committeeman and head of Union Refrigerator Cars, to sign the Taft pledge, but Phillips finally did so to support John Hamilton.

EISENHOWER MANEUVERS — Anti-Taft forces, fully sensing the danger that Taft will definitely pledge GOP leaders before they know whether Eisenhower is available, have now decided to take the bit in their teeth.

They will put out an announcement fairly soon that Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania will head the Eisenhower forces. Following this, they expect to get a personal statement from the General around Christmas time, possibly before. He will state that he will be available for the GOP nomination.

Reason for the early appointment of Jim Duff as Eisenhower leader is the current hemming-and-hawing among the General's supporters. As between genial ex-Senator Darby of Kansas, Governor Tom Dewey, and Senator Duff, no one has known who was boss.

These Days

Below The Belt

I recently received a letter from a young man who critically made the point that Americans do not like a person who hits below the belt. He was referring to Senator Joe McCarthy.

The logic of his position is that a man has a moral right to change his mind, his associations, his partisanships and his religion. None of us is perfect and our mistakes are numerous. They often strike back at us when we can least afford it.

Our problem, however, is to go over the past that we may be wiser in the future; to study and document the Soviet infiltration into the American government. It would even be of advantage to discover if other governments have done the same. That is why I favor investigation into the Chinese (both groups), French, British, Arab, South American and other foreign lobbies that may attempt to influence American public opinion. Let us have the entire picture clear once and for all time.

It is for this reason and not to pillory individuals that the investigations of the McCarran Committee are important.

For instance, Elizabeth Bentley testified that Gregory Silvermaster, who had been in the Farm Security Administration and the board of economic warfare, was in her espionage group when she was a Russian agent. Here is a telling colloquy:

"Senator Ferguson. What were your avenues for placing people in strategic positions?

"Miss Bentley. I would say that two of our best ones were Harry Dexter White and Lauchlin Currie. They had an immense amount of influence and knew people and their word would be accepted when they recommended someone.

"The Chairman. Harry Dexter White was in what department?

"Miss Bentley. Under Secretary of the Treasury under Mr. Morgenthau.

"Senator Ferguson. In other words, Currie and White were your instrumentalities in putting people in strategic positions?

"Miss Bentley. I would say they were our most important ones."

The Lauchlin Currie to whom Miss Bentley referred was a secretary to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Miss Bentley testified under oath. I understand that Lauchlin Currie will be given an opportunity, if he desires it, to testify under oath. If one of them is untruthful, it is up to the attorney general of the United States to obtain an indictment for perjury and to have the case tried in a court of law.

A congressional committee investigates; it does not convict. If Miss Bentley's testimony is untruthful, then doubt is cast upon her former testimony, which did produce convictions. She has just published a book, "Out of Bondage," and articles by her appeared in "McCall's Magazine." She mentions names of persons who are alive and whose remedy is in our courts. They can sue her for libel, but to do so involves them in the danger of conviction for perjury, as it does her. She takes all the risks but those who attack what she says under oath as hearsay are apparently unwilling to risk anything. They smear her but they do not impeach her veracity by due process of the law.

Further she testified:

"Senator Ferguson. But if you desired to shift a person from one position to another position you would use White and Currie?

"Miss Bentley. We would use White and Currie if we could.

"Senator Eastland. Do you know who White's principal contacts were in the government so that he could place people in government?

"Miss Bentley. It was my understanding that he knew practically everyone in Washington who had any influence.

"Senator Eastland. You do not know whom he would contact?

"Miss Bentley. No, not specifically, that was his affair, and we did not inquire into it."

Harry Dexter White was responsible for the Morganthau plan which has been one of the most damaging to American policy in Europe. This colloquy follows:

"Senator Eastland. What you say is that it was a Communist plot to destroy Germany and weaken her to where she could not help us?

"Miss Bentley. That is correct. She could no longer be a barrier that would protect the Western world.

"Senator Eastland. And that Mr. Morgenthau, who was secretary of the Treasury of the United States was used by the Communist agents to promote that plot?

"Miss Bentley. I am afraid so, yes.

"Senator Ferguson. What do you mean by 'I am afraid so'?

"Miss Bentley. Certainly Secretary Morgenthau didn't fall in with Communist plots."

Miss Bentley's testimony is under oath. Harry Dexter White is dead, but Henry Morgenthau is alive. He is privileged to tell his story.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress who have all along believed that the National Labor Relations Board was emasculating the Taft-Hartley Act by its rulings and decisions are more than ever convinced of this by the latest opinion handed down by the board restricting the right of employers to talk to their employes.

Under the old Wagner Act, the board ruled that an employer couldn't address his employes on union matters during working hours. The Circuit Court of Appeals upheld that decision, so Congress in 1947 rewrote the labor-management act specifically to prevent an empolyer from being charged wtih an "unfair labor practice" for what he said to his employes at any time.

Now the present board has found a capricious way to get around the new law by holding that the employer was guilty of an unfair labor practice for refusing to permit the union organizers to speak to the assembled employes during working hours on a parity with the employer. The board, seemingly with its tongue in its cheek, said it wasn't concerned with the free speech of the employer or what he said but solely with his refusal to grant facilities for the union organizers.

Ample Time For Meetings

What it could mean, of course, is that the National Labor Relations Board now has decided to take jurisdiction over the facilities that are provided to employes in advance of an election to hear the issues, and presumably — if the board is to be fair about it—the employer must be given access to all union meetings where any issue affecting his employes may be discussed.

The argument made by the board in its ruling was that the employes couldn't be assembled in any other way and that the meeting held by the employer was held just before the election. Actually the meeting was held six days before the voting, and there was ample time for the union to hold other meetings of its own and mail out its literature.

It was a 4-to-1 decision in a case that arose in the Bonwit Teller department stores in New York. Member Reynolds, who dissented, pointed out that the new law—the Taft-Hartley Act—was adopted "with assurances that its passage would guarantee free speech to employers in labor disputes." He said:

"Nowhere in the act or in its legislative history, however, does it appear that a concomitant of this right is the obligation to provide a forum of debate for unions. Indeed, hinging an employer's right to speak upon his readiness to make available the means by which his arguments, views, and opinions can be nullified, effectively emasculates Section 8 (C) as it applies to the right of an employer to address his employes."

Vague Definition

The majority of the board gave as a guide for future cases a vague definition:

"We believe that the right of employes, guaranteed by Section 7 of the act, freely to select or reject representation by a labor organization necessarily encompasses the right to hear both sides of the story under circumstances which reasonably approximate equality."

But what are the circumstances that "reasonably approximate equality"? Does that cover equal space in union-labor newspapers and periodicals which devote much of their space to vitriolic attacks on employers? Does this new rule mean access to union halls for employers? Does it mean that unions now can be penalized for circulating scurrilous literature during campaigns? Is the National Labor Relations Board to become the censor of the facilities afforded "both sides" in an election, since the law plainly forbids it to be censor of what is actually said?

During the period when the Taft-Hartley law was under discussion in Congress, the famous Clark case involving almost identical circumstances with the Bonwit Teller case was specifically repudiated by the insertion of language designed to overcome a previous board's ruling. There were predictions then that the board would find ways to get around the law. Unfortunately, those predictions now have been fulfilled and employers might as well realize that the present board is not going to be fair in interpreting the existing law and that only when present members are impeached or new ones appointed under another administration will impartiality be assured and freedom of speech upheld in labor disputes.

Dulles As A Nominee

By MARK SULLIVAN

News reports from the recent conference of governors at Gatlinburg, Tenn., said that much of the talk had to do with the Presidential campaign and election next year. In the discussion, the news reports said, most of the talk about the Republican Presidential nomination assumed that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio are the most probable nominees. Such mention as there was of others was more or less listless speculation as to who might emerge in the event that Gen. Eienhower and Sen. Taft should, in the political phrase, "kill each other off." The others thus casually considered included Gov. Warren of California, Sen. Duff of Pennsylvania, and ex-Governor Stassen of Minnesota, now president of the University of Pennsylvania. What went on at the conference of governors goes on wherever Republican Presidential possibilities are discussed in news channels or in common talk.

Sometimes an omission is news. So far as the present writer has observed, there has been in the current discussion of the Republican Presidential nomination next year an odd omission, considering the standing and relation to public affairs of the man omitted, John Foster Dulles.

By standards which ordinarily have determining weight in judgments which the public in general commonly arrives at about public men, Mr. Dulles has an extremely high status. A recently conspicuous reason for his standing is the treaty of peace with Japan which 48 nations signed at San Francisco a few weeks ago. Mr. Dulles was the author of that treaty and the principal active agency responsible for success in bringing about the near unanimous adoption of it. And the adoption of that treaty, with the sensational setback to Communist Russia which accompanied it, is probably the most important and hopeful development in the six years during which our controversy with Russian communism has been the major concern of the country.

Ordinarily the role of Mr. Dulles in bringing about the treaty of peace with Japan would bring him automatically into consideration for the Republican Presidential nomination. The party in power has been responsible for the conduct of our relations with Communist Russia for six years. The aim and function of the Republicans as the opposition party is to provide opportunity for expression to voters who do not approve the Truman administration's course about Communist Russia. An obvious person for consideration among possibilities for the Republican Presidential nomination would be the man who has had a recent conspicuous success, widely pleasing to the public, in relations with Communist Russia. Why then does Mr. Dulles' name not appear in current discussion?

Seeking merely the explanation of a phenomenon and without invidiousness, one might ask a supporter of Gen. Eisenhower for the Republican nomination—perhaps, for example, Gov. Dewey as the leading one—"Why not Mt. Dulles?" Without doubt Gov. Dewey would give good reasons why Gen. Eisenhower is his choice. Similarly supporters of Sen. Taft or any other aspirant would give good reasons for their choices. But the lack of any mention of Mr. Dulles would remain an unexplained phenomenon.

In any event, acquaintance with what Mr. Dulles did in bringing about the treaty of peace with Japan will give the people a sense of comfort and satisfaction that goes with knowing they have a fine and able man in public life. Probably four out of five of the nations that signed the treaty had reservations that made them reluctant to sign. Mr. Dulles reasoned with them, traveling some 125,000 miles to call on important ones. He went to New Zealand and Australia to allay apprehensions of those nations about Japan becoming independent and strong. When President Truman's dismissal of Gen. MacArthur created possibility of alarm in Japan, Mr. Dulles hurried to Tokyo to reassure them.

A trait of fairness and consideration that makes Mr. Dulles a diplomat and statesman in the best sense was illustrated by a telegram he sent Gen. MacArthur on the night the Japanese treaty was signed: "As we are about to sign the Japanese peace treaty my thought, like the thoughts of other delegates, will turn to you. You will be present in spirit, for the signing delegation and the witnessing multitude all know that without your great leadership in war and peace the result achieved here would not have been attainable. With deep personal regards and profound appreciation for the unwavering support which you have given me, I am, faithfully yours, John Foster Dulles."

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

When you call a senator a liar you are supposed to prove it. It requires a two-thirds plurality to nominate. The White House has the power to veto. And usually does it.

What does it say about that in the good book? Many shall be called but few shall be proven.

And we cannot even ask those battling senators to be their age. That would be an invitation to retire on three-quarters pay.

Russian Revolt Is Seen By Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, (AP) — Premier Marshall Tito predicts that the Russian people one day will cry "stop" to the practices of Stalin and his aides inside the Soviet Union.

Tito addressed a conference of Yugoslav unions at Zagreb. He had returned from a 350-mile journey to Rankovicevo, in Southern Serbia. In his address to some 5,000 persons in the Serbian town he listed the Roman Catholic Church as one of Yugoslavia's major enemies in the western world.

In his speech, the Yugoslav premier charged that Russia's leaders are practicing imperialism rather than socialism and are adopting an inhuman attitude toward their working people, using police methods for their "reduction." He continued amid cheers:

"One day the people of the U.S.S.R. will say to Stalin and his companions: 'Stop. We will not permit you to continue like this.'"

Tito himself raised the question as to why he had not spoken out against Russian practices before the break between the Soviet-led Cominform and Yugoslavia. He said:

"I thought that the situation in the Soviet Union was only a transitory one x x x but it became clear to us they do not wish allies but subordinates.

"We wanted to separate from them, but they had no desire to let us separate. They threatened us, and they threaten now, but we can tell them that we wish to be left alone to go our own road."

Russian Revolt Is Seen By Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, (AP) — Premier Marshall Tito predicts that the Russian people one day will cry "stop" to the practices of Stalin and his aides inside the Soviet Union.

Tito addressed a conference of Yugoslav unions at Zagreb. He had returned from a 350-mile journey to Rankovicevo, in Southern Serbia. In his address to some 5,000 persons in the Serbian town he listed the Roman Catholic Church as one of Yugoslavia's major enemies in the western world.

In his speech, the Yugoslav premier charged that Russia's leaders are practicing imperialism rather than socialism and are adopting an inhuman attitude toward their working people, using police methods for their "reduction." He continued amid cheers:

"One day the people of the U.S.S.R. will say to Stalin and his companions: 'Stop. We will not permit you to continue like this.'"

Tito himself raised the question as to why he had not spoken out against Russian practices before the break between the Soviet-led Cominform and Yugoslavia. He said:

"I thought that the situation in the Soviet Union was only a transitory one x x x but it became clear to us they do not wish allies but subordinates.

"We wanted to separate from them, but they had no desire to let us separate. They threatened us, and they threaten now, but we can tell them that we wish to be left alone to go our own road."

MISS LOUISE CESSNA

Louise Cessna To Become Bride Of S.Sgt. Carl O. Nave

Ceremony To Be Performed Tonight

Miss Louise Cessna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Cessna, Shade's Lane, will become the bride of Staff Sgt. Carl O. Nave, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Nave, Centerville, Pa., tonight.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 7 p. m., in Centre Street Methodist Church with Rev. Norman O. Scribner officiating. Standards of assorted white flowers and candelabra of lighted tapers are being used in the decorations.

Mrs. O. F. Lucas, College Park, is to be her sister's matron of honor and Mrs. Robert Lee Frey, bridesmaid. Veryle Nave is serving as his brother's best man while Glenn Nave and Robert Cessna are the ushers.

Mrs. Lynn Riggleman, soloist, is to sing, "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Kenneth Beck, who will play the traditional wedding marches and a program of nuptial music.

The bride, who is being given in marriage by her father, will be attired in a gown of lace and net over white satin. It is fashioned with a fitted bodice, buttoned down the back, high neckline and cap sleeves. The full skirt ends in a long sweeping train. Her fingertip length veil of illusion edged with lace, is held by a crown of seed pearls. With it she is wearing net mitts, trimmed with lace. Completing her costume the bride is carrying a white prayer book with orchid marker and satin streamers.

Her attendants' gowns are made complementary to hers, with fitted bodice, drop shoulder and full skirt. Mrs. Lucas' is egg shell satin with gold velveteen inserts in the skirt. Mrs. Frey's is green satin. Both have half crowns of fall flowers for their headdress and will carry bouquets of matching flowers.

Mrs. Cessna has chosen a black silk dress with black accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Nave will be attired in a Navy blue costume. Both have corsages of red rosebuds.

The bride is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, class of 1948, where she was active in the Ushers Club and Tri-Hi-Y. She is employed in the commercial department of the Potomac Edison Company, and is a member of the Young Business Women's Club.

S. Sgt. Nave is a graduate of Bedford High School and is stationed at Tacoma Air Force Base, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Cessna are entertaining with a wedding reception in honor of their daughter and her bridal party at their home, following the ceremony. Fall flowers are being used throughout the house and the bridal motif is being carried out in the tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

For their wedding trip to Washington, the bride is wearing a blue suit for traveling, with black accessories and her orchid corsage.

The bride will reside at the home of her parents while the bridegroom is in service.

An informal cabaret style dance, it will be held in the temple vestry room with the orchestra beginning to play at 9 p. m.

Refreshments will be available.

Members of the committee of arrangements are Mrs. Rita Waingold, Mrs. Charlotte Arzt, Mrs. Ellen Kline and Mrs. Rita Kardon.

OES Caravan To Visit Frostburg Unit

The fifth caravan of the Past Matrons and Past Patrons Association of the Western Maryland OES will be entertained by Mt. Chapter, No. 15, Frostburg, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Clara Shank, president, and Irvin Martin, vice president, are to be welcomed and a program, "Down Happiness Lane," will be presented by Margartha Yates, worthy marton, R. Edgar Bennett, worthy patron, and chapter officers.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Violette Johnson and her committee.

Mr., Mrs. H. O. Bruner Mark 52nd Wedding Anniversary

Mrs. H. Orten Bruner entertained with a party in celebration of her husband's birthday and their 52nd wedding anniversary.

It was held Sunday at their home, 1513 Bedford Street.

The former Miss Edith Fisher, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fisher, Bedford Valley; became the bride of Harry Orten Bruner, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bruner, Bedford Valley, Pa., October 10, 1899, with the ceremony being solemnized in Bedford.

Mr. Bruner was a farmer until he came to Cumberland about 26 years ago, and was employed doing odd jobs. Both he and Mrs. Bruner are in good health and do their everyday work.

Guests at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Murray Cook, Lock Haven, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Fisher, Sewickley, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fisher, Rainsburg, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Iva Fisher, city; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Johnson, Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Oster and daughter, Ruth Elaine, Flintstone.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—Every so often the big town finds itself filled with movie performers, here on one pretense or another, and this is one of those times. Ham actors are coming through the windows, as we used to say back in the upper fourth at Groton. You can't take a quiet walk down Broadway these nights without stumbling upon some cinematic matinee idol who will fix his magnetic stare on you and tell you he's hunting a suitable playscript.

Some of them are tolerable and one or two even enjoyable to speak to. Several notches above both these classes is Miss Joan Caulfield, late of Orange, N. J., and New York.

Over a period of six or seven years, or ever since she left the cast of "Kiss and Tell" to try her luck in Hollywood, Joan has been my favorite movie person. A series of classically mediocre movies has kept her from showing the public much of her acting ability but hasn't dampened her personality. She is pretty, intelligent, honest, kind and gracious.

In town for a few days after a short summer of acting in "The Voice of the Turtle" in the hay lofts, Joan dragged out the ginger ale and cigarets the other afternoon and brought me up to date on life in Hollywood.

Joan is the girl who some years ago told me candidly that when she went out to make movies she was "going Hollywood" with no holds barred. She was going to live there and like it. None of this nonsense about pining away for New York. It made me melancholy but it made sense.

"Well," she told me, grinning, "I love it." She went on to tell me why. For a year and a half she has been married to Frank Ross, who once was Jean Arthur's man, and aside from being in love with him, she has a staggering appreciation of his directorial talents.

Frank has produced her new picture "The Lady Says No." Furthermore, Joan now lives in a house that John Barrymore used to own. It goes without saying that no mere house could rid itself completely of the traces of Barrymore, so how could she help being in wonderland?

Kate Hepburn used to live in Joan's house, and Frances Bergen lives across the street. It was Mrs. Bergen's great ambition to meet Hepburn, but you know Kate. None of that friends-and-neighbors foolishness for her. One day, however, Frances took her baby daughter, Candy out on the sidewalk just as Hepburn came out and Kate couldn't escape meeting them head-on. She met the challenge magnificently. Striding past, she paused briefly, eyed the child and said, flatly, "Spit image of Edgar"—and marched on.

ALSO IN TOWN IS HOLLYWOOD'S most celebrated health fiend, Robert Cummings, the pride of Joplin, Mo. Cummings has just polished off a movie called "The Barefoot Mailman" but he is around these parts chiefly because he will open shortly in a play with Ann Sothern, "Faithfully Yours."

Handsome and incredibly young-looking (he has to be older than he looks), Cummings had me to breakfast in his suite at the Warwick and, in between downing beakers of orange juice crammed with every conceivable health food and vitamin, he told me the story of the Great English Fraud.

It was in the depression years that Bob, struggling vainly to get an acting job on Broadway, almost got one when he was mistaken for an Englishman. Englishmen were about the only actors in demand, those days. So Mr. Cummings took steps.

He cashed in a life insurance policy, sailed to England, spent 29 days roaming the country on a motorcycle; bought himself some tweeds and a stick—and, at long last, sat down and wrote to 80 or 90 New York producers, directors and actors' agents that Blade Stanhope Conway, Esq., the celebrated British leading man, was coming to America and would be available for interviews and possible juicy acting roles.

Don't think it didn't work. Bob got back to New York and fell right into a fat part in Galsworthy's "The Roof"—and was on his way.

As an old admirer of the fraudulent, I got a big boot out of his story. I hope you do, too. There's nothing like a magnificent depression to brighten up the dull world in which we live.

On an average winter day, about 6,000,000 persons in the U. S. are temporarily or permanently disabled because of illness.

GIRLS WITH A YEN for some of the color and flare that are part of the drama of the Spanish bullring can satisfy their desire with these New York fall fashions. The black velvet lounging costume by Haymaker Sports features tapered slacks fastened with rhinestone buttons at the ankle. The almost-sleeveless blouse closes at the waist with a matching button. A neckline scarf of a favorite color is added. The toreador styling in an evening costume is by Pattullo-Jo Copeland. The black velvet cape is lavishly embroidered with jet beads and silk braid in the manner of a bullfighter's cape. The dress, matching the cape lining, is of brilliant pink silk satin with shoulder straps that criss-cross over the draped bodice. Tina Leser designed the worsted finish winter cotton with its flashing black and red Spanish stripes. The low neckline and short sleeves of the dress are banded in black velvet. Scattered velvet bows are tied on the loosely knit black wool shawl. (International)

How well do you administer authority? Here are some important considerations for those who direct others.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Are you the woman in charge of your home, a department or section of an office, factory or school, or the committee of a club? If so, you would be interested in reading the heavy and expressive mail occasioned by my recent columns on criticism of career girls by their employers and vice versa. It proves that there are far too many people in positions of authority who have not acquired the knack of handling others. Strategy in handling those in your charge is as important to your success as is the knowledge of the work involved.

Effective Tools

Your voice and your manner are two most important tools in getting results from others. They control the effectiveness of every spoken order, criticism, or suggestion. And unless you control them your success and future as an executive are dubious.

The kind of authority that produces harmony and precludes repressed discord is always based on confidence — the confidence those you direct have in you. To foster and earn this mark of excellence of a good executive, keep these considerations in mind:

1. Take care to talk in terms that show you understand the other fellow's interest and problems. Take the trouble to speak softly. As an old Greek philosopher said, "Speak to me in a whisper and I shall listen all day: Shout and I shall run away at once." How human — in any language!

To Be Well-Liked

2. Make it a point of pride to be clear, ultra specific, and concrete in all of your instructions and directions. Before you speak, figure out exactly what you mean, and then exactly how you are going to get your meaning across. This will save others from having to try to guess — and you from having to correct them later.

3. Never be condescending. Only treating others as equals inspires their confidence—and their respect!

In a country where democratic ways are the ideal, the voice of continuing authority is always the voice that is well-liked!

Tomorrow: Hold your summer bloom.

P. S. from J. R. P.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—Ever try to tell an extended story in a restaurant? You must have, but if you haven't it goes something like this:

Raconteur (Har!)—Did you ever hear the one about the crummy little guy who came into Lord and Taylor's one day, looked around at the people spending all the money, and asked a floor walker 'who runs this place?' Well . . .

Waiter (hovering overhead, suddenly, with a smile packed with the bright insincerity of winter sunshine)—Will you have a cocktail before dinner?

Raconteur — Well, this crummy little fellow was directed to . . . What? Oh, a drink. Sure. What will you folks have?

Folks—Martini . . . Old fashioned . . . Scotch and soda . . . Scotch and water and go easy on the water . . . Manhattan . . . A sweet sour.

Raconteur—Fine. Make mine the usual: A pousse cafe on the rocks. So, like I was saying, this crummy little fellow was told that the boss of the store was . . .

One of the folks (to waiter)—Make that martini real dry, Mac. Just wave the vermouth bottle over the gin, and I want a small tomato in it instead of an olive.

Raconteur—Well, they told this little fellow that the boss was Dorothy Shaver, so he said . . .

Waiter — What's the gentleman want in his old fashioned?

Gentleman — Whiskey! (Uncontrolled laughter for ten minutes from the gentleman, and waiter departs wondering where he hid his supply of Mickey Finns.)

Raconteur—So he said . . .

One of the folks—Who said?

Raconteur — This crummy little fellow who came into Lord and Taylor's one day and looked around at the people spending all the money, and asked a floor walker 'Who . . .'

Waiter (with tray)—Who had the Scotch and water and go easy on the water?

Raconteur (after straightening out all the drinks)—Like I was saying, so the crummy little guy gets up to Dorothy Shaver's office and he says, 'What would. . . .' (He is temporarily blinded by a large menu placed in front of his eyes by the waiter.)

Waiter—Will you order now? I can recommend the goulash Nick Kenny. Had some myself when I et early. Delicious.

Raconteur (getting a little desperate)—Fine. Goulash Nick Kenny all around. I'll cut this story short, but it'll kill you. So this crummy little guy says to her, 'What would you take for the store?' Imagine! So she says . . .

Waiter—What will you have first, gentlemen?

Gentlemen — Bluepoints, little necks, shrimp with Russian, shrimp with plain, what kind of soup is the soup du jour and is it today's?

Raconteur—So she says a hundred and ninety eight million or some figure like that. Well this bum says mind if I talk it over with the wife, and she says no go ahead. So the next day . . .

Waiter (reappearing cheerfully)—All out of goulash Nick Kenny.

Raconteur — At that rate how about steaks all around. Okay? Fine! So the next day . . .

Waiter—How you want 'em done?

Raconteur—Soon, get it? I'll cut this short. So the next day this crummy little guy comes back to Miss Shaver's office and he says he talked it over with the wife and they decided not to buy Lord and Taylor's for a hundred and ninety eight million or some figure like that. 'Why?' she asked with a smile. And he says . . .

Waiter (juggling tray ominously)—Who had the well-done?

One of the folks (to raconteur)—Yeah, I heard that one. 'No place for us to live in back,' he says. That the one? Reminds me of the guy whose television screen was so small he could only get one of Milton Berle's heads, so he sent for this repairman named . . .

Mishap Occurs At RR Crossing

A 19-year-old youth narrowly escaped death late Monday when a B. and O. helper locomotive struck his car on the Bedford Street crossing and carried the vehicle 25 feet.

Police identified the motorist as Donald Joseph Rice, 727 Bedford Street, and said he was not hurt. The accident occurred about 11:15.

Officer Kenneth Morrissey, who investigated, said Rice ignored a red lantern held by the watchman and started across the tracks. Slow-moving Engine No. 5500 struck the right side of a 1936 car and pushed it toward Frederick Street.

Rail traffic was delayed ten minutes so the car could be extricated from the engine. The engineer was listed as H. C. Blades, 919 North Grand Avenue.

Rice paid $10 fine in Police Court for careless driving.

Four-year-old Eugene Pannone, 8 Virginia Avenue, was examined at Memorial Hospital last night after an automobile struck him on Oldtown Road, between Arch Street and Virginia Avenue. Attaches said he suffered shock but no injuries.

No charges were filed against the driver, Elmer David Waterfield, 50, Route 2, Oldtown Road.

The average steam railroad locomotive contains one mile of boiler tubing.

Two Cabooses Burn In Mishap

Two empty cabooses were destroyed at 2:0 a. m. yesterday on the rear of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad coal train one mile east of Piedmont when they were struck by a "deadheading" Diesel helper.

The eastbound extra coal train, No. 72, had stopped when Engine No. 277 returning to Keyser rammed into it. No one was injured.

One caboose was thrown on the top of the last hopper of the 63-car train. Both cabooses caught fire and when the tracks were cleared yesterday, nothing was left of them but their trucks and wheels.

The 63rd car in the stopped train was also damaged and pushed aside to re-open the blocked rails Nos. 1, 2 and 4.

At the time of the collision, the coal train brakeman was putting down the retainers and the conductor had gone back to flag.

Damage to the cabooses was estimated at $4,000 and to the loaded coal hopper, $400. The Diesel engine that struck the train was reported only slightly damaged.

The tracks as not torn up and traffic was restored at 7:10 a. m.

B. and O. officials did not give any reason for the wreck. C. R. Fraley of Keyser was engineer of the coal train.

Train No. 23 was re-routed from Cumberland over the Western Maryland Railway to West Virginia Junction at Beryl. Trains No. 2 and 24 going east were re-routed at Beryl to Rawlings.

W. Md. Railway Gross Drops

The Western Maryland Railway reports its gross operating revenues for September fell about seven per cent below the same month last year.

This decrease was noted despite an increase in freight rates made effective late in August.

The company estimated its September gross at $3,668,000 as compared with $3,947,004 a year earlier.

September was the first month this year that operating revenues of the road have compared unfavorably with the previous year.

A drop in coal loadings cut into the road's earnings last month. Revenues from that source were estimated at $1,335,000—down about $371,500 or 22 per cent from a year ago.

Other freight receipts, at about $2,171,500, exceeded last year by approximately $65,000 or three per cent.

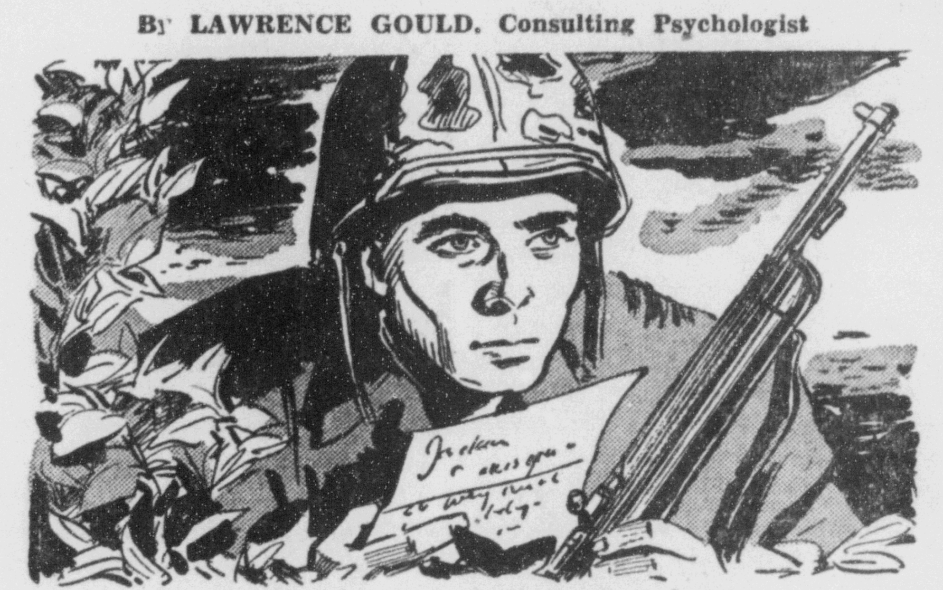
For the first nine months of 1951, the road's gross operating revenues from all sources were still about 18 per cent ahead of last year. They were estimated at $35,352,500 as compared with $29,988,242 in the similar 1950 period.

Coal freight revenues for the nine months were figured at $12,268,000, up two per cent, and other freight receipts at $21,415,000, up 28 per cent compared with last year.

Best age for a woman to have children is estimated at 20 to 24.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist



Is homesickness a military problem?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. M. Bachet, in the (French) Annals of Medical Psychology. Historic and modern reports of homesickness in soldiers and prisoners of war do not adequately recognize the effects of infections and vitamin starvation, but is it also true that homesickness may become "a scourge to armies in the field" by causing a "reactive depression" that may become epidemic. Pathological homesickness can develop into other forms of mental illnesses especially "agitated mental confusion." The more nearly normal a man is, the more he will miss normal human contacts and become depressed when deprived of them.

Can hypnosis make you do wrong?

Answer: No, says a new booket "Psychiatry For You," edited by Dr. Robert V. Seliger. "There are no facts to show that inappropriate acts (anti-social, etc.) have been carried out by usual average hypnotized subjects." If a hypnotist told you to walk out into heavy traffic your trance would at once be broken, and the same would happen if a woman were told to do something she regarded as improper. (Another psychiatrist tells how a girl instantly "came to" when asked to disrobe in front of a class.) The main phychiatric value of hypnosis is that it helps you to remember what you would be ashamed to recall when awake.

May astrology relieve a guilty conscience?

Answer: Yes. One reason why so many people still cling to this long-exploded superstition is that it relieves them from "moral responsibility." If losing your job or having your marriage go to smash is "written in the stars," then neither is your fault, and your conscience need not bother you about them. But unfortunately, this also absolves you from trying to find the real reasons why you went wrong and leaves you free to go right on making the same blunders. And because your inner conflicts remain untouched, you "repress" your sense of guilt, but do not get rid of it.

Return From Korea

Four Allegany county soldiers are among 42 Marylanders arriving in Seattle from Korea.

Port officials identified the veterans as Cpl. Eldrin J. Fritz and Sgt. Blaine E. Heller, both of Cumberland, and Sgt. First Class Howard V. Lashbaugh and Sgt. First Class Allen E. Miller, Barton.

County Timber Sales Show $223,469 Total

The importance of timber products in Allegany county is stressed by Floyd Buser, chairman of the observance of Maryland Land Week for the county, who listed some facts concerning this industry yesterday.

Buser said 281 farm operators were advised on forest management during a six-year period ending this year. A total of 93,227 acres were checked under this program. There were 55 owners who took part in improved production methods in cutting timber on 2,200 acres, Buser said.

Timber products worth $223,469 were marketed under the advice of the State Department of Forests and Parks.

When it is known that 67 per cent of Allegany county is woodlands, it can readily be seen the importance of conservation of timber resources, according to Buser. Based on an agriculture standpoint, Buser said planting of trees on sub-marginal land of county farms would provide an additional crop at low cost and also prevent erosion of land. Trees are the only thing which could be planted on such lands and the forestry program for reforestation of sub-marginal lands usually results in timber products such as mine props and Christmas trees.

Conservation of wildlife resources also results from the cooperative program between the state Game and Inland Fish Commission and the State Department of Forests and Parks, Buser declared.

Wildlife refuges, feeding areas and planting of various shrubs, grains and other sources of food for game are included in the cooperative program.

Tombs hewn out of solid rock were used by the Etruscan as independent family burial places.

Fish reportedly produce more abnormalities than do any other living beings.

Md. Civil Defense Officials Meet With County Leaders

Officials of the Maryland Civil Defense organization met with directors and officers of three of the four counties in the area at the Naval Reserve Armory yesterday to formulate plans for a concentrated program.

The conference was continued through noon. Most of the early discussion concerned recruiting volunteers and training.

Represented are Allegany, Washington, and Garrett. Frederick county did not sent a representative.

Col. David G. McIntosh, 3rd, state director, led discussions of civil defense needs. Also here from the state organization are Samuel J. Powers, deputy director of communications; Lee W. Tipton, deputy director of fiscal and supply; Jay K. Secor, deputy director of training; and Ruth S. Surratt, administrative assistant.

Others attending are William G. Barger, director for Allegany county; Arthur B. Gibson, civil defense officer for Cumberland; John S. Elliott, Garrett county director; R. Bowen Hardesty, superintendent of schools; Lawrence M. Fraley, Garrett fire departments; Arthur C. Calhoun, assistant director for Garrett county; C. L. Moberly, director for Washington county; Floyd L. Davis, Luke director; Major Grant Hoover, unit instructor for the State of Maryland and S. W. Green, Frostburg civil defense officer.

The state is planning to send into the four counties a team which will train volunteers. In the four-county western area, it appears that key people in the civil defense programs will take the training and then pass knowledge on to other volunteers. The courses are for eight hours.

The counties must choose times best adapted to their needs for sponsoring the courses.

Of the three counties present, only Allegany had outstanding comment on the recent Civil Defense Week observance. Barger said that the recruiting drive got fair results while the Washington and Garrett representatives said results were practically nil.

McIntosh warned that "we must not drop the ball" but continue recruiting duties preparatory to starting the training program. Training courses are expected to lead to more interest among prospective volunteers.

McIntosh also asked that county officials urge county commissioners to provide full-time clerical help to the civil defense organizations in the respective counties.

Statewide, McIntosh said, about 160,000 volunteers are needed for the program.

The agenda for the western area conference included training courses (state and federal), administrative matters including a permanent office, recruiting and terminology; organization of the state staff, the results of Civil Defense Week, matching funds and the status of local plans and organizations.

When the conference ended, a question and answer forum was scheduled.

Miss Tipton Enrolls

Marilyn Tipton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tipton, this city, is enrolled as a junior at National College in Kansas City, Mo. She graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1949.

Politics School Course Debated

BALTIMORE—(AP)—Should the state's high schools teach a course in Maryland government and politics?

Three legislators and two school administrators will meet here tonight to tackle that problem. The five make up a commision appointed by Gov. McKeldin and requested by the last General Assembly to "study the possibilities of installing a course in state government and politics in each of the high schools in this state."

"It is a primary function of the schools of this state," the legislative resolution said, "to give adequate training and education to equip their students for the practical realities of later life."

The course, it added, would "include the study of the structure and workings of the state government and also an adequate coverage of the practical workings of political parties."

Members of the commission are Del. Samuel Hopkins (R-Balto Third), chairman; Del. Melvin M. Derr (R-Frederick), Del. Perry O. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges), Dr. William H. Lemmel, Baltimore City schools superintendent, and Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state schools superintendent.

WVU Counselor To Visit County

High school students of the area will have the opportunity of getting information on West Virginia University when a faculty member visits the schools October 15-19.

Robert S. Grumbach, instructor in the Department of Electrical Engineering, will visit Allegany, Fort Hill, Ridgeley, LaSalle, Fort Ashby, Keyser, Piedmont, Elk Garden and Bayard high schools.

In addition to individual interviews, Grumbach will address assemblies and other groups. Copies of the new university catalogue, a special edition of the Athenaeum, the student newspaper, and a picture booklet of the university will be distributed.

Grumbach is a graduate of Morgantown High School and studied at West Virginia and the University of Richmond. He was graduated from Case School of Applied Science and was formerly distribution design engineer for the Monongahela Power Company. He is also active in Boy Scout work.

Md. Civil Defense Officials Meet With County Leaders

Officials of the Maryland Civil Defense organization met with directors and officers of three of the four counties in the area at the Naval Reserve Armory yesterday to formulate plans for a concentrated program.

The conference was continued through noon. Most of the early discussion concerned recruiting volunteers and training.

Represented are Allegany, Washington, and Garrett. Frederick county did not sent a representative.

Col. David G. McIntosh, 3rd, state director, led discussions of civil defense needs. Also here from the state organization are Samuel J. Powers, deputy director of communications; Lee W. Tipton, deputy director of fiscal and supply; Jay K. Secor, deputy director of training; and Ruth S. Surratt, administrative assistant.

Others attending are William G. Barger, director for Allegany county; Arthur B. Gibson, civil defense officer for Cumberland; John S. Elliott, Garrett county director; R. Bowen Hardesty, superintendent of schools; Lawrence M. Fraley, Garrett fire departments; Arthur C. Calhoun, assistant director for Garrett county; C. L. Moberly, director for Washington county; Floyd L. Davis, Luke director; Major Grant Hoover, unit instructor for the State of Maryland and S. W. Green, Frostburg civil defense officer.

The state is planning to send into the four counties a team which will train volunteers. In the four-county western area, it appears that key people in the civil defense programs will take the training and then pass knowledge on to other volunteers. The courses are for eight hours.

The counties must choose times best adapted to their needs for sponsoring the courses.

Of the three counties present, only Allegany had outstanding comment on the recent Civil Defense Week observance. Barger said that the recruiting drive got fair results while the Washington and Garrett representatives said results were practically nil.

McIntosh warned that "we must not drop the ball" but continue recruiting duties preparatory to starting the training program. Training courses are expected to lead to more interest among prospective volunteers.

McIntosh also asked that county officials urge county commissioners to provide full-time clerical help to the civil defense organizations in the respective counties.

Statewide, McIntosh said, about 160,000 volunteers are needed for the program.

The agenda for the western area conference included training courses (state and federal), administrative matters including a permanent office, recruiting and terminology; organization of the state staff, the results of Civil Defense Week, matching funds and the status of local plans and organizations.

When the conference ended, a question and answer forum was scheduled.

Miss Tipton Enrolls

Marilyn Tipton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tipton, this city, is enrolled as a junior at National College in Kansas City, Mo. She graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1949.

Politics School Course Debated

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Should the state's high schools teach a course in Maryland government and politics?

Three legislators and two school administrators will meet here tonight to tackle that problem. The five make up a commision appointed by Gov. McKeldin and requested by the last General Assembly to "study the possibilities of installing a course in state government and politics in each of the high schools in this state."

"It is a primary function of the schools of this state," the legislative resolution said, "to give adequate training and education to equip their students for the practical realities of later life."

The course, it added, would "include the study of the structure and workings of the state government and also an adequate coverage of the practical workings of political parties."

Members of the commission are Del. Samuel Hopkins (R-Balto Third), chairman; Del. Melvin M. Derr (R-Frederick), Del. Perry O. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges), Dr. William H. Lemmel, Baltimore City schools superintendent, and Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state schools superintendent.

WVU Counselor To Visit County

High school students of the area will have the opportunity of getting information on West Virginia University when a faculty member visits the schools October 15-19.

Robert S. Grumbach, instructor in the Department of Electrical Engineering, will visit Allegany, Fort Hill, Ridgeley, LaSalle, Fort Ashby, Keyser, Piedmont, Elk Garden and Bayard high schools.

In addition to individual interviews, Grumbach will address assemblies and other groups. Copies of the new university catalogue, a special edition of the Athenaeum, the student newspaper, and a picture booklet of the university will be distributed.

Grumbach is a graduate of Morgantown High School and studied at West Virginia and the University of Richmond. He was graduated from Case School of Applied Science and was formerly distribution design engineer for the Monongahela Power Company. He is also active in Boy Scout work.

Va.—Firemen from Tunelton, Belington, Rowlesburg, Davis, Webster Springs, Oakland, Md., Ridgeley, Charles Town, Romney, Thomas, Huttonsville, Parsons, Buckhannon, Dailey, Elkins and Philippi, headed by J. H. Simmons, president of the West Virginia Firemen's Association and assistant fire marshall, all in full dress uniforms, attended the funeral service for Fire Chief Glendie E. Mosser, chief of the Thomas Fire Department for 28 years, who was killed instantly in an auto accident.

More than one thousand firemen, and friends attended the service Tuesday in the First Methodist Church in Thomas. Rev. Andrew B. Mann, pastor of the Thomas Presbyterian Church, and Rev. R. W. Morrow, officiated.

Pallbearers were Earl Corcoran, Darl Stalnaker, Milford Sponaugle, Belmont S. Cleaver, Bert Pase and Harley Kight.

Flowerbearers were members of the Thomas Fire Department and its Ladies Auxiliary, and Tunnelton, Davis and Parsons Fire Departments.

ALDERTON FUNERAL

A funeral service for Lowell E. Alderton, 50, who was found dead Saturday in his room at the Southern Hotel, was conducted yesterday afternoon at Hafer Funeral Home. Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of Melvin Methodist Chapel, officiated, and interment was in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Pallbearers were Eugene Matthews, Alex Shaner, Louis Madden, Philip Carolan, Howard Carolan and Walter Alderton.

MRS. EICHNER BURIAL

A funeral service for Mrs. Sarah E. Eichner, 77, widow of J. Charles Eichner, who died Saturday at her residence, 1105 Bedford Street, was held yesterday afternoon at the residence. Rev. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, officiated, and interment was in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were Chester Brant, Arthur Bopp, Milton Bortz, Joseph Knepp, George Smith and C. N. Wilkinson.

MRS. P. V. MONOHAN

ALIQUIPPA, Pa. — Mrs. Mary Monohan, wife of P. V. Monohan, 1315 Davidson Street, Aliquippa, died Monday at Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh.

She was a daughter of the late Patrick and Mary Ann Malloy, Midland, Md., and sister of the late John A. Malloy, Cumberland, Md.

Besides her husband, she is survived by three sons, Joseph, Patrick and John Monohan, all of Aliquippa; three daughters, Miss Alice Monohan, New Orleans, La., and Mrs. Mary Pike, Los Angeles, Calif.

Dr. Owens Honored By Medical Group

The Allegany - Garrett County Medical Society has passed a resolution in honor of Dr. Charles L. Owens, who retired due to ill health after 47 years practice of medicine, obstetrics and pediatrics in Cumberland.

The organization made Dr. Owens a life member with all the rights and privileges, according to Dr. W. Alfred Van Ormer, secretary of the society.

Palomino horses are not a special breed, but a rarity which happens in horses of several strains.

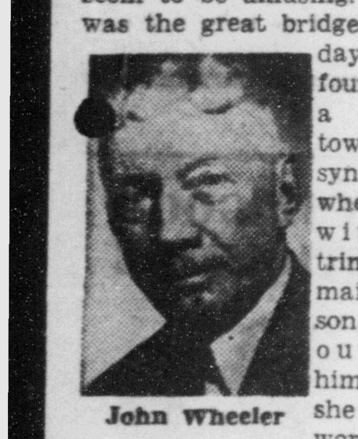
There's Nothing Funny About A Murder

There's nothing funny about a murder for the first 20 years after it happened. Then some sidelights seem to be amusing. Joseph Elwell was the great bridge expert of his day, and also found time to be a man about town, a kind of a synthetic dude when fixed up with all his trimmings. The maid, Mrs. Larson, who lived out, discovered him dead when she reported for work the morning of June 11, 1920, drilled through the head with a single bullet, apparently as he sat reading a letter. The shell was found on the floor. The murderer and weapon are still missing.



John Wheeler

As the French say—"Cherchez la femme." The police began pawing through the house, and came across a silk kimono, lingerie, and a pair of slippers for female feet which were not a part of Mr. Elwell's wardrobe. He lived alone, more or less, being separated from his wife.

When found, he was clad in pajamas, was not wearing any of his four wigs, or his false teeth. The police concluded he either knew his visitor well—especially if one of the so-called gentler sex—or was taken by surprise.

Of course, this event set off headlines in the biggest type. Everybody who ever was acquainted with the victim was questioned, and his movements for a few days before the murder was traced. The previous evening, Elwell had had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lewisohn, and her sister, Viola Kraus, who was a pretty girl and unfortunately she played an important part as the investigation proceeded. It turned out she had been friendly with Mr. Elwell for some time, and, as far as it could be developed, there were no signs of a recent quarrel between the two.

A mysterious character, who was known as "Miss Wilson," appeared through the testimony of Mrs. Larson. It was suspected this was not her right name, although that was how she was known to the maid. The lady admitted the night garments belonged to her, and that she had tried to get a box containing these out of the place, but refused to say whether she made the effort before or after the murder. As I recall it the milkman found everything in order at the front door as he came along on his early morning delivery, and so did the newspaper boy.

This naturally produced the theory the murderer knew the house well and also that he or she was an Annie Oakley—a lady who used to be a trick shot specialist with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. Whoever did it plugged him right between the eyes in the forehead with a single bullet. It was later found in the wall. Now there were three keys to the kitchen door, one in the possession of the boss, Mrs. Larson had another, and the third has not turned up yet. The person who carried that has never been found. It was decided the sharpshooter entered through the back door and left by the same route.

The widow was questioned, having shown up after she read her husband had been killed, and she thought it might have been the result of a row over some gambling debt. The police didn't pay much attention to her ideas. The generally accepted conclusion was a woman had pulled the trigger, but she must have been a calm one and thrifty to do it with one shot. Then there were some who thought the unwritten law had been behind it, and he was killed by some irate husband.

No one was ever arrested, although the newspapers kept the story alive for weeks and the police didn't drop it for a long time, and may still be working on it for all I know. Five years after the murder, the New York Daily News reported the mysterious "Miss Wilson" was living in Paris and earning her living there as a model.

As a romantic footnote, Westbrook Pegler was employed at the time by the United Press as a reporter and a very smart girl named Julie Harpman by the New York News. Both covered the case, and that's how they met. They were married shortly afterwards and have been ever since, so there was a silver lining.

A FAMILY AFFAIR
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms ... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.
To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:
First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.
Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge ... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Hughes Asks Court To Throw Out Conviction

Seeks New Verdict In Picket's Death

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 9 (AP)—A 25-year-old Midland coal hauler whose truck killed an Allegany County mine picket asked the Court of Appeals today to wipe out his manslaughter conviction.

Attorneys for William J. Hughes argued a mechanical breakdown caused his ton-and-a-half truck to swing off Old Cemetery Road into a parked car and fatally injure Thomas Robertson of Lonaconing.

Robertson was in a group of men on picket duty at a George's Creek Coal Company tipple near Knapp's Meadow on May 3, 1950. Another, Melvin Cuthbertson, was injured.

Two judges sitting without a jury in Allegany County Circuit Court convicted Hughes of manslaughter and sentenced him to three months in the County Jail.

"You can't guess men into jail," Hughes' attorneys asserted today.

They said there was no evidence to show Hughes jockeyed his truck on the narrow road to frighten some of the 30 or so pickets clustered near the mine. The trial judges had concluded that was the case, adding "unfortunately, he went too close x x x"

Hughes was a partner with his father, brother and another relative in the coal business. He drove the truck. They sold part of the coal from their non-union operation to the George's Creek Company.

United Mine Workers pickets were out for the third day when Hughes drove to the mine office to pick up a check for coal previously delivered.

When he stopped, Hughes found a board fastened with long nails to a back tire.

Hughes probably was "annoyed or mad, as he naturally would be," about the puncture, his attorneys said.

But they argued that "is no reason for assuming that he intentionally turned into the men who were on the road, who had gathered there in a great number and placed themselves in a position where the very thing which could happen did."

Hughes had said he jammed on his brakes, but a rear spring snapped, the back wheels twisted out of line so the rear of the truck swerved into the parked car and the drive shaft fell out. The truck stopped a short distance away when the shaft gouged into the road.

Ellerslie Man Hurt At Planing Mill

Kenneth Burley, 23, of Ellerslie, was admitted to Memorial Hospital Monday afternoon after his hand was caught in a joiner at the South Cumberland Planing Mill, where he was at work.

Hospital attaches said Burley lost the ends of two fingers of his left hand. He was reported in good condition.

tion of certain badly soiled and torn mattresses, repairing and replacement of some corroded metal plates and shower and toilet equipment, repainting of cell blocks and certain improvements in the kitchen.

The grand jury suggests that these repairs be undertaken immediately by the county commissioners and that the January, 1952, grand jury report on progress.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies were commended for the "excellent manner in which the jail is governed," and Mrs. Wilbur D. Sills, county auditor, for her cooperation in showing county records to a committee from the grand jury.

Special tribute was paid to the late Frederick C. "Buck" Dreyer, who died last month after having served as treasurer of the county since 1938. Besides commending him for his service as treasurer, the grand jury observed that he gave unsparingly of his time and effort in community projects and in rescue work.

Court House Noted

A number of suggestions for improvements at the Court House were carried in the grand jury report. Poor lighting on the third floor was emphasized.

The grand jury, hitting a special note for Fire Prevention Week, reported that the substantial quantity of old records stored in basement corridors constituted a dangerous fire hazard and should be eliminated.

A suggestion that the Court House custodian, Alvin Snyder, be given additional assistants beyond the two he now has was inserted into the report.

In its final section, the grand jury commended State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher for "the very efficient and able manner" in which he presented matters before the grand jury. Commendation also was extended to William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney, Joseph E. Boden, clerk of court, and court attaches for their assistance to the grand jury.

The report was signed by Julian C. Patrick, grand jury foreman, and Frank R. Blau and James F. Bittner, grand jury clerks.

Associate Judge George Henderson recessed the jurors.

Students Hear Msgr. Vaeth

Monsignor Louis Vaeth, director of the catholic students Mission Crusade for the Baltimore diocese yesterday told students of the four Cumberland Catholic schools that prayer and personal sacrifices are paramount in the success of missionary work throughout the world.

The future of missionary work is bright, he added, because of the zeal and faith of the young Catholic students of today.

Occasion for Msgr. Vaeth's talk was a meeting of the Western Maryland Unit of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade in St. Mary's School, Oldtown Road.

Welcoming the group, including moderators and unit members of Ursline Academy, Girls Central, La Salle High and St. Mary's High, was Father L. P. Landrigan, pastor of St. Mary's.

An address was also given by Rev. Robert Hopkins, assistant pastor of St. Mary's and director of the Western Maryland Propagation of the Faith and moderator of the CSMC.

A Playlet was presented by St. Mary's unit acquainting the members with the work of Pauline Jaricot, founder of the Society for Propagation of the Faith. Unit reports were also given by the secretaries.

The State's Attorney's office yesterday continued to investigate he fatal bus-car collision on Route 36 at Nikep which killed John William Moreland, 26, of Franklin.

John Muir, 46, of Eckhart Mines, driver of the bus was questioned after the accident.

William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney, said last night that about five witnesses were interrogated yesterday. The investigation will continue today, he said.

B & O Engineer Given Suspended $10 Fine

A B. and O. engineer accused of blocking the Union Street crossing was given a suspended $10 fine yesterday in Police Court after Magistrate William J. Gunter pointed out that "the situation can not be corrected by fines."

The defendant, L. H. Bragg, of Grafton, W. Va., admitted he blocked the tracks 18 minutes Friday morning.

"It's a regular occurrence," Bragg said.

A railroad spokesman said the holdup in vehicular traffic depends on the volume of mail leaving Cumberland. Bragg's train was being used for express shipments and mail.

Police Lt. Edwin R. Lilya said Detective Ernest M. Powell was dispatched to the crossing after Chief R. Emmett Flynn received a number of complaints. Bragg was found operating Engine No. 4476, Train No. 29, an express from Washington to St. Louis.

Area Club To Observe Maryland Land Week

The Town Creek Valley Club will observe Maryland Land Week Saturday night beginning at 7:30 o'clock with a program of guest speakers and movies.

J. M. Hughes, president, said this is the first of a series of entertainments planned for this fall and winter including a Halloween party.

Smoke Report Due Here This Week

Mayor Thomas S. Post announced yesterday that a report on this city's smoke control ordinance is expected to arrive by Friday.

Raymond Tucker, St. Louis engineer and consultant, advised Mayor Post that the report, tentatively promised for Monday will probably not arrive until Friday.

Tucker advised he would need several days to study some additional data which arrived at his office shortly before the report was to be issued.

Ski Club To Hold Its Second Meeting

The Western Marland Ski Club will hold its second meeting at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at Central YMCA.

Subjects to be discussed include selection of designs for the club shoulder patch and membership card, and discussion of the handbook to be obtained by members. Two skiing movies will be shown.

The club was reorganized at a recent meeting at the YMCA.

To Attend Meeting

Thomas F. Conlon, chairman of the Second Army Advisory Committee for Allegany and Garrett counties, will attend a luncheon of all the state's chairmen today at 12:15 p. m. at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore.

Zone Chairmen Named In LaVale Fund Drive

Zone leaders for the fund campaign scheduled October 15 to 23 by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company have been announced by James W. Beacham, general chairman.

The drive is being conducted for mortgage retirement and equipment, Beacham said.

LaVale has been divided into 23 zones for the house-to-house canvass. Last week the first of three letters outlining the work of the company was mailed to residents.

The zone chairmen are:

Leo Dressman, Alvin G. Youngblood, Sr. Lloyd Smith, Ray Nine, John W. Ritchie, William Dressman, Ralph Hendrickson, Jerome Helmstetter, John K. Snyder, Cromwell Zembower.

Richard Burkey, Merrill Sturtz, Eugene Kreissig, Wilmer Crowe, Paul Goldsworthy, Charles B. Krim, Earl Zembower, Alvin G. Youngblood, Jr., and Bruce Long III.

Hughes Asks Court To Throw Out Conviction

Seeks New Verdict In Picket's Death

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 9 (AP)—A 25-year-old Midland coal hauler whose truck killed an Allegany County mine picket asked the Court of Appeals today to wipe out his manslaughter conviction.

Attorneys for William J. Hughes argued a mechanical breakdown caused his ton-and-a-half truck to swing off Old Cemetery Road into a parked car and fatally injure Thomas Robertson of Lonaconing.

Robertson was in a group of men on picket duty at a George's Creek Coal Company tipple near Knapp's Meadow on May 3, 1950. Another, Melvin Cuthbertson, was injured.

Two judges sitting without a jury in Allegany County Circuit Court convicted Hughes of manslaughter and sentenced him to three months in the County Jail.

"You can't guess men into jail," Hughes' attorneys asserted today.

They said there was no evidence to show Hughes jockeyed his truck on the narrow road to frighten some of the 30 or so pickets clustered near the mine. The trial judges had concluded that was the case, adding "unfortunately, he went too close x x x"

Hughes was a partner with his father, brother and another relative in the coal business, He drove the truck. They sold part of the coal from their non-union operation to the George's Creek Company.

Lopat Scores 2nd Series Win, Koslo Faces Raschi Today

Giants Suffer 13-1 Walloping In Fifth Game

Yanks Could Sew It Up Today; McDougald Belts 4-Run Homer

By GAYLOR TALBORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP) — The world series blew up—boom—right in the Giants' red faces today.

In the worst slaughter perpetrated in a playoff game for 15 years, the New York Yankees put the slug on Leo Durocher's wonder boys, 13 to 1, to run the victory count to 3-2 in their favor.

Ed Lopat

Gil McDougald

Records were tied all over the Polo Grounds as Gil McDougald, the Yankee's great rookie infielder, propelled a home run into the left field balcony with the bases loaded in the third inning and Joe DiMaggio celebrated his 50th appearance in a world series game.

McDougald Equals Record

Only two other batters ever matched the feat of the 22-year-old McDougald, who only last season was themost valuable player in the Texas League, none had done it since 1936, when Tony Lazzeri of the Yanks helped officiate at a similar massacre of the Giants in the same park. That final score was 18-4. DiMaggio's big 50 exactly equalled the record set by Frankie Frisch more than a decade ago.

Except for another wonderful job of pitching by Ed Lopat, slick Yankee southpaw, it was a pretty horrible exhibition for the Giant partisans among the 47,530 wans to witness. It was strictly no contest after McDougald exploded to climax a five-run fifth inning which disposed of Larry Jansen, righthanded Giants's ace.

The stylish Lopat exactly matched his magnificent performance of the second game by throttling the National Leaguers with five hits and a single run. Only one Giant reached first in the final four innings as Lopat's mastery reached its peak.

Yankees Get 12 Hits

For the Giants the afternoon was a nightmare. They employed five pitchers in an effort to still the Bomber bats, but finally succeeded in doing so only in the final two frames.

Co-starring with McDougald in the 12-hit assault was little Phil Rizzuto, who pushed a two-run homer into the close right field stands in the fourth off Montia Kennedy. The great shortstop also clouted a single and scored three times.

The Giants contrived two of their five hits and their only run off Lopat in the first when Alvin Dark lined a single to left and came all the way home on Monte Irvin's single which leftfielder Gene Woodling bobbled.

After that Easy Ed had them hogtied and ready for market. The chunky portside permitted only one Giant to reach second in the last eight innings. That was on catcher Wes Westrum's double in the fourth, and Wes never saw third. Lopat issued only one walk, to Willie Mays to open the second inning. He struck out three.

Only Dark and Irvin continued to thrive on Yankee hurling. Each whacked a pair of singles in a hopeless cause. Irvin's brace ran his total for the five games played to 11, tying the record for safeties in a six-game series. The most ever hit in any series was 12, by four different players. A tremendous one-handed catch by Gene Woodling in deep left-center robbed Irvin of what looked like a certain triple in the ninth.

Every player in the Yankee starting lineup except Lopat feasted on Jansen and his relievers. Woodling belted a prodigious drive to right-center in the ninth, but was thrown out trying to stretch it into a home run. Besides Jansen and Kennedy, George Spencer, Al Corwin and Alex Konikowski felt the lash.

Hoping to wind things up and get home before Christmas, Stengel is giving Vic Raschi another shot at the drooping Giants tomorrow. Durocher's boys racked him up in winning the third game, clouting him out in five innings.

Durocher had little choice. It had to be Dave Koslo, the somewhat unheralded southpaw who bewildered and beat the Yanks in the series' opener.

Shuffle League Opens Thursday With 14 Teams

Shaughnessy Plan Adopted By Loop

The Allegany County Shuffleboard League begins its fifth year of operation on Thursday, October 11 at 8:30 p. m.

The league again will function with 14 teams with Fisher and Robinette's Tavern and the Purple Heart being new entries. A major change put into effect this year is the elimination of the split season in favor of the Shaughnessy playoff.

Each team will play the other league teams on a home and home basis with the top four teams participating in the playoffs at the season's end on April 3.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are Glen Watkins, president; Bob Powers, vice president; Bill Nelson, secretary-treasurer, with Art Beaulieu, Harry Frost and John Lewis as the board of governors.

The defending champions of Stadium Inn, Frostburg, open the season at Purple Heart on Thursday. Other openers are: Frostburg American Legion at Goodfellowship Club, Cumberland V.F.W. at the Alhambra Club, Cumberland K. of C. at the Cumberland Amvets, Woodmen of the World at Viaduct Inn, Mt. Savage V.F.W. at Frostburg K. of C., and Fisher and Robinette at Frostburg Century Club.

Michigan State Holds No. 1 Spot

Maryland Is 10th In Second AP Poll

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Undefeated Michigan State barely retained its position as the No. 1 football team in the land today, nipping California's high-scoring Golden Bears by a mere 10 points—or the equivalent of one first-place vote—in the second weekly Associated Press poll of the season.

Michigan State staged a late rally Saturday to defeat ninth-ranked Ohio State for its third straight win, and that, according to the sports writers and broadcasters who participated in the voting, was good enough to keep the Spartans in the top spot.

California made its bid for the coveted position by overwhelming Minnesota, 55 to 14, in a display of brute power. That gave the Bears three straight victories and 124 points, a better than 40-per-game average.

While California held its No. 2 slot on offensive might, Tennessee retained its No. 3 post on defensive strength. The undefeated, unscored-upon Vols knocked off Duke, 26 to 0, to make it two straight wins.

All told, 112 sports writers and broadcasters voted in this week's poll, which saw the rest of the top ten shape up as follows: 4—Texas A. & M. 5—Notre Dame. 6—Texas. 7—Illinois. 8—Georgia Tech. 9—Ohio State. 10—Maryland.

Montgomery Plays Potomac State At Keyser Saturday

Potomac State's undefeated and unscored on football team will be angling for its fourth successive victory on Saturday when it meets Montgomery College of Washington, D. C. at Stayman Field, Keyser, at 2 p. m.

Montgomery, coached by "Rube" Rubini, former assistant mentor at Maryland, uses the Maryland version of the split-T to good effect.

Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Catamounts have scored 38 points in three winning starts against Glenville's Pioneers, George Washington University "B" and Newport (Va.) Tech.

White Is Named Player Of Week

Leonard White, Fort Hill halfback, is the fifth winner of the Knights of Columbus football "Player of the Week" award.

White was chosen for his outstanding performance in the Sentinels' 28-7 triumph over Martinsburg last Friday.

Richard Beard of Fort Hill; Bobby Arnone and Raymond Brown, LaSalle, and Joe Hager, Allegany, are the other "Player of the Week" award winners this season.

Yankees Favored To Cop 4th Game, Win Series Today

RENO, Nev., Oct. 9 (AP)—Reno gamblers are giving odds that the Yankees take their fourth game tomorrow to end the 1951 world series.

A bettor has to put down $18 to win $10 at odds quoted by the Nevada Turf Club.

If the Giants should upset the gamblers' prediction, the Turf Club will pay $17 for $10 with Dave Koslo on the pitcher's mound or $16 for $10 if Jim Hearn opens.

BAGS FOX ON SHRIVER'S HILL — Eugene Bowers, 404 Walnut Street, proudly displays the gray fox he bagged on Shriver's Hill on Monday about 5 p. m. Bowers was hunting squirrels about 1½ miles out on the hill when he shot the fox which weighed nine pounds and measured 40 inches from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail. Bowers, former GI, attends Morgan's Vocational School in Ridgeley.

Fifth Game Play-By-Play

FIRST INNING

Yankees: Woodling fanned. Rizzuto went out, Stanky to Lockman. Berra walked. DiMaggio forced Berra at second, Dark to Stanky. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Giants: Brown tossed out Stanky. Dark singled. Thomson flied to DiMaggio. Irvin singied, sending Dark to third and when Woodling juggled the ball Dark continued home and Irvin stopped at second. The run was unearned. Lockman flied to DiMaggio. One run, two hits, one error, one left.

SECOND INNING

Yankees: Mays caught Mize's towering fly. Thomson fielded McDougald's hot smash, then threw wildly past Lockman, allowing McDougald to reach second on the error. Irvin caught Brown's liner. Collins rolled to Lockman who flipped to Jansen, covering first, for the out. No runs, no hits, one error, one left.

Giants: Mays walked. Hartung hit into a double play, Lopat to McDougald to Mize. Brown tossed out Westrum. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING

Yankees: Jansen threw out Lopat. Woodling and Rizzuto walked. Berra hit to Lockman who threw to Dark forcing Rizzuto as Woodling went to third. DiMaggio's hit scored Woodling, tying the count at 1-1. Irvin attempted to make a shoestring catch and kicked the ball halfway back to the infield enabling Berra to reach third and DiMaggio second. Mize was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. McDougald hit a grand slam homer putting the Yankees in front 5-1. Elmer Smith of Cleveland first turned the trick in 1920 and Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees equaled it in 1936. Brown singled. Collins flied to Mays. Five runs, three hits, one error, one left.

FOURTH INNING

Yankees: Montia Kennedy pitching for the Giants. Lopat was called out on strikes. Woodling walked. Rizzuto punched a homer into the lower right field stands for a home run, scoring Woodling ahead of him. Berra popped to Dark. DiMaggio singled. Mize fouled to Westrum. Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Giants: Irvin grounded out. Rizzuto tossed out Lockman. Mays flied to Woodling. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

Yankees: Thomson threw out McDougald. Brown singled. Collins went down swinging. Kennedy deflected Lopat's smash to the box to Stanky who threw to Lockman for the putout. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Giants: DiMaggio caught Hartung's 425-foot drive. Westrum's drive to left-center went for a two base hit. Bill Rigney, a righthanded hitter, batted for Kennedy. Woodling took Rigney's fly. Stanky also flied to Woodling. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SIXTH INNING

Yankees: Spencer became the Giants' third pitcher. Woodling went out, Stanky to Lockman. Rizzuto singled. Berra hit to right sending Rizzuto to third. When Hartung bobbled the ball Rizzuto continued home and Berra beat Hartung's throw to second. DiMaggio flied to Hartung. Mize dropped a Texas League double behind second, scoring Berra, to put the Yankees in front 9-1. McDougald bounced out, Thomson to Lockman who tagged the runner after being pulled off the bag. Two runs, three hits, one error, one left.

Giants: Bauer went to right field and Collins switched to first base in place of Mize. Dark grounded out. Thomson lined to Brown. Irvin singled to center. Rizzuto took Lockman's high chopper behind the mound and got his man with a quick throw to Collins. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SEVENTH INNING

Yankees: Brown walked. Collins beat out a bunt. Gerry Coleman ran for Brown. Both runners advanced as Spencer threw out Lopat at first base. Woodling walked, loading the bases. Rizzuto walked, forcing in Coleman. Al Corwin replaced Spencer on the mound. Corwin uncorked a wild pitch and Collins scored. Berra flied to Irvin and Monte's quick heave to the infield kept the runners on their bases. DiMaggio doubled home Woodling and Rizzuto. Bauer grounded to Dark who threw to Thomson to nab DiMaggio going to third. Four runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Giants: Coleman went to second base and McDougald moved to third, replacing Brown. Mays fanned. Hartung bounced out. Westrum struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING

Yankees: McDougald grounded out. Coleman, fanned. Lockman threw out Collins at first base. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Giants: Dave Williams, batting for Corwin, rolled out. Rizzuto threw out Stanky. Dark lined to McDougald. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NINTH INNING

Yankees: Alex Konikowski became the Giants' fifth pitcher. Lopat fouled to Westrum. Woodling walloped a triple to the bullpen in deep right but was out trying to stretch it into a homer, Hartung to Stanky to Westrum. Rizzuto bounced out. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Giants: McDougald threw out Thomson. Woodling made a sensational catch of Irvin's smash to rob Monte of an extra base hit and a chance to tie the world series record of 12 hits. Lockman was an easy out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

"Sonny" Kyle's penalty goal in the second period broke a tie score and netted Coach Johnny Thomas' Barton High School soccerites a 2-1 decision over Beall High School in a W.M.I. League game played yesterday at Frostburg.

It was the second victory of the season for the unbeaten Bartonites who last won a league championship in 1926.

Tom Robertson, substitute lineman, booted a field goal to give Barton a 1-0 edge in the first quarter and after "Buck" Duncan's penalty goal knotted the count at 1-all early in the second stanza, Kyle booted one through from the penalty line to win the game. The teams battled to a scoreless deadlock in the third and final periods.

Frank Miller, "Sonny" Kyle and Tom Robertson played best for Barton while Francis Poland, Gerald Rafferty and Don Bell were Beall's best bets.

Central High School's defending champions from Lonaconing crashed the win column by taking a 1-0 decision from Bruce High School of Westernport, making its 1951 debut under its new coach, Augie Eichhorn.

Wayne Murphy's field goal in the first minute of play decided the issue.

Both goalies played nice games, handling many chances.

Billy Turnbull, Eddie McIntyre, Tommy Kelly and Billy Andrews of Central and Goalie Biggs, Wilkinson, Smith and Wilson of Bruce High were the outstanding players. The lineups:

The opening kickoff is set for 7:30 o'clock.

Williams Says He'll Quit If Traded By Sox

BOSTON, Oct. 9 (AP) —Boston Herald Columnist Bill Cunningham today quoted Ted Williams as saying he would quit baseball if traded or sold by the Boston Red Sox.

In a copyrighted story datelined New York, where Cunningham is covering the world series, the Herald said:

"In a telephone call from Princeton, Minn., to New York yesterday, Williams said he would break with baseball completely and retire to a connection with a manufacturer of fishing tackle if the Red Sox trade or sell him.

"He said," Cunningham continued, "that 'I sincerely mean this, and I can be quoted.'"

Cary Middlecoff Annexes Playoff

Wins 7th Tournament, Earnings Hit $24,075

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9 (AP) —Red-hot Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., shot a four under par 68 to beat Dave Douglas and Doug Ford by four strokes in an 18-hole playoff for top money in the $35,000 Kansas City Gold Open today.

Both Douglas, of Newark, Del., and Ford, Harrison, N. Y., shot even par 72 over the 6,500 yard Milburn Country Club course.

The Memphis, Tenn., dentist simply outdrove, out-approached and outputted his opponents in winning his seventh major tournament of the season.

Middlecoff earned $2,400 here to bring his total winnings for the year to $24,075.91.

Ford and Douglas each collected $1,600 in the PGA's last summer tour engagement.

For five rounds of play in the tournament, which started last Thursday and had two days rained out, Middlecoff had four birdies and a hole in one on the sixth hole.

Middlecoff's 90-hole score of 346 was 14 stroke under par for the distance. Both Douglas and Ford were 10 under.

Layne, Charles Tangle Tonight At Pittsburgh

Forbes Field Scene Of 12 Round Fight

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9—(AP)—Dethroned champion Ezzard Charles risks his prestige and his pride as the number one heavyweight contender in a 12-round bout with Rex Layne tomorrow night at Forbes Field.

Rex Layne

It was just three months ago that Charles lost the title in the same ring to aging Jersey Joe Walcott via a seventh round knockout. Charles has a contract for a return bout with Walcott but defeat at the hands of Layne could alter future plans.

Charles is a heavy choice to whip the strong but awkward young Salt Lake City challenger. However, the former champion picked himself no soft touch in his comeback. Layne has won 24 of his 38 pro fights by knockouts and holds a victory over Walcott.

Charles expects to enter the ring at 185 pounds, three heavier than he was for his last bout.

Layne will scale 194 pounds, give or take a pound.

Promoters figured on a crowd of 15,000 to 20,000 with receipts of $100,000, including $25,000 for television rights. The forecast is mild and partly cloudy.

The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast and telecast by CBS, with Pittsburgh and Johnstown blacked out.

Charles cut will be 35 per cent, Layne's 25.

Lopat Scores 2nd Series Win, Koslo Faces Raschi Today

Giants Suffer 13-1 Walloping In Fifth Game

Yanks Could Sew It Up Today; McDougald Belts 4-Run Homer

By GAYLOR TALBORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP) — The world series blew up—boom—right in the Giants' red faces today.

In the worst slaughter perpetrated in a playoff game for 15 years, the New York Yankees put the slug on Leo Durocher's wonder boys, 13 to 1, to run the victory count to 3-2 in their favor.

Ed Lopat

Gil McDougald

Records were tied all over the Polo Grounds as Gil McDougald, the Yankee's great rookie infielder, propelled a home run into the left field balcony with the bases loaded in the third inning and Joe DiMaggio celebrated his 50th appearance in a world series game.

McDougald Equals Record

Only two other batters ever matched the feat of the 22-year-old McDougald, who only last season was themost valuable player in the Texas League, none had done it since 1936, when Tony Lazzeri of the Yanks helped officiate at a similar massacre of the Giants in the same park. That final score was 18-4. DiMaggio's big 50 exactly equalled the record set by Frankie Frisch more than a decade ago.

Except for another wonderful job of pitching by Ed Lopat, slick Yankee southpaw, it was a pretty horrible exhibition for the Giant partisans among the 47,530 wans to witness. It was strictly no contest after McDougald exploded to climax a five-run fifth inning which disposed of Larry Jansen, righthanded Giants's ace.

The stylish Lopat exactly matched his magnificent performance of the second game by throttling the National Leaguers with five hits and a single run. Only one Giant reached first in the final four innings as Lopat's mastery reached its peak.

Yankees Get 12 Hits

For the Giants the afternoon was a nightmare. They employed five pitchers in an effort to still the Bomber bats, but finally succeeded in doing so only in the final two frames.

Co-starring with McDougald in the 12-hit assault was little Phil Rizzuto, who pushed a two-run homer into the close right field stands in the fourth off Montia Kennedy. The great shortstop also clouted a single and scored three times.

The Giants contrived two of their five hits and their only run off Lopat in the first when Alvin Dark lined a single to left and came all the way home on Monte Irvin's single which leftfielder Gene Woodling bobbled.

After that Easy Ed had them hogtied and ready for market. The chunky portside permitted only one Giant to reach second in the last eight innings. That was on catcher Wes Westrum's double in the fourth, and Wes never saw third. Lopat issued only one walk, to Willie Mays to open the second inning. He struck out three.

Only Dark and Irvin continued to thrive on Yankee hurling. Each whacked a pair of singles in a hopeless cause. Irvin's brace ran his total for the five games played to 11, tying the record for safeties in a six-game series. The most ever hit in any series was 12, by four different players. A tremendous one-handed catch by Gene Woodling in deep left-center robbed Irvin of what looked like a certain triple in the ninth.

Every player in the Yankee starting lineup except Lopat feasted on Jansen and his relievers. Woodling belted a prodigious drive to right-center in the ninth, but was thrown out trying to stretch it into a home run. Besides Jansen and Kennedy, George Spencer, Al Corwin and Alex Konikowski felt the lash.

Hoping to wind things up and get home before Christmas, Stengel is giving Vic Raschi another shot at the drooping Giants tomorrow. Durocher's boys racked him up in winning the third game, clouting him out in five innings.

Durocher had little choice. It had to be Dave Koslo, the somewhat unheralded southpaw who bewildered and beat the Yanks in the series' opener.

Michigan State Holds No. 1 Spot

Maryland Is 10th In Second AP Poll

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Undefeated Michigan State barely retained its position as the No. 1 football team in the land today, nipping California's high-scoring Golden Bears by a mere 10 points—or the equivalent of one first-place vote—in the second weekly Associated Press poll of the season.

Michigan State staged a late rally Saturday to defeat ninth-ranked Ohio State for its third straight win, and that, according to the sports writers and broadcasters who participated in the voting, was good enough to keep the Spartans in the top spot.

California made its bid for the coveted position by overwhelming Minnesota, 55 to 14, in a display of brute power. That gave the Bears three straight victories and 124 points, a better than 40-per-game average.

While California held its No. 2 slot on offensive might, Tennessee retained its No. 3 post on defensive strength. The undefeated, unscored-upon Vols knocked off Duke, 26 to 0, to make it two straight wins.

All told, 112 sports writers and broadcasters voted in this week's poll, which saw the rest of the top ten shape up as follows: 4—Texas A. & M. 5—Notre Dame. 6—Texas. 7—Illinois. 8—Georgia Tech. 9—Ohio State. 10—Maryland.

Montgomery Plays Potomac State At Keyser Saturday

Potomac State's undefeated and unscored on football team will be angling for its fourth successive victory on Saturday when it meets Montgomery College of Washington, D. C. at Stayman Field, Keyser, at 2 p. m.

Montgomery, coached by "Rube" Rubini, former assistant mentor at Maryland, uses the Maryland version of the split-T to good effect.

Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Catamounts have scored 38 points in three winning starts against Glenville's Pioneers, George Washington University "B" and Newport (Va.) Tech.

White Is Named Player Of Week

Leonard White, Fort Hill halfback, is the fifth winner of the Knights of Columbus football "Player of the Week" award.

White was chosen for his outstanding performance in the Sentinels' 28-7 triumph over Martinsburg last Friday.

Richard Beard of Fort Hill; Bobby Arnone and Raymond Brown, LaSalle, and Joe Hager, Allegany, are the other "Player of the Week" award winners this season.

Yankees Favored To Cop 4th Game, Win Series Today

RENO, Nev., Oct. 9 (AP)—Reno gamblers are giving odds that the Yankees take their fourth game tomorrow to end the 1951 world series.

A bettor has to put down $18 to win $10 at odds quoted by the Nevada Turf Club.

If the Giants should upset the gamblers' prediction, the Turf Club will pay $17 for $10 with Dave Koslo on the pitcher's mound or $16 for $10 if Jim Hearn opens.

BAGS FOX ON SHRIVER'S HILL — Eugene Bowers, 404 Walnut Street, proudly displays the gray fox he bagged on Shriver's Hill on Monday about 5 p. m. Bowers was hunting squirrels about 1½ miles out on the hill when he shot the fox which weighed nine pounds and measured 40 inches from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail. Bowers, former GI, attends Morgan's Vocational School in Ridgeley.

Fifth Game Play-By-Play

FIRST INNING

Yankees: Woodling fanned. Rizzuto went out, Stanky to Lockman. Berra walked. DiMaggio forced Berra at second, Dark to Stanky. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Giants: Brown tossed out Stanky. Dark singled. Thomson flied to DiMaggio. Irvin singled, sending Dark to third and when Woodling juggled the ball Dark continued home and Irvin stopped at second. The run was unearned. Lockman flied to DiMaggio. One run, two hits, one error, one left.

SECOND INNING

Yankees: Mays caught Mize's towering fly. Thomson fielded McDougald's hot smash, then threw wildly past Lockman, allowing McDougald to reach second on the error. Irvin caught Brown's liner. Collins rolled to Lockman who flipped to Jansen, covering first, for the out. No runs, no hits, one error, one left.

Giants: Mays walked. Hartung hit into a double play, Lopat to McDougald to Mize. Brown tossed out Westrum. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING

Yankees: Jansen threw out Lopat. Woodling and Rizzuto walked. Berra hit to Lockman who threw to Dark forcing Rizzuto as Woodling went to third. DiMaggio's hit scored Woodling, tying the count at 1-1. Irvin attempted to make a shoestring catch and kicked the ball halfway back to the infield enabling Berra to reach third and DiMaggio second. Mize was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. McDougald hit a grand slam homer putting the Yankees in front 5-1. Elmer Smith of Cleveland first turned the trick in 1920 and Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees equaled it in 1936. Brown singled. Collins flied to Mays. Five runs, three hits, one error, one left.

FOURTH INNING

Yankees: Montia Kennedy pitching for the Giants. Lopat was called out on strikes. Woodling walked. Rizzuto punched a homer into the lower right field stands for a home run, scoring Woodling ahead of him. Berra popped to Dark. DiMaggio singled. Mize fouled to Westrum. Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Giants: Irvin grounded out. Rizzuto tossed out Lockman. Mays flied to Woodling. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

Yankees: Thomson threw out McDougald. Brown singled. Collins went down swinging. Kennedy deflected Lopat's smash to the box to Stanky who threw to Lockman for the putout. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Giants: DiMaggio caught Hartung's 425-foot drive. Westrum's drive to left-center went for a two base hit. Bill Rigney, a righthanded hitter, batted for Kennedy. Woodling took Rigney's fly. Stanky also flied to Woodling. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SIXTH INNING

Yankees: Spencer became the Giants' third pitcher. Woodling went out, Stanky to Lockman. Rizzuto singled. Berra hit to right sending Rizzuto to third. When Hartung bobbled the ball Rizzuto continued home and Berra beat Hartung's throw to second. DiMaggio flied to Hartung. Mize dropped a Texas League double behind second, scoring Berra, to put the Yankees in front 9-1. McDougald bounced out, Thomson to Lockman who tagged the runner after being pulled off the bag. Two runs, three hits, one error, one left.

Giants: Bauer went to right field and Collins switched to first base in place of Mize. Dark grounded out. Thomson lined to Brown. Irvin singled to center. Rizzuto took Lockman's high chopper behind the mound and got his man with a quick throw to Collins. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SEVENTH INNING

Yankees: Brown walked. Collins beat out a bunt. Gerry Coleman ran for Brown. Both runners advanced as Spencer threw out Lopat at first base. Woodling walked, loading the bases. Rizzuto walked, forcing in Coleman. Al Corwin replaced Spencer on the mound. Corwin uncorked a wild pitch and Collins scored. Berra flied to Irvin and Monte's quick heave to the infield kept the runners on their bases. DiMaggio doubled home Woodling and Rizzuto. Bauer grounded to Dark who threw to Thomson to nab DiMaggio going to third. Four runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Giants: Coleman went to second base and McDougald moved to third, replacing Brown. Mays fanned. Hartung bounced out. Westrum struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING

Yankees: McDougald grounded out. Coleman, fanned. Lockman threw out Collins at first base. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Giants: Dave Williams, batting for Corwin, rolled out. Rizzuto threw out Stanky. Dark lined to McDougald. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NINTH INNING

Yankees: Alex Konikowski became the Giants' fifth pitcher. Lopat fouled to Westrum. Woodling walloped a triple to the bullpen in deep right but was out trying to stretch it into a homer, Hartung to Stanky to Westrum. Rizzuto bounced out. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Giants: McDougald threw out Thomson. Woodling made a sensational catch of Irvin's smash to rob Monte of an extra base hit and a chance to tie the world series record of 12 hits. Lockman was an easy out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

"Sonny" Kyle's penalty goal in the second period broke a tie score and netted Coach Johnny Thomas' Barton High School soccerites a 2-1 decision over Beall High School in a W.M.I. League game played yesterday at Frostburg.

It was the second victory of the season for the unbeaten Bartonites who last won a league championship in 1926.

Tom Robertson, substitute lineman, booted a field goal to give Barton a 1-0 edge in the first quarter and after "Buck" Duncan's penalty goal knotted the count at 1-all early in the second stanza, Kyle booted one through from the penalty line to win the game. The teams battled to a scoreless deadlock in the third and final periods.

Frank Miller, "Sonny" Kyle and Tom Robertson played best for Barton while Francis Poland, Gerald Rafferty and Don Bell were Beall's best bets.

Central High School's defending champions from Lonaconing crashed the win column by taking a 1-0 decision from Bruce High School of Westernport, making its 1951 debut under its new coach, Augie Eichhorn.

Wayne Murphy's field goal in the first minute of play decided the issue.

Both goalies played nice games, handling many chances.

Billy Turnbull, Eddie McIntyre, Tommy Kelly and Billy Andrews of Central and Goalie Biggs, Wilkinson, Smith and Wilson of Bruce High were the outstanding players. The lineups:

The opening kickoff is set for 7:30 o'clock.

Williams Says He'll Quit If Traded By Sox

BOSTON, Oct. 9 (AP) —Boston Herald Columnist Bill Cunningham today quoted Ted Williams as saying he would quit baseball if traded or sold by the Boston Red Sox.

In a copyrighted story datelined New York, where Cunningham is covering the world series, the Herald said:

"In a telephone call from Princeton, Minn., to New York yesterday, Williams said he would break with baseball completely and retire to a connection with a manufacturer of fishing tackle if the Red Sox trade or sell him.

"He said," Cunningham continued, "that 'I sincerely mean this, and I can be quoted.'"

Cary Middlecoff Annexes Playoff

Wins 7th Tournament, Earnings Hit $24,075

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9 (AP) —Red-hot Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., shot a four under par 68 to beat Dave Douglas and Doug Ford by four strokes in an 18-hole playoff for top money in the $35,000 Kansas City Gold Open today.

Both Douglas, of Newark, Del., and Ford, Harrison, N. Y., shot even par 72 over the 6,500 yard Milburn Country Club course.

The Memphis, Tenn., dentist simply outdrove, out-approached and outputted his opponents in winning his seventh major tournament of the season.

Middlecoff earned $2,400 here to bring his total winnings for the year to $24,075.91.

Ford and Douglas each collected $1,600 in the PGA's last summer tour engagement.

For five rounds of play in the tournament, which started last Thursday and had two days rained out, Middlecoff had four birdies and a hole in one on the sixth hole.

Middlecoff's 90-hole score of 346 was 14 stroke under par for the distance. Both Douglas and Ford were 10 under.

Layne, Charles Tangle Tonight At Pittsburgh

Forbes Field Scene Of 12 Round Fight

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9—(AP)—Dethroned champion Ezzard Charles risks his prestige and his pride as the number one heavyweight contender in a 12-round bout with Rex Layne tomorrow night at Forbes Field.

Rex Layne

It was just three months ago that Charles lost the title in the same ring to aging Jersey Joe Walcott via a seventh round knockout. Charles has a contract for a return bout with Walcott but defeat at the hands of Layne could alter future plans.

Charles is a heavy choice to whip the strong but awkward young Salt Lake City challenger. However, the former champion picked himself no soft touch in his comeback. Layne has won 24 of his 38 pro fights by knockouts and holds a victory over Walcott.

Charles expects to enter the ring at 185 pounds, three heavier than he was for his last bout.

Layne will scale 194 pounds, give or take a pound.

Promoters figured on a crowd of 15,000 to 20,000 with receipts of $100,000, including $25,000 for television rights. The forecast is mild and partly cloudy.

The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast and telecast by CBS, with Pittsburgh and Johnstown blacked out.

Charles cut will be 35 per cent, Layne's 25.

Football League Is Named In Suit

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9 (AP) — Demanding the end of all restrictions on television and radio broadcasts of sports events, the federal government today brought suit against the National Football League, accusing it of violating federal anti-trust laws.

Leo Durocher: "We got the pants beat off us."

Phil Rizzuto: "I hit a Chinese homer? It counts just as much. The pitch I hit was an outside spitball."

Monte Irvin: "We're still playing 'em day by day."

Ed Lopat: "I pitched just the same as I did before."

"Bugs'-Eye View Of The Series"

"They Went Thataway"

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (INS)—Well, it was as one-sided as a three-legged bear.

* * *

The Giants started like a house afire. The Yanks collected the insurance.

* * *

We finally found out what the thing was in the box. It was Jansen. He made two starts against Lopat. Both were falsies.

* * *

The worst timing of the series was Joe Stalin telling the world he had the atom bomb. We wouldn't have noticed it if he dropped it in Brooklyn.

* * *

But a punk named McDougald dropped one in the left-field stands. Jansen loaded the bases by passing Mize to get at Mac. When we were kids we knew enough not to get the fireworks too close to the punk.

* * *

Jansen laid one in the swing zone. McDougald picked it off like it was a message on a platter. It was the works.

* * *

They went around the bases like Barney was calling all men. The final score of the turkey shoot was thirteen to one. The Yanks couldn't have done much better on a pin-ball machine.

* * *

Three-card Monte Irvin continued to shuffle the elusive plea to all sections of the field. Only a terrific confiscation by Woodling prevented Monte from tying the all-time series record for twelve hits.

* * *

DiMaggio clipped the throwing for another three bopps that gives him a fairly decent showing if you don't look too close. He is up around .250.

* * *

DiMaggio ties Frank Frisch for fifty world series games. Everybody was happy that both Joe and Monte were getting their knocks. Rizzuto covered more ground than Montgomery chasing Rommel.

* * *

The second guessers are working on their thirds. Playing Hartung was a fielder's choice. The field should have been plowed up.

* * *

Wednesday should be getaway day. Short hauls and dry lots.

Inter-League Series Is Off

Westvaco Ends Season, Won 31 And Lost 12

Manager Frank Patrone of the Westvaco Club, champions of the Bi-State Baseball League, announces the cancellation of remaining games in the series between his team and Moorefield, titleholder of the Interstate League.

The second game set for Sunday was postponed on account of rain and it was deemed best to call off hostilities because the weather is no longer suitable for baseball.

In the opener of the series at Moorefield, Sunday, September 30, Westvaco won by the score of 19-6 with Rockwell being returned the winner over Lefty Garrett.

The Papermakers, according to Manager Patrone, won 31 and lost 12 during the season, copped 24 of their last 28 games, 12 of the last 13 and finished the campaign with a winning streak of eight contests.

Westvaco won the playoffs in six straight, taking three games each from Frostburg's Demons and the Hyndman Firemen.

"Woody" Woodson was the champs' pitching ace with 16 wins and four losses. Bobby Raines won six and lost one. Daniel "Bud" Mosser led the regulars with the stick, hitting at a .406 clip. Manager Sullivan larruped the pill for .422 in 70 times at bat.

Mrs. Fuller Whitworth Wins Putting Contest

Mrs. Fuller Whitworth won the putting contest held yesterday by the Women's Golf Association of the Cumberland Country Club with a total of 30 putts. Par for the course is 36.

Mrs. Frederic Eiler and Mrs. William Somerville had 31 putts each and tied for the runner-up position.

Twenty-seven players participated.

Ten U. S. Ryder Cuppers Named

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (AP) —A 10-man American Ryder Cup team, headed by inimitable Sammy Snead and listing two newcomers to the International competition, today was named for the 1951 matches with Britain's best golf pros at Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 2 and 4.

The array of top United States play-for-pay stars, as announced by the Professional Golfers' Association of America, included Snead, Lloyd Mangrum, Jack Burke, Jr., Jimmy Demaret, Ben Hogan, Ed Oliver, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Henry Ransom, Clayton Heafner and Skip Alexander. The squad was determined in a two-year compilation of points based on tournament finishes.

The two new hands in the series which finds the U. S. ahead, six to two, are Burke, bobby-sox favorite from Houston, Tex., and Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., veteran, with third and eighth team spots respectively.

Snead led the squad with 1,244 1/6 points.

Clubhouse Quotes

By International News Service.

Leo Durocher: "We got the pants beat off us."

Phil Rizzuto: "I hit a Chinese homer? It counts just as much. The pitch I hit was an outside spitball."

Monte Irvin: "We're still playing 'em day by day."

Ed Lopat: "I pitched just the same as I did before."

"Bugs'-Eye View Of The Series"

"They Went Thataway"

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (INS)—Well, it was as one-sided as a three-legged bear.

●—●—●

The Giants started like a house afire. The Yanks collected the insurance.

●—●—●

We finally found out what the thing was in the box. It was Jansen. He made two starts against Lopat. Both were falsies.

●—●—●

The worst timing of the series was Joe Stalin telling the world he had the atom bomb. We wouldn't have noticed it if he dropped it in Brooklyn.

●—●—●

But a punk named McDougald dropped one in the left-field stands. Jansen loaded the bases by passing Mize to get at Mac. When we were kids we knew enough not to get the fireworks too close to the punk.

●—●—●

Jansen laid one in the swing zone. McDougald picked it off like it was a message on a platter. It was the works.

●—●—●

They went around the bases like Barney was calling all men. The final score of the turkey shoot was thirteen to one. The Yanks couldn't have done much better on a pin-ball machine.

●—●—●

Three-card Monte Irvin continued to shuffle the elusive plea to all sections of the field. Only a terrific confiscation by Woodling prevented Monte from tying the all-time series record for twelve hits.

●—●—●

DiMaggio clipped the throwing for another three bopps that gives him a fairly decent showing if you don't look too close. He is up around .250.

●—●—●

DiMaggio ties Frank Frisch for fifty world series games. Everybody was happy that both Joe and Monte were getting their knocks. Rizzuto covered more ground than Montgomery chasing Rommel.

●—●—●

The second guessers are working on their thirds. Playing Hartung was a fielder's choice. The field should have been plowed up.

●—●—●

Wednesday should be get-away day. Short hauls and dry lots.

Inter-League Series Is Off

Westvaco Ends Season, Won 31 And Lost 12

Manager Frank Patrone of the Westvaco Club, champions of the Bi-State Baseball League, announces the cancellation of remaining games in the series between his team and Moorefield, titleholder of the Interstate League.

The second game set for Sunday was postponed on account of rain and it was deemed best to call off hostilities because the weather is no longer suitable for baseball.

In the opener of the series at Moorefield, Sunday, September 30, Westvaco won by the score of 19-6 with Rockwell being returned the winner over Lefty Garrett.

The Papermakers, according to Manager Patrone, won 31 and lost 12 during the season, copped 24 of their last 28 games, 12 of the last 13 and finished the campaign with a winning streak of eight contests.

Westvaco won the playoffs in six straight, taking three games each from Frostburg's Demons and the Hyndman Firemen.

"Woody" Woodson was the champs' pitching ace with 16 wins and four losses. Bobby Raines won six and lost one. Daniel "Bud" Mosser led the regulars with the stick, hitting at a .406 clip. Manager Sullivan larruped the pill for .422 in 70 times at bat.

Mrs. Fuller Whitworth Wins Putting Contest

Mrs. Fuller Whitworth won the putting contest held yesterday by the Women's Golf Association of the Cumberland Country Club with a total of 30 putts. Par for the course is 36.

Mrs. Frederic Eiler and Mrs. William Somerville had 31 putts each and tied for the runner-up position.

Twenty-seven players participated.

Ten U. S. Ryder Cuppers Named

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (AP)—A 10-man American Ryder Cup team, headed by inimitable Sammy Snead and listing two newcomers to the International competition, today was named for the 1951 matches with Britain's best golf pros at Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 2 and 4.

The array of top United States play-for-pay stars, as announced by the Professional Golfers' Association of America, included Snead, Lloyd Mangrum, Jack Burke, Jr., Jimmy Demaret, Ben Hogan, Ed Oliver, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Henry Ransom, Clayton Heafner and Skip Alexander. The squad was determined in a two-year compilation of points based on tournament finishes.

The two new hands in the series which finds the U. S. ahead, six to two, are Burke, bobby-sox favorite from Houston, Tex., and Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., veteran, with third and eighth team spots respectively.

Snead led the squad with 1,244 1/6 points.

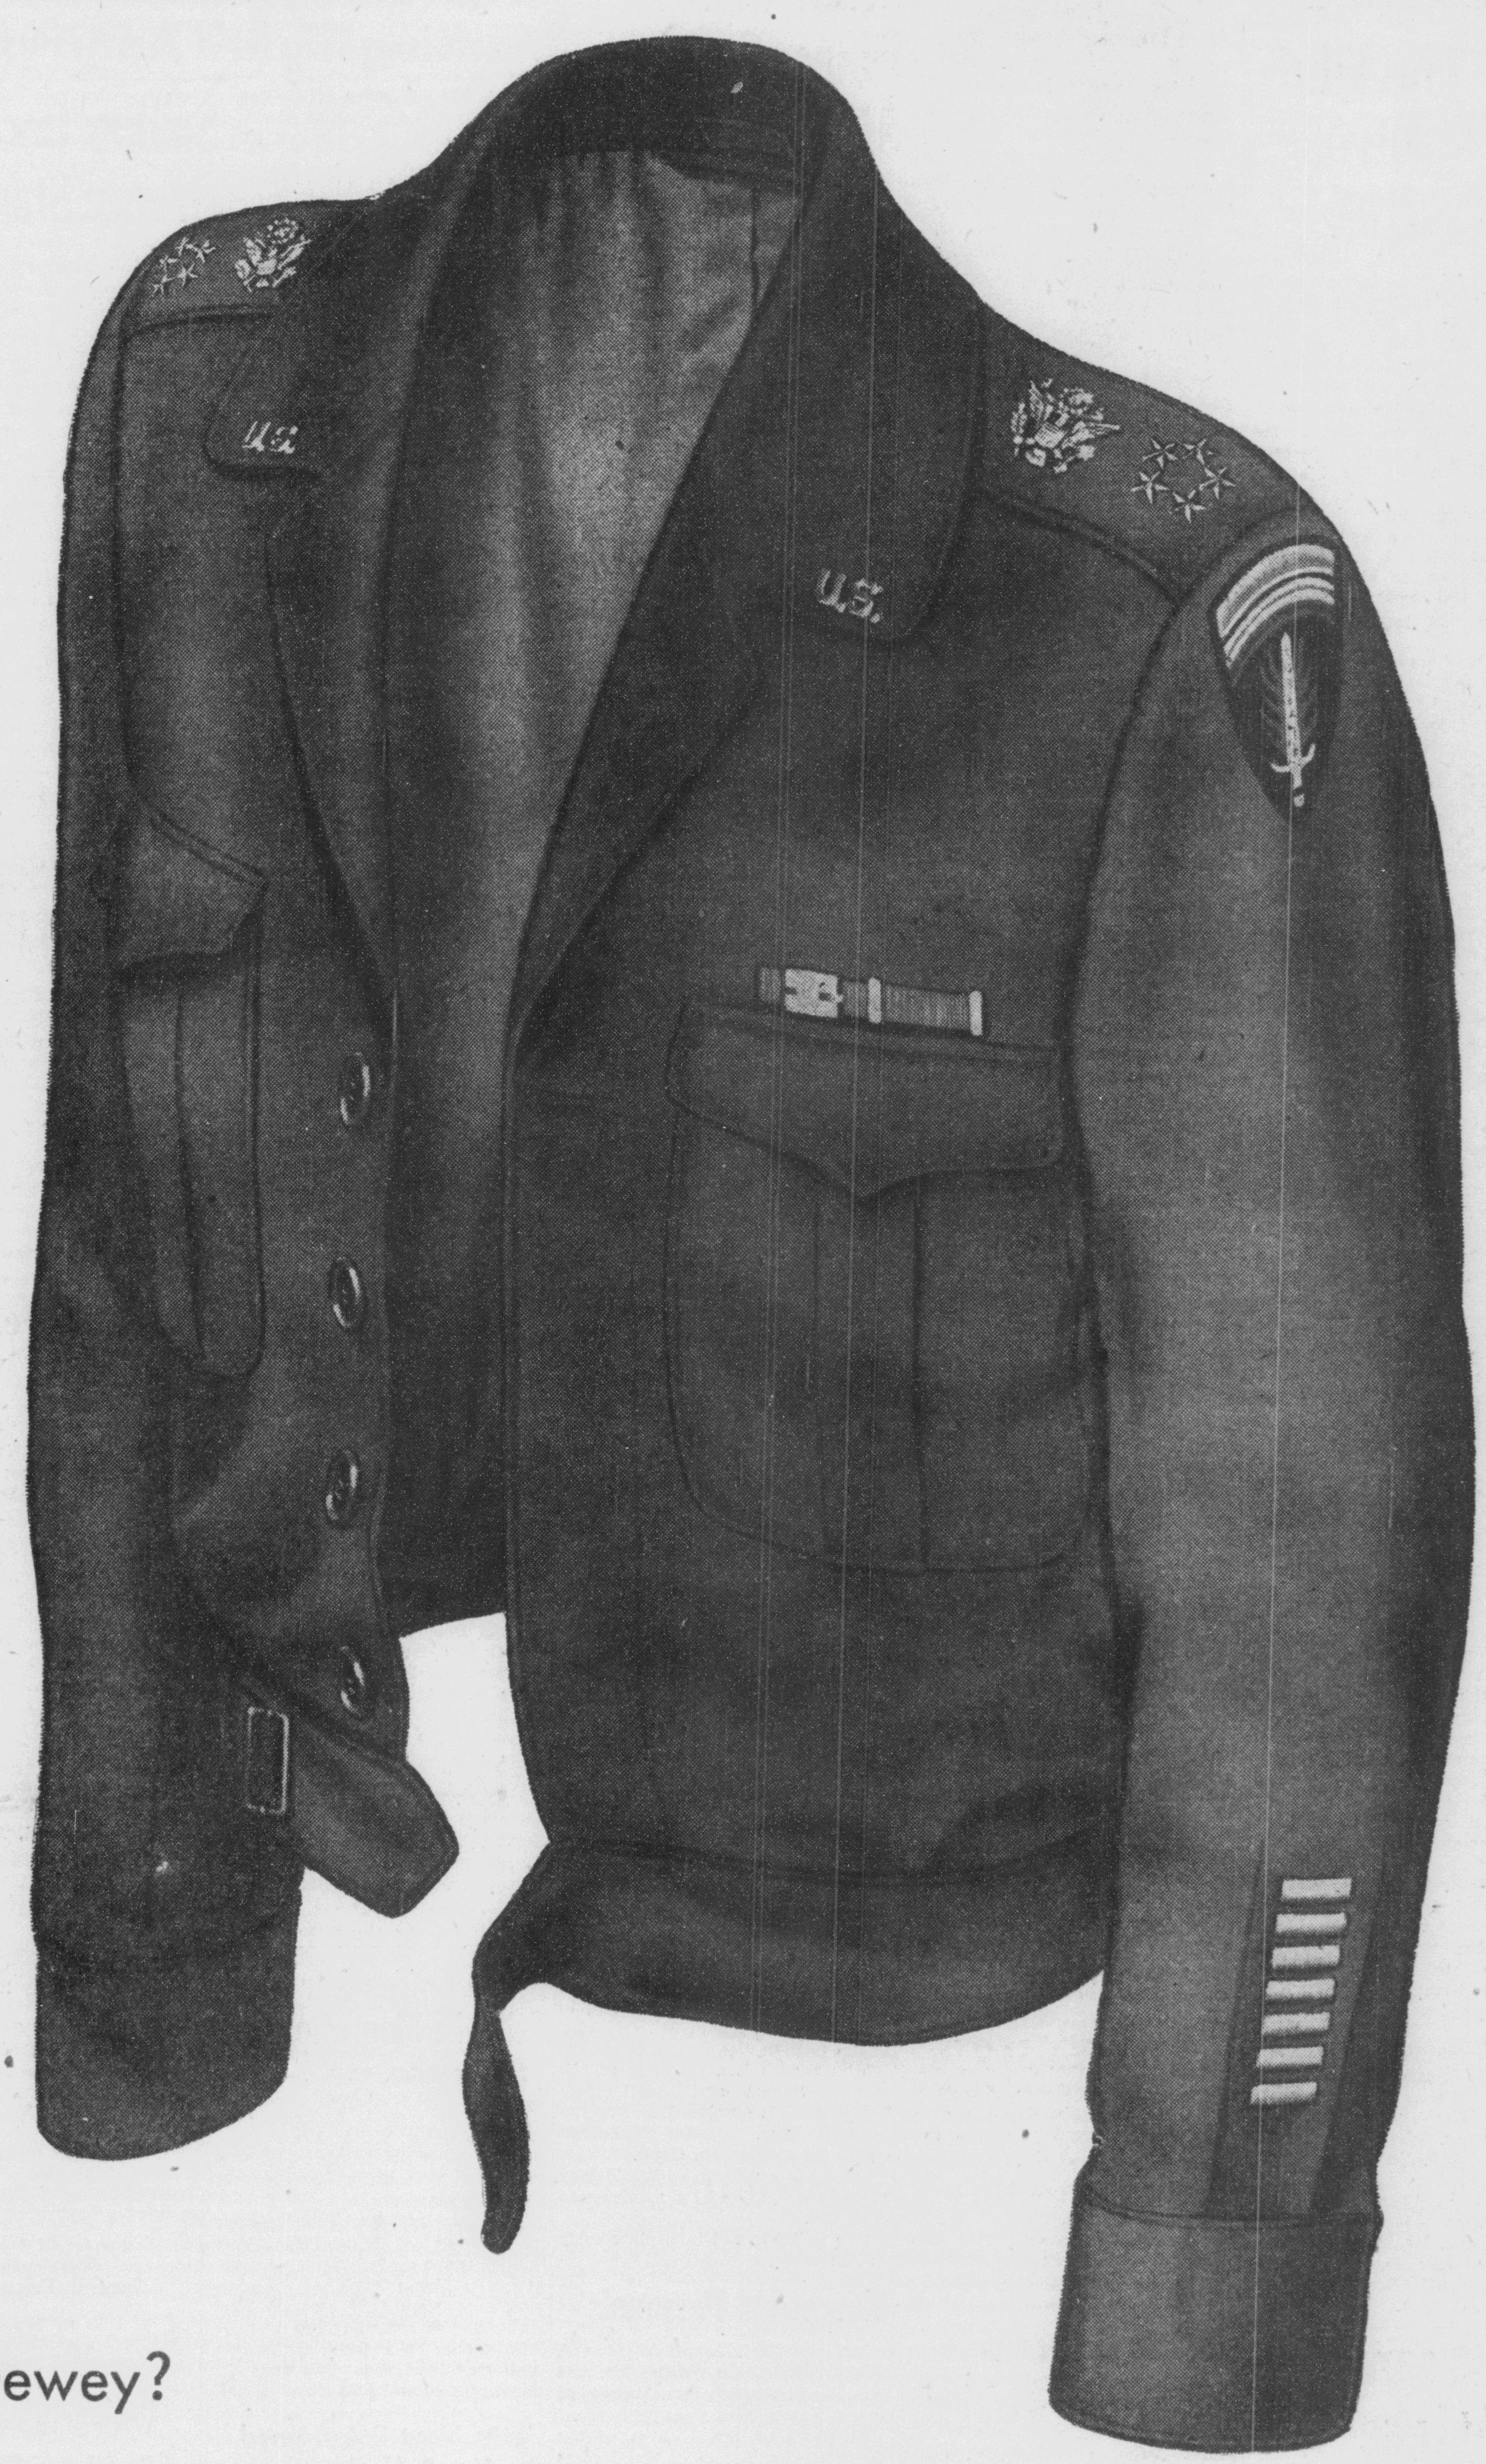
If EISENHOWER said "Yes" tomorrow...



Who got him to talk?

Where?

What party did he pick?

What are his reasons?

Who's taking over in Europe?

What does Truman say? Taft? Dewey?

THE MOMENT the General laid aside his battle jacket, you would be one great big question-mark—and so would everybody else.

And where would you turn for your answers?

Sure—you'd listen to the commentators, whenever you could get to the radio or the TV at the right moment.

Sure—you might see the magazines, but the fastest of them would be too slow for you.

But what you'd want most, and wouldn't be denied, is a newspaper in your hand.

You'd know that you could find the story there immediately with more answers—more details—more comment—more angles—than you will find anywhere else.

You feel that way every day about something that happens—you want your newspaper. For every day some story breaks that means a lot to you, together with a hundred things that are Page One news to somebody, even if it's only a new moletrap at the hardware store.

That's why people may do without almost anything else, but not the newspaper.

When it comes to Advertising, why deal in fractions? . . .

When you have something to sell, the newspaper is the place to reach all the people all the time.

Magazines reach only fractions of your market. For each one appeals to some people—not to others. No magazine is read by everyone in town who can possibly buy.

Radio and TV programs reach only fractions of your market. Each one appeals to only a special audience—sport fans, homemakers, kids, or whatever. And even the people interested can't all listen at the time you broadcast.

The newspaper talks to everybody in town. It's created fresh every day to appeal to everybody. Just as you read the paper now, all your customers and prospects read the paper too—at the time they choose, for as long as they choose!

Only the newspaper is first with the most news . . . first with the most people . . . first with the most advertisers!

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

Shrine Chanters Plan Program At Keyser

Churches Cancel Evening Services

KEYSER, W. Va.—Osiris Temple Shrine Chanters of Wheeling will be guests in Keyser Sunday evening when they will present a program at the Keyser High School auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock. The Chanters are scheduled to arrive at 6 p. m., when they will have dinner served by the Ladies of the Eastern Star of Keyser in the Masonic Temple.

At a recent meeting of the Keyser Ministerium, it was agreed that local churches will not hold services Sunday evening so church goers may attend the concert.

The following program will be presented:

"Where My Caravan Has Rested," (Lohr); "The Creation," (Richter); "God Is a Spirit," (Scholin); Welsh Choral (Pen-Park) by Reese; "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked," (O'Hara), and "The Lord's Prayer," (Malotte).

At this point the members of the Shrine Divan will be introduced. Many of them are well known to Keyser residents.

Continuing the program, the Chanters will present:

"The Crusaders," (Protheroe); "Onward Christian Soldiers," arranged by Waring, and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," arranged by Waring.

The finale of the program will include a few barbershop melodies and some secular numbers, as follows:

"Tell Me Why," "Little Annie Rooney," "Honey," "The Soldiers Chorus from Faust," and "Comrades In Arms" (E. Adams).

William C. Griffith, director, will accompany the Chanters to Keyser. The scriptures will be read and prayer delivered by Rev. John C. B. McLaughlin, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Soldier Receives Bronze Star

KEYSER, W. Va.—Sgt. Albert C. Raines, a brother of Miss Ruby Raines, 83 Allegheny Street, Keyser, has received the Bronze Star Medal with "V" for heroism in action April 25, near Pop-su-dong, Korea, while serving with Company A of the 7th Infantry Regiment, 3rd Division, according to word received here yesterday.

The citation accompanying the decoration stated that Company A occupied a defensive position on Hill 287 and was suddenly attacked by a large force of the enemy. Sgt. Raines, a mortar gunner, observed disorganization of a party carrying ammunition when its leader fell wounded and he immediately went across the exposed ground and rallied the force, reforming the party and lead the group on its mission until the attack was repulsed.

Further, the citation relates, "Sgt. Raines' heroism and initiative reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Scouts Attend Cider Sunday At New Creek

Fall Roundup Held At Bosley Farm

WESTERNPORT—One hundred and fifty Scouts and scouters of the Tri-Towns participated in the Cider Sunday and fall roundup at the Bosley Farm at New Creek, W. Va. last week end.

Five boys went to the farm Friday afternoon taking apples with them to make cider. On Saturday morning 33 scouts and leaders made the cider and camped overnight. Dewey Wilcox, assistant scoutmaster of troop 33, was in charge of the cider making and Noel Obenshain, scoutmaster of troop 34 and Wilcox had charge of the overnight camp.

The Catholic scouts were taken to Keyser to church Sunday morning and the Protestants attended a service at Claysville Church.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Robert E. Cassell, pastor of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church here, and Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, Westernport, chairman of the Tri-Towns District Scouters, presided.

After the church services, cider was distributed to the scouts and they had their lunch.

Contests between the Cubs and Brownies were conducted by Alton R. Shrine Chanters Plan Program At Keyser

Churches Cancel Evening Services

KEYSER, W. Va.—Osiris Temple Shrine Chanters of Wheeling will be guests in Keyser Sunday evening when they will present a program at the Keyser High School auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock. The Chanters are scheduled to arrive at 6 p. m., when they will have dinner served by the Ladies of the Eastern Star of Keyser in the Masonic Temple.

At a recent meeting of the Keyser Ministerium, it was agreed that local churches will not hold services Sunday evening so church goers may attend the concert.

The following program will be presented:

"Where My Caravan Has Rested," (Lohr); "The Creation," (Richter); "God Is a Spirit," (Scholin); Welsh Choral (Pen-Park) by Reese; "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked," (O'Hara), and "The Lord's Prayer," (Malotte).

At this point the members of the Shrine Divan will be introduced. Many of them are well known to Keyser residents.

Continuing the program, the Chanters will present:

"The Crusaders," (Protheroe); "Onward Christian Soldiers," arranged by Waring, and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," arranged by Waring.

The finale of the program will include a few barbershop melodies and some secular numbers, as follows:

"Tell Me Why," "Little Annie Rooney," "Honey," "The Soldiers Chorus from Faust," and "Comrades In Arms" (E. Adams).

William C. Griffith, director, will accompany the Chanters to Keyser. The scriptures will be read and prayer delivered by Rev. John C. B. McLaughlin, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Soldier Receives Bronze Star

KEYSER, W. Va.—Sgt. Albert C. Raines, a brother of Miss Ruby Raines, 83 Allegheny Street, Keyser, has received the Bronze Star Medal with "V" for heroism in action April 25, near Pop-su-dong, Korea, while serving with Company A of the 7th Infantry Regiment, 3rd Division, according to word received here yesterday.

The citation accompanying the decoration stated that Company A occupied a defensive position on Hill 287 and was suddenly attacked by a large force of the enemy. Sgt. Raines, a mortar gunner, observed disorganization of a party carrying ammunition when its leader fell wounded and he immediately went across the exposed ground and rallied the force, reforming the party and lead the group on its mission until the attack was repulsed.

Further, the citation relates, "Sgt. Raines' heroism and initiative reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Scouts Attend Cider Sunday At New Creek

Fall Roundup Held At Bosley Farm

WESTERNPORT — One hundred and fifty Scouts and scouters of the Tri-Towns participated in the Cider Sunday and fall roundup at the Bosley Farm at New Creek, W. Va. last week end.

Five boys went to the farm Friday afternoon taking apples with them to make cider. On Saturday morning 33 scouts and leaders made the cider and camped overnight. Dewey Wilcox, assistant scoutmaster of troop 33, was in charge of the cider making and Noel Obenshain, scoutmaster of troop 34 and Wilcox had charge of the overnight camp.

The Catholic scouts were taken to Keyser to church Sunday morning and the Protestants attended a service at Claysville Church.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Robert E. Cassell, pastor of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church here, and Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, Westernport, chairman of the Tri-Towns District Scouters, presided.

After the church services, cider was distributed to the scouts and they had their lunch.

Contests between the Cubs and Brownies were conducted by Alton R. Fortney, scoutmaster of Boy Scout troop 33, and Noel Obenshain conducted contests between the boy and girl scouts after which the Cubs and Brownies took a hike. Harry J. Biggs, Westernport, scoutmaster of troop 36 was in charge of transportation.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9 (INS) — Robert Donat arrives here in January from London to make a picture for Paramount. He will star in "Pleasure Island," an original by F. Hugh Herbert, who also will direct him.

Robert Donat

I hope I'm not spilling the beans by giving you this story, but these days, if you don't grab news quickly, someone else will snatch it from you.

Donat hasn't made a picture for an American company since "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," and hasn't been in this country for almost ten years. That's because he was under contract to Edward Small and Small said Bob would do a picture for him "or else." Now that contract is beyond the statute of limitations, Donat is free to come and go in Hollywood as he pleases.

An amusing letter from Paris says it took John Gunther to get Greta Garbo out of hiding. When she first arrived she shut herself up, wouldn't see anybody. Then John took her to a dinner given at Maxim's, with many prominent French society people, and Garbo was a sensation when she came in on John's arm.

She wore a plain but fairly low-necked gown, a diamond necklace, and she clapped her hands like a delighted child when they brought in the lighted sherbert on a block of ice in the Maxim manner.

The story that John Gunther wants Garbo to do for MGM is the great love story of Eleanora Duse, Italy's greatest tragic actress, and the Poet Gabriel D'Annunzio.

• — • — •

When I called George Jessel to congratulate him on the new theater near San Francisco which Charles Skouras is naming for him, George also told me about Ava Nooring, the Hungarian war bride who just signed to a 20th contract.

Every producer apparently wants the beauty, who is a young Ingrid Bergman in looks, but she has yet to learn to speak better English before tackling a picture.

She is causing so many laughs over the way she murders the English language that she's being referred to as "Greta Garble." For example, when she was having trouble trying to figure out her bank balance recently, Ava told a friend:

"I have an awful time with figures because I just can't distract."

• — • — •

Harry Lewis, who made more money feeding our town hamburgers than he ever did as an actor, has been secretely married for the past three and one half months to a pretty and young free lance actress, Marilyn Conrad.

After he finished his role as the baby-faced killer in Warner Brothers "Key Largo," Lewis took his earnings and opened the first of a chain of plush hamburger eateries.

• — • — •

The wonderful part about Hollywood's great heart is that many of our citizens do so many of their best deeds in secret.

I just learned that Rod Cameron will adopt every single child inmate of the Charlotte, N. C., orphanage this Christmas for one day. He and his wife will play Santa and Mrs. Claus, providing more than 80 tykes with everything a child would want for Christmas.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

More Everything Than Ever

There's a nasty little rumor running around, conceivably hatched and nurtured in Hollywood, that movies are better than ever which, when you examine it, is one of the dimmest compliments the movie people ever paid themselves. Anyhow, in an attempt to shoot down this canard before it took wing, I investigated a movie, the first I've seen since the days when movies were worse than ever, "An American In Paris."

John Crosby

The selection of "American In Paris" was not entirely arbitrary. I wanted to see it, partly because I'd just been to Paris and wanted to observe just what improvements Hollywood could make on it, partly to hear again George Gershwin's music and partly because I was drugged in a saloon and then dragged to the picture by a rapscallion of a press agent, one of whose aliases is Mitchell Rawson.

* * *

For a man who has spent the last five years chained in front of a 14-inch screen, it was quite an experience. Movies are not only better than ever but bigger than ever, more technicolored than ever and more—I can think of no other word for it—populous than ever. To us TV addicts, three is a crowd and six is a mob. In the movies—you'd never believe this, Mabel—they toss two or three hundred people at you at once, all extravagantly caparisoned. (Caparisons are odious, except in Hollywood where they are beautiful beyond description).

Where Milton Berle is eight inches high, Gene Kelly is roughly 14 feet straight up and terribly, terribly distinct—perhaps more visible than seems strictly necessary. I was more impressed by his size and his clarity than by his dancing which is technically superb but occasionally limited in range.

No doubt about it, though, "An American In Paris" is a perfectly gorgeous picture—full of magnificent shots of Paris (all, except a few process shots, filmed in Hollywood), of some fine Gershwin music and of eye-filling pageantry. It's also as good an example as any of the things Hollywood can do that television couldn't conceivably attempt and also, I'm afraid, of the weaknesses Hollywood can't seem to avoid.

* * *

After getting off to a fine heady start with a magnificently comic song and dance number in a Paris sidewalk cafe, Mr. Kelly, who plays the part of an American artist starving gallantly in a Montmartre garret, gets bogged down in love which Hollywood takes more seriously than it should, especially in a picture of this nature. I have nothing against love, you understand, but I'd rather have seen a good deal more of Oscar Levant, who was being funnier than he has ever been before, than of Leslie Caron, the cuite little French dish Mr. Kelly was mooning over.

The picture ends with a ballet which may be the longest in picture history—a full twenty minutes—which must contain all the dancers in Hollywood, all the costumes they hadn't dragged into the rest of the picture, all the process shots left over from Paris and about twelve changes of costume for Mr. Kelly who leaps into the fountains in the Place de la Concorde roughly twenty-two times and emerges dry but, I expect, tired. It was a stupefying experience and also rather an interminable one. Sometimes I harbor the suspicion that Mr. Kelly should let someone else help out with his choreography. He has only so many ideas and when he runs through the collection, he's inclined to repeat them in different dress against different scenery.

Having got these carping comments off my mind, I'm forced to admit I had a wonderful time at the picture. Pictures are not only better than ever but bigger, costlier, more opulent, more colorful and more vivid than ever. Also milder, mellower and more satisfying. All right, Rawson, cut out the business with the rubber hose and get off my chest. I may even go back and see a picture of my own accord some time, clutching my own money in my damp little hand.

And now—back to Ed Sullivan, all nine inches of solid muscle. Nothing but black and white, verging around the chin into suitable shades of gray. Perhaps it's better that way. I don't think I'm emotionally equipped to take Mr. Sullivan if they blew him up to fourteen feet and shot him along in four colors.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

More Everything Than Ever

There's a nasty little rumor running around, conceivably hatched and nurtured in Hollywood, that movies are better than ever which, when you examine it, is one of the dimmest compliments the movie people ever paid themselves. Anyhow, in an attempt to shoot down this canard before it took wing, I investigated a movie, the first I've seen since the days when movies were worse than ever, "An American In Paris."

John Crosby

The selection of "American In Paris" was not entirely arbitrary. I wanted to see it, partly because I'd just been to Paris and wanted to observe just what improvements Hollywood could make on it, partly to hear again George Gershwin's music and partly because I was drugged in a saloon and then dragged to the picture by a rapscallion of a press agent, one of whose aliases is Mitchell Rawson.

* * *

For a man who has spent the last five years chained in front of a 14-inch screen, it was quite an experience. Movies are not only better than ever but bigger than ever, more technicolored than ever and more—I can think of no other word for it—populous than ever. To us TV addicts, three is a crowd and six is a mob. In the movies—you'd never believe this, Mabel—they toss two or three hundred people at you at once, all extravagantly caparisoned. (Caparisons are odious, except in Hollywood where they are beautiful beyond description).

Where Milton Berle is eight inches high, Gene Kelly is roughly 14 feet straight up and terribly, terribly distinct—perhaps more visible than seems strictly necessary. I was more impressed by his size and his clarity than by his dancing which is technically superb but occasionally limited in range.

No doubt about it, though, "An American In Paris" is a perfectly gorgeous picture—full of magnificent shots of Paris (all, except a few process shots, filmed in Hollywood), of some fine Gershwin music and of eye-filling pageantry. It's also as good an example as any of the things Hollywood can do that television couldn't conceivably attempt and also, I'm afraid, of the weaknesses Hollywood can't seem to avoid.

* * *

After getting off to a fine heady start with a magnificently comic song and dance number in a Paris sidewalk cafe, Mr. Kelly, who plays the part of an American artist starving gallantly in a Montmartre garret, gets bogged down in love which Hollywood takes more seriously than it should, especially in a picture of this nature. I have nothing against love, you understand, but I'd rather have seen a good deal more of Oscar Levant, who was being funnier than he has ever been before, than of Leslie Caron, the cuite little French dish Mr. Kelly was mooning over.

The picture ends with a ballet which may be the longest in picture history—a full twenty minutes—which must contain all the dancers in Hollywood, all the costumes they hadn't dragged into the rest of the picture, all the process shots left over from Paris and about twelve changes of costume for Mr. Kelly who leaps into the fountains in the Place de la Concorde roughly twenty-two times and emerges dry but, I expect, tired. It was a stupefying experience and also rather an interminable one. Sometimes I harbor the suspicion that Mr. Kelly should let someone else help out with his choreography. He has only so many ideas and when he runs through the collection, he's inclined to repeat them in different dress against different scenery.

Having got these carping comments off my mind, I'm forced to admit I had a wonderful time at the picture. Pictures are not only better than ever but bigger, costlier, more opulent, more colorful and more vivid than ever. Also milder, mellower and more satisfying. All right, Rawson, cut out the business with the rubber hose and get off my chest. I may even go back and see a picture of my own accord some time, clutching my own money in my damp little hand.

And now—back to Ed Sullivan, all nine inches of solid muscle. Nothing but black and white, verging around the chin into suitable shades of gray. Perhaps it's better that way. I don't think I'm emotionally equipped to take Mr. Sullivan if they blew him up to fourteen feet and shot him along in four colors.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

There's no reconciliation in the cards for Patsy Lydon and Johnny (Pick Up The Check) Meyer. Patsy has consulted Attorney Maurice Freeman about a divorce and will start immediate proceedings. Johnny is now living in Washington.

The haggard appearance of Frankie Sinatra in New York is causing his friends concern. Probably nothing wrong that a visit from Ava Gardner won't cure.

Hank Mann, the veteran Keystone Cop of Mack Sennett comedies, must undergo another operation. Hollywood has responded magnificently with money and blood donations.

Skippy Homier, the little boy who played the Nazi brat in "Tomorrow The World" is no longer a little boy. He is marrying Nancy Field, a non-professional.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Howard S. Rodeheaver v. Dorothy M. Rodeheaver. No. 22382 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to obtain a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII of the plaintiff from the defendant, and custody of the minor child of the parties.

The bill states that the parties hereto were married in the 24th day of February, 1946, in Cumberland, Md., and that one child was born of the said marriage, namely; Harry Leroy Rodeheaver, age 4 years; that although the plaintiff has always been kind, affectionate and his conduct above reproach, the defendant has been guilty of adultery and the plaintiff has not lived or cohabited with the defendant since he discovered her adulterous conduct; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, and has been for more than one year prior to the filing of these proceedings, the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and her present whereabouts are unknown to the plaintiff.

IT IS THEREUPON, this 18th day of September, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this Order to be published in some newspaper in Allegany County, Md., once in each of four successive weeks, before the 20th day of October, 1951, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and purpose of this suit and warning her to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 7th day of November, 1951, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Anita Bernadine Anta, Plaintiff vs. Estevan Anta, Respondent, No. 22342 Equity In the Circuit Court of Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is for the Plaintiff, Anita Anta, to procure a Decree for a Divorce "A VINCULO MATRIMONII" from the Defendant, Estevan Anta, a Non-Resident of the State of Maryland, and to obtain custody of her infant Daughter, Elaine Anta.

The Bill states that on or about the 7th day of August, 1935, the Plaintiff, Anita Anta, was married to the Defendant, Estevan Anta, and lived with him in Canton, Ohio, where one child, namely, Elaine Anta, was born. That about September 15, 1942 her husband, Estevan Anta, deserted and abandoned her and she and her daughter were compelled to return to her parent's home in Luke, Maryland. That the separation and desertion has continued uninterruptedly for over eight (8) years, and is deliberate and final, and that the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That her husband, the Defendant, is a Non-Resident of the State of Maryland, and is not a member of the Armed Forces, and that the Plaintiff, Anita Anta, has supported and maintained her infant child, Elaine Anta, for the past eight years.

It is thereupon this 2nd day of October, 1951, ordered by the Circuit Court of Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in said Allegany County, once in each of four successive weeks before the 3rd day of November, 1951, give notice to the said absent Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 19th day of November, next, to show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, Shirley Virginia Freed vs. Gerald B. Freed. No. 22410 Equity.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Complainant Shirley Virginia Freed, from the Defendant, Gerald B. Freed.

The Bill of Complaint states that the parties hereto were married on December 29, 1945, at Beaver Falls, Pa; that they resided together until June 17, 1948; that since said marriage the Defendant has committed the crime of adultery in Allegany County, Maryland; that the Complainant has not condoned the Defendant's action; that the Complainant is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland; that the Dedendant is a non-resident of the state of Maryland, his whereabouts being unknown.

It is thereupon ordered this 2nd day of October, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, that the Complainant by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the city of Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, once a week, for four successive weeks before the 3rd day of November, 1951, giving notice of the object and substance of this Bill to the said absent non-resident Defendant, warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 19th day of November, 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Drooping Drawers Halts Ball Toter

GREELEY, Oct. 8—(AP)—A pair of drooping drawers prevented Les Wall, Colorado state halfback, from making a touchdown in Saturday night's game with Adams State.

Wall had spun off one Adams State defender and was about to go all the way when he stopped and grabbed his pants. Later it was learned that the elastic in his pants had ripped.

About the only thing lost, though, was Wall's dignity. Colorado State won 64-13.

Heavy Trade In Low-Priced Mining Issues Sparks Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Heavy trading in mining issues, especially the low-prices variety, today highlighted a falling stock market.

Gold and non-ferrous metal issues were generally higher with lower-priced stocks advancing and the higher-priced stocks declining as a rule.

Steels and rails were active and lower while automobiles, oils, rubbers, and chemicals headed down.

At the top of the most active list was Park Utah Consolidated Mines unchanged at 4⅛ with 33,300 shares traded. It was followed by South American gold and platinum up ⅜ at 6, New York Central unchanged at 20⅛, St. Louis-San Francisco Railway off 1 at 29⅞ and the Milwaukee Road up ¾ at 22⅞.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents at $100.90 with the industrial component off 70 cents, rails off 40 cents, and utilities off 10 cents.

Volume came to only 1,750,000 shares as compared with 1,860,000 shares yesterday. The list narrowed to 1,133 individual issues traded (there were 1,151 yesterday) of which 308 advanced and 572 declined with 40 new highs and 9 new lows.

Stocks losing ground included Baltimore and Ohio off ⅝ at 21¼, Amerada Petroleum 1¾ at 136, Phillips Petroleum 1¾ at 49⅞, Loew's ½ at 19, American Telephone ⅜ at 158⅜, American Smelting ⅞ at 101½, Butte Copper 1⅜ at 17¾ Howe Sound 3 at 78½, Newmont Mining 2 at 132, American Cyanamid 1⅜ at 112⅛, U. S. Steel ⅝ at 43⅛, Bethlehem Steel 1 at 54⅜, General Motors ¾ at 52½, Chrysler ⅞ at 72⅜, U. S. Rubber 1 at 77, and American Viscose 2½ at 67.

Higher were such issues as Anaconda Copper up ½ at 50⅜, Consolidated Coppermines ¼ at 13⅝, Alaska Juneau ⅜ at 3¾, Homestake Mining 1¼ at 39¼, Dome Mines ⅜ at 19¼, Calumet and Hecla ⅛ at 11⅝, International Mining ¼ at 4⅛, and Eastern Corp. 2 at 31.

Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (AP) — Grains found the going heavy at the Board of Trade today, in moderately active trading. At the start wheat made some advance on mill buying, attributed to yesterday's flour business. When that buying dried up prices declined. Closing futures:

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT IS YOUR ENTRY?

IT'S ALL well and good to consider the problem of necessary entries to the dummy, which arises on a great proportion of all deals. But how about the entries to your own hand? Are you going to be able to get back there when you want to? Sometimes that does not occur to players of fairly high grade. They are so used to having any desired number of entries into the holding which bought the contract, that they don't often have to face the problem of locating one there.

Could you imagine yourself sitting in the West when that bidding occurred, as he reported it to us? Little would you expect to prove the happiest man of the four when the play was over. His lead was the diamond 3, which the A won, and then all he could do was wait and hope, with hopes which proved not futile.

South followed the diamond trick with the spade A and K. He scored the heart A next, then led the Q, prepared to discard a club if the K did not cover. It did, so he ruffed with the dummy's last trump. Now he had no way to get back in his hand except with a club. This happened to be one of those peculiar decks which contains only thirteen cards of a suit, and he could see all the clubs. His sole chance was that West would revoke. He did not, however, so the contract was beaten by West's ruff.

Chances of making that contract could have been multiplied by scoring only one trump before operating on the hearts. When he did try hearts, it would have been better, perhaps, to lead the Q, prepared to discard a club if it was not covered or ruff if it was, before ever laying down the A. Playing hearts then until the K was put on and ruffed, he would have been able to get back in his hand at any time by leading the dummy's last trump. But wasn't that some hand?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

There's no reconciliation in the cards for Patsy Lydon and Johnny (Pick Up The Check) Meyer. Patsy has consulted Attorney Maurice Freeman about a divorce and will start immediate proceedings. Johnny is now living in Washington.

The haggard appearance of Frankie Sinatra in New York is causing his friends concern. Probably nothing wrong that a visit from Ava Gardner won't cure.

Hank Mann, the veteran Keystone Cop of Mack Sennett comedies, must undergo another operation. Hollywood has responded magnificently with money and blood donations.

Skippy Homier, the little boy who played the Nazi brat in "Tomorrow The World" is no longer a little boy. He is marrying Nancy Fields, a non-professional.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Howard S. Rodeheaver v. Dorothy M. Rodeheaver. No. 22382 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to obtain a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII of the plaintiff from the defendant, and custody of the minor child of the parties.

The bill states that the parties hereto were married in the 24th day of February, 1946, in Cumberland, Md., and that one child was born of the said marriage, namely: Harry Leroy Rodeheaver, age 4 years; that although the plaintiff has always been kind, affectionate and his conduct above reproach, the defendant has been guilty of adultery and the plaintiff has not lived or cohabited with the defendant since he discovered her adulterous conduct; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, and has been for more than one year prior to the filing of these proceedings, the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and her present whereabouts are unknown to the plaintiff.

IT IS THEREUPON, this 18th day of September, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this Order to be published in some newspaper in Allegany County, Md., once in each of four successive weeks, before the 20th day of October, 1951, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and purpose of this suit and warning her to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 7th day of November, 1951, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Anita Bernadine Anta, Plaintiff vs. Estevan Anta, Respondent, No. 22342 Equity In the Circuit Court of Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is for the Plaintiff, Anita Anta, to procure a Decree for a Divorce "A VINCULO MATRIMONII" from the Defendant, Estevan Anta, a Non-Resident of the State of Maryland, and to obtain custody of her infant Daughter, Elaine Anta.

The Bill states that on or about the 7th day of August, 1935, the Plaintiff, Anita Anta, was married to the Defendant, Estevan Anta, and lived with him in Canton, Ohio, where one child, namely, Elaine Anta, was born. That about September 15, 1942 her husband, Estevan Anta, deserted and abandoned her and she and her daughter were compelled to return to her parent's home in Luke, Maryland. That the separation and desertion has continued uninterruptedly for over eight (8) years, and is deliberate and final, and that the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That her husband, the Defendant, is a Non-Resident of the State of Maryland, and is not a member of the Armed Forces, and that the Plaintiff, Anita Anta, has supported and maintained her infant child, Elaine Anta, for the past eight years.

It is thereupon this 2nd day of October, 1951, ordered by the Circuit Court of Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in said Allegany County, once in each of four successive weeks before the 3rd day of November, 1951, give notice to the said absent Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 19th day of November, next, to show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, Shirley Virginia Freed vs. Gerald B. Freed. No. 22410 Equity.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Complainant Shirley Virginia Freed, from the Defendant, Gerald B. Freed.

The Bill of Complaint states that the parties hereto were married on December 29, 1945, at Beaver Falls, Pa; that they resided together until June 17, 1948; that since said marriage the Defendant has committed the crime of adultery in Allegany County, Maryland; that the Complainant has not condoned the Defendant's action; that the Complainant is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland; that the Dedendant is a non-resident of the state of Maryland, his whereabouts being unknown.

It is thereupon ordered this 2nd day of October, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, that the Complainant by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the city of Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, once a week, for four successive weeks before the 3rd day of November, 1951, giving notice of the object and substance of this Bill to the said absent non-resident Defendant, warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 19th day of November, 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Drooping Drawers Halts Ball Toter

GREELEY, Oct. 8—(AP)—A pair of drooping drawers prevented Les Wall, Colorado state halfback, from making a touchdown in Saturday night's game with Adams State.

Wall had spun off one Adams State defender and was about to go all the way when he stopped and grabbed his pants. Later it was learned that the elastic in his pants had ripped.

About the only thing lost, though, was Wall's dignity. Colorado State won 64-13.

Heavy Trade In Low-Priced Mining Issues Sparks Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Heavy trading in mining issues, especially the low-prices variety, today highlighted a falling stock market.

Gold and non-ferrous metal issues were generally higher with lower-priced stocks advancing and the higher-priced stocks declining as a rule.

Steels and rails were active and lower while automobiles, oils, rubbers, and chemicals headed down.

At the top of the most active list was Park Utah Consolidated Mines unchanged at 4⅛ with 33,300 shares traded. It was followed by South American gold and platinum up ⅜ at 6, New York Central unchanged at 20⅛, St. Louis-San Francisco Railway off 1 at 29⅞ and the Milwaukee Road up ¾ at 22⅞.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents at $100.90 with the industrial component off 70 cents, rails off 40 cents, and utilities off 10 cents.

Volume came to only 1,750,000 shares as compared with 1,860,000 shares yesterday. The list narrowed to 1,133 individual issues traded (there were 1,151 yesterday) of which 308 advanced and 572 declined with 40 new highs and 9 new lows.

Stocks losing ground included Baltimore and Ohio off ⅝ at 21¼, Amerada Petroleum 1¾ at 136, Phillips Petroleum 1¾ at 49⅞, Loew's ½ at 19, American Telephone ⅜ at 158⅜, American Smelting ⅞ at 101½, Butte Copper 1⅜ at 17¾ Howe Sound 3 at 78½, Newmont Mining 2 at 132, American Cyanamid 1⅜ at 112⅛, U. S. Steel ⅝ at 43⅛, Bethlehem Steel 1 at 54⅜, General Motors ¼ at 52½, Chrysler ⅞ at 72⅜, U. S. Rubber 1 at 77, and American Viscose 2½ at 67.

Higher were such issues as Anaconda Copper up ½ at 50¾, Consolidated Coppermines ¼ at 13⅝, Alaska Juneau ⅜ at 3¾, Homestake Mining 1¼ at 39¼, Dome Mines ⅜ at 19¼, Calumet and Hecla ⅛ at 11⅝, International Mining ¼ at 4⅛, and Eastern Corp. 2 at 31.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT IS YOUR ENTRY?

IT'S ALL well and good to consider the problem of necessary entries to the dummy, which arises on a great proportion of all deals. But how about the entries to your own hand? Are you going to be able to get back there when you want to? Sometimes that does not occur to players of fairly high grade. They are so used to having any desired number of entries into the holding which bought the contract, that they don't often have to face the problem of locating one there.

Could you imagine yourself sitting in the West when that bidding occurred, as he reported it to us? Little would you expect to prove the happiest man of the four when the play was over. His lead was the diamond 3, which the A won, and then all he could do was wait and hope, with hopes which proved not futile.

South followed the diamond trick with the spade A and K. He scored the heart A next, then led the Q, prepared to discard a club if the K did not cover. It did, so he ruffed with the dummy's last trump. Now he had no way to get back in his hand except with a club. This happened to be one of those peculiar decks which contains only thirteen cards of a suit, and he could see all the clubs. His sole chance was that West would revoke. He did not, however, so the contract was beaten by West's ruff.

Chances of making that contract could have been multiplied by scoring only one trump before operating on the hearts. When he did try hearts, it would have been better, perhaps, to lead the Q, prepared to discard a club if it was not covered or ruff if it was, before ever laying down the A. Playing hearts then until the K was put on and ruffed, he would have been able to get back in his hand at any time by leading the dummy's last trump. But wasn't that some hand?

Grand Jury Asks County Drugs Curb

Suggestion Made In Court Report

A suggestion that the youth of Allegany County "actively protect and to a large extent police the use of habit-forming drugs which might now or hereafter exist" was featured in the 13-page report of the Circuit Court grand jury, which wound up its seven days of investigation of county crime late yesterday.

A number of other proposals and compliments were included in the report of the grand jury, which was one of the hardest working bodies of this type in the county in the past 25 years. The grand jury report notes that 113 witnesses were heard and 55 indictments returned during the seven days of activity.

Suggestions Listed

Other major suggestions of the grand jury:

1. That the Allegany County delegation in the State Legislature sponsor legislation designated to permit the county commissioners to participate in determining the amount fixed for school budgets and for school expenditures generally.
2. That the Allegany County Welfare Board exercise extreme care in cases where the father has absconded until a thorough and complete investigation has been made.
3. Proposals for improvement of certain county-owned institutions.
4. An expression of regret at the recent death of Frederick C. "Buck" Dreyer, who for many years had served as county treasurer.

"This body recommends that the student organizations in all of the high schools throughout the county and in the City of Cumberland report immediately to their principal or to the chief of police, sheriff, state's attorney or constable and communicate any information which they may receive indicating the use of any narcotics or the smoking of marijuana cigarettes by any person of their acquaintance," the report stated. "It is the feeling of the grand jury that the youth of the county can actively protect and to a large extent police the use of such habit-forming drugs which might now or hereafter exist. By this, we do not wish to infer or even indicate that any person, child or adult in Allegany County is, at the present time, engaged in such activity."

School Expenditures Noted

In another section, the long report states that the county commissioners have stressed that out of every tax dollar for the year ending June 30, 1951, 57.36 cents was expended without the necessity of applying to or receiving the approval of the county commissioners.

Noting that this is the only procedure that can be taken under existing state law, the grand jury then recommends that the county delegation in the State Legislature sponsor legislation designated to permit the county commissioners to participate in determining the amount fixed for school budgets and for school expenditures generally.

A reference to the problem of absconding fathers also was emphasized in the grand jury report. In about 61 instances, the grand jury reports, it has not been possible to obtain any information as to the father's whereabouts. Then, the body urges that the Allegany County Welfare Board "be very careful of its granting assistance in such cases where the father has absconded until a thorough and complete investigation has been made of every source that would lead to the location of the father."

Commissioners Lauded

An early section of the report compliments the county commissioners for their foresight in establishing a long-range program for repairs and capital improvements to the properties owned by Allegany County and under their supervision.

Total overall expenditures, made or authorized during 1951, amount to $74,713.74, the report says.

Included are $5,294.55, Court House; $4,396.56, County Jail; $464.09, Union Street Building; $13,671, garage; $6,895.30, Infirmary; $26,286.73, Sylvan Retreat; $10,382.91, County Home, and $7,322.60, Welfare Building.

Included in the report were certain suggestions for relatively minor improvements in the various county buildings. Commendations were listed for Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grimm for conditions at the County Home, where they are in charge; for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Messmer at Sylvan Retreat and for Grimm as superintendent of the County Infirmary.

Suggestions for improvements at the County Jail included elimina-

Births

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cook, 35 East Baltimore Street, Hagerstown, formerly of this city, announce the birth of a daughter Monday in Washington County Hospital. Mrs. Cook is the former Edith Webb, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. N. E. Webb, Narrows Park.

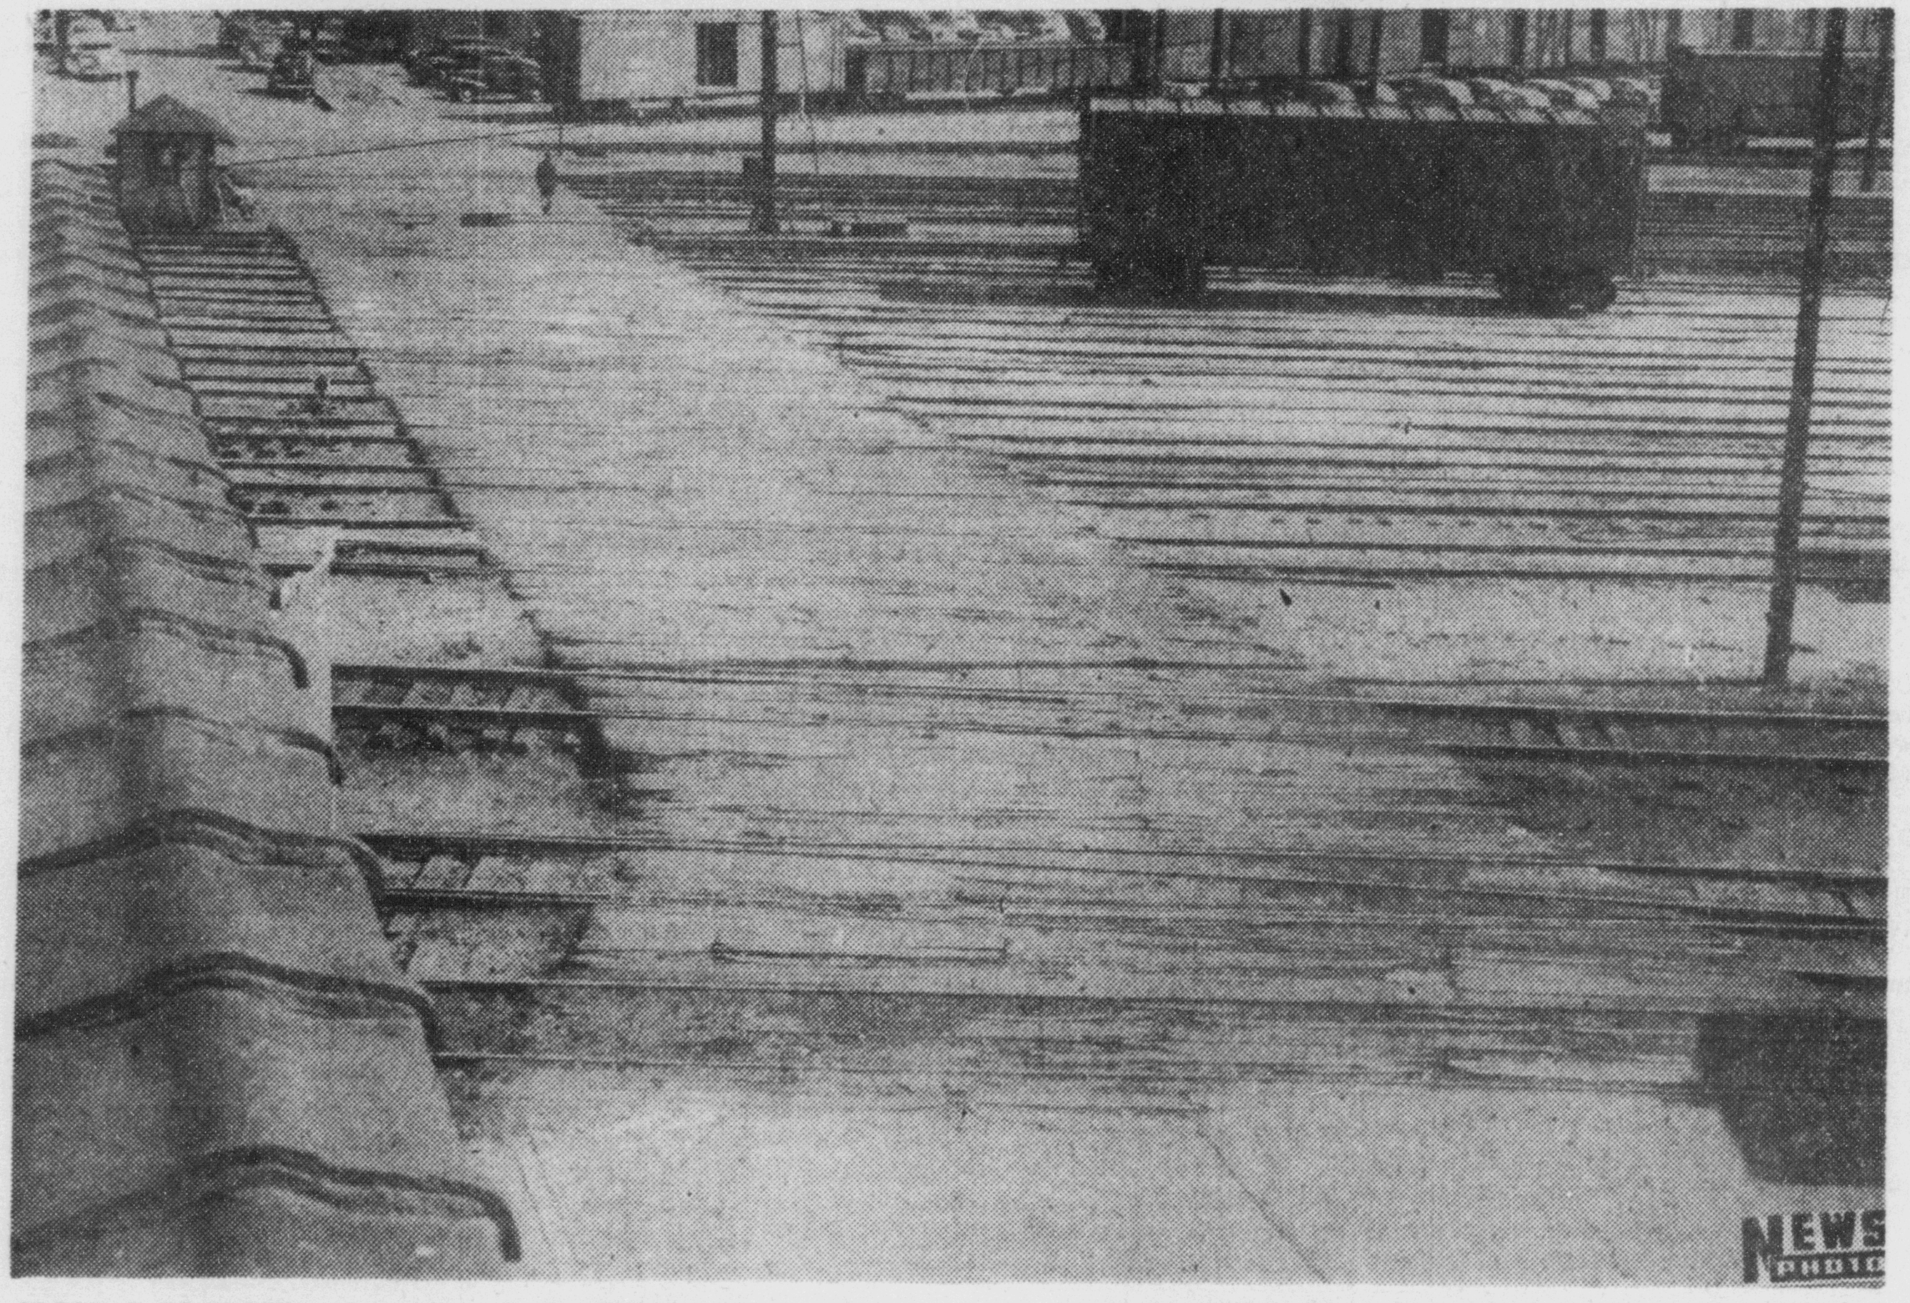
Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, 11 Meadow Drive, Cresaptown, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. William V. Smith, 638 Fayette Street, a son yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. Blane M. Schindler, 303 Schley Street, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard R. Wilt, Midland, a daughter yesterday.



CLOSING PROPOSED—Seen above is the Williams Street crossing which would be closed under a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad proposal for improvements in the Cumberland yards. The Mayor and Council has instructed city officials to study the plan which railroad officials said would eliminate delays to trains and speed the movement of trains over the Baltimore Street crossing. Railroad officials said closing of the crossing would permit the construction of additional tracks on which trains could pull into the terminal. The B. and O. proposed the construction of a pedestrian bridge across the crossing if it were closed to traffic. Mayor Post asked the city officials to consider also an alternate plan involving the closing of three crossings and the construction of an overhead bridge in the area.

Third Flood Control Phase Is Discussed

Plans Reviewed At City Hall Meeting

Corps of Engineers representatives and officials of this city conferred here yesterday on proposed plans for the third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project.

Present at the meeting in City Hall were A. E. Steere, head of the Design Section, Corps of Engineers, Washington District; Sidney Beck, attorney, and Ted Becker, realtor, both of the Appraisal and Legal section of the Corps of Engineers.

Mayor Thomas S. Post, W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor, and Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer, represented the city.

Study Proposed Plans

Steere brought with him preliminary plans for the proposed third phase of the work, which embraces a section of Wills Creek channel from the Route 40 bridge at the Narrows to a point below the Western Maryland Railway bridge at City Junction.

Purpose of the conference was to review the plans and agree on necessary surveys and title examinations leading to necessary property acquisitions and easements needed for the construction of the third phase of the flood control job.

The project would embrace about half a mile of channel work. The proposed plans for the job call for making the channel generally 11 feet deeper than the present bed of the stream, Paye said.

Dredging Is Planned

This would be accomplished by dredging the channel about seven feet deeper and raising the walls of the stream about four feet.

The effect would be to increase the capacity of the stream and its velocity, thus allowing flood waters to speed through Cumberland without overflowing the banks of Wills Creek.

Cost of the project, the smallest phase of the flood control job, is estimated at about $1,000,000.

Phase II should be completed by December 1, officials said.

Albright Warns Of Vandalism

A crackdown on Halloween vandalism in the Mt. Savage area is being conducted, Charles L. Albright, constable-at-large, said last night.

The officer said destruction of property in that area will not be tolerated and offenders who are caught will be given a hearing before Judge Alban C. Thompson of the Juvenile Court in Cumberland.

Thus far, several gates have been torn from their hinges, Albright added, and he is now patrolling the area nightly in an effort to break up the vandalism.

Albright commented that the residents usually affected the most are older people unable to get about and repair the damage.

Movie Projectors Will Be Available

The City Recreation Department yesterday urged groups who wish to borrow movie projectors or loud speakers to apply at least a week before the equipment is needed.

Edmund F. Hoey, director, said available equipment is often inadequate to meet all applications.

The department has two 16 mm. movie projectors and three loud speakers available for use of parties and clubs.

Hoey said the department will be glad to arrange for films but that organizations must pay rental fees for such film. No charge is made for equipment, except for repairs.

Overhead Bridge Proposal Is Announced By Defibaugh

Suggests Closing Three Crossings

Details of an overhead bridge for vehicular and pedestrian traffic which would permit the closing of the Williams, Harrison and Union Street railroad crossings were announced yesterday by J. T. Defibaugh, former chief of the Cumberland Fire Department.

Mayor Thomas S. Post on Monday asked the City Engineer and City Solicitor to give "serious consideration" to the plan in connection with their study of a B. and O. proposal for the closing of the Williams Street crossing.

Defibaugh said the overhead bridge could be built on B. and O. property and would not involve the acquisition of additional land.

The bridge would begin at Park and Harrison Streets, pass over the site of the present B. and O. medical examiner's office and the railroad tracks, and end on South George Street near the site of an abandoned feed store.

He said construction costs would be partially met by elimination of maintenance costs at the three abandoned crossings.

If the Baltimore Street crossing were blocked, Defibaugh said, traffic would pass over the overhead

Power Failure Affects PE Precipitator

The Smoke Abatement office was deluged with complaints early yesterday morning when a power interruption knocked out the electric precipitators at the Potomac Edison Company's River Plant.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said 11 fly ash calls were received after the power failed.

The incident occurred about 8:20 a. m. after a crane working on a Flood Control job on Lehigh Street hit a high tension wire feeding the Thomas Street substation. Several sections of town were affected by the power failure.

Hitchcock said the situation righted itself before 9 a. m. after the electric precipitator went back into operation.

Court House To Close

The Court House will be closed Friday in observance of Columbus Day, the County Commissioners announced yesterday.

40 & 8 Names Committees For Halloween Parade

Committees for the annual Halloween Parade sponsored by Voiture 164, Forty and Eight, were announced yesterday by Thomas F. Conlon, parade chairman.

At the same time, Conlon announced receipt of a letter from Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn praising the parade and celebration as a way of minimizing vandalism, and promised his cooperation.

The city has donated $200 for the celebration. Emphasis this year will be placed on mummers, rather than floats, and no prizes are being offered for floats or musical organizations.

Marshals and voyagers include:

For the assembly on Centre Street facing George Street made up of the Allegany High School Band, Edgar Reynolds will be marshal and Wesley Abrams, Lawson Creighton and William Carscaden will be voyagers.

Henry Hart Drum and Bugle Corps will assemble on Centre Street facing Union Street. Howard M. Spiker will be marshal with J. Patrick Farrell, Bashor Cross and Robert Wilson being voyagers.

Assembling on Harrison Street facing Centre Street will be Fort Hill High School Senior Band. Marshall will be J. Robert McConnell, and Willard Engle, James Jenkins and Leslie Clark will be voyagers.

Marshal for Fulton Myers Drum and Bugle Corps assembling on South Centre Street will be Ambrose Burkey. Voyagers will be Charles O. Donnell, Joseph Ressig and John Shumaker.

Assembling on Salem Street facing Centre Street will be Allegany Junior High School Band. William Goble will be marshal and Thomas Blacklin, Jack Devlin and William Rankin will be voyagers.

Fort Hill Junior High School Band will assemble on South Centre Street with Paul Weisenmiller as marshal. Voyagers will be Frank Powers, Galen Storer and Roy Whitson.

The parade will form at 7 p. m. October 31 at the State Armory and will march off at 8 p. m.

Half-Way Mark Passed In Chest Drive

$53,378.64 Realized In Second Report

The Community Chest-USO campaign total passed the half-way mark at yesterday's second report when $22,955.21 was recorded on the scoreboard at the noonday meeting, bringing the total to $53,378.64 or 51 per cent of the objective.

Audited totals following the report by sections are:

Residential, Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, chairman, $2,831.26 or 53% of goal; Sales Army, Henry K. Duke, chairman, $2,618.90 which is 35% of goal; Classified section, Edward L. Ewald, chairman, $11,825.78 or 37% of goal; Advance Gifts Committee, Edmund S. Burke, chairman and Henry C. Swearingen, co-chairman, $35,700 which is 63% of goal. The Allegany County USO campaign of which Harry G. Shupe is chairman reported a total of $402.70 this being 12% of the $3,500 quota.

Rotary Attends Meeting

James M. Pitkethly, president of the Cumberland Rotary Club, opened the meeting and expressed the interest of Rotary in the success of the Chest-USO campaign, stating the work of the Chest and the USO was essential to the well-being of the entire area.

George L. Buchanan, general chairman, presided for the campaign meeting and pointed out the acceptance which is being given the in-store and in-plant solicitations. He emphasized the fact that the appeal covered two campaigns and that where the payment of pledges was made easy through small contributions each week or month, many could give what they really wanted to.

Bus Drivers Union Will Meet Today

Regular meetings of Local 1110, Bus Drivers and Shopmen Union (AFL), will be held today in Trades Council Hall, James Morrison, president, announced yesterday.

The morning session will be held at 10:30 o'clock and the evening meeting at 7:30 o'clock.

The union termed the meeting important and urged all members to attend one of the sessions.

SCHOOL WORK PROGRESSES — Work on the new Wiley Ford (W.Va.) school building is progressing rapidly, with most major parts of the construction already completed. Educators hope to be using the new building for classes by Christmas. The school PTA will hear a progress report on the project at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the old school hall.

Screen Actors Are On Tour Here Today

Kibbee, Wood Taking Part In Movie Jubilee

Screen actors Guy Kibbee and Donald Wood will be in Cumberland today in connection wtih Movietime—Maryland, USA, the observance of the golden jubilee of the American cinema.

Kibbee is nationally famous as hero of the Scattergood Baines movie series. Wood is a well known character actor.

Their first public appearance today will be at a noon luncheon of the Lions Club at Central YMCA.

At 2 p. m. they will appear at a joint assembly of students of students of Catholic Girls Central High School and LaSalle High School at Carroll Hall, North Centre Street.

The rest of the afternoon will be devoted to interviews and meetings with city officials. At 6:30 p. m. they will be guests of the Tri-State Traffic Club at a dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Ray Light, general chairman of the Western Maryland jubilee observance, said the stars hope to visit other points in the Tri-tSate area if their schedule permits.

Kibbee, however, must leave tonight for New York to appear on his radio show tomorrow afternoon.

The appearance of the two stars here will mark the first visit of screen actors to Cumberland since the bond drive of World War II.

Western Maryland theaters are cooperating to further the observance of Movietime in this area. Light and John Manuel, publicity chairman, will be in charge of the stars' appearance here. C. Elmer Nolte, Baltimore, is state chairman.

Judge Withholds Decision In License Appeal

Agreement Action Will Be Followed

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris took under advisement in Allegany County Circuit Court an appeal by Reon Glessner, operator of a junk yard at Wrights Crossing, from a decision of the Board of County Commissioners in refusing him a permit for operation of his business.

Judge Harris said the case will be held in abeyance pending the outcome of an agreement reached between the commissioners and Glessner. Under this arrangement, Glessner is to operate his business in line with restrictions laid down by the commissioners.

The only evidence heard at the trial was the testimony of William H. Lemmert, board president.

The constitutionality of a county law pertaining to the licensing and regulation of junkyards was attacked by attorneys for Glessner.

Clarence Lippel and Milton Gerson, attorneys for Glessner, toid the court that the regulation on junkyards is broad and not clearly defined and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners can exercise arbitrary powers in licensing these establishments.

Lippel quoted from numerous Maryland cases bearing on the regulation and licensing provisions of ordinances similar to the county junkyard law and he claimed that the Maryland Court of Appeals has reversed most boards and other governmental units in such cases where the rules and regulations were not clearly defined.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners, told the court that the commissioners had at no time refused Glessner a permit to operate but said Glessner had failed to abide by an agreement he made with the commissioners to enclose the junkyard and not to burn any materials on the property.

PLAYS GRATIANO — Taking the part of Gratiano in the Barter Theater production, "Merchant of Venice," Friday at 8:15 p. m. at Allegany High School will be John Holland.

LaVale Pupil To Appear In Barter Play

Judy Youngblood Is Active In Dramatics

A third grade pupil at LaVale School has been assigned a bit part in the forthcoming Barter Theater production, "Merchant of Venice."

Judy Youngblood, eight-year-old daughter of Alvin G. Youngblood, Jr., will appear in the play scheduled Friday at 8:15 p. m. at Allegany High School auditorium, Floyd V. Cozad, Jaycee chairman, has announced.

Judy, a student at the Moyer Dance Studio, has taken part in various productions of the studio as well as in school and church activities.

She will be coached for her part by stage manager Eric Halbig of the Barter Theater troupe.

Fifteen members of the Junior and Senior Classes of West Virginia School for the Blind at Romney will attend the performance, Cozad added. They will be accompanied by J. Roten Kelton and another member of the faculty.

Numerous seats are still available and tickets are on sale at the S. T. Little Jewelry Store or may be purchased at the door Friday evening. Both season and single performance tickets are available at the door, Cozad said.

Sixteen members of the troupe are traveling to Cumberland. The wardrobes are new and elaborate, with the latest lighting effects being used, Cozad said.

Wire Larceny Charges Added To Court Docket

47 Indictments Included On List

Three indictments charging larceny and receipts of stolen copper wire which belonged to the Celanese Corporation of America were added to the open docket of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Leo F. Welsh was named in all three of the true bills. He was accused of stealing a total of 582 pounds of copper wire—180 pounds on March 26, 120 pounds on March 30 and 282 pounds on April 2. Joseph Welsh was charged in the March 26 and April 2 offenses. Also named in the April 2 charge were Russell J. Collins and Marvin Collins.

Service has not been made against two other men listed in the March 29 charge.

Two indictments charging Reon Glessner, operator of a junk yard at Wrights Crossing, with receiving stolen mine supplies, also were docketed yesterday. Glessner was accused of getting stolen supplies worth $542.20 on March 28 and other supplies worth $86 on the following day. The property, all belonging to the Consolidated Fuel Company, was reported by State Police as having been stolen from a Klondike mine. Two National youths already have been indicted in the actual theft of the property.

Also placed on the open docket yesterday was an additional charge involving paternity of an infant.

Forty-seven indictments already are on the open docket. The grand jury reported yesterday that 55 indictments were returned during its investigations.

The Weather

The low temperature of 32 degrees was accompanied by frost yesterday morning, flushing the autumn colors of the area woodlands. A firm breeze continued to sweep Cumberland all day yesterday carrying with it crisp leaves that made scratching noises on the sidewalks as they were being blown about. The high temperature of 63 degrees reported by Constitution Park's weather station was aided somewhat by a cheerful sun most of the afternoon. By 8 p. m. the thermometer had dropped to 47 degrees. Low temperatures were also recorded in Thomas and Davis, W. Va., and Deal, Pa., which had 32-degree readings yesterday morning. Elkins, W. Va., had a low of 28 degrees. Little change in temperatures is predicted by the Weather Bureau for today.

Air Pollution In City Shows 5-Ton Increase

September Dustfall Averages 12.8 Tons

An increase in air pollution in this city last month was reported yesterday by the Smoke Abatement Office.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said averages for the month indicate an increase of 5.3 tons per square mile for the period.

During September, he said, dustfall averaged 12.8 tons a square mile as compared to August's low mark of 7.5 tons.

Hitchcock said the Smoke Abatement Office is checking to learn what was responsible for the increase.

The major part of the dustfall increase, he added, was in the South and Central sections of the city, with improvement noted in several sections.

Jar B, located at Avirett Place, gave a reading of 24 tons during September as opposed to a 20-ton-a-square-mile reading during August.

Officials said the dry weather which plagued this area last month may have been a factor in the dustfall increase.

Railroad officials, Hitchcock pointed out, report that they have a difficult time during July and August with combustion problems due to the hot weather and lack of humidity. Climatic conditions usually found during those months continued into September.

Average dustfall in Cumberland during 1949 was 28.87 tons, and in 1950, 31.24 tons. Air pollution this year has varied from 30.33 in February to 11.55 in May and 7.5 in August.

Dr. Walters Is New TB Group Vice President

Glenn K. Davis Is Named Seal Chairman

Dr. Hilda Jane Walters was elected vice president of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association at a meeting of the executive committee yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Walters replaces Mrs. Julia Abramson, who resigned last summer because of illness.

At the meeting, Mrs. Harry Barton, president, appointed Glenn K. Davis, vice president of the Cumberland Lions Club, chairman of the association's 1951 Christmas Seal Sale Committee.

Davis was chairman of the 1950 Seal Sale and was commended for his work in distributing coin banks throughout the county.

In the financial report discussed at the meeting it was shown that $3,846.69 was spent for various activities from the $9,529.92 allotted, leaving a balance of $5,683.23.

Discussion of the various activities of the association showed that approximately 3,000 new names have been added to the Seal Sale mailing list.

More than 4,000 names have been dropped from the list because of death or because of moving from the community, showing that nearly 21,000 people will receive Christmas Seals this year.

From July 12 to September 6, a county-wide X-ray survey was conducted by the Health Department and the association with 8,023 people being X-rayed in Allegany County.

Approximately 800 more X-rays were taken in Cumberland this year than last. In other communities of the county, however, approximately 1,600 fewer X-rays were taken.

During the last three weeks of July and the first week of August, the association conducted a daily health education program at the Kiwanis Sunshine Camp. The program included films, demonstrations and daily recording of the children's weight on individual weight charts.

In social service the association helped the Cumberland Girl Scouts provide Camperships for several underprivileged girls in the community.

Court Room PA System Approved

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday agreed to provide the funds for the installation of a public address system in the Circuit Court room, Associate Judge George Henderson reported.

Immediate steps for installation will be taken in hopes that the system will be ready for the first criminal trials next Monday.

Briefs

The Carver School Parent-Teacher Association will meet at 8 p. m. today at the school. Committees will be appointed and plans for the year will be discussed.

The Ridgedale Playground Association will meet at 7:30 today at the home of Mrs. Rose Diehl, 819 Manns Terrace, to elect officers. The group also will complete arrangements for a rummage sale Friday at 7:30 p. m. in Canada Hose House, North Mechanic Street, and for a Halloween celebration.

The Kiwanis Club will hear the third report of the Community Chest-USO drive at its dinner meeting tomorrow at 12:15 at Central YMCA.

Grand Jury Asks County Drugs Curb

Suggestion Made In Court Report

A suggestion that the youth of Allegany County "actively protect and to a large extent police the use of habit-forming drugs which might now or hereafter exist" was featured in the 13-page report of the Circuit Court grand jury, which wound up its seven days of investigation of county crime late yesterday.

A number of other proposals and compliments were included in the report of the grand jury, which was one of the hardest working bodies of this type in the county in the past 25 years. The grand jury report notes that 113 witnesses were heard and 55 indictments returned during the seven days of activity.

Suggestions Listed

Other major suggestions of the grand jury:

1. That the Allegany County delegation in the State Legislature sponsor legislation designated to permit the county commissioners to participate in determining the amount fixed for school budgets and for school expenditures generally.
2. That the Allegany County Welfare Board exercise extreme care in cases where the father has absconded until a thorough and complete investigation has been made.
3. Proposals for improvement of certain county-owned institutions.
4. An expression of regret at the recent death of Frederick C. "Buck" Dreyer, who for many years had served as county treasurer.

"This body recommends that the student organizations in all of the high schools throughout the county and in the City of Cumberland report immediately to their principal or to the chief of police, sheriff, state's attorney or constable and communicate any information which they may receive indicating the use of any narcotics or the smoking of marijuana cigarettes by any person of their acquaintance," the report stated. "It is the feeling of the grand jury that the youth of the county can actively protect and to a large extent police the use of such habit-forming drugs which might now or hereafter exist. By this, we do not wish to infer or even indicate that any person, child or adult in Allegany County is, at the present time, engaged in such activity."

School Expenditures Noted

In another section, the long report states that the county commissioners have stressed that out of every tax dollar for the year ending June 30, 1951, 57.36 cents was expended without the necessity of applying to or receiving the approval of the county commissioners.

Noting that this is the only procedure that can be taken under existing state law, the grand jury then recommends that the county delegation in the State Legislature sponsor legislation designated to permit the county commissioners to participate in determining the amount fixed for school budgets and for school expenditures generally.

A reference to the problem of absconding fathers also was emphasized in the grand jury report. In about 61 instances, the grand jury reports, it has not been possible to obtain any information as to the father's whereabouts. Then, the body urges that the Allegany County Welfare Board "be very careful of its granting assistance in such cases where the father has absconded until a thorough and complete investigation has been made of every source that would lead to the location of the father."

Commissioners Lauded

An early section of the report compliments the county commissioners for their foresight in establishing a long-range program for repairs and capital improvements to the properties owned by Allegany County and under their supervision.

Total overall expenditures, made or authorized during 1951, amount to $74,713.74, the report says.

Included are $5,294.55, Court House; $4,396.56, County Jail; $464.09, Union Street Building; $13,671, garage; $6,895.30, Infirmary; $26,286.73, Sylvan Retreat; $10,382.91, County Home, and $7,322.60, Welfare Building.

Included in the report were certain suggestions for relatively minor improvements in the various county buildings. Commendations were listed for Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grimm for conditions at the County Home, where they are in charge; for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Messmer at Sylvan Retreat and for Grimm as superintendent of the County Infirmary.

Suggestions for improvements at the County Jail included elimina-

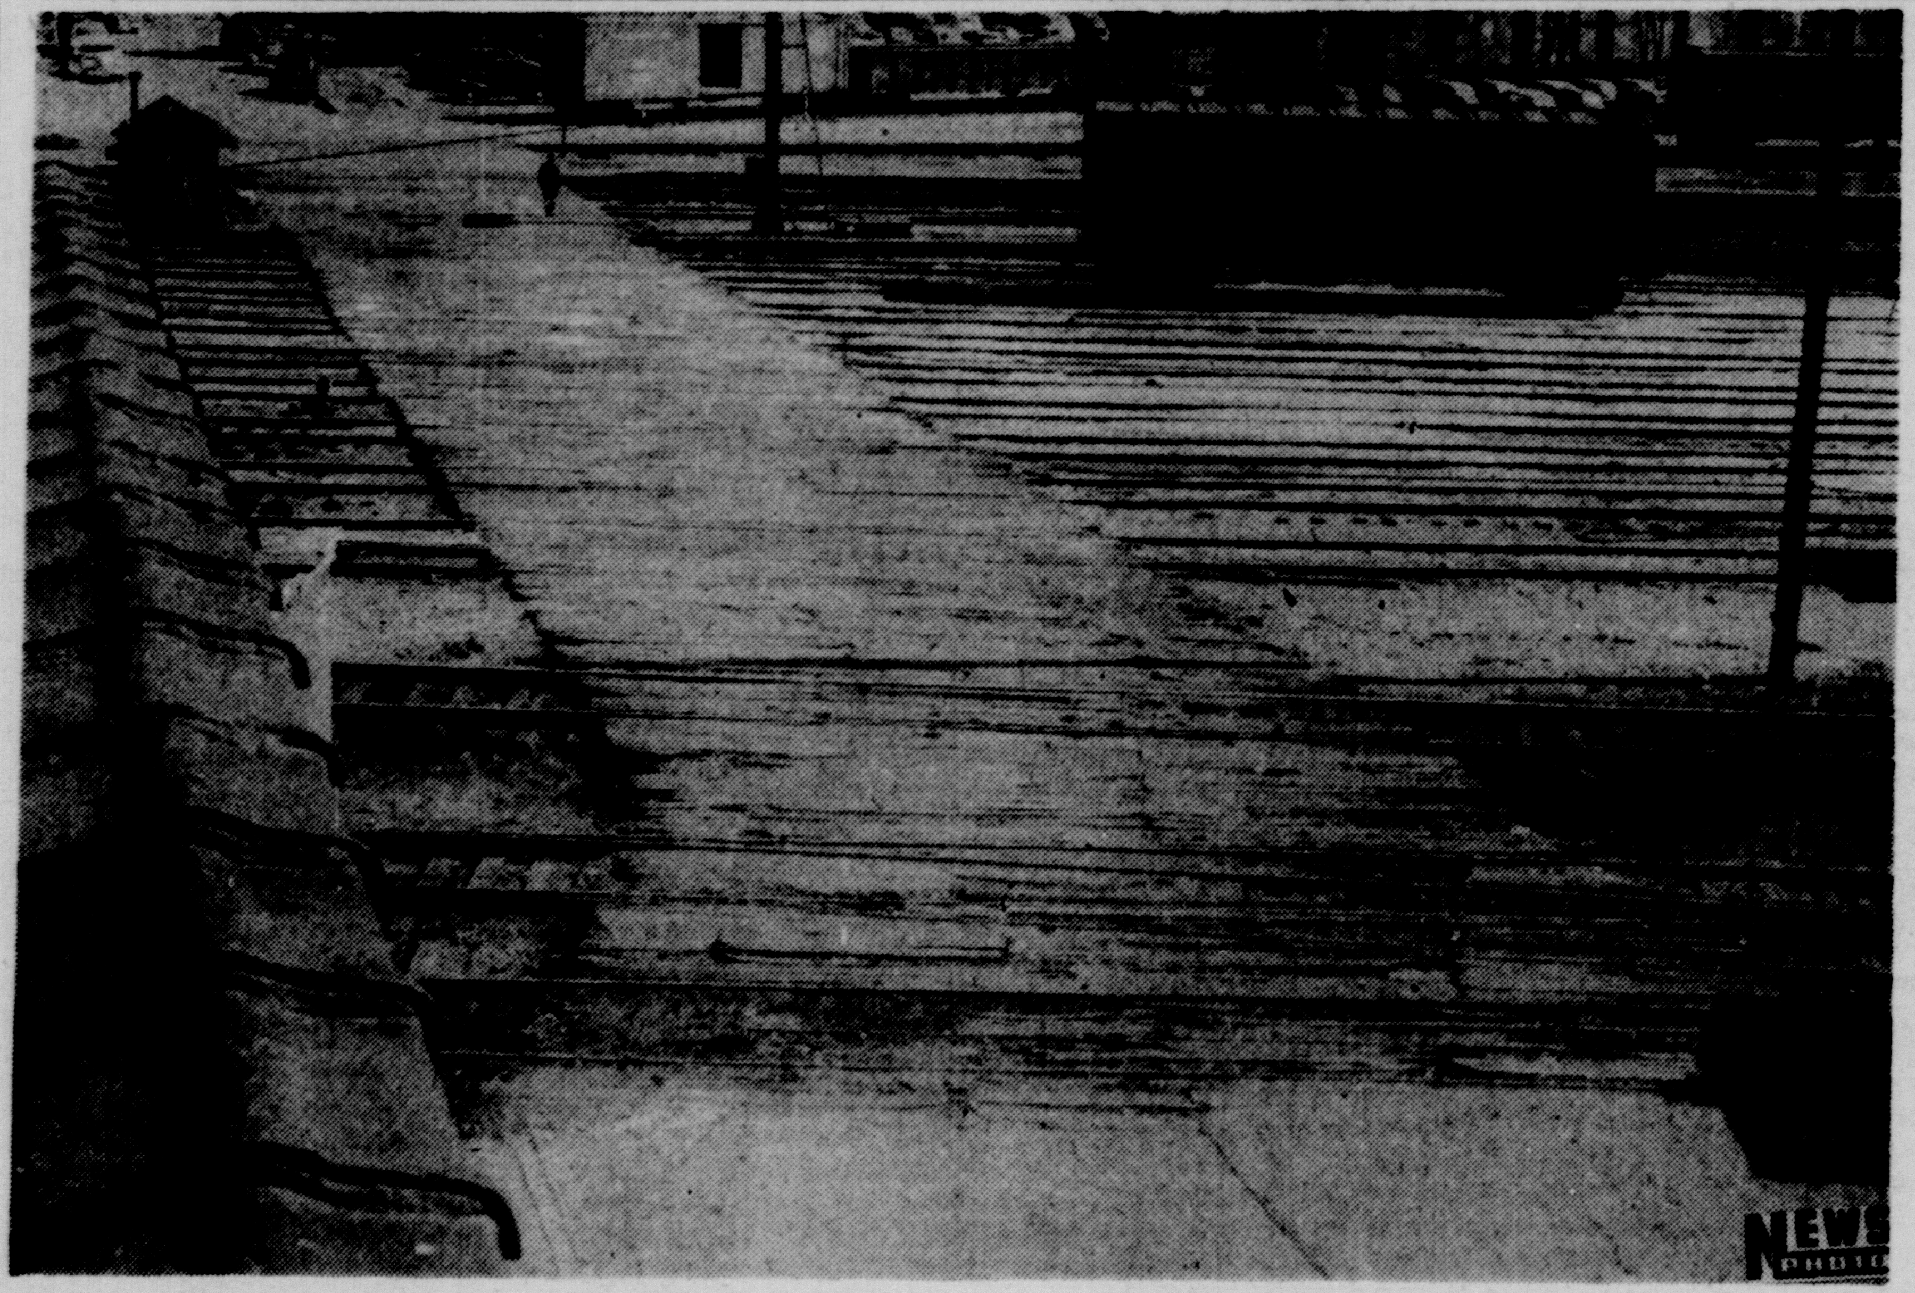
Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, 11 Meadow Drive, Cresaptown, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. William V. Smith, 638 Fayette Street, a son yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. Blane M. Schindler, 303 Schley Street, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard R. Wilt, Midland, a daughter yesterday.



CLOSING PROPOSED—Seen above is the Williams Street crossing which would be closed under a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad proposal for improvements in the Cumberland yards. The Mayor and Council has instructed city officials to study the plan which railroad officials said would eliminate delays to trains and speed the movement of trains over the Baltimore Street crossing. Railroad officials said closing of the crossing would permit the construction of additional tracks on which trains could pull into the terminal. The B. and O. proposed the construction of a pedestrian bridge across the crossing if it were closed to traffic. Mayor Post asked the city officials to consider also an alternate plan involving the closing of three crossings and the construction of an overhead bridge in the area.

Third Flood Control Phase Is Discussed

Plans Reviewed At City Hall Meeting

Corps of Engineers representatives and officials of this city conferred here yesterday on proposed plans for the third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project.

Present at the meeting in City Hall were A. E. Steere, head of the Design Section, Corps of Engineers, Washington District; Sidney Beck, attorney, and Ted Becker, realtor, both of the Appraisal and Legal section of the Corps of Engineers.

Mayor Thomas S. Post, W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor, and Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer, represented the city.

Study Proposed Plans

Steere brought with him preliminary plans for the proposed third phase of the work, which embraces a section of Wills Creek channel from the Route 40 bridge at the Narrows to a point below the Western Maryland Railway bridge at City Junction.

Purpose of the conference was to review the plans and agree on necessary surveys and title examinations leading to necessary property acquisitions and easements needed for the construction of the third phase of the flood control job.

The project would embrace about half a mile of channel work. The proposed plans for the job call for making the channel generally 11 feet deeper than the present bed of the stream, Paye said.

Dredging Is Planned

This would be accomplished by dredging the channel about seven feet deeper and raising the walls of the stream about four feet.

The effect would be to increase the capacity of the stream and its velocity, thus allowing flood waters to speed through Cumberland without overflowing the banks of Wills Creek.

Cost of the project, the smallest phase of the flood control job, is estimated at about $1,000,000.

Phase II should be completed by December 1, officials said.

Albright Warns Of Vandalism

A crackdown on Halloween vandalism in the Mt. Savage area is being conducted, Charles L. Albright, constable-at-large, said last night.

The officer said destruction of property in that area will not be tolerated and offenders who are caught will be given a hearing before Judge Alban C. Thompson of the Juvenile Court in Cumberland.

Thus far, several gates have been torn from their hinges, Albright added, and he is now patrolling the area nightly in an effort to break up the vandalism.

Albright commented that the residents usually affected the most are older people unable to get about and repair the damage.

Movie Projectors Will Be Available

The City Recreation Department yesterday urged groups who wish to borrow movie projectors or loud speakers to apply at least a week before the equipment is needed.

Edmund F. Hoey, director, said available equipment is often inadequate to meet all applications.

The department has two 16 mm. movie projectors and three loud speakers available for use of parties and clubs.

Hoey said the department will be glad to arrange for films but that organizations must pay rental fees for such film. No charge is made for equipment, except for repairs.

Overhead Bridge Proposal Is Announced By Defibaugh

Suggests Closing Three Crossings

Details of an overhead bridge for vehicular and pedestrian traffic which would permit the closing of the Williams, Harrison and Union Street railroad crossings were announced yesterday by J. T. Defibaugh, former chief of the Cumberland Fire Department.

Mayor Thomas S. Post on Monday asked the City Engineer and City Solicitor to give "serious consideration" to the plan in connection with their study of a B. and O. proposal for the closing of the Williams Street crossing.

Defibaugh said the overhead bridge could be built on B. and O. property and would not involve the acquisition of additional land.

The bridge would begin at Park and Harrison Streets, pass over the site of the present B. and O. medical examiner's office and the railroad tracks, and end on South George Street near the site of an abandoned feed store.

He said construction costs would be partially met by elimination of maintenance costs at the three abandoned crossings.

If the Baltimore Street crossing were blocked, Defibaugh said, traffic would pass over the overhead

40 & 8 Names Committees For Halloween Parade

Committees for the annual Halloween Parade sponsored by Voiture 164, Forty and Eight, were announced yesterday by Thomas F. Conlon, parade chairman.

At the same time, Conlon announced receipt of a letter from Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn praising the parade and celebration as a way of minimizing vandalism, and promised his cooperation.

The city has donated $200 for the celebration. Emphasis this year will be placed on mummers, rather than floats, and no prizes are being offered for floats or musical organizations.

Marshals and voyagers include:

For the assembly on Centre Street facing George Street made up of the Allegany High School Band, Edgar Reynolds will be marshal and Wesley Abrams, Lawson Creighton and William Carscaden will be voyagers.

Henry Hart Drum and Bugle Corps will assemble on Centre Street facing Union Street. Howard M. Spiker will be marshal with J. Patrick Farrell, Bashor Cross and Robert Wilson being voyagers.

Assembling on Harrison Street facing Centre Street will be Fort Hill High School Senior Band. Marshall will be J. Robert McConnell, and Willard Engle, James Jenkins and Leslie Clark will be voyagers.

Marshal for Fulton Myers Drum and Bugle Corps assembling on South Centre Street will be Ambrose Burkey. Voyagers will be Charles O. Donnell, Joseph Ressig and John Shumaker.

Assembling on Salem Street facing Centre Street will be Allegany Junior High School Band. William Goble will be marshal and Thomas Blacklin, Jack Devlin and William Rankin will be voyagers.

Fort Hill Junior High School Band will assemble on South Centre Street with Paul Weisenmiller as marshal. Voyagers will be Frank Powers, Galen Storer and Roy Whitson.

The parade will form at 7 p. m. October 31 at the State Armory and will march off at 8 p. m.

Power Failure Affects PE Precipitator

The Smoke Abatement office was deluged with complaints early yesterday morning when a power interruption knocked out the electric precipitators at the Potomac Edison Company's River Plant.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said 11 fly ash calls were received after the power failed.

The incident occurred about 8:20 a. m. after a crane working on a Flood Control job on Lehigh Street hit a high tension wire feeding the Thomas Street substation. Several sections of town were affected by the power failure.

Hitchcock said the situation righted itself before 9 a. m. after the electric precipitator went back into operation.

Court House To Close

The Court House will be closed Friday in observance of Columbus Day, the County Commissioners announced yesterday.

Half-Way Mark Passed In Chest Drive

$53,378.64 Realized In Second Report

The Community Chest-USO campaign total passed the half-way mark at yesterday's second report when $22,955.21 was recorded on the scoreboard at the noonday meeting, bringing the total to $53,378.64 or 51 per cent of the objective.

Audited totals following the report by sections are:

Residential, Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, chairman, $2,831.26 or 53% of goal; Sales Army, Henry K. Duke, chairman, $2,618.90 which is 35% of goal; Classified section, Edward L. Ewald, chairman, $11,825.78 or 37% of goal; Advance Gifts Committee, Edmund S. Burke, chairman and Henry C. Swearingen, co-chairman, $35,700 which is 63% of goal. The Allegany County USO campaign of which Harry G. Shupe is chairman reported a total of $402.70 this being 12% of the $3,500 quota.

Rotary Attends Meeting

James M. Pitkethly, president of the Cumberland Rotary Club, opened the meeting and expressed the interest of Rotary in the success of the Chest-USO campaign, stating the work of the Chest and the USO was essential to the well-being of the entire area.

George L. Buchanan, general chairman, presided for the campaign meeting and pointed out the acceptance which is being given the in-store and in-plant solicitations. He emphasized the fact that the appeal covered two campaigns and that where the payment of pledges was made easy through small contributions each week or month, many could give what they really wanted to.

Officials said the dry weather which plagued this area last month may have been a factor in the dustfall increase.

Railroad officials, Hitchcock pointed out, report that they have a difficult time during July and August with combustion problems due to the hot weather and lack of humidity. Climatic conditions usually found during those months continued into September.

Average dustfall in Cumberland during 1949 was 28.87 tons, and in 1950, 31.24 tons. Air pollution this year has varied from 30.33 in February to 11.55 in May and 7.5 in August.

Dr. Walters Is New TB Group Vice President

Glenn K. Davis Is Named Seal Chairman

Dr. Hilda Jane Walters was elected vice president of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association at a meeting of the executive committee yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Walters replaces Mrs. Julia Abramson, who resigned last summer because of illness.

At the meeting, Mrs. Harry Barton, president, appointed Glenn K. Davis, vice president of the Cumberland Lions Club, chairman of the association's 1951 Christmas Seal Sale Committee.

Davis was chairman of the 1950 Seal Sale and was commended for his work in distributing coin banks throughout the county.

In the financial report discussed at the meeting it was shown that $3,846.69 was spent for various activities from the $9,529.92 allotted, leaving a balance of $5,683.23.

Discussion of the various activities of the association showed that approximately 3,000 new names have been added to the Seal Sale mailing list.

More than 4,000 names have been dropped from the list because of death or because of moving from the community, showing that nearly 21,000 people will receive Christmas Seals this year.

From July 12 to September 6, a county-wide X-ray survey was conducted by the Health Department and the association with 8,023 people being X-rayed in Allegany County.

Approximately 800 more X-rays were taken in Cumberland this year than last. In other communities of the county, however, approximately 1,600 fewer X-rays were taken.

During the last three weeks of July and the first week of August, the association conducted a daily health education program at the Kiwanis Sunshine Camp. The program included films, demonstrations and daily recording of the children's weight on individual weight charts.

In social service the association helped the Cumberland Girl Scouts provide Camperships for several underprivileged girls in the community.

Court Room PA System Approved

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday agreed to provide the funds for the installation of a public address system in the Circuit Court room, Associate Judge George Henderson reported.

Immediate steps for installation will be taken in hopes that the system will be ready for the first criminal trials next Monday.

Briefs

The Carver School Parent-Teacher Association will meet at 8 p. m. today at the school. Committees will be appointed and plans for the year will be discussed.

The Ridgedale Playground Association will meet at 7:30 today at the home of Mrs. Rose Diehl, 819 Manns Terrace, to elect officers. The group also will complete arrangements for a rummage sale Friday at 7:30 p. m. in Canada Hose House, North Mechanic Street, and for a Halloween celebration.

The Kiwanis Club will hear the third report of the Community Chest-USO drive at its dinner meeting tomorrow at 12:15 at Central YMCA.

Yanks Drub Giants, 13-1, In Fifth Game

REDS ASK TALKS TO RESUME

Eddie Lopat Hurls Second Five-Hit Win

M'Dougald Hits Grand Slam Homer In Third

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—The New York Yankees home run power of old was displayed today in the Polo Grounds as the Bronx Bombers walloped the Giants, 13-1, and took an edge of three games to two in the world series. It was the biggest series score in 15 years.

Rookie Gil McDougald broke up the ball game as early as the third inning when he drove a homer off starter Larry Jansen with the bases loaded, to spark a five-run Yankee outburst.

Little Phil Rizzuto poked another round-tripper in the fourth inning with a mate aboard, and the Yankees kept up the merry base-hit tattoo to back up southpaw Ed Lopat's five-hit pitching.

Now the series shifts back to the Yankee Stadium, where the Yanks need only one more victory to wrap up a third straight world championship for Manager Casey Stengel.

Raschi To Face Koslo

Stengel will send Vic Raschi, beaten 6-2 in the third game of the series, against the Giants in an attempt to clinch it tomorrow. Manager Leo Durocher of the Giants said he would start Dave Koslo, the lefthander who beat the Yankees, 5-1, in the opener last Thursday. During the season, Raschi, a righthander, won 21 and lost 10 games. Koslo had a 10 and 9 record during the year.

Today's game was played under clear weather conditions, with the temperature at 61 degrees, and the forecast for tomorrow was mostly fair, with the temperature around 65. Many hundreds in the crowd of 47,530 left the game today as early as the seventh inning.

The Yankees smashed out 12 hits, getting at least one safety off each of five Giant hurlers. Only two other players had hit grand slam homers in the series, Elmer Smith of Cleveland against Brooklyn in 1920, and Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees against the Giants in 1936.

Later the smiling San Francisco youngster said he didn't realize he had bagged a homer, himself, until he was rounding second. In the 1936 game in which Lazzeri cleaned the sacks, the Yanks trounced another Giant team, 18-4. The only other player ever to bag the limit was Elmer Smith of Cleveland in the 1920 playoffs.

Yanks Belt Spencer

The scoring details of the latter part of the dreary contest scarcely are important. The Yanks loved George Spencer, the former Ohio State football star who bulwarked the Giants' relief staff all season. They belted him for two runs in the sixth and then slammed him out of there with only one out in the seventh. Three runs scored as Al Corwin took over and delivered a wild pitch for variety and DiMaggio laced a double down the left line. By that time a good part of the crowd was talking football.

Adding to their other miseries, the Giants committed three fielding errors, one of them by Clint Hartung, who replaced Hank Thompson in right field in an effort to get some righthand power against Lopat. Thompson will be back in there tomorrow.

Princess Proud At Welcome

QUEBEC, Oct. 9 (AP) —Princess Elizabeth said tonight at a glittering state dinner that her heart was filled with pride and joy by the warmth of the Canadian welcome given her and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

In a brief, simple speech, the princess told the 250 dinner guests she had had some misgivings about crossing the Atlantic and coming to the new world, but that all her doubts vanished the moment she set foot on Canadian soil.

Speaking in French, the usual language in Quebec Province, she said:

"I found myself in the midst of friends and fellow countrymen. And today in passing through your magnificent city, my heart was filled with pride and joy at the warmth of this first welcome which Canada had saved for my husband and me."

It was the first full-dress affair of the royal couple's tour, which began officially this morning when they left their 10-car special train at historic Wolfe's Cove for a busy day of sight-seeing and public appearances.

Early next year, the Princess and Duke are to tour Australia and New Zealand as representatives of King George and Queen Elizabeth. Buckingham Palace made the announcement. The King and Queen had planned to start such a trip in January, but his long convalescence from a lung operation will prevent it.

INDIA AMBASSADOR—Chester Bowles (above) was confirmed by the Senate yesterday as ambassador to India over sharp protests by Senator Taft of Ohio and other Republicans. The vote 43-33 largely followed party lines after Taft accused Bowles of not being "a diplomatic man." Bowles is a former governor of Connecticut and wartime price administrator.

New Ambassador To India Is Chester Bowles

Senate Confirms Nomination 43-33

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—The Senate tonight confirmed Chester Bowles as ambassador to India over sharp protests by Senator Taft of Ohib and other Republicans.

The 43 to 33 vote, largely following party lines, came after Democrats praised Bowles, former governor of Connecticut and wartime price administrator.

Replying for Republicans, Taft said he knew of no one "less qualified" to be diplomatic spokesman for the nation in one of the touchiest parts of the world.

Democratic lines held steadier than Republican ranks on the test. Only one Democrat, McCarran of Nevada, voted with 32 Republicans against confirmation while favorable votes came from 38 Democrats and five Republicans: Aiken (Vt), Langer (ND), Lodge (Mass), Morse (Ore) and Smith (Me).

Taft's criticism of Bowles came in answer to praise of the nominee from Senator McMahon (D-Conn). McMahon said Bowles "fits the picture better than any man in public life."

McMahon contended that Republicans were opposing the Bowles nomination in a political move.

Taft said that Bowles, as wartime price Czar, "antagonized" both Republicans and Democrats who had to deal with him and "followed the CIO all down the line."

"He is not a diplomatic man," Taft shouted. "I've had a lot of experience with him."

Defeated For Reelection

McMahon and other Bowles supporters listed the nominee's experience as governor of Connecticut as evidence of his qualifications.

"The people of Connecticut thought he did not make good as governor and they fired him," Taft shot back, referring to Bowles' defeat for reelection last year.

Peron Steps Aside Until Nov. Election

Acting Argentina Head To Be Named

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 9 (AP)—Juan D. Peron announced tonight that he is stepping down from the presidency of Argentina until after the election of Nov. 11 in which he is a candidate for re-election.

He called the Congress to meet on Oct. 11 to approve an acting president in his place.

Interior Minister Angel Borlenghi announced to a news conference that Peron had decided to delegate his presidential office to someone else during the political campaign.

Insures Impartiality

He explained that the motive for Peron's action is that, being a candidate of a political party himself, he does not want to be chief of state when the election occurs but to assure that the polling shall afford "the most complete guarantees of impartiality."

The minister said this was the reason why Congress had been called in special session Oct. 11. He said it would be asked:

1. To grant President Peron a leave of absence from office.
2. To send out an invitation to the newspapermen and labor leaders of Latin American countries to come to Argentina to observe the elections.

Borlenghi did not reply directly to the question of who could serve as acting president during the election campaign.

Vice President Ill

He told a reporter that the "constitutional provision" would be followed. The constitution provides that the vice president should act in case of the death or disability of the president.

However, Juan Hortensio Quijano, the vice president and Peron's run-

Churchill Favors U. S. Friendship

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Winston Churchill said tonight the anti-Americanism of British left-wingers will threaten American-British cooperation if the Labor Party wins the Oct. 25 parliamentary election.

A Conservative government, on the other hand, would "be able to rebuild those relations of cordial and intimate comradeship and understanding with America which played so important a part in the war," he declared.

The Conservative leader and wartime prime minister spoke at suburban Woodford, his constituency. He accused the left-wing laborite followers of former Health Minister Aneurin Bevan of prejudice against the United States.

Prime Minister Attlee carried the Labor Party's campaign into rural East Anglia. For the last six years, Attlee said, the socialistic labor government has undergone incessant partisan hammering from Churchill's conservatives.

Recalling that Churchill has been urging an end to party strife, Attlee said: "You would thing that Mr. Churchill never takes part in political strife at all."

No Loafing Here

Alexandria Cops To Arrest Pilots Of Low-Flying Planes

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 9 (AP) — When a policeman in historical old Alexandria stares dreamily at the sky, no one scolds him for loafing on the job.

Everyone around here knows by now that he is hard at work: He's hoping to put the pinch on low-flying airplanes.

The Alexandria city council, urged on by Councilman Marshall J. Beverly, who lives on a hill, has passed an ordinance requiring all planes to fly at least 1,000 feet high while over the city.

Possible penalty for breaking the law: $300 fine and 90 days in jail.

Many cities have similar laws, of course. What makes Alexandria's ordinance somewhat different is that Washington's National Airport—used by President Truman and other government bigwigs—is only a couple of propellor spins up the Potomac River from here. Six hundred flights are booked in and out of the airport each day.

When wind patterns are right, pilots say, there is no way to go except over Alexandria, George Washington's old home town. And since planes can't drop vertically, but must come in at a slant, they necessarily must roar in at lower than 1,000 feet.

Wilbur B. Sprague, who has been studying noisy airplanes for the Civil Aeronautics Administration, was hunted up for the government viewpoint.

"Our sympathy is all with the poor citizens," Sprague said. "That noise can be terrible."

But Sprague isn't too keen on Alexandria's solution. He said the safest way for an airplane to come in is to slant down in a straight line.

If the air pattern demands turns by low-flying planes, he said, it will be risky not only for the passengers but also for those living in the thickly populated area below.

Sprague thinks the best bet is to get airlines and manufacturers more interested in cutting down the noise made by the planes. "Studies have been made showing that this can be done," he said, "but no one has done anything about it yet."

He's Not Dreaming!

Cpl. Robert C. Price, Marion, Ohio, a soldier at Fort Hayes, must have thought he was dreaming yesterday when he was given the day off and breakfast served in bed. The occasion marked the beginning of the new deal under a recently inaugurated plan at the headquarters of the Ohio Military District which grants the boon to soldiers at the fort on their birthdays. And who do you think serves the breakfast? None other than the sarge! He was Sgt. First Class Charles M. Flick of Wilmington, Ohio, in this case.

Finnegan Tried To Quit Post As Tax Collector

Fell Behind In Own Income Tax Payments

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—James P. Finnegan told a House inquiry committee today that his own income tax payments fell $2,444 short during a three-year period of his job as federal tax collector at St. Louis.

Deficiency assessment for that amount were levied against him by the internal revenue office in Chicago, he said, for 1947-48-49 when he was making more than $30,000 a year practicing law while holding the post of collector.

Finnegan, who is under grand jury as well as congressional investigation, said earlier he had tried to quit the collector's job three times to devote all his time to law, but that President Truman and others had talked him out of it.

Supplies Figures

He supplied income tax figures that showed his law work brought him $36,783 gross in 1947, $30,867 in 1948 and $37,406 in 1949.

Finnegan's tax return for 1949 showed dedocations of $4,631 for entertainment, $3,093 for transportation and $3,212 for hotel bills.

Rep. Curtis (R-Neb) commented: "To a country lawyer like me, those expenses are a surprise."

Finnegan, who served from 1944 until last April, told a house investigating committee that he wasn't particularly interested in the $10,000 collector's salary and spent only three or four hours a day on the job. He said he was making more money practicing law.

He tried first to quit in 1949, he said, and went so far as to telephone the "little White House" in Key West, Fla. where Mr. Truman was vacationing.

The last time, he said, was in October 1950 but he was advised to remain in office after talking with Presidential Secretary Matthew Connell and "also the President of the United States."

He explained "they weren't in a position to appoint a successor at the time and asked me to stay on."

Assured By Hannegan

Finnegan was a witness before a House ways and means subcommittee investigating reports of widespread irregularities in federal tax collector offices.

A federal grand jury is looking into his handling of the St. Louis office. Intelligence agents for the internal revenue bureau have told the House group that Finnegan or his family received $6,193 from a St. Louis insurance firm which the agents said specialized in business with people who were in trouble with the collector's office.

Finnegan said the money was for legal fees. He said that when he

Sweet Toothpicks, Sold At School, May Contain Dope

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 9 (AP)—Students in Eastern High School at nearby Middletown have stopped a toothpick-sucking fad after being told of rumors the toothpicks may have been soaked in dope.

A school official said the students "threw the toothpicks away like they were poison."

Police said they learned enterprising students recently conducted a flourishing business at the school. The students bought toothpicks, dipped them in synthetic oil of cinnamon and sold them to fellow students, two for a penny.

Custodians told Principal Jack Dawson toothpicks littered the school grounds. Head Custodian P. M. Thornton added he had heard two men on a bus suggest the toothpicks might contain dope. Parents of two students made a similar report to Jefferson County police, who told Dawson the fad must stop at once.

Stassen Charges Are Refuted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP) —The State Department today raised a triple challenge against Harold E. Stassen's sworn testimony on events linked with U. S. policy toward Red China.

In rapid succession, the department sought to refute Stassen's contentions:

1. That the United States secretly considered the recognition of Communist China.
2. That Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup advocated shutting off U. S. aid to the Chinese Nationalists at a White House conference on Feb. 5, 1949.
3. That the administration pushed India toward the Communist camp by a 15-month delay in acting on India's plea for 1,000,000 tons of American grain to help stave off a threatened famine in India.

The department's latest move came tonight. It said Ambassador Warren Austin, chief of the American delegation to the United Nations, had reported that official records showed Jessup was in New York City on the day of the White House conference on aid to China.

Stassen had testified that the late Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) told him Jessup was present at the meeting. Jessup denied it.

Seek Ban Of Nazi Socialists

BONN, Germany, Oct. 9 (AP) — The West German government will demand shortly the outlawing of the growing Neo-Nazi Socialist Reich Party (SRP), a government spokesman said today.

Finishing touches are being put to a plea to the newly-established federal constitutional court that the party, by openly advocating Nazism, is unconstitutional.

Selections For Ill. Judgeships Killed By Senate

Vote Prevents Truman From Seating Picks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. (AP)—The Senate took two of President Truman's federal judgeship nominations out of pigeonhole today and killed them outright.

The action made sure that Mr. Truman could not put his selections, Cornelius J. Harrington and Joseph H. Drucker of Illinois, on the bench while Congress was not in session.

In another judiciary development, the Senate voted to create 19 new federal judgeships after giving Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) a 60 to 19 vote of approval in his feud with Kefauver (D-Tenn) over a judgeship in their state.

Senate Douglas (D-Ill) led the fight on Mr. Truman's Illinois nominations, because the President picked Harrington and Drucker over men recommended by Douglas. On the voice vote of rejection, no one was heard to support the President's choices.

Before today's vote, the Senate Judiciary Committee had pigeonholed the nominations. Had nothing more been done, Mr. Truman would have been free to give them interim appointments after Congress adjourned, if he wanted to.

The bill creating the new judge-

Mother Drops Four Children Into Net, But Dies In Fire

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP) — A Brooklyn mother dropped four of her children from a third-floor window into a blanket held by neighbors today, and then collapsed and died in a fire which destroyed the building.

The fire started in the basement of a three-story frame building in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn. The flames spread quickly to the top floor and trapped Mrs. Birma Randall, 35, and four of her nine children, James, eight; William, five; Michael, three, and Edward, 18 months old.

Mrs. Randall dropped the children, one at a time. None was injured.

After the fire was under control, she was found in the apartment, dead of burns and smoke poisoning. Her other children were out and her husband was at work.

Britain To Keep Troops On Guard At Suez Canal

New Proposals Seen To Settle Dispute

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Britain announced today she intends to keep her 10,000 troops on guard over the Suez Canal and all her rights in the Sudan despite Egypt's efforts to push her out.

A statement by Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said Britain intended to maintain her "full rights" under the treaties of 1936 and 1899 pending a satisfactory agreement with Egypt on the basis of new proposals which will be presented shortly.

These proposals, it was known, involve the participation of the United States in Suez' defense.

Schools Closed

In Cairo, schools were closed and crowds celebrated Prime Minister Mustapha Nahas Pasha's announcement yesterday that Egypt is cancelling both pacts. The Egyptian parliament took steps to hasten ratification of the action. Truckloads of police turned back a crowd of several thousand demonstrators shouting "long live King Farouk of Egypt and Sudan" when they tried to march on the British Embassy.

Morrison's statement said the British government took the "strongest exception" to Egypt's one-sided action in abrogating the 20-year alliance of 1936 and the 1899 treaty setting up joint rule over the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Under the alliance, Britain is allowed to keep 10,000 troops, 400 planes and supporting personnel on guard at the Suez Canal. The canal is one of the two keys to the Mediterranean shortcut between east and west and whoever holds it is in a strong position to defend the entire Middle East. The other is the Strait of Gibraltar.

Sudan Vast Territory

The Sudan is a vast territory of nearly 1,000,000 square miles and 8,000,000 people whose newly developed cotton growing projects are vital to Britain's textile industry.

Diplomatic officials in London believed that Nahas Pasha wants the Sudan as his price for agreeing to a new internationalized defense setup at Suez. He told parliament the

Gave McCarthy Details

American Negro Is Held For Spying By Swiss Government

GENEVA, Oct. 9 (AP)—An American scheduled to go on trial in the Swiss Federal Criminal Court at Lausanne on Monday is charged with conducting illegal political espionage "in supplying information to Senator (Joseph W.) McCarthy."

The Swiss government charges that the activities of McCarthy's alleged informant violated Swiss sovereignty.

The charge against Charles E. Davis, 24, a negro from Pasadena, Calif., came to light today in the "acte de accusation" (comparable to an indictment in U. S. courts) which has been filed in the Lausanne court.

Davis is accused specifically of supplying a representative of the Wisconsin Republican Senator in Paris with information concerning John Carter Vincent when Vincent was U. S. minister to Switzerland.

The charge says that Davis was paid for this service.

Davis, who told U. S. consulate officials here that he was correspondent for a Communist newspaper in California, has been held in jail for nearly a year since his arrest by Swiss authorities.

For the past several months, he has been under treatment in the prison ward of a Geneva tuberculosis hospital.

Vincent was transferred from his post as minister in Bern to that of consul-general in Tangier last February.

When he was moved, he declined to discuss the background of his transfer, but authorized this statement:

"I can't fight back because of financial considerations, but I could fight back on moral grounds."

Vincent has been a frequent target for McCarthy's repeated charges of Communist influence in the U. S. state department. The Senator has asserted that Vincent followed the Communist line particularly when he was serving the state department in China during the war.

The charge against Davis alleges that at a time "which the preliminary investigation has not been able to place," Davis wrote to McCarthy offering him information.

Peiping Radio Answers U. N. Consent Note

Panmunjom New Site For Cease-Fire Talks

TOKYO, Wednesday, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Communist high command today proposed an immediate resumption of the Korean cease-fire talks at the Red-held village of Panmunjom.

The Red leaders suggested the question they raised extending the neutral zone to include advance Allied truce headquarters at Munsan be reserved for discussion by the truce delegations later. The Allies have objected to such an extension of the zone.

The Reds, broadcasting from Peiping the text of their note to the Supreme Allied Commander in advance of its actual delivery, said they had instructed liaison officers to meet Allied officers at 10 a. m. (8 p. m. Tuesday EST) to discuss resumption of full dress conferences by the major delegates.

Broadcast In English

The Peiping broadcast in the English language was monitored by the Associated Press.

The message, addressed to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Allied Commander, was signed by North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, leader of the Chinese Red Army in Korea.

It formally replied to Ridgway's message of Oct. 8 agreeing to the Red offer to meet in the Panmunjom area. Panmunjom is six miles east of Kaesong, where the first fruitless truce talks were held.

The Red leaders, however, were insistent that the first full-scale armistice talks deal with the question of extending the Kaesong neutral area to a rectangle running from Kaesong on into Allied territory around Munsan, 12 miles southeast. This would include the Red checkpoint at Panmunjom.

Ridgway was willing to consider the highway linking the three points as a free-from-attack zone but not to make it a full neutral area.

The Red leaders followed their usual custom of assailing Ridgway in the opening paragraphs of their reply. They reiterated charges that the U.N. leader deliberately held up the truce talks by creating incidents.

Then Kim and Peng became more conciliatory and agreed to defer the neutrality zone question until the first meeting of the two delegations takes place. They asked that the negotiations resume "immediately."

The U.N. command sent its senior liaison officer to pick up by hand the formal Communist reply. Marine Col. James C. Murray left Munsan at 7 a. m. by motor convoy. He was accompanied by interpreters and news correspondents.

Whether the 10 a. m. liaison session would be held depended on the speed with which the Red

Benson Charges To Be Probed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP) — A Senate inquiry committee today voted unanimously to investigate charges levelled against Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) by Senator Benton (D-Conn), who says McCarthy should be ousted from the Senate.

Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) said staff investigators have been instructed to look into the charges and report by Nov. 1.

"When we get that report, we'll decide where we go from there," Gillette said.

Gillette's group, a subcommittee of the Senate Rules Committee, voted to go ahead after McCarthy rejected an invitation to take the witness stand and reply to Benton's charges.

Gillette said McCarthy turned down the invitation in a letter declaring:

"Frankly, I do not intend to even read, much less answer, Benton's smear attack.

"I am sure you realize that the Benton type of material can be found in the (Communist) Daily Worker almost any day of the week and will continue to flow from the mouths and pens of the camp followers as long as I continue my fight against Communists in government."

Benton testified under oath before the Gillette subsocmittee on Sept. 28, accusing McCarthy of committing perjury and fraud and "calculated deceit" against the American people.

Good Will Can Settle Oil Fight

UNITED NATION'S, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP)—Iran's deputy premier said tonight only Britain's good will can bring about a settlement of the British-Iran oil disputes.

Hossein Fatemi, appearing at the first news conference since Iran's Premier Mohammer Mossadegh and his party arrived in New York Monday, again disputed the right of the United Nations Security Council to consider the case or make any recommmendations.

Britain is trying to get the Security Council to adopt a resolution calling on Iran to obey an International Court of Justice order to halt nationalization of its oil property until the whole question can be gone over again.

Fatemi dodged any outright statements that Mossadegh would walk out of the Security Council if it attempt to take any action. Mossadegh is recovering from exhaustion under the care of doctors at the New York Hospital.

Fatemi said that the Security Council has no business discussing the dispute and that Iran would not pay any attention to any neutral arbiter that the council might suggest.

William And Mary Names New Prexy

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 9 (AP)—The College of William and Mary today chose Rear Admiral Alvin Duke Chandler, a two-fisted military man, as its permanent president to succeed Dr. John E. Pomfret.

Appointment of the 49-year-old navy administrator and World War II hero came as a surprise. The board of visitors had previously indicated it would defer until next spring the selection of a new head for the college, rocked recently by a sports scandal.

The board, however, apparently concluded that a firm hand was needed at once to resolve crises growing out of the scandal.

Mountaineer Denies Living As Hermit After Desertion

Md. Cities Can't Regulate Speed Limits

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9. (AP)—Maryland cities can't regulate speed limits on their streets. It's a state function.

Attorney General Hall Hammond so informed Theodore L. Miazga, a Prince Georges County trial magistrate, in an opinion published today. Miazga has asked for advice on the subject.

Hall told the magistrate that the state code sets speed limits for motor vehicles, among other things, in "thickly settled or business parts of cities, towns, and villages."

The attorney general said that the provisions of the code are "intended to be statewide in their effect, and that no city, county or other municipal subdivision shall have the right to make or enforce any local law, ordinance or regulation unon any subject for which provision is made" in the state code."

Delinquent Taxes Are Being Paid

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9. (AP)—Maryland's 30-day moratorium on penalties produced returns from 450 persons delinquent in their income tax payments, a state tax official reported today.

Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the income tax division of the state comptroller's office, said the grace period "has done a lot of good."

He said the office is now preparing "a great many" liens against those who are still delinquent. The law provides for the attachment of all but $15 of their weekly earnings until the taxes, penalties and interest have been paid.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 9 (AP)—A husky young mountaineer just grinned today at talk he'd been a hounded hermit playing tag with the law while running an eight-day pass into five years and an army desertion charge.

"Shoot," said Everett C. Atkins, 24. "Guess I've been to Charlottesville a thousand times the past five years, walking all around the law."

Atkins, interviewed in a jail cell here by a Richmond News Leader reporter, was picked up Sunday by FBI agents in a woodland close to his family's home at nearby Gordonsville.

He was squirrel hunting (no license) when the government agents took him into custody to end their part in a case they called "one of the most notorious desertion cases in the files of the FBI." The army had him in custody today at Fort Lee, 20 miles south of Richmond.

Atkins, a strong open-faced man who looked just about like somebody's starting pitcher for tomorrow, scoffed at the role the FBI cast him in: a sort of Daniel Boone, living on berries and game as he beat his way through the forests.

"I've been living part time at home, part time in Pennsylvania and Maryland, staying in tourist cabins along the road."

He got by, he added, because he "didn't ask nobody nothing."

Atkins was inducted in Richmond in 1946—asked for the navy but the army got him—and shipped to Fort McClellan, Ala. After eight weeks he was given an eight-day pass and hurried home to his wife and parents, living together on a lumber tract near Gordonsville. He caught the mumps, he said, and kept putting off his return to the army.

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Wednesday, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Allies ground ahead one mile in Western Korea Tuesday but the Reds sprang one of their most significant war moves in months — a sudden shift of Chinese troops to the Eastern front.

The new Red maneuver, possibly involving the transfer of a major Chinese unit, checked an Allied advance in the East. This meant just two things to embattled United Nations forces on the mountainous Eastern front:

1. The unending U.N. hill assaults have at least partly ground down the rebuilt North Korean Army.

2. The battle, which was already tough, is probably going to get tougher.

U. S. Eighth Army estimates placed Red losses at 80,000 men since Aug. 23 when the Kaesong peace talks were suspended by the Communists. This is equil to eight to 10 Red divisions.

Wake Up To More Comfort

Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slowdown of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Nearly all the debate was on whether to make a new temporary district judgeship in Tennessee apply only to the middle section of the state, or to have the judge rove between middle and west Tennessee. McKellar wanted to create a judgeship for middle Tennessee alone while Kefauver said there wasn't enough court work to justify that.

What's the fastest-growing line of trucks in America?

Look around you—in cities, on farms, at terminals and loading docks—wherever goods are moved on wheels.

More and more, the pay load's packed on a GMC.

You see those letters on medium and heavy Diesels, the most economical workers in their field. For GMC means first in Diesel power.

You see gasoline-powered GMC's front-running the highways of America—pace-setting delivery of the necessities of peace and war.

You see nimble bantamweights of the family—the highest-powered ½- to 2-tonners made—outpulling, outhauling every other truck in their class.

Ever wonder why GMC is gaining a greater percentage of the industry than any other truck-maker?

Ask the truck drivers themselves.

See the confident way they talk of the power plants, the broad-shouldered chassis—the way a GMC handles.

Ask about the tons they've hauled, the miles they've logged—the nip-and-tuck schedules they've licked time and again.

Ask these cost-wary haulers why they've made GMC the fastest-growing fleet in the land.

They'll tell you it's because GMC is the finest motor truck made.

Jap Leader Fears His Nation Will Slip Back Into Feudalistic Ways

By O. H. P. KING

TOKYO — (AP) — Will Japan retain the basic democratic policies of the occupation after the peace treaty is ratified — or will she slip back into her old feudalistic ways?

There seems to be quite a difference in Japanese opinion.

A prominent, foreign-educated Japanese leader predicts that "black reaction is an evil that faces us." He is a responsible source, but insisted in an interview that he not be identified. He asserted that "those of us on the inside" knew of plans to "junk" many occupation reforms.

Japanese and American official quarters, when asked their opinion, said the informant's fears were "exaggerated" or his information "erroneous."

"The Japanese will keep what's good and fits in with their national consciousness," said U. S. Ambassador William J. Sebald, chief diplomatic adviser of the occupation. "My own feeling is that there is a lot of exaggerated talk at present."

The Japanese source — who has a large following in labor circles — said:

"The Korean war has sidetracked the blueprint for Japan's future.

"Premier (Shigeru) Yoshida is moving to junk most of the long-range projects and reforms and return big business interests to control. His course is obvious, but there is no objection voiced by occupation officials still here.

"We who have implemented the programs and created public support for them hesitate to engage in an all-out fight with Yoshida. He has American backing. To oppose him would be to risk being branded a Communist.

"Further, it would appear we opposed America, the United Nations, the peace treaty, rearmament, stationing of U. S. defense forces here and other things of which he — and we — approve."

He asserted the government is planning revision of statutes with an eye to abolishing certain bureaus protecting the public's interest, reestablishment of the "thought control" police system, press censorship and business monopolies.

A. Miyazaki, official spokesman for the Japanese foreign office, conferred with leading government officials and then said the informant's report was "entirely erroneous."

New Amino Acid Relieves Asthma, Allergy Symptoms

PALO ALTO, Calif. — (AP) — Two Beverly Hills doctors have disclosed that they have developed a new amino acid which has relieved asthma, hay fever and other allergy symptoms.

Dr. John D. Keye and R. R. Widman told a medical meeting at the Palo Alto Clinic that the new drug, called tyral, was used with "marked success" on 1,000 patients during a 12-month trial in several cities.

Within 48 hours after tyral was taken by mouth, a large percentage of the sufferers were freed in varying degrees from that constricting symptoms of asthma, hay fever and kindred allergy ailments, said Dr. Keye.

The two physicians developed the drug in cooperation with the International Minerals and Chemical Corp. of Chicago. Clinical and laboratory tests were made at Western Reserve University and other schools.

"It appears that this drug, through an entirely new approach to the problem, may offer considable relief to people with allergies who have had difficulty in obtaining relief heretofore," Dr. Keye said.

He added that tyral is the amino acid tyrosine, combined with an activator, and that it presumably acts to correct an unbalance in the systems of allergic people which results in the excessive production of histamine.

Tyral inhibits the excessive production of histamine, he explained.

More Fighter Planes

Word of a second explosion of an atomic bomb by the Russians coincides with word from Korea that few jet planes have been destroyed in the heavy air fighting there. The Air Force announces for a three-day period in late September six enemy MIG-15's destroyed, one probably destroyed, 19 damaged. This included the heavy battles of September 26, in which 150 MIG's were engaged by 100 UN jets. United Nations forces lost even fewer planes than the enemy.

Our own low casualty rate in the air in Korea is attributed by the Air Force to the superior gunnery of American pilots and the higher rate of fire of American armament. Many American pilots had World War II combat experience. Then, too, United Nations units—unlike the Chinese—have been maintained intact and at full strength. This contributes much to the morale of personnel.

The Air Force reports heavy damage inflicted on enemy ground units. In the three-day period already referred to, United Nations planes flew 5,760 sorties and damaged 5,000 enemy supply vehicles. The loss of jet fighters on both sides has been particularly light in view of the number of planes involved.

The Defense Department is expected soon to announce a program aimed to beef up the Air Force. Whether the goal is to be the predicted 140 groups or an even greater number, much of the increase will evidently have to be in tactical aviation.

Strategic air power, involving the use of great numbers of heavy bombers, has long been fundamental to United States defense policy. But heavy bombers, if they are to reach their targets, must be accompanied by fighter planes.

Similarly, in any all-out war the United States would need great numbers of fighter planes to intercept enemy planes bearing atom bombs. In a report on August 24, following the combined hearings of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees, Senator Lodge (R., Mass.) charged that Russia was gaining on the United States in strategic aviation, was already ahead in tactical aviation and air defense.

Navy and Marine use of tactical aviation in close support of ground troops in Korea has been praised by the Army ground commanders. An Associated Press dispatch of September 2 reported that some Army ground leaders emerged from the recent maneuvers in North Carolina with a desire for more planes in support of ground troops and more control over the planes assigned to them.

The Air Force, fully committed to protecting ground troops, is resisting the current moves to give greater control over planes to ground commanders of less than a whole army, or at least of any army corps. Air Force officials point to their experience in North Africa in World War II. Though the Allies say they then had more planes available than the Germans, the Allies could not gain air superiority. When the Allied planes were split up into "penny packets," the large striking forces necessary to wrest air superiority from the enemy were unavailable.

"Wonderful Windfall"

As the American public is increasingly aware, many blessings flow from that reservoir of good will, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It has been a lucrative channel for gift cameras, turkeys, hams, perfume, Florida vacations, even a mink coat. Yet from what a Senate investigating committee has been churning up, RFC and Lady Luck have competitors.

In at least one case under investigation, the Internal Revenue Bureau has its by-products of World Series tickets and commissions—or, as one witness delicately described it, "a wonderful windfall." A New Jersey agent of the bureau, Walter Doxon, has placed in the committee records the simple story of how easy it is for a couple of alert government employes with the right connections to pick up $14,000.

The agent, now suspended for 30 days, had a friend who works for the government, too. He is John L. Kelly, a supervisor for the Labor Department in the New York-New Jersey area. Mr. Kelly, in turn, had a friend, Elmer Bobst of Montclair, N. J., whose firm has use for considerable amounts of printing.

So Mr. Doxon called Mr. Kelley, who called Mr. Bobst. All he asked of Mr. Bobst were his company specifications for printing. In due course, the ubiquitous American Lithofold Company got a printing contract, and the Messrs. Doxon and Kelly got a commission, or rather "a wonderful windfall," of $14,000.

Mr. Bobst said he was merely helping a friend, had nothing to do with awarding the contract. For their part, the Messrs. Doxon and Kelly were no doubt drafted from their government jobs for part-time private employment because of their technical knowledge of the printing business or because they were persuasive and experienced salesmen who knew how to get results.

Nevertheless, their case recalls testimony previously given by a resigned supervisor, James B. Olson, of the Alcohol Tax Unit. As it chanced, he was simultaneously on the payroll of the government and American Lithofold, too. When called to explain, Mr. Olson expressed the disquieting opinion that many federal tax collectors have "outside businesses."

Outside business for tax collectors is a practice which, if general, is symptomatic of the depressing moral climate in Washington as revealed by busy investigating committees. Moral codes to govern public conduct have been proposed officially and unofficially. It's hard to see, however, how any wordy codes can improve on the Cleveland dictum that public office is a public trust.

Obviously, in too many cases it isn't so regarded. Therefore, as Jesse Jones said in 1948, it may help at least to change the combination of the safe.

Drive For Steel Scrap

We could produce more steel, say the steel-makers, if only we could get more steel scrap. The industry doesn't promise that even then it could end the present shortage of steel for civilian use (lots of new road and bridge projects are being held up indefinitely because no steel is being allocated for them). But the industry does promise that more scrap would end the present danger of too little steel to meet the full rearmament program.

In ordinary times, about as much scrap as pig iron goes into the production of many kinds of steel. As scrap becomes scarcer and higher, relatively more pig iron must be used—and iron ore isn't exactly overabundant these days. More scrap would be coming in from the Korean battlefields were it not for a dispute on whether it belongs to the U. S. or to the U.N.

This week is to see a stepping-up, all over the country, of the current drive to get more scrap. This drive is concentrating, at least for the present, on the big stuff—such as old cars from automobile graveyards—rather than on the little odds and ends that might turn up from a house-to-house canvas or from appeals to housewives.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Chickenpox Is Highly Contagious

Chickenpox is one of the most contagious of all diseases. The susceptible are likely to come down with the malady even though there wasonly a momentary contact with an inflicted individual. It is transmitted from one to another, apparently via the air.

The causative agent is a virus that is seen as rectangular in shape when viewed under the electron microscope. It resembles the smallpox virus but is smaller. The organism is identical in size and appearance, however, with the virus that causes herpes zoster (shingles). The relationship between chickenpox and herpes zoster has aroused the curiosity of the medical profession for many years. Both the virus and the individual lesions look alike. Furthermore, an epidemic of chickenpox in children has been traced to an adult with shingles. On the other hand, an attack of one of the diseases does not confer immunity to the other as 70 per cent of patients with herpes zoster have had chickenpox earlier.

Most victims are children. The ailment generally develops between 13 and 17 days after exposure. The youngster has respiratory symptoms suggestive of a cold as well as fever, headache, loss of appetite, and lack of pep. This may persist for 24 or more hours when the typical eruption appears. Meanwhile, the family may feel uneasy because there is no way of predicting to what contagious disease the youngster is falling heir. At any rate, the rash at first consists of many small, red, flattened areas. Within an hour or two a clear oval "teardrop" forms in the center of each one of these lesions. Their contents becomes cloudy and before long the transparent membrane ruptures, leaving a small crust as the fluid dries.

The rash of chickenpox differs from that of smallpox in that the outbreak begins on the trunk and spreads to the face, shoulders, and extremities. In addition, the lesions are in all stages of development; some are red, others are in the water blister stage, and still others are covered with crusts and about to disappear. Smallpox usually starts on the extremities and spreads toward the trunk and all the lesions reach the same stage of development almost simultaneously. From five to 21 days will elapse before the crusts fall off.

Because the disease is contagious from 24 hours before the eruption to six or seven days afterward, the patient should be isolated until all the lesions dry. There is no specific treatment but this is not serious; mortality is low. Most pocks heal completely although many individuals are left with one or two telltale scars on the face. Itching may be a problem, especially in young children. Calamine lotion or an antihistaminic salve will prove soothing and when irritation is extensive a starch bath frequently offers relief. This is prepared by mixing a cup of powdered starch with hot water and adding it to the bath water. Keeping the fingernails short is helpful in preventing secondary infections.

Preventive measures rarely are needed. Convalescent serum and gamma globulin will afford temporary immunity for those who are too ill at the time of exposure to go through a siege of chickenpox. Ultraviolet light is said to reduce the incidence of the disease in schools by killing the virus.

PROLONGED SPASM

M. Z. writes: I am a long time sufferer of cardiospasm and have taken every treatment I know of—drugs, psychiatric care, faith healing, and dilations. Is there anything I have missed?

REPLY

You are a stubborn case and the only thing left is surgery, especially if the esophagus is dilated markedly above the constricted area. But you alone can decide whether your pain is severe enough to justify the risk of operation.

•—•—•

L. R. writes: At the present time is operation preferable to radioactive iodine in overacidity of thyroid gland?

REPLY

This is an individual problem that the physician must decide. The method of treatment depends upon the age, symptoms, state of health, and whether the gland feels hard or soft. In some cases propylthiouracil is the treatment of choice.

•—•—•

NOISY EARS

Mrs. K. writes: Could a lazy thyroid cause whistling ears?

REPLY

The two conditions usually are not related. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on causes of ear noises.

•—•—•

NORMAL METABOLISM

D. E. F. writes: It is possible to have a thyroid condition even though a metabolism test shows normal?

REPLY

Yes, because in some thyroid disorders metabolism is not disturbed. In simple goiter, for example, the gland is enlarged but it may not secrete too much or too little of its hormone.

Southern Solons Squabble Over Taxes; Senator George Bitterly Opposes Increases; Taft-Eisenhower Maneuvers Engage GOP Forces

WASHINGTON — Some of the most vital congressional debates never get into the headlines. All last week, a debate affecting the pocketbook of every adult in the nation took place between conferees from the Senate and House over taxes. Newsmen and the public were not admitted.

The chief debaters were two distinguished and highly respected gentlemen from the South — Sen. Walter F. George of Georgia and Rep. Bob Doughton of North Carolina. In many respects they are similar, but on taxes they vigorously disagree.

Both are elderly—George 73 and Doughton 86. Both have served in Congress for a large part of the 20th Century—George for 29 years, Doughton 40 years. Both come from rural backgrounds, though George of late has numbered some of the nation's captains of high finance among his friends.

Doughton, despite his age, has long been the first congressman to get to work in the morning. He used to open his office at 5:30 a. m. but after passing his 80th birthday, he compromised by getting to work at 6 a. m. Down in North Carolina, Doughton used to ride a big white mule through the mountains visiting constituents, which gave him the nickname "Muley Bob."

In the recent closed-door tax debates, Senator George probably has thought that Doughton was mulish in more ways than one, for Muley Bob has been his most stubborn opponent in trying to plug the loopholes in the Senate's so-called "millionaires" tax bill.

"Cuts! Cuts! Cuts."

"All of the Senate amendments are for tax relief in one form or another," grumbled the big North Carolinian at one stormy committee session, "cuts!—cuts!—cuts!"

"The President asked us for sixteen billions in new taxes to balance the budget," Doughton continued, aiming his remarks directly at Senator George, "but the House cut this down to ten billion and finally to $7.2 billion. You can't reduce it any more without ruining our economy. How in the world the Senate arrived at the conclusion that we can get by with only $5.4 billion of new taxes is beyond me."

"The Senate figure of $5.4 billion is the maximum our economy can stand," argued Senator George. "If you tax business any more you will curtail production and destroy the incentive of free enterprise."

"Cuts! — cuts! — cuts!" roared Doughton. "That's the only language you fellows know."

Rep. John Dingell of Detroit supported Doughton.

"For every dollar the Senate bill saves in new taxes, we will lose ten dollars in the resulting depreciation of our currency," Dingell argued.

"Taxes don't hurt the people when their dollars have a high purchasing power," continued the Detroiter. "It's when their dollars depreciate that they feel the tax pinch worst. Yet this Senate bill would create more inflation by deficit spending and adding to the national debt. For we'll simply have to borrow money to meet expenses instead of raising it by taxes.

"I hear a lot of these big corporation directors say that they hate communism, but they apparently don't hate it enough to cough up some extra taxes to keep our government solvent."

Neither Doughton nor Dingell, however, could move George. He told the House conferees in effect that they could argue until they were blue in the face without changing his position.

"I want to say furthermore," the Senator added with an icy glare at Doughton, "that this is the last tax bill I'll bring in unless we get into an all-out war."

NOTE—Actually it is the duty of the House of Representatives to initiate or "bring in" tax legislation. The Senate passes on the tax bill after the House adopts it. George, as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, can exercise powerful influence over any tax bill, but it's doubtful if he could block one altogether.

Taft Vs. Eisenhower

TAFT MANEUVERS — A secret strategy meeting of Taft-for-President leaders was held in Washington last Thursday night. Present was John Hamilton, the Kansas-born GOP chairman for Alf Landon who now works for oilman Joe Pew in Philadelphia; also Taft's cousin, Dave Ingalls, who was assistant secretary of war in the Hoover administration.

Ingalls, who has been scouring the 48 states for Taft delegates, reported to the meeting that if the convention were held today, Taft would pull 500 of the 600 GOP delegates.

Others present were more conservative, estimated Taft's strength nearer 350. Ingalls also announced that the only threat to Taft was Eisenhower, but that GOP leaders figure he will not make a sufficiently aggressive fight to get nominated.

NOTE—During the session, machine manufacturer Tom Coleman, chief Taft leader in Wisconsin, telephoned in from Madison that he never expected to get Cyrus Phillips, GOP national committeeman and head of Union Refrigerator Cars, to sign the Taft pledge, but Phillips finally did so to support John Hamilton.

EISENHOWER MANEUVERS — Anti-Taft forces, fully sensing the danger that Taft will definitely pledge GOP leaders before they know whether Eisenhower is available, have now decided to take the bit in their teeth.

They will put out an announcement fairly soon that Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania will head the Eisenhower forces. Following this, they expect to get a personal statement from the General around Christmas time, possibly before. He will state that he will be available for the GOP nomination.

Reason for the early appointment of Jim Duff as Eisenhower leader is the current hemming-and-hawing among the General's supporters. As between genial ex-Senator Darby of Kansas, Governor Tom Dewey, and Senator Duff, no one has known who was boss.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Below The Belt

I recently received a letter from a young man who critically made the point that Americans do not like a person who hits below the belt. He was referring to Senator Joe McCarthy.

The logic of his position is that a man has a moral right to change his mind, his associations, his partisanships and his religion. None of us is perfect and our mistakes are numerous. They often strike back at us when we can least afford it.

Our problem, however, is to go over the past that we may be wiser in the future; to study and document the Soviet infiltration into the American government. It would even be of advantage to discover if other governments have done the same. That is why I favor investigation into the Chinese (both groups), French, British, Arab, South American and other foreign lobbies that may attempt to influence American public opinion. Let us have the entire picture clear once and for all time.

It is for this reason and not to pillory individuals that the investigations of the McCarran Committee are important.

For instance, Elizabeth Bentley testified that Gregory Silvermaster, who had been in the Farm Security Administration and the board of economic warfare, was in her espionage group when she was a Russian agent. Here is a telling colloquy:

"Senator Ferguson. What were your avenues for placing people in strategic positions?

"Miss Bentley. I would say that two of our best ones were Harry Dexter White and Lauchlin Currie. They had an immense amount of influence and knew people and their word would be accepted when they recommended someone.

"The Chairman. Harry Dexter White was in what department?

"Miss Bentley. Under Secretary of the Treasury under Mr. Morgenthau.

"Senator Ferguson. In other words, Currie and White were your instrumentalities in putting people in strategic positions?

"Miss Bentley. I would say they were our most important ones."

The Lauchlin Currie to whom Miss Bentley referred was a secretary to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Miss Bentley testified under oath. I understand that Lauchlin Currie will be given an opportunity, if he desires it, to testify under oath. If one of them is untruthful, it is up to the attorney general of the United States to obtain an indictment for perjury and to have the case tried in a court of law.

A congressional committee investigates; it does not convict. If Miss Bentley's testimony is untruthful, then doubt is cast upon her former testimony, which did produce convictions. She has just published a book, "Out of Bondage," and articles by her appeared in "McCall's Magazine." She mentions names of persons who are alive and whose remedy is in our courts. They can sue her for libel, but to do so involves them in the danger of conviction for perjury, as it does her. She takes all the risks but those who attack what she says under oath as hearsay are apparently unwilling to risk anything. They smear her but they do not impeach her veracity by due process of the law.

Further she testified:

"Senator Ferguson. But if you desired to shift a person from one position to another position you would use White and Currie?

"Miss Bentley. We would use White and Currie if we could.

"Senator Eastland. Do you know who White's principal contacts were in the government so that he could place people in government?

"Miss Bentley. It was my understanding that he knew practically everyone in Washington who had any influence.

"Senator Eastland. You do not know whom he would contact?

"Miss Bentley. No, not specifically, that was his affair, and we did not inquire into it."

Harry Dexter White was responsible for the Morganthau plan which has been one of the most damaging to American policy in Europe. This colloquy follows:

"Senator Eastland. What you say is that it was a Communist plot to destroy Germany and weaken her to where she could not help us?

"Miss Bentley. That is correct. She could no longer be a barrier that would protect the Western world.

"Senator Eastland. And that Mr. Morgenthau, who was secretary of the Treasury of the United States was used by the Communist agents to promote that plot?

"Miss Bentley. I am afraid so, yes.

"Senator Ferguson. What do you mean by 'I am afraid so'?

"Miss Bentley. Certainly Secretary Morgenthau didn't fall in with Communist plots."

Miss Bentley's testimony is under oath. Harry Dexter White is dead, but Henry Morgenthau is alive. He is privileged to tell his story.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress who have all along believed that the National Labor Relations Board was emasculating the Taft-Hartley Act by its rulings and decisions are more than ever convinced of this by the latest opinion handed down by the board restricting the right of employers to talk to their employes.

Under the old Wagner Act, the board ruled that an employer couldn't address his employes on union matters during working hours. The Circuit Court of Appeals upheld that decision, so Congress in 1947 rewrote the labor-management act specifically to prevent an empolyer from being charged wtih an "unfair labor practice" for what he said to his employes at any time.

Now the present board has found a capricious way to get around the new law by holding that the employer was guilty of an unfair labor practice for refusing to permit the union organizers to speak to the assembled employes during working hours on a parity with the employer. The board, seemingly with its tongue in its cheek, said it wasn't concerned with the free speech of the employer or what he said but solely with his refusal to grant facilities for the union organizers.

Ample Time For Meetings

What it could mean, of course, is that the National Labor Relations Board now has decided to take jurisdiction over the facilities that are provided to employes in advance of an election to hear the issues, and presumably — if the board is to be fair about it—the employer must be given access to all union meetings where any issue affecting his employes may be discussed.

The argument made by the board in its ruling was that the employes couldn't be assembled in any other way and that the meeting held by the employer was held just before the election. Actually the meeting was held six days before the voting, and there was ample time for the union to hold other meetings of its own and mail out its literature.

It was a 4-to-1 decision in a case that arose in the Bonwit Teller department stores in New York. Member Reynolds, who dissented, pointed out that the new law—the Taft-Hartley Act—was adopted "with assurances that its passage would guarantee free speech to employers in labor disputes." He said:

"Nowhere in the act or in its legislative history, however, does it appear that a concomitant of this right is the obligation to provide a forum of debate for unions. Indeed, hinging an employer's right to speak upon his readiness to make available the means by which his arguments, views, and opinions can be nullified, effectively emasculates Section 8 (C) as it applies to the right of an employer to address his employes."

Vague Definition

The majority of the board gave as a guide for future cases a vague definition:

"We believe that the right of employes, guaranteed by Section 7 of the act, freely to select or reject representation by a labor organization necessarily encompasses the right to hear both sides of the story under circumstances which reasonably approximate equality."

But what are the circumstances that "reasonably approximate equality"? Does that cover equal space in union-labor newspapers and periodicals which devote much of their space to vitriolic attacks on employers? Does this new rule mean access to union halls for employers? Does it mean that unions now can be penalized for circulating scurrilous literature during campaigns? Is the National Labor Relations Board to become the censor of the facilities afforded "both sides" in an election, since the law plainly forbids it to be censor of what is actually said?

During the period when the Taft-Hartley law was under discussion in Congress, the famous Clark case involving almost identical circumstances with the Bonwit Teller case was specifically repudiated by the insertion of language designed to overcome a previous board's ruling. There were predictions then that the board would find ways to get around the law. Unfortunately, those predictions now have been fulfilled and employers might as well realize that the present board is not going to be fair in interpreting the existing law and that only when present members are impeached or new ones appointed under another administration will impartiality be assured and freedom of speech upheld in labor disputes.

Dulles As A Nominee

By MARK SULLIVAN

News reports from the recent conference of governors at Gatlinburg, Tenn., said that much of the talk had to do with the Presidential campaign and election next year. In the discussion, the news reports said, most of the talk about the Republican Presidential nomination assumed that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio are the most probable nominees. Such mention as there was of others was more or less listless speculation as to who might emerge in the event that Gen. Eienhower and Sen. Taft should, in the political phrase, "kill each other off." The others thus casually considered included Gov. Warren of California, Sen. Duff of Pennsylvania, and ex-Governor Stassen of Minnesota, now president of the University of Pennsylvania. What went on at the conference of governors goes on wherever Republican Presidential possibilities are discussed in news channels or in common talk.

Sometimes an omission is news. So far as the present writer has observed, there has been in the current discussion of the Republican Presidential nomination next year an odd omission, considering the standing and relation to public affairs of the man omitted, John Foster Dulles.

By standards which ordinarily have determining weight in judgments which the public in general commonly arrives at about public men, Mr. Dulles has an extremely high status. A recently conspicuous reason for his standing is the treaty of peace with Japan which 48 nations signed at San Francisco a few weeks ago. Mr. Dulles was the author of that treaty and the principal active agency responsible for success in bringing about the near unanimous adoption of it. And the adoption of that treaty, with the sensational setback to Communist Russia which accompanied it, is probably the most important and hopeful development in the six years during which our controversy with Russian communism has been the major concern of the country.

Ordinarily the role of Mr. Dulles in bringing about the treaty of peace with Japan would bring him automatically into consideration for the Republican Presidential nomination. The party in power has been responsible for the conduct of our relations with Communist Russia for six years. The aim and function of the Republicans as the opposition party is to provide opportunity for expression to voters who do not approve the Truman administration's course about Communist Russia. An obvious person for consideration among possibilities for the Republican Presidential nomination would be the man who has had a recent conspicuous success, widely pleasing to the public, in relations with Communist Russia. Why then does Mr. Dulles' name not appear in current discussion?

Seeking merely the explanation of a phenomenon and without invidiousness, one might ask a supporter of Gen. Eisenhower for the Republican nomination—perhaps, for example, Gov. Dewey as the leading one—"Why not Mt. Dulles?" Without doubt Gov. Dewey would give good reasons why Gen. Eisenhower is his choice. Similarly supporters of Sen. Taft or any other aspirant would give good reasons for their choices. But the lack of any mention of Mr. Dulles would remain an unexplained phenomenon.

In any event, acquaintance with what Mr. Dulles did in bringing about the treaty of peace with Japan will give the people a sense of comfort and satisfaction that goes with knowing they have a fine and able man in public life. Probably four out of five of the nations that signed the treaty had reservations that made them reluctant to sign. Mr. Dulles reasoned with them, traveling some 125,000 miles to call on important ones. He went to New Zealand and Australia to allay apprehensions of those nations about Japan becoming independent and strong. When President Truman's dismissal of Gen. MacArthur created possibility of alarm in Japan, Mr. Dulles hurried to Tokyo to reassure them.

A trait of fairness and consideration that makes Mr. Dulles a diplomat and statesman in the best sense was illustrated by a telegram he sent Gen. MacArthur on the night the Japanese treaty was signed: "As we are about to sign the Japanese peace treaty my thought, like the thoughts of other delegates, will turn to you. You will be present in spirit, for the signing delegation and the witnessing multitude all know that without your great leadership in war and peace the result achieved here would not have been attainable. With deep personal regards and profound appreciation for the unwavering support which you have given me, I am, faithfully yours, John Foster Dulles."

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Distributed by International News Service)

When you call a senator a liar you are supposed to prove it. It requires a two-thirds plurality to nominate. The White House has the power to veto. And usually does it.

What does it say about that in the good book? Many shall be called but few shall be proven.

And we cannot even ask those battling senators to be their age. That would be an invitation to retire on three-quarters pay.

Russian Revolt Is Seen By Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, (AP) — Premier Marshall Tito predicts that the Russian people one day will cry "stop" to the practices of Stalin and his aides inside the Soviet Union.

Tito addressed a conference of Yugoslav unions at Zagreb. He had returned from a 350-mile journey to Rankovicevo, in Southern Serbia. In his address to some 5,000 persons in the Serbian town he listed the Roman Catholic Church as one of Yugoslavia's major enemies in the western world.

In his speech, the Yugoslav premier charged that Russia's leaders are practicing imperialism rather than socialism and are adopting an inhuman attitude toward their working people, using police methods for their "reduction." He continued amid cheers:

"One day the people of the U.S.S.R. will say to Stalin and his companions: 'Stop. We will not permit you to continue like this.'"

Tito himself raised the question as to why he had not spoken out against Russian practices before the break between the Soviet-led Cominform and Yugoslavia. He said:

"I thought that the situation in the Soviet Union was only a transitory one x x x but it became clear to us they do not wish allies but subordinates.

"We wanted to separate from them, but they had no desire to let us separate. They threatened us, and they threaten now, but we can tell them that we wish to be left alone to go our own road."

MISS LOUISE CESSNA

Louise Cessna To Become Bride Of S.Sgt. Carl O. Nave

Ceremony To Be Performed Tonight

Miss Louise Cessna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Cessna, Shade's Lane, will become the bride of Staff Sgt. Carl O. Nave, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Nave, Centerville, Pa., tonight.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 7 p. m., in Centre Street Methodist Church with Rev. Norman O. Scribner officiating. Standards of assorted white flowers and candelabra of lighted tapers are being used in the decorations.

Mrs. O. F. Lucas, College Park, is to be her sister's matron of honor and Mrs. Robert Lee Frey, bridesmaid. Veryle Nave is serving as his brother's best man while Glenn Nave and Robert Cessna are the ushers.

Mrs. Lynn Riggleman, soloist, is to sing, "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Kenneth Beck, who will play the traditional wedding marches and a program of nuptial music.

The bride, who is being given in marriage by her father, will be attired in a gown of lace and net over white satin. It is fashioned with a fitted bodice, buttoned down the back, high neckline and cap sleeves. The full skirt ends in a long sweeping train. Her fingertip length veil of illusion edged with lace, is held by a crown of seed pearls. With it she is wearing net mitts, trimmed with lace. Completing her costume the bride is carrying a white prayer book with orchid marker and satin streamers.

Her attendants' gowns are made complementary to hers, with fitted bodice, drop shoulder and full skirt. Mrs. Lucas' is egg shell satin with gold velveteen inserts in the skirt. Mrs. Frey's is green satin. Both have half crowns of fall flowers for their headdress and will carry bouquets of matching flowers.

Mrs. Cessna has chosen a black silk dress with black accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Nave will be attired in a Navy blue costume. Both have corsages of red rosebuds.

The bride is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, class of 1948, where she was active in the Ushers Club and Tri-Hi-Y. She is employed in the commercial department of the Potomac Edison Company, and is a member of the Young Business Women's Club.

S. Sgt. Nave is a graduate of Bedford High School and is stationed at Tacoma Air Force Base, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Cessna are entertaining with a wedding reception in honor of their daughter and her bridal party at their home, following the ceremony. Fall flowers are being used throughout the house and the bridal motif is being carried out in the tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

For their wedding trip to Washington, the bride is wearing a blue suit for traveling, with black accessories and her orchid corsage.

The bride will reside at the home of her parents while the bridegroom is in service.

Personals

Mrs. John L. Wellington, 303 Washington Street, has returned from Annapolis, where she attended the Princeton-Navy game.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Stein, 735 Washington Street, have returned from a two month tour of California and British Columbia. They were accompanied by their son, George L. Stein, who has accepted the general science post in the San Joaquin Valley, Calif., school.

John Mosner, Jr., Baltimore, is spending a two weeks vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McMillen, 213 Central Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Kopp, Jr., and Mrs. Catherine Jones, Baltimore, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Marker, 522 Williams Street.

Clem Bray, Jr., Baltimore, was in Cumberland yesterday attending the funeral of his aunt, Mrs. Sarah Eichner, Bedford Road. Bray conducted the Strand Theater Orchestra here following World War I and later organized his own dance band, traveling the entertainment circuit, including two seasons in vaudeville.

LaVale Young People Are Host To Adults

The young people of the LaVale Baptist Church entertained the adult members of the church and Sunday school at a banquet and program, recently in the church social room.

A fall motif was carried out in the decorations with autumn leaves and centerpieces of baskets of fruit made to represent horns of plenty. The speakers table was centered with a large cardboard crown with colored balls to represent jewels.

Mrs. Clifford Frith was master of ceremonies. As she introduced others on the program, she told humorous stories about each.

Representing "Six Jewels in a Crown" were Charles Robinson, emerald; Mrs. J. B. Steiding, pearl; John Coleman, sapphire; Mrs. John Barncord, topaz; Mrs. John Coleman, ruby, and Mrs. Roy Lafferty, diamond.

A trumpet solo was played by Brank Byer and a quartet composed of Mrs. David Lauder, Alma Lauder, Frank Byer and William Kauffman sang, "I'm a Child of the King." The orchestra, composed of junior and intermediate boys and girls, played a selection. Rev. Frith spoke on "The King's Business."

Young people who served the meal were Thelma McDonald, Carolyn Smith, Alma Lauder, Darlene Myers, Betty Tyree, Kista Wiseman, Maxine Glenn, Carol Andrews, Billy Ann Fisher, Barbara Tyree, Margaret Ann Frith, Carolyn Lease, Lillian Blubaugh, Shirley Strawser and Carol Jean Sweitzer. The girls were assisted by Owen Barncord and James Eisentrout.

Girl Scout Council Will Sponsor Canine Pet Show

Committee Members Named

The Cumberland Girl Scout Council formulated plans for Girl Scout Week and appointed new committee members at the meeting Monday afternoon at the Girl Scout house. Mrs. Lester Millenson, commissioner, presided.

Girl Scout Week is to be observed October 28 to November 3.

On October 28 the scouts will attend the 11 o'clock service at the First Presbyterian Church. The girls are to meet in front of the church at 10:45 a. m.

A Canine Pet Show will be held November 3 at 1 p. m., on the lawn at the Girl Scout house. Mrs. Eva Hogan is chairman for this event.

The National Convention will be held in Boston, Mass., October 14 to October 18. Mrs. Millenson and Mrs. Roberta McFarland, executive director, are delegates.

The following new committee members were appointed: Program, Mrs. John Moberley, Mrs. J. Elmer Minnick, Mrs. James McIntosh; Organization, Mrs. French Sensabaugh, Mrs. Simon Rosenbaum, Mrs. A. D. Darby and Mrs. B. Skitarelic; Public Relations, Mrs. John F. Schaidt, newspaper publicity.

Mrs. Gordon Bowie has been named Membership Chairman.

A training course for new leaders will start Tuesday, October 23, from 1 until 3 p. m. at the Girl Scout House under the direction of Mrs. McFarland.

Piney Plains Homemakers Meet

Mrs. Earl Creek was hostess to members of the Piney Plains Homemakers Club recently. Mrs. Franklin Norris opened the meeting with the group singing the song of the month, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Mrs. D. D. Norris read about the circumstances under which the hymn came to be written.

Routine reports were given by Mrs. Paul Mann and the club studied the quail and humming bird and Mrs. Earl Creek gave readings about each. Aluminum trays were exhibited and Mrs. Irene MacDonald, a guest, told of her trip to the national convention in Lansing, Mich.

The club presented Miss Maude A. Bean with a retirement gift.

Election of officers will be held at the November meeting.

TNT Club To Elect In Nov.

Members of the TNT Club formulated plans for the November meeting at the monthly session held recently at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Bloss, Mexico Farms. Officers are to be elected at the next meeting and names selected for the Christmas jingles. The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Daychek, 118 Oak Street. Mrs. Phyllis Fradiska presided. Routine reports were given.

A birthday and anniversary gift were presented to Mrs. Jane Adams and a birthday gift to Mrs. Daychek. Mrs. William Dalbaugh, Delphos, Ohio, a visitor, won the hostess prize.

Miniature figurines were given as favors.

Others present were Mrs. Esther Bell, Mrs. Charlotte Adams, and Mrs. June Johnson.

DAR To Hear Talk On Civil Defense

A talk on civil defense by William G. Barger, county chairman, will feature the meeting of the Cresap Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, today. The meeting is being held at the home of Mrs. Charles W. Willison, 323 Cumberland Street. Mrs. Marshall Miller is cohostess.

Mrs. A. M. Hutcheson will preside and Mrs. Paul Glime, Program chairman, introduce the speaker.

Washing Slip Covers

There's no need to iron most slip covers, says Florence Mason, University of Maryland home furnishings specialist. You can take the slip cover from the line while it's still slightly damp. The cover can be put right on the chair damp if you first protect the chair upholstery.

Most of the dampness will be in the seams of the slip covers. You can protect the chair upholstery by placing towels in the chair crevices before putting on the slip cover. Then after the slip cover has dried thoroughly, you remove the towels. If the slip cover has a ruffle or trim it should be pressed before going on the chair.

County Beauticians To Hold Benefit Card Party October 23

A nominating committee and delegate to the national convention were named and plans formulated for a card party at the meeting of the Allegany County Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association Monday evening at Stoops' Restaurant, Frostburg.

Mrs. Esther Smith was named delegate to the convention, which is being held in Chicago, October 20-23. The program includes a theater party and cocktail party Saturday; a demonstration by the Hair Fashion committee of the NHCA, Sunday; Parade of States, banquet and dance, Monday and delegates' session, luncheon and election and installation of officers, Tuesday.

A benefit card party is being given October 23, beginning at 8 o'clock. Canasta, set back and 500 are to be played. It will be at the home of Mrs. Catherine Welton, 451 Henderson Avenue.

Mrs. Mabel Gross was named chairman of the nominating committee and is assisted by Mrs. Irene Critzman and Mrs. Ruby Griffith. Election will be held November 12 at the meeting at Central YMCA.

Four members volunteered to go October 22, to the beauty salon the association maintains at Sylvan Retreat. They are Mrs. Critzman, Mrs. Griffith, Miss Ethel Henry and Mrs. Pauline Smith.

Three visitors attended, Miss Lillian Corey, Miss Frances Seaver and Miss Dorothy Abe.

ASA Alumna To Meet

Cumberland Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the home of Mrs. Harry Cornelius, Jr., Plymouth Drive.

Plans are to be formulated for the November meeting, at which time a food basket for the Associated Charities will be packed.

A report on the card party last week will be given.

Full Master Point Night Is Tomorrow

The semi-monthly Full Master Point Night of the Western Maryland Bridge Association will be held tomorrow night at the Cumberland Country Club. Play will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Albert D. Heacox, president, urges all members of the association to attend, as the Mason-Dixon Sectional Tournament opens at 2 p. m. Saturday afternoon and all players who need partners will have the opportunity to select one.

Beginner Bridge lessons, sponsored by the Western Maryland Bridge Association, are reported successful, and anyone caring to learn bridge from the first stage should contact Mrs. Fred Puderbaugh at 1227-J. Tonight's class will be at the home of Mrs. Puderbaugh, 777 Fayette Street.

The Heacox Pierce Circle of First Presbyterian Church will meet at 1:30 today in the lecture hall.

COUNTY OFFICERS CONGRATULATED BY MISS BEAN — Allegany County Council of Homemakers Clubs marked its annual Achievement Day program and elected two new officers yesterday in Centre Street Methodist Church social hall. A president and treasurer were elected with vice president and secretary remaining in office for another year. Concluding the program the Homemakers Chorus had a vesper service. Left to right are Mrs. Alan Hager, vice president; Mrs. Holmes Cessna, president; Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent; Mrs. Samuel Clingan, treasurer; and Mrs. Harold Bishop, secretary. James W. Gwin, director of extension, and John W. Magruder, director of county agents, were guests.

League To Hold Dance

The Women's League of Beth Jacob synagogue is sponsoring a dance tonight. Proceeds are to be used for the Sunday school.

An informal cabaret style dance, it will be held in the temple vestry room with the orchestra beginning to play at 9 p. m.

Refreshments will be available.

Members of the committee of arrangements are Mrs. Rita Waingold, Mrs. Charlotte Arzt, Mrs. Ellen Kline and Mrs. Rita Kardon.

OES Caravan To Visit Frostburg Unit

The fifth caravan of the Past Matrons and Past Patrons Association of the Western Maryland OES will be entertained by Mt. Chapter, No. 15, Frostburg, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Clara Shank, president, and Irvin Martin, vice president, are to be welcomed and a program, "Down Happiness Lane," will be presented by Margartha Yates, worthy marton, R. Edgar Bennett, worthy patron, and chapter officers.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Violette Johnson and her committee.

Mr., Mrs. H. O. Bruner Mark 52nd Wedding Anniversary

Mrs. H. Orten Bruner entertained with a party in celebration of her husband's birthday and their 52nd wedding anniversary.

It was held Sunday at their home, 1513 Bedford Street.

The former Miss Edith Fisher, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fisher, Bedford Valley; became the bride of Harry Orten Bruner, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bruner, Bedford Valley, Pa., October 10, 1899, with the ceremony being solemnized in Bedford.

Mr. Bruner was a farmer until he came to Cumberland about 26 years ago, and was employed doing odd jobs. Both he and Mrs. Bruner are in good health and do their everyday work.

Guests at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Murray Cook, Lock Haven, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Fisher, Sewickley, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fisher, Rainsburg, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Iva Fisher, city; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Johnson, Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Oster and daughter, Ruth Elaine, Flintstone.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—Every so often the big town finds itself filled with movie performers, here on one pretense or another, and this is one of those times. Ham actors are coming through the windows, as we used to say back in the upper fourth at Groton. You can't take a quiet walk down Broadway these nights without stumbling upon some cinematic matinee idol who will fix his magnetic stare on you and tell you he's hunting a suitable playscript.

Some of them are tolerable and one or two even enjoyable to speak to. Several notches above both these classes is Miss Joan Caulfield, late of Orange, N. J., and New York.

Over a period of six or seven years, or ever since she left the cast of "Kiss and Tell" to try her luck in Hollywood, Joan has been my favorite movie person. A series of classically mediocre movies has kept her from showing the public much of her acting ability but hasn't dampened her personality. She is pretty, intelligent, honest, kind and gracious.

In town for a few days after a short summer of acting in "The Voice of the Turtle" in the hay lofts, Joan dragged out the ginger ale and cigarets the other afternoon and brought me up to date on life in Hollywood.

Joan is the girl who some years ago told me candidly that when she went out to make movies she was "going Hollywood" with no holds barred. She was going to live there and like it. None of this nonsense about pining away for New York. It made me melancholy but it made sense.

"Well," she told me, grinning, "I love it." She went on to tell me why. For a year and a half she has been married to Frank Ross, who once was Jean Arthur's man, and aside from being in love with him, she has a staggering appreciation of his directorial talents.

Frank has produced her new picture "The Lady Says No." Furthermore, Joan now lives in a house that John Barrymore used to own. It goes without saying that no mere house could rid itself completely of the traces of Barrymore, so how could she help being in wonderland?

Kate Hepburn used to live in Joan's house, and Frances Bergen lives across the street. It was Mrs. Bergen's great ambition to meet Hepburn, but you know Kate. None of that friends-and-neighbors foolishness for her. One day, however, Frances took her baby daughter, Candy out on the sidewalk just as Hepburn came out and Kate couldn't escape meeting them head-on. She met the challenge magnificently. Striding past, she paused briefly, eyed the child and said, flatly, "Spit image of Edgar"—and marched on.

• — • — •

ALSO IN TOWN IS HOLLYWOOD'S most celebrated health fiend, Robert Cummings, the pride of Joplin, Mo. Cummings has just polished off a movie called "The Barefoot Mailman" but he is around these parts chiefly because he will open shortly in a play with Ann Sothern, "Faithfully Yours."

Handsome and incredibly young-looking (he has to be older than he looks), Cummings had me to breakfast in his suite at the Warwick and, in between downing beakers of orange juice crammed with every conceivable health food and vitamin, he told me the story of the Great English Fraud.

It was in the depression years that Bob, struggling vainly to get an acting job on Broadway, almost got one when he was mistaken for an Englishman. Englishmen were about the only actors in demand, those days. So Mr. Cummings took steps.

He cashed in a life insurance policy, sailed to England, spent 29 days roaming the country on a motorcycle; bought himself some tweeds and a stick—and, at long last, sat down and wrote to 80 or 90 New York producers, directors and actors' agents that Blade Stanhope Conway, Esq., the celebrated British leading man, was coming to America and would be available for interviews and possible juicy acting roles.

Don't think it didn't work. Bob got back to New York and fell right into a fat part in Galsworthy's "The Roof"—and was on his way.

As an old admirer of the fraudulent, I got a big boot out of his story. I hope you do, too. There's nothing like a magnificent depression to brighten up the dull world in which we live.

On an average winter day, about 6,000,000 persons in the U. S. are temporarily or permanently disabled because of illness.

GIRLS WITH A YEN for some of the color and flare that are part of the drama of the Spanish bullring can satisfy their desire with these New York fall fashions. The black velvet lounging costume by Haymaker Sports features tapered slacks fastened with rhinestone buttons at the ankle. The almost-sleeveless blouse closes at the waist with a matching button. A neckline scarf of a favorite color is added. The toreador styling in an evening costume is by Pattullo-Jo Copeland. The black velvet cape is lavishly embroidered with jet beads and silk braid in the manner of a bullfighter's cape. The dress, matching the cape lining, is of brilliant pink silk satin with shoulder straps that criss-cross over the draped bodice. Tina Leser designed the worsted finish winter cotton with its flashing black and red Spanish stripes. The low neckline and short sleeves of the dress are banded in black velvet. Scattered velvet bows are tied on the loosely knit black wool shawl. (International)

How well do you administer authority? Here are some important considerations for those who direct others.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Are you the woman in charge of your home, a department or section of an office, factory or school, or the committee of a club? If so, you would be interested in reading the heavy and expressive mail occasioned by my recent columns on criticism of career girls by their employers and vice versa. It proves that there are far too many people in positions of authority who have not acquired the knack of handling others. Strategy in handling those in your charge is as important to your success as is the knowledge of the work involved.

Effective Tools

Your voice and your manner are two most important tools in getting results from others. They control the effectiveness of every spoken order, criticism, or suggestion. And unless you control them your success and future as an executive are dubious.

The kind of authority that produces harmony and precludes repressed discord is always based on confidence — the confidence those you direct have in you. To foster and earn this mark of excellence of a good executive, keep these considerations in mind:

1. Take care to talk in terms that show you understand the other fellow's interest and problems. Take the trouble to speak softly. As an old Greek philosopher said, "Speak to me in a whisper and I shall listen all day: Shout and I shall run away at once." How human — in any language!

To Be Well-Liked

2. Make it a point of pride to be clear, ultra specific, and concrete in all of your instructions and directions. Before you speak, figure out exactly what you mean, and then exactly how you are going to get your meaning across. This will save others from having to try to guess — and you from having to correct them later.

3. Never be condescending. Only treating others as equals inspires their confidence—and their respect!

In a country where democratic ways are the ideal, the voice of continuing authority is always the voice that is well-liked!

Tomorrow: Hold your summer bloom.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—Ever try to tell an extended story in a restaurant? You must have, but if you haven't it goes something like this:

Raconteur (Har!)—Did you ever hear the one about the crummy little guy who came into Lord and Taylor's one day, looked around at the people spending all the money, and asked a floor walker 'who runs this place?' Well . . .

Waiter (hovering overhead, suddenly, with a smile packed with the bright insincerity of winter sunshine)—Will you have a cocktail before dinner?

Raconteur — Well, this crummy little fellow was directed to . . . What? Oh, a drink. Sure. What will you folks have?

Folks—Martini . . . Old fashioned . . . Scotch and soda . . . Scotch and water and go easy on the water . . . Manhattan . . . A sweet sour.

Raconteur—Fine. Make mine the usual: A pousse cafe on the rocks. So, like I was saying, this crummy little fellow was told that the boss of the store was . . .

One of the folks (to waiter)—Make that martini real dry, Mac. Just wave the vermouth bottle over the gin, and I want a small tomato in it instead of an olive.

Raconteur—Well, they told this little fellow that the boss was Dorothy Shaver, so he said . . .

Waiter — What's the gentleman want in his old fashioned?

Gentleman — Whiskey! (Uncontrolled laughter for ten minutes from the gentleman, and waiter departs wondering where he hid his supply of Mickey Finns.)

Raconteur—So he said . . .

One of the folks—Who said?

Raconteur — This crummy little fellow who came into Lord and Taylor's one day and looked around at the people spending all the money, and asked a floor walker 'Who . . .'

Waiter (with tray)—Who had the Scotch and water and go easy on the water?

Raconteur (after straightening out all the drinks)—Like I was saying, so the crummy little guy gets up to Dorothy Shaver's office and he says, 'What would. . . .' (He is temporarily blinded by a large menu placed in front of his eyes by the waiter.)

Waiter—Will you order now? I can recommend the goulash Nick Kenny. Had some myself when I et early. Delicious.

Raconteur (getting a little desperate)—Fine. Goulash Nick Kenny all around. I'll cut this story short, but it'll kill you. So this crummy little guy says to her, 'What would you take for the store?' Imagine! So she says . . .

Waiter—What will you have first, gentlemen?

Gentlemen — Bluepoints, little necks, shrimp with Russian, shrimp with plain, what kind of soup is the soup du jour and is it today's?

Raconteur—So she says a hundred and ninety eight million or some figure like that. Well this bum says mind if I talk it over with the wife, and she says no go ahead. So the next day . . .

Waiter (reappearing cheerfully)—All out of goulash Nick Kenny.

Raconteur — At that rate how about steaks all around. Okay? Fine! So the next day . . .

Waiter—How you want 'em done?

Raconteur—Soon, get it? I'll cut this short. So the next day this crummy little guy comes back to Miss Shaver's office and he says he talked it over with the wife and they decided not to buy Lord and Taylor's for a hundred and ninety eight million or some figure like that. 'Why?' she asked with a smile. And he says . . .

Waiter (juggling tray ominously)—Who had the well-done?

One of the folks (to raconteur)—Yeah, I heard that one. 'No place for us to live in back,' he says. That the one? Reminds me of the guy whose television screen was so small he could only get one of Milton Berle's heads, so he sent for this repairman named . . .

Mishap Occurs At RR Crossing

A 19-year-old youth narrowly escaped death late Monday when a B. and O. helper locomotive struck his car on the Bedford Street crossing and carried the vehicle 25 feet.

Police identified the motorist as Donald Joseph Rice, 727 Bedford Street, and said he was not hurt. The accident occurred about 11:15.

Officer Kenneth Morrissey, who investigated, said Rice ignored a red lantern held by the watchman and started across the tracks. Slow-moving Engine No. 5500 struck the right side of a 1936 car and pushed it toward Frederick Street.

Rail traffic was delayed ten minutes so the car could be extricated from the engine. The engineer was listed as H. C. Blades, 919 North Grand Avenue.

Rice paid $10 fine in Police Court for careless driving.

Four-year-old Eugene Pannone, 8 Virginia Avenue, was examined at Memorial Hospital last night after an automobile struck him on Oldtown Road, between Arch Street and Virginia Avenue. Attaches said he suffered shock but no injuries.

No charges were filed against the driver, Elmer David Waterfield, 50, Route 2, Oldtown Road.

The average steam railroad locomotive contains one mile of boiler tubing.

Two Cabooses Burn In Mishap

Two empty cabooses were destroyed at 2:0 a. m. yesterday on the rear of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad coal train one mile east of Piedmont when they were struck by a "deadheading" Diesel helper.

The eastbound extra coal train, No. 72, had stopped when Engine No. 277 returning to Keyser rammed into it. No one was injured.

One caboose was thrown on the top of the last hopper of the 63-car train. Both cabooses caught fire and when the tracks were cleared yesterday, nothing was left of them but their trucks and wheels.

The 63rd car in the stopped train was also damaged and pushed aside to re-open the blocked rails Nos. 1, 2 and 4.

At the time of the collision, the coal train brakeman was putting down the retainers and the conductor had gone back to flag.

Damage to the cabooses was estimated at $4,000 and to the loaded coal hopper, $400. The Diesel engine that struck the train was reported only slightly damaged.

The tracks as not torn up and traffic was restored at 7:10 a. m.

B. and O. officials did not give any reason for the wreck. C. R. Fraley of Keyser was engineer of the coal train.

Train No. 23 was re-routed from Cumberland over the Western Maryland Railway to West Virginia Junction at Beryl. Trains No. 2 and 24 going east were re-routed at Beryl to Rawlings.

W. Md. Railway Gross Drops

The Western Maryland Railway reports its gross operating revenues for September fell about seven per cent below the same month last year.

This decrease was noted despite an increase in freight rates made effective late in August.

The company estimated its September gross at $3,668,000 as compared with $3,947,004 a year earlier.

September was the first month this year that operating revenues of the road have compared unfavorably with the previous year.

A drop in coal loadings cut into the road's earnings last month. Revenues from that source were estimated at $1,335,000—down about $371,500 or 22 per cent from a year ago.

Other freight receipts, at about $2,171,500, exceeded last year by approximately $65,000 or three per cent.

For the first nine months of 1951, the road's gross operating revenues from all sources were still about 18 per cent ahead of last year. They were estimated at $35,352,500 as compared with $29,988,242 in the similar 1950 period.

Coal freight revenues for the nine months were figured at $12,268,000, up two per cent, and other freight receipts at $21,415,000, up 28 per cent compared with last year.

Best age for a woman to have children is estimated at 20 to 24.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Is homesickness a military problem?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. M. Bachet, in the (French) Annals of Medical Psychology. Historic and modern reports of homesickness in soldiers and prisoners of war do not adequately recognize the effects of infections and vitamin starvation, but is it also true that homesickness may become "a scourge to armies in the field" by causing a "reactive depression" that may become epidemic. Pathological homesickness can develop into other forms of mental illnesses especially "agitated mental confusion." The more nearly normal a man is, the more he will miss normal human contacts and become depressed when deprived of them.

Can hypnosis make you do wrong?

Answer: No, says a new booket "Psychiatry For You," edited by Dr. Robert V. Seliger. "There are no facts to show that inappropriate acts (anti-social, etc.) have been carried out by usual average hypnotized subjects." If a hypnotist told you to walk out into heavy traffic your trance would at once be broken, and the same would happen if a woman were told to do something she regarded as improper. (Another psychiatrist tells how a girl instantly "came to" when asked to disrobe in front of a class.) The main phychiatric value of hypnosis is that it helps you to remember what you would be ashamed to recall when awake.

May astrology relieve a guilty conscience?

Answer: Yes. One reason why so many people still cling to this long-exploded superstition is that it relieves them from "moral responsibility." If losing your job or having your marriage go to smash is "written in the stars," then neither is your fault, and your conscience need not bother you about them. But unfortunately, this also absolves you from trying to find the real reasons why you went wrong and leaves you free to go right on making the same blunders. And because your inner conflicts remain untouched, you "repress" your sense of guilt, but do not get rid of it.

Return From Korea

Four Allegany county soldiers are among 42 Marylanders arriving in Seattle from Korea.

Port officials identified the veterans as Cpl. Eldrin J. Fritz and Sgt. Blaine E. Heller, both of Cumberland, and Sgt. First Class Howard V. Lashbaugh and Sgt. First Class Allen E. Miller, Barton.

County Timber Sales Show $223,469 Total

The importance of timber products in Allegany county is stressed by Floyd Buser, chairman of the observance of Maryland Land Week for the county, who listed some facts concerning this industry yesterday.

Buser said 281 farm operators were advised on forest management during a six-year period ending this year. A total of 93,227 acres were checked under this program. There were 55 owners who took part in improved production methods in cutting timber on 2,200 acres, Buser said.

Timber products worth $223,469 were marketed under the advice of the State Department of Forests and Parks.

When it is known that 67 per cent of Allegany county is woodlands, it can readily be seen the importance of conservation of timber resources, according to Buser. Based on an agriculture standpoint, Buser said planting of trees on sub-marginal land of county farms would provide an additional crop at low cost and also prevent erosion of land. Trees are the only thing which could be planted on such lands and the forestry program for reforestation of sub-marginal lands usually results in timber products such as mine props and Christmas trees.

Conservation of wildlife resources also results from the cooperative program between the state Game and Inland Fish Commission and the State Department of Forests and Parks, Buser declared.

Wildlife refuges, feeding areas and planting of various shrubs, grains and other sources of food for game are included in the cooperative program.

Tombs hewn out of solid rock were used by the Etruscan as independent family burial places.

Fish reportedly produce more abnormalities than do any other living beings.

Md. Civil Defense Officials Meet With County Leaders

Officials of the Maryland Civil Defense organization met with directors and officers of three of the four counties in the area at the Naval Reserve Armory yesterday to formulate plans for a concentrated program.

The conference was continued through noon. Most of the early discussion concerned recruiting volunteers and training.

Represented are Allegany, Washington, and Garrett. Frederick county did not sent a representative.

Col. David G. McIntosh, 3rd, state director, led discussions of civil defense needs. Also here from the state organization are Samuel J. Powers, deputy director of communications; Lee W. Tipton, deputy director of fiscal and supply; Jay K. Secor, deputy director of training; and Ruth S. Surratt, administrative assistant.

Others attending are William G. Barger, director for Allegany county; Arthur B. Gibson, civil defense officer for Cumberland; John S. Elliott, Garrett county director; R. Bowen Hardesty, superintendent of schools; Lawrence M. Fraley, Garrett fire departments; Arthur C. Calhoun, assistant director for Garrett county; C. L. Moberly, director for Washington county; Floyd L. Davis, Luke director; Major Grant Hoover, unit instructor for the State of Maryland and S. W. Green, Frostburg civil defense officer.

The state is planning to send into the four counties a team which will train volunteers. In the four-county western area, it appears that key people in the civil defense programs will take the training and then pass knowledge on to other volunteers. The courses are for eight hours.

The counties must choose times best adapted to their needs for sponsoring the courses.

Of the three counties present, only Allegany had outstanding comment on the recent Civil Defense Week observance. Barger said that the recruiting drive got fair results while the Washington and Garrett representatives said results were practically nil.

McIntosh warned that "we must not drop the ball" but continue recruiting duties preparatory to starting the training program. Training courses are expected to lead to more interest among prospective volunteers.

McIntosh also asked that county officials urge county commissioners to provide full-time clerical help to the civil defense organizations in the respective counties.

Statewide, McIntosh said, about 160,000 volunteers are needed for the program.

The agenda for the western area conference included training courses (state and federal), administrative matters including a permanent office, recruiting and terminology; organization of the state staff, the results of Civil Defense Week, matching funds and the status of local plans and organizations.

When the conference ended, a question and answer forum was scheduled.

Politics School Course Debated

BALTIMORE—(AP)—Should the state's high schools teach a course in Maryland government and politics?

Three legislators and two school administrators will meet here tonight to tackle that problem. The five make up a commision appointed by Gov. McKeldin and requested by the last General Assembly to "study the possibilities of installing a course in state government and politics in each of the high schools in this state."

"It is a primary function of the schools of this state," the legislative resolution said, "to give adequate training and education to equip their students for the practical realities of later life."

The course, it added, would "include the study of the structure and workings of the state government and also an adequate coverage of the practical workings of political parties."

Members of the commission are Del. Samuel Hopkins (R-Balto Third), chairman; Del. Melvin M. Derr (R-Frederick), Del. Perry O. Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges), Dr. William H. Lemmel, Baltimore City schools superintendent, and Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state schools superintendent.

WVU Counselor To Visit County

High school students of the area will have the opportunity of getting information on West Virginia University when a faculty member visits the schools October 15-19.

Robert S. Grumbach, instructor in the Department of Electrical Engineering, will visit Allegany, Fort Hill, Ridgeley, LaSalle, Fort Ashby, Keyser, Piedmont, Elk Garden and Bayard high schools.

In addition to individual interviews, Grumbach will address assemblies and other groups. Copies of the new university catalogue, a special edition of the Athenaeum, the student newspaper, and a picture booklet of the university will be distributed.

Grumbach is a graduate of Morgantown High School and studied at West Virginia and the University of Richmond. He was graduated from Case School of Applied Science and was formerly distribution design engineer for the Monongahela Power Company. He is also active in Boy Scout work.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

There's Nothing Funny About A Murder

There's nothing funny about a murder for the first 20 years after it happened. Then some sidelights seem to be amusing. Joseph Elwell was the great bridge expert of his day, and also found time to be a man about town, a kind of a synthetic dude when fixed up with all his trimmings. The maid, Mrs. Larson, who lived out, discovered him dead when she reported for work the morning of June 11, 1920, drilled through the head with a single bullet, apparently as he sat reading a letter. The shell was found on the floor. The murderer and weapon are still missing.

John Wheeler

As the French say—"Cherchez la femme." The police began pawing through the house, and came across a silk kimono, lingerie, and a pair of slippers for female feet which were not a part of Mr. Elwell's wardrobe. He lived alone, more or less, being separated from his wife.

When found, he was clad in pajamas, was not wearing any of his four wigs, or his false teeth. The police concluded he either knew his visitor well—especially if one of the so-called gentler sex—or was taken by surprise.

Of course, this event set off headlines in the biggest type. Everybody who ever was acquainted with the victim was questioned, and his movements for a few days before the murder was traced. The previous evening, Elwell had had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lewisohn, and her sister, Viola Kraus, who was a pretty girl and unfortunately she played an important part as the investigation proceeded. It turned out she had been friendly with Mr. Elwell for some time, and, as far as it could be developed, there were no signs of a recent quarrel between the two.

A mysterious character, who was known as "Miss Wilson," appeared through the testimony of Mrs. Larson. It was suspected this was not her right name, although that was how she was known to the maid. The lady admitted the night garments belonged to her, and that she had tried to get a box containing these out of the place, but refused to say whether she made the effort before or after the murder. As I recall it the milkman found everything in order at the front door as he came along on his early morning delivery, and so did the newspaper boy.

This naturally produced the theory the murderer knew the house well and also that he or she was an Annie Oakley—a lady who used to be a trick shot specialist with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. Whoever did it plugged him right between the eyes in the forehead with a single bullet. It was later found in the wall. Now there were three keys to the kitchen door, one in the possession of the boss, Mrs. Larson had another, and the third has not turned up yet. The person who carried that has never been found. It was decided the sharpshooter entered through the back door and left by the same route.

The widow was questioned, having shown up after she read her husband had been killed, and she thought it might have been the result of a row over some gambling debt. The police didn't pay much attention to her ideas. The generally accepted conclusion was a woman had pulled the trigger, but she must have been a calm one and thrifty to do it with one shot. Then there were some who thought the unwritten law had been behind it, and he was killed by some irate husband.

No one was ever arrested, although the newspapers kept the story alive for weeks and the police didn't drop it for a long time, and may still be working on it for all I know. Five years after the murder, the New York Daily News reported the mysterious "Miss Wilson" was living in Paris and earning her living there as a model.

As a romantic footnote, Westbrook Pegler was employed at the time by the United Press as a reporter and a very smart girl named Julie Harpman by the New York News. Both covered the case, and that's how they met. They were married shortly afterwards and have been ever since, so there was a silver lining.

PIN-WORMS
MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms ... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge ... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Hughes Asks Court To Throw Out Conviction

Seeks New Verdict In Picket's Death

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 9 (AP)—A 25-year-old Midland coal hauler whose truck killed an Allegany County mine picket asked the Court of Appeals today to wipe out his manslaughter conviction.

Attorneys for William J. Hughes argued a mechanical breakdown caused his ton-and-a-half truck to swing off Old Cemetery Road into a parked car and fatally injure Thomas Robertson of Lonaconing.

Robertson was in a group of men on picket duty at a George's Creek Coal Company tipple near Knapp's Meadow on May 3, 1950. Another, Melvin Cuthbertson, was injured.

Two judges sitting without a jury in Allegany County Circuit Court convicted Hughes of manslaughter and sentenced him to three months in the County Jail.

"You can't guess men into jail," Hughes' attorneys asserted today.

They said there was no evidence to show Hughes jockeyed his truck on the narrow road to frighten some of the 30 or so pickets clustered near the mine. The trial judges had concluded that was the case, adding "unfortunately, he went too close x x x"

Hughes was a partner with his father, brother and another relative in the coal business. He drove the truck. They sold part of the coal from their non-union operation to the George's Creek Company.

United Mine Workers pickets were out for the third day when Hughes drove to the mine office to pick up a check for coal previously delivered.

When he stopped, Hughes found a board fastened with long nails to a back tire.

Hughes probably was "annoyed or mad, as he naturally would be," about the puncture, his attorneys said.

But they argued that "is no reason for assuming that he intentionally turned into the men who were on the road, who had gathered there in a great number and placed themselves in a position where the very thing which could happen did."

Hughes had said he jammed on his brakes, but a rear spring snapped, the back wheels twisted out of line so the rear of the truck swerved into the parked car and the drive shaft fell out. The truck stopped a short distance away when the shaft gouged into the road.

tion of certain badly soiled and torn mattresses, repairing and replacement of some corroded metal plates and shower and toilet equipment, repainting of cell blocks and certain improvements in the kitchen.

The grand jury suggests that these repairs be undertaken immediately by the county commissioners and that the January, 1952, grand jury report on progress.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his deputies were commended for the "excellent manner in which the jail is governed," and Mrs. Wilbur D. Sills, county auditor, for her cooperation in showing county records to a committee from the grand jury.

Special tribute was paid to the late Frederick C. "Buck" Dreyer, who died last month after having served as treasurer of the county since 1938. Besides commending him for his service as treasurer, the grand jury observed that he gave unsparingly of his time and effort in community projects and in rescue work.

Court House Noted

A number of suggestions for improvements at the Court House were carried in the grand jury report. Poor lighting on the third floor was emphasized.

The grand jury, hitting a special note for Fire Prevention Week, reported that the substantial quantity of old records stored in basement corridors constituted a dangerous fire hazard and should be eliminated.

A suggestion that the Court House custodian, Alvin Snyder, be given additional assistants beyond the two he now has was inserted into the report.

In its final section, the grand jury commended State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher for "the very efficient and able manner" in which he presented matters before the grand jury. Commendation also was extended to William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney, Joseph E. Boden, clerk of court, and court attaches for their assistance to the grand jury.

The report was signed by Julian C. Patrick, grand jury foreman, and Frank R. Blau and James F. Bittner, grand jury clerks.

Associate Judge George Henderson recessed the jurors.

Part of the cost of the structure, Defibaugh commented, might be borne by the state and federal governments from funds allotted to crossing elemination.

The city, he added, would have to build a street along the railroad right-of-way from Baltimore to Williams Street for the benefit of firms in that area.

Students Hear Msgr. Vaeth

Monsignor Louis Vaeth, director of the catholic students Mission Crusade for the Baltimore diocese yesterday told students of the four Cumberland Catholic schools that prayer and personal sacrifices are paramount in the success of missionary work throughout the world.

The future of missionary work is bright, he added, because of the zeal and faith of the young Catholic students of today.

Occasion for Msgr. Vaeth's talk was a meeting of the Western Maryland Unit of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade in St. Mary's School, Oldtown Road.

Welcoming the group, including moderators and unit members of Ursline Academy, Girls Central, La Salle High and St. Mary's High, was Father L. P. Landrigan, pastor of St. Mary's.

An address was also given by Rev. Robert Hopkins, assistant pastor of St. Mary's and director of the Western Maryland Propagation of the Faith and moderator of the CSMC.

A Playlet was presented by St. Mary's unit acquainting the members with the work of Pauline Jaricot, founder of the Society for Propagation of the Faith. Unit reports were also given by the secretaries.

The State's Attorney's office yesterday continued to investigate he fatal bus-car collision on Route 36 at Nikep which killed John William Moreland, 26, of Franklin.

John Muir, 46, of Eckhart Mines, driver of the bus was questioned after the accident.

William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney, said last night that about five witnesses were interrogated yesterday. The investigation will continue today, he said.

B & O Engineer Given Suspended $10 Fine

A B. and O. engineer accused of blocking the Union Street crossing was given a suspended $10 fine yesterday in Police Court after Magistrate William J. Gunter pointed out that "the situation can not be corrected by fines."

The defendant, L. H. Bragg, of Grafton, W. Va., admitted he blocked the tracks 18 minutes Friday morning.

"It's a regular occurrence," Bragg said.

A railroad spokesman said the holdup in vehicular traffic depends on the volume of mail leaving Cumberland. Bragg's train was being used for express shipments and mail.

Police Lt. Edwin R. Lilya said Detective Ernest M. Powell was dispatched to the crossing after Chief R. Emmett Flynn received a number of complaints. Bragg was found operating Engine No. 4476, Train No. 29, an express from Washington to St. Louis.

Area Club To Observe Maryland Land Week

The Town Creek Valley Club will observe Maryland Land Week Saturday night beginning at 7:30 o'clock with a program of guest speakers and movies.

J. M. Hughes, president, said this is the first of a series of entertainments planned for this fall and winter including a Halloween party.

Smoke Report Due Here This Week

Mayor Thomas S. Post announced yesterday that a report on this city's smoke control ordinance is expected to arrive by Friday.

Raymond Tucker, St. Louis engineer and consultant, advised Mayor Post that the report, tentatively promised for Monday will probably not arrive until Friday.

Tucker advised he would need several days to study some additional data which arrived at his office shortly before the report was to be issued.

Ski Club To Hold Its Second Meeting

The Western Marland Ski Club will hold its second meeting at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at Central YMCA.

Subjects to be discussed include selection of designs for the club shoulder patch and membership card, and discussion of the handbook to be obtained by members. Two skiing movies will be shown.

The club was reorganized at a recent meeting at the YMCA.

To Attend Meeting

Thomas F. Conlon, chairman of the Second Army Advisory Committee for Allegany and Garrett counties, will attend a luncheon of all the state's chairmen today at 12:15 p. m. at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore.

Zone Chairmen Named In LaVale Fund Drive

Zone leaders for the fund campaign scheduled October 15 to 23 by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company have been announced by James W. Beacham, general chairman.

The drive is being conducted for mortgage retirement and equipment, Beacham said.

LaVale has been divided into 23 zones for the house-to-house canvass. Last week the first of three letters outlining the work of the company was mailed to residents.

The zone chairmen are:

Leo Dressman, Alvin G. Youngblood, Sr. Lloyd Smith, Ray Nine, John W. Ritchie, William Dressman, Ralph Hendrickson, Jerome Helmstetter, John K. Snyder, Cromwell Zembower.

Richard Burkey, Merrill Sturtz, Eugene Kreissig, Wilmer Crowe, Paul Goldsworthy, Charles B. Krim, Earl Zembower, Alvin G. Youngblood, Jr., and Bruce Long III.

Lopat Scores 2nd Series Win, Koslo Faces Raschi Today

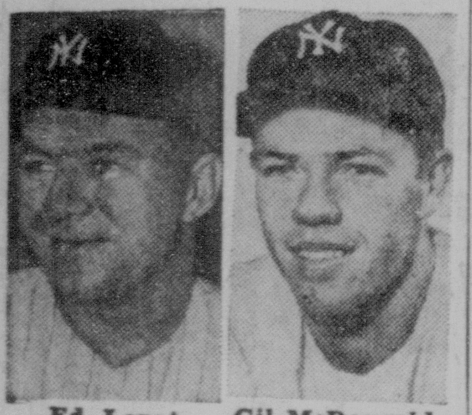
Giants Suffer 13-1 Walloping In Fifth Game

Yanks Could Sew It Up Today; McDougald Belts 4-Run Homer

By GAYLOR TALBORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP) — The world series blew up—boom—right in the Giants' red faces today.

In the worst slaughter perpetrated in a playoff game for 15 years, the New York Yankees put the slug on Leo Durocher's wonder boys, 13 to 1, to run the victory count to 3-2 in their favor.



Ed Lopat Gil McDougald

Records were tied all over the Polo Grounds as Gil McDougald, the Yankee's great rookie infielder, propelled a home run into the left field balcony with the bases loaded in the third inning and Joe DiMaggio celebrated his 50th appearance in a world series game.

McDougald Equals Record

Only two other batters ever matched the feat of the 22-year-old McDougald, who only last season was themost valuable player in the Texas League, none had done it since 1936, when Tony Lazzeri of the Yanks helped officiate at a similar massacre of the Giants in the same park. That final score was 18-4. DiMaggio's big 50 exactly equalled the record set by Frankie Frisch more than a decade ago.

Except for another wonderful job of pitching by Ed Lopat, slick Yankee southpaw, it was a pretty horrible exhibition for the Giant partisans among the 47,530 wans to witness. It was strictly no contest after McDougald exploded to climax a five-run fifth inning which disposed of Larry Jansen, righthanded Giants's ace.

The stylish Lopat exactly matched his magnificent performance of the second game by throttling the National Leaguers with five hits and a single run. Only one Giant reached first in the final four innings as Lopat's mastery reached its peak.

Yankees Get 12 Hits

For the Giants the afternoon was a nightmare. They employed five pitchers in an effort to still the Bomber bats, but finally succeeded in doing so only in the final two frames.

Co-starring with McDougald in the 12-hit assault was little Phil Rizzuto, who pushed a two-run homer into the close right field stands in the fourth off Montia Kennedy. The great shortstop also clouted a single and scored three times.

The Giants contrived two of their five hits and their only run off Lopat in the first when Alvin Dark lined a single to left and came all the way home on Monte Irvin's single which leftfielder Gene Woodling bobbled.

After that Easy Ed had them hogtied and ready for market. The chunky portside permitted only one Giant to reach second in the last eight innings. That was on catcher Wes Westrum's double in the fourth, and Wes never saw third. Lopat issued only one walk, to Willie Mays to open the second inning. He struck out three.

Only Dark and Irvin continued to thrive on Yankee hurling. Each whacked a pair of singles in a hopeless cause. Irvin's brace ran his total for the five games played to 11, tying the record for safeties in a six-game series. The most ever hit in any series was 12, by four different players. A tremendous one-handed catch by Gene Woodling in deep left-center robbed Irvin of what looked like a certain triple in the ninth.

Every player in the Yankee starting lineup except Lopat feasted on Jansen and his relievers. Woodling belted a prodigious drive to right-center in the ninth, but was thrown out trying to stretch it into a home run. Besides Jansen and Kennedy, George Spencer, Al Corwin and Alex Konikowski felt the lash.

Hoping to wind things up and get home before Christmas, Stengel is giving Vic Raschi another shot at the drooping Giants tomorrow. Durocher's boys racked him up in winning the third game, clouting him out in five innings.

Durocher had little choice. It had to be Dave Koslo, the somewhat unheralded southpaw who bewildered and beat the Yanks in the series' opener.

Shuffle League Opens Thursday With 14 Teams

Shaughnessy Plan Adopted By Loop

The Allegany County Shuffleboard League begins its fifth year of operation on Thursday, October 11 at 8:30 p. m.

The league again will function with 14 teams with Fisher and Robinette's Tavern and the Purple Heart being new entries. A major change put into effect this year is the elimination of the split season in favor of the Shaughnessy playoff.

Each team will play the other league teams on a home and home basis with the top four teams participating in the playoffs at the season's end on April 3.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are Glen Watkins, president; Bob Powers, vice president; Bill Nelson, secretary-treasurer, with Art Beaulieu, Harry Frost and John Lewis as the board of governors.

The defending champions of Stadium Inn, Frostburg, open the season at Purple Heart on Thursday. Other openers are: Frostburg American Legion at Goodfellowship Club, Cumberland V.F.W. at the Alhambra Club, Cumberland K. of C. at the Cumberland Amvets, Woodmen of the World at Viaduct Inn, Mt. Savage V.F.W. at Frostburg K. of C., and Fisher and Robinette at Frostburg Century Club.

Michigan State Holds No. 1 Spot

Maryland Is 10th In Second AP Poll

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Undefeated Michigan State barely retained its position as the No. 1 football team in the land today, nipping California's high-scoring Golden Bears by a mere 10 points—or the equivalent of one first-place vote—in the second weekly Associated Press poll of the season.

Michigan State staged a late rally Saturday to defeat ninth-ranked Ohio State for its third straight win, and that, according to the sports writers and broadcasters who participated in the voting, was good enough to keep the Spartans in the top spot.

California made its bid for the coveted position by overwhelming Minnesota, 55 to 14, in a display of brute power. That gave the Bears three straight victories and 124 points, a better than 40-per-game average.

While California held its No. 2 slot on offensive might, Tennessee retained its No. 3 post on defensive strength. The undefeated, unscored-upon Vols knocked off Duke, 26 to 0, to make it two straight wins.

All told, 112 sports writers and broadcasters voted in this week's poll, which saw the rest of the top ten shape up as follows: 4—Texas A. & M. 5—Notre Dame. 6—Texas. 7—Illinois. 8—Georgia Tech. 9—Ohio State. 10—Maryland.

Montgomery Plays Potomac State At Keyser Saturday

Potomac State's undefeated and unscored on football team will be angling for its fourth successive victory on Saturday when it meets Montgomery College of Washington, D. C. at Stayman Field, Keyser, at 2 p. m.

Montgomery, coached by "Rube" Rubini, former assistant mentor at Maryland, uses the Maryland version of the split-T to good effect.

Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Catamounts have scored 38 points in three winning starts against Glenville's Pioneers, George Washington University "B" and Newport (Va.) Tech.

White Is Named Player Of Week

Leonard White, Fort Hill halfback, is the fifth winner of the Knights of Columbus football "Player of the Week" award.

White was chosen for his outstanding performance in the Sentinels' 28-7 triumph over Martinsburg last Friday.

Richard Beard of Fort Hill; Bobby Arnone and Raymond Brown, LaSalle, and Joe Hager, Allegany, are the other "Player of the Week" award winners this season.

Yankees Favored To Cop 4th Game, Win Series Today

RENO, Nev., Oct. 9 (AP)—Reno gamblers are giving odds that the Yankees take their fourth game tomorrow to end the 1951 world series.

A bettor has to put down $18 to win $10 at odds quoted by the Nevada Turf Club.

If the Giants should upset the gamblers' prediction, the Turf Club will pay $17 for $10 with Dave Koslo on the pitcher's mound or $16 for $10 if Jim Hearn opens.

BAGS FOX ON SHRIVER'S HILL — Eugene Bowers, 404 Walnut Street, proudly displays the gray fox he bagged on Shriver's Hill on Monday about 5 p. m. Bowers was hunting squirrels about 1½ miles out on the hill when he shot the fox which weighed nine pounds and measured 40 inches from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail. Bowers, former GI, attends Morgan's Vocational School in Ridgeley.

Fifth Game Play-By-Play

FIRST INNING

Yankees: Woodling fanned. Rizzuto went out, Stanky to Lockman. Berra walked. DiMaggio forced Berra at second, Dark to Stanky. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

Giants: Brown tossed out Stanky. Dark singled. Thomson flied to DiMaggio. Irvin singled, sending Dark to third and when Woodling juggled the ball Dark continued home and Irvin stopped at second. The run was unearned. Lockman flied to DiMaggio. One run, two hits, one error, one left.

SECOND INNING

Yankees: Mays caught Mize's towering fly. Thomson fielded McDougald's hot smash, then threw wildly past Lockman, allowing McDougald to reach second on the error. Irvin caught Brown's liner. Collins rolled to Lockman who flipped to Jansen, covering first, for the out. No runs, no hits, one error, one left.

Giants: Mays walked. Hartung hit into a double play, Lopat to McDougald to Mize. Brown tossed out Westrum. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING

Yankees: Jansen threw out Lopat. Woodling and Rizzuto walked. Berra hit to Lockman who threw to Dark forcing Rizzuto as Woodling went to third. DiMaggio's hit scored Woodling, tying the count at 1-1. Irvin attempted to make a shoestring catch and kicked the ball halfway back to the infield enabling Berra to reach third and DiMaggio second. Mize was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. McDougald hit a grand slam homer putting the Yankees in front 5-1. Elmer Smith of Cleveland first turned the trick in 1920 and Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees equaled it in 1936. Brown singled. Collins flied to Mays. Five runs, three hits, one error, one left.

FOURTH INNING

Yankees: Montia Kennedy pitching for the Giants. Lopat was called out on strikes. Woodling walked. Rizzuto punched a homer into the lower right field stands for a home run, scoring Woodling ahead of him. Berra popped to Dark. DiMaggio singled. Mize fouled to Westrum. Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Giants: Irvin grounded out. Rizzuto tossed out Lockman. Mays flied to Woodling. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

Yankees: Thomson threw out McDougald. Brown singled. Collins went down swinging. Kennedy deflected Lopat's smash to the box to Stanky who threw to Lockman for the putout. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Giants: DiMaggio caught Hartung's 425-foot drive. Westrum's drive to left-center went for a two base hit. Bill Rigney, a righthanded hitter, batted for Kennedy. Woodling took Rigney's fly. Stanky also flied to Woodling. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SIXTH INNING

Yankees: Spencer became the Giants' third pitcher. Woodling went out, Stanky to Lockman. Rizzuto singled. Berra hit to right sending Rizzuto to third. When Hartung bobbled the ball Rizzuto continued home and Berra beat Hartung's throw to second. DiMaggio flied to Hartung. Mize dropped a Texas League double behind second, scoring Berra, to put the Yankees in front 9-1. McDougald bounced out, Thomson to Lockman who tagged the runner after being pulled off the bag. Two runs, three hits, one error, one left.

Giants: Bauer went to right field and Collins switched to first base in place of Mize. Dark grounded out. Thomson lined to Brown. Irvin singled to center. Rizzuto took Lockman's high chopper behind the mound and got his man with a quick throw to Collins. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SEVENTH INNING

Yankees: Brown walked. Collins beat out a bunt. Gerry Coleman ran for Brown. Both runners advanced as Spencer threw out Lopat at first base. Woodling walked, loading the bases. Rizzuto walked, forcing in Coleman. Al Corwin replaced Spencer on the mound. Corwin uncorked a wild pitch and Collins scored. Berra flied to Irvin and Monte's quick heave to the infield kept the runners on their bases. DiMaggio doubled home Woodling and Rizzuto. Bauer grounded to Dark who threw to Thomson to nab DiMaggio going to third. Four runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Giants: Coleman went to second base and McDougald moved to third, replacing Brown. Mays fanned. Hartung bounced out. Westrum struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING

Yankees: McDougald grounded out. Coleman, fanned. Lockman threw out Collins at first base. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Giants: Dave Williams, batting for Corwin, rolled out. Rizzuto threw out Stanky. Dark lined to McDougald. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

NINTH INNING

Yankees: Alex Konikowski became the Giants' fifth pitcher. Lopat fouled to Westrum. Woodling walloped a triple to the bullpen in deep right but was out trying to stretch it into a homer, Hartung to Stanky to Westrum. Rizzuto bounced out. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Giants: McDougald threw out Thomson. Woodling made a sensational catch of Irvin's smash to rob Monte of an extra base hit and a chance to tie the world series record of 12 hits. Lockman was an easy out. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

"Sonny" Kyle's penalty goal in the second period broke a tie score and netted Coach Johnny Thomas' Barton High School soccerites a 2-1 decision over Beall High School in a W.M.I. League game played yesterday at Frostburg.

It was the second victory of the season for the unbeaten Bartonites who last won a league championship in 1926.

Tom Robertson, substitute lineman, booted a field goal to give Barton a 1-0 edge in the first quarter and after "Buck" Duncan's penalty goal knotted the count at 1-all early in the second stanza, Kyle booted one through from the penalty line to win the game. The teams battled to a scoreless deadlock in the third and final periods.

Frank Miller, "Sonny" Kyle and Tom Robertson played best for Barton while Francis Poland, Gerald Rafferty and Don Bell were Beall's best bets.

Central High School's defending champions from Lonaconing crashed the win column by taking a 1-0 decision from Bruce High School of Westernport, making its 1951 debut under its new coach, Augie Eichhorn.

Wayne Murphy's field goal in the first minute of play decided the issue.

Both goalies played nice games, handling many chances.

Billy Turnbull, Eddie McIntyre, Tommy Kelly and Billy Andrews of Central and Goalie Biggs, Wilkinson, Smith and Wilson of Bruce High were the outstanding players. The lineups:

The opening kickoff is set for 7:30 o'clock.

Williams Says He'll Quit If Traded By Sox

BOSTON, Oct. 9 (AP) —Boston Herald Columnist Bill Cunningham today quoted Ted Williams as saying he would quit baseball if traded or sold by the Boston Red Sox.

In a copyrighted story datelined New York, where Cunningham is covering the world series, the Herald said:

"In a telephone call from Princeton, Minn., to New York yesterday, Williams said he would break with baseball completely and retire to a connection with a manufacturer of fishing tackle if the Red Sox trade or sell him.

"He said," Cunningham continued, "that 'I sincerely mean this, and I can be quoted.'"

Cary Middlecoff Annexes Playoff

Wins 7th Tournament, Earnings Hit $24,075

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9 (AP) —Redhot Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., shot a four under par 68 to beat Dave Douglas and Doug Ford by four strokes in an 18-hole playoff for top money in the $35,000 Kansas City Gold Open today.

Both Douglas, of Newark, Del., and Ford, Harrison, N. Y., shot even par 72 over the 6,500 yard Milburn Country Club course.

The Memphis, Tenn., dentist simply outdrove, out-approached and outputted his opponents in winning his seventh major tournament of the season.

Middlecoff earned $2,400 here to bring his total winnings for the year to $24,075.91.

Ford and Douglas each collected $1,600 in the PGA's last summer tour engagement.

For five rounds of play in the tournament, which started last Thursday and had two days rained out, Middlecoff had four birdies and a hole in one on the sixth hole.

Middlecoff's 90-hole score of 346 was 14 stroke under par for the distance. Both Douglas and Ford were 10 under.

Layne, Charles Tangle Tonight At Pittsburgh

Forbes Field Scene Of 12 Round Fight

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9—(AP)—Dethroned champion Ezzard Charles risks his prestige and his pride as the number one heavyweight contender in a 12-round bout with Rex Layne tomorrow night at Forbes Field.

Rex Layne

It was just three months ago that Charles lost the title in the same ring to aging Jersey Joe Walcott via a seventh round knockout. Charles has a contract for a return bout with Walcott but defeat at the hands of Layne could alter future plans.

Charles is a heavy choice to whip the strong but awkward young Salt Lake City challenger. However, the former champion picked himself no soft touch in his comeback. Layne has won 24 of his 38 pro fights by knockouts and holds a victory over Walcott.

Charles expects to enter the ring at 185 pounds, three heavier than he was for his last bout.

Layne will scale 194 pounds, give or take a pound.

Promoters figured on a crowd of 15,000 to 20,000 with receipts of $100,000, including $25,000 for television rights. The forecast is mild and partly cloudy.

The 10 p. m. (EST) bout will be broadcast and telecast by CBS, with Pittsburgh and Johnstown blacked out.

Charles cut will be 35 per cent, Layne's 25.

Football League Is Named In Suit

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9 (AP) — Demanding the end of all restrictions on television and radio broadcasts of sports events, the federal government today brought suit against the National Football League, accusing it of violating federal anti-trust laws.

Clubhouse Quotes

By International News Service.

Leo Durocher: "We got the pants beat off us."

Phil Rizzuto: "I hit a Chinese homer? It counts just as much. The pitch I hit was an outside spitball."

Monte Irvin: "We're still playing 'em day by day."

Ed Lopat: "I pitched just the same as I did before."

"Bugs'-Eye View Of The Series"

"They Went Thataway"

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (INS)—Well, it was as one-sided as a three-legged bear.

•—•—•

The Giants started like a house afire. The Yanks collected the insurance.

•—•—•

We finally found out what the thing was in the box. It was Jansen. He made two starts against Lopat. Both were falsies.

•—•—•

The worst timing of the series was Joe Stalin telling the world he had the atom bomb. We wouldn't have noticed it if he dropped it in Brooklyn.

•—•—•

But a punk named McDougald dropped one in the left-field stands. Jansen loaded the bases by passing Mize to get at Mac. When we were kids we knew enough not to get the fireworks too close to the punk.

•—•—•

Jansen laid one in the swing zone. McDougald picked it off like it was a message on a platter. It was the works.

•—•—•

They went around the bases like Barney was calling all men. The final score of the turkey shoot was thirteen to one. The Yanks couldn't have done much better on a pin-ball machine.

•—•—•

Three-card Monte Irvin continued to shuffle the elusive plea to all sections of the field. Only a terrific confiscation by Woodling prevented Monte from tying the all-time series record for twelve hits.

•—•—•

DiMaggio clipped the throwing for another three bopps that gives him a fairly decent showing if you don't look too close. He is up around .250.

•—•—•

DiMaggio ties Frank Frisch for fifty world series games. Everybody was happy that both Joe and Monte were getting their knocks. Rizzuto covered more ground than Montgomery chasing Rommel.

•—•—•

The second guessers are working on their thirds. Playing Hartung was a fielder's choice. The field should have been plowed up.

•—•—•

Wednesday should be getaway day. Short hauls and dry lots.

Inter-League Series Is Off

Westvaco Ends Season, Won 31 And Lost 12

Manager Frank Patrone of the Westvaco Club, champions of the Bi-State Baseball League, announces the cancellation of remaining games in the series between his team and Moorefield, titleholder of the Interstate League.

The second game set for Sunday was postponed on account of rain and it was deemed best to call off hostilities because the weather is no longer suitable for baseball.

In the opener of the series at Moorefield, Sunday, September 30, Westvaco won by the score of 19-6 with Rockwell being returned the winner over Lefty Garrett.

The Papermakers, according to Manager Patrone, won 31 and lost 12 during the season, copped 24 of their last 28 games, 12 of the last 13 and finished the campaign with a winning streak of eight contests.

Westvaco won the playoffs in six straight, taking three games each from Frostburg's Demons and the Hyndman Firemen.

"Woody" Woodson was the champs' pitching ace with 16 wins and four losses. Bobby Raines won six and lost one. Daniel "Bud" Mosser led the regulars with the stick, hitting at a .406 clip. Manager Sullivan larruped the pill for .422 in 70 times at bat.

Mrs. Fuller Whitworth Wins Putting Contest

Mrs. Fuller Whitworth won the putting contest held yesterday by the Women's Golf Association of the Cumberland Country Club with a total of 30 putts. Par for the course is 36.

Mrs. Frederic Eiler and Mrs. William Somerville had 31 putts each and tied for the runner-up position.

Twenty-seven players participated.

Ten U. S. Ryder Cuppers Named

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (AP) —A 10-man American Ryder Cup team, headed by inimitable Sammy Snead and listing two newcomers to the International competition, today was named for the 1951 matches with Britain's best golf pros at Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 2 and 4.

The array of top United States play-for-pay stars, as announced by the Professional Golfers' Association of America, included Snead, Lloyd Mangrum, Jack Burke, Jr., Jimmy Demaret, Ben Hogan, Ed Oliver, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Henry Ransom, Clayton Heafner and Skip Alexander. The squad was determined in a two-year compilation of points based on tournament finishes.

The two new hands in the series which finds the U. S. ahead, six to two, are Burke, bobby-sox favorite from Houston, Tex., and Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., veteran, with third and eighth team spots respectively.

Snead led the squad with 1,244 1/6 points.

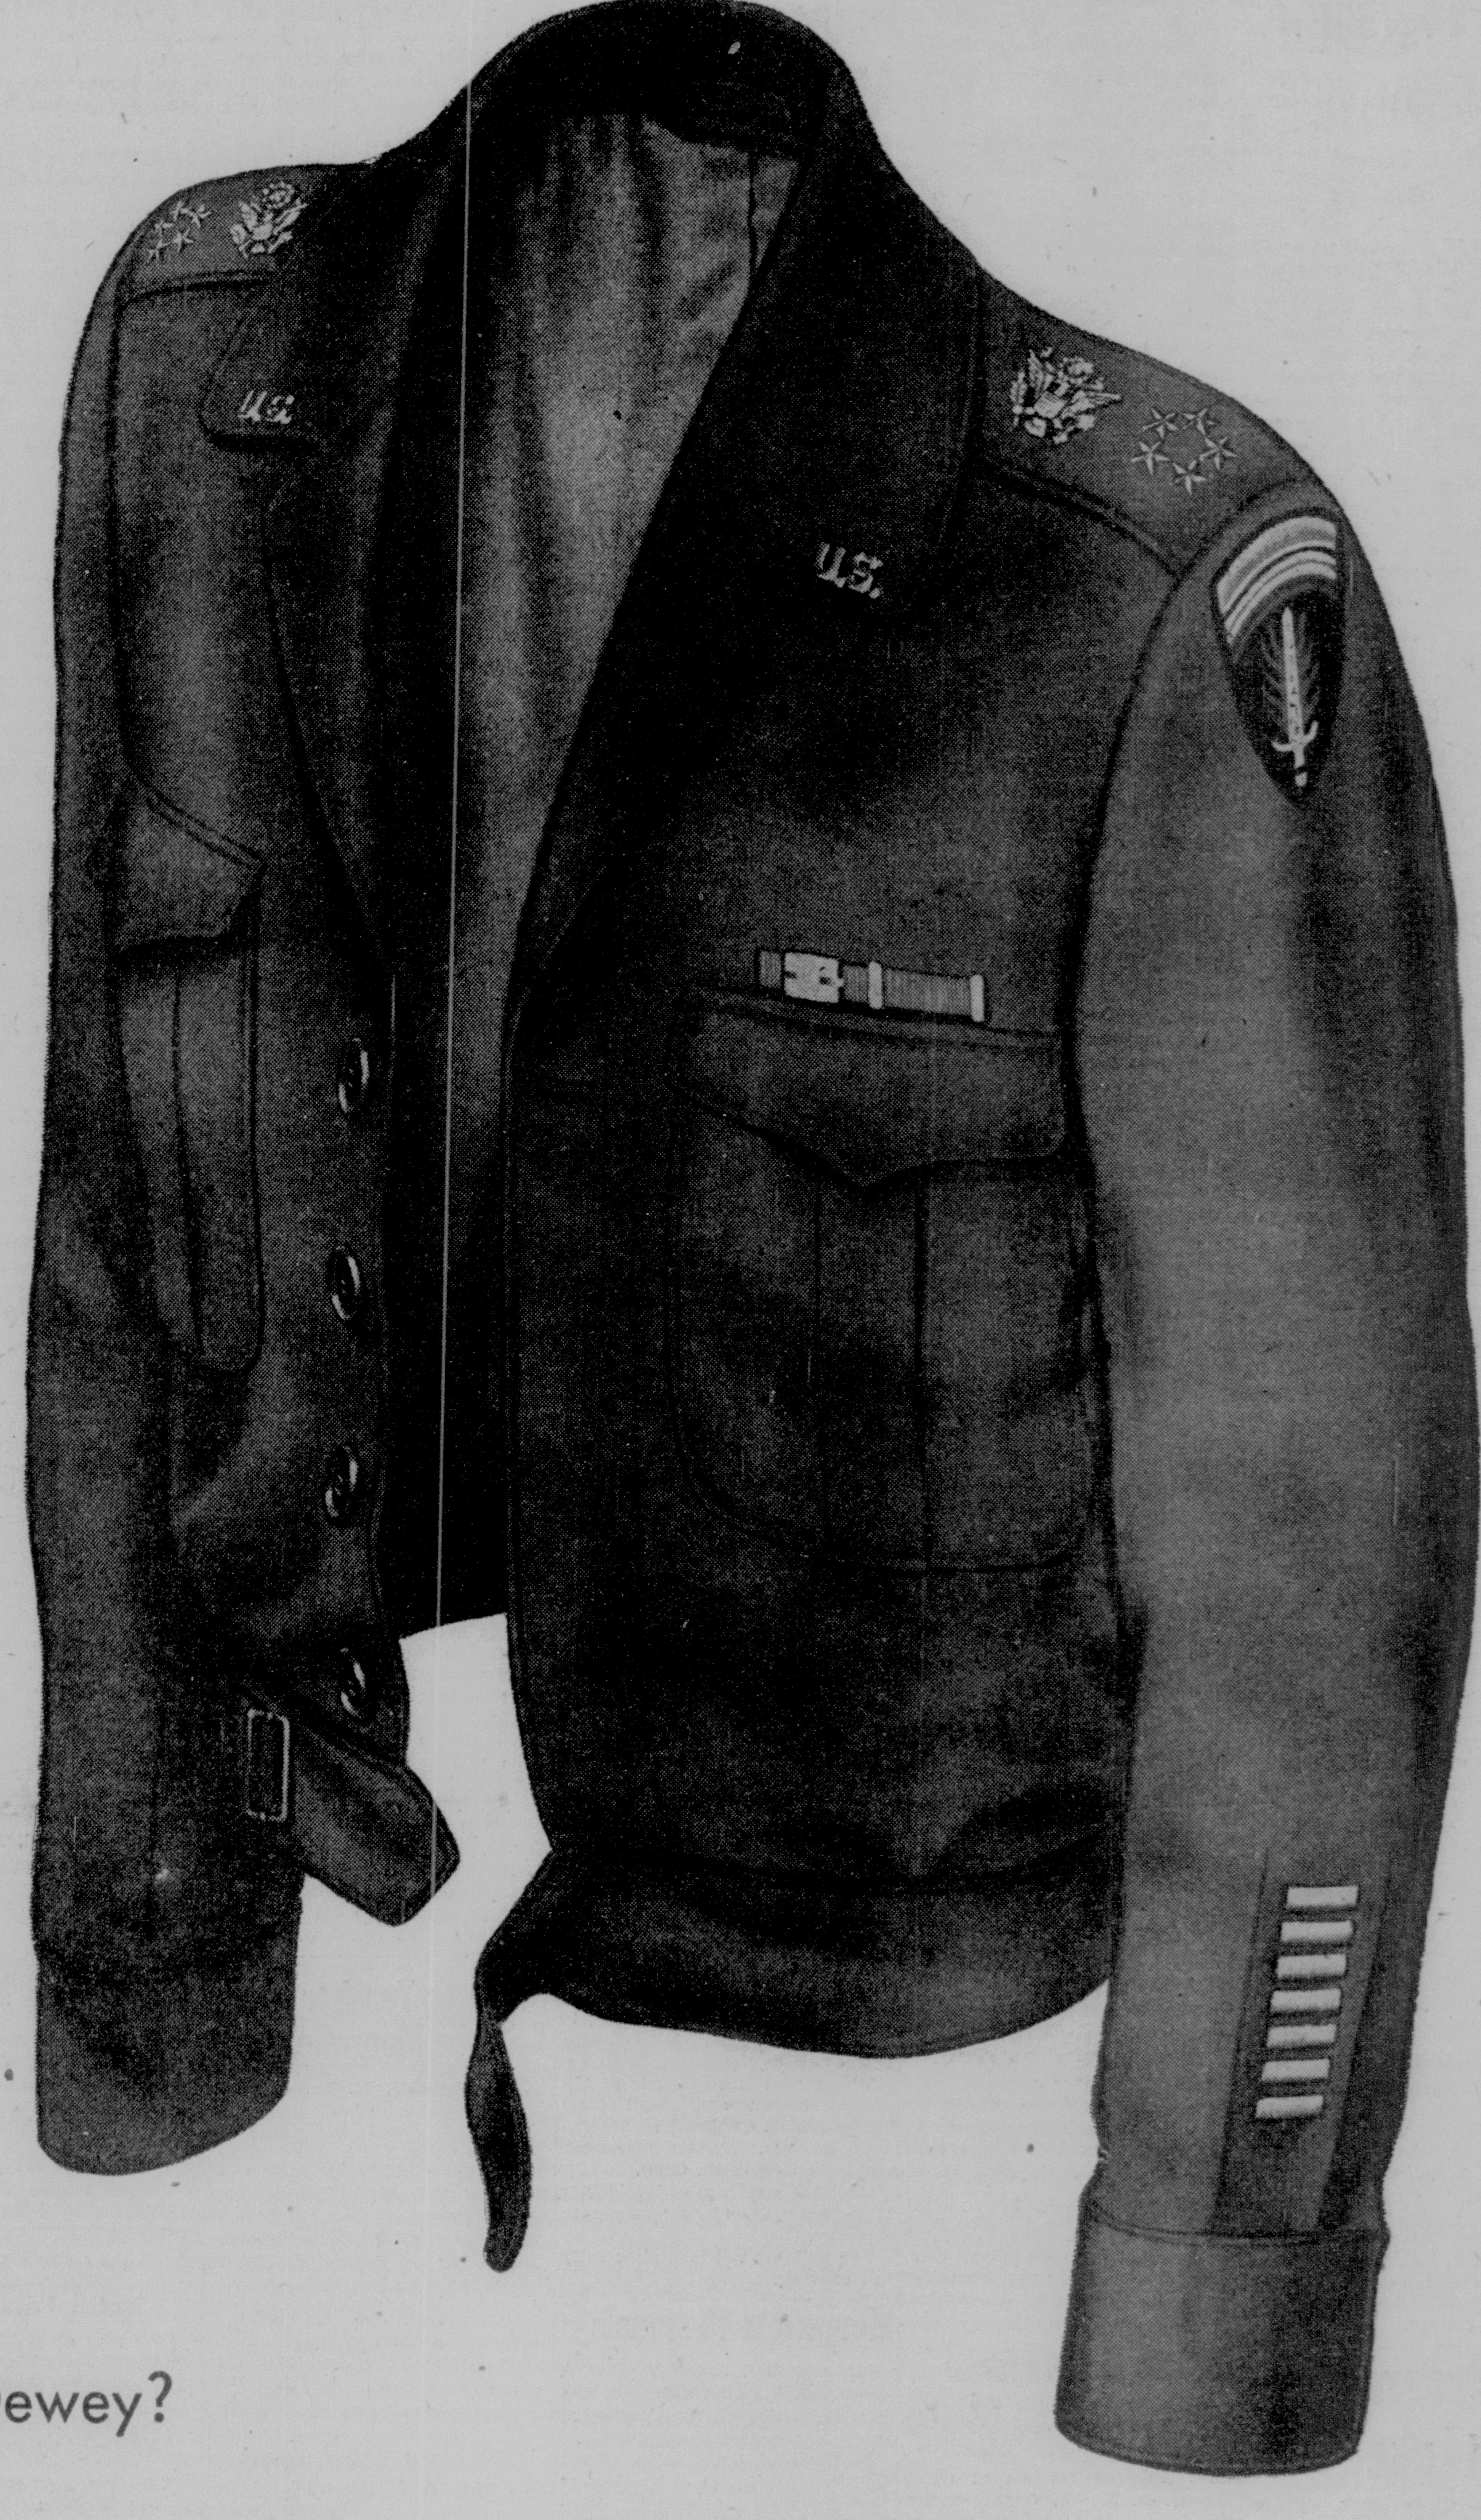
If EISENHOWER said "Yes" tomorrow...



Who got him to talk?

Where?

What party did he pick?

What are his reasons?

Who's taking over in Europe?

What does Truman say? Taft? Dewey?

THE MOMENT the General laid aside his battle jacket, you would be one great big question-mark—and so would everybody else.

And where would you turn for your answers?

Sure—you'd listen to the commentators, whenever you could get to the radio or the TV at the right moment.

Sure—you might see the magazines, but the fastest of them would be too slow for you.

But what you'd want most, and wouldn't be denied, is a newspaper in your hand.

You'd know that you could find the story there immediately with more answers—more details—more comment—more angles—than you will find anywhere else.

You feel that way every day about something that happens—you want your newspaper. For every day some story breaks that means a lot to you, together with a hundred things that are Page One news to somebody, even if it's only a new moletrap at the hardware store.

That's why people may do without almost anything else, but not the newspaper.

When it comes to Advertising, why deal in fractions? . . .

When you have something to sell, the newspaper is the place to reach all the people all the time.

Magazines reach only fractions of your market. For each one appeals to some people—not to others. No magazine is read by everyone in town who can possibly buy.

Radio and TV programs reach only fractions of your market. Each one appeals to only a special audience—sport fans, homemakers, kids, or whatever. And even the people interested can't all listen at the time you broadcast.

The newspaper talks to everybody in town. It's created fresh every day to appeal to everybody. Just as you read the paper now, all your customers and prospects read the paper too—at the time they choose, for as long as they choose!

Only the newspaper is first with the most news . . . first with the most people . . . first with the most advertisers!

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

Shrine Chanters Plan Program At Keyser

Churches Cancel Evening Services

KEYSER, W. Va.—Osiris Temple Shrine Chanters of Wheeling will be guests in Keyser Sunday evening when they will present a program at the Keyser High School auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock. The Chanters are scheduled to arrive at 6 p. m., when they will have dinner served by the Ladies of the Eastern Star of Keyser in the Masonic Temple.

At a recent meeting of the Keyser Ministerium, it was agreed that local churches will not hold services Sunday evening so church goers may attend the concert.

The following program will be presented:

"Where My Caravan Has Rested," (Lohr); "The Creation," (Richter); "God Is a Spirit," (Scholin); Welsh Choral (Pen-Park) by Reese; "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked," (O'Hara), and "The Lord's Prayer," (Malotte).

At this point the members of the Shrine Divan will be introduced. Many of them are well known to Keyser residents.

Continuing the program, the Chanters will present:

"The Crusaders," (Protheroe); "Onward Christian Soldiers," arranged by Waring, and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," arranged by Waring.

The finale of the program will include a few barbershop melodies and some secular numbers, as follows: "Tell Me Why," "Little Annie Rooney," "Honey," "The Soldiers Chorus from Faust," and "Comrades In Arms" (E. Adams).

William C. Griffith, director, will accompany the Chanters to Keyser. The scriptures will be read and prayer delivered by Rev. John C. B. McLaughlin, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

Soldier Receives Bronze Star

KEYSER, W. Va.—Sgt. Albert C. Raines, a brother of Miss Ruby Raines, 83 Allegheny Street, Keyser, has received the Bronze Star Medal with "V" for heroism in action April 25, near Pop-su-dong, Korea, while serving with Company A of the 7th Infantry Regiment, 3rd Division, according to word received here yesterday.

The citation accompanying the decoration stated that Company A occupied a defensive position on Hill 287 and was suddenly attacked by a large force of the enemy. Sgt. Raines, a mortar gunner, observed disorganization of a party carrying ammunition when its leader fell wounded and he immediately went across the exposed ground and rallied the force, reforming the party and lead the group on its mission until the attack was repulsed.

Further, the citation relates, "Sgt. Raines' heroism and initiative reflect great credit upon himself and the military service."

Scouts Attend Cider Sunday At New Creek

Fall Roundup Held At Bosley Farm

WESTERNPORT — One hundred and fifty Scouts and scouters of the Tri-Towns participated in the Cider Sunday and fall roundup at the Bosley Farm at New Creek, W. Va. last week end.

Five boys went to the farm Friday afternoon taking apples with them to make cider. On Saturday morning 33 scouts and leaders made the cider and camped overnight. Dewey Wilcox, assistant scoutmaster of troop 33, was in charge of the cider making and Noel Obenshain, scoutmaster of troop 34 and Wilcox had charge of the overnight camp.

The Catholic scouts were taken to Keyser to church Sunday morning and the Protestants attended a service at Claysville Church.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Robert E. Cassell, pastor of Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church here, and Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, Westernport, chairman of the Tri-Towns District Scouters, presided.

After the church services, cider was distributed to the scouts and they had their lunch.

Contests between the Cubs and Brownies were conducted by Alton R. Fortney, scoutmaster of Boy Scout troop 33, and Noel Obenshain conducted contests between the boy and girl scouts after which the Cubs and Brownies took a hike. Harry J. Biggs, Westernport, scoutmaster of troop 36 was in charge of transportation.

Students Take Field Trip

FROSTBURG — The fifth grade of Beall Elementary School, under the supervision of Miss Ann Thomas and Mrs. Gordon Taylor, took a field trip October 2 to the Eckhart school to see a glass beehive. They also observed Mr. Moser's apiary on Grant Street.

The field trip grew out of class room study of bees and their habits.

At present Mrs. Taylor is being assisted by two student teachers from State Teachers College. They are Miss Dorlene Brain, Midlothian, and Miss Rebecca Manuel, Brunswick.

Both of the student teachers have been active in extra curicular activities during their stay at the college and are soloists with the Maryland Singers.

Disaster Nursing Classes Planned For Keyser

First Session Is Set For Friday

KEYSER, W. Va.—Mrs. B. Chapman Smith, registered nurse and county chairman of the Disaster Nursing Committee of Mineral County, has issued a call to all nurses to participate in two classes to be held for brushing up on transfusions and intravenous medications.

The chairman calls attention to the need of up-to-the-minute preparedness in case of disasters and the great importance that each nurse be ready to aid at any time.

Mrs. Smith urged all graduate registered nurses, whether active or inactive, to attend two classes, one Friday and the other October 19. Each class is set for 8 p. m. and will be held in the class room at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

At the first class, Lester Oates, Red Cross instructor will preside with his theme as "Brush-Up on First Aid" and the second class will be conducted by Dr. T. T. Huffman on transfusions and intravenous medications, and "The Technique of setting up and assisting with intravenous and transfusion," led by Mary Sylvester, technician.

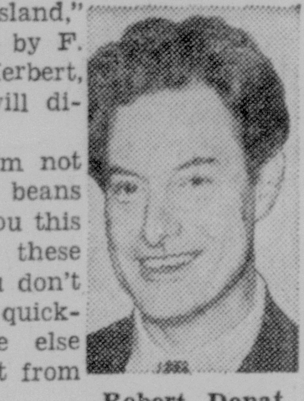
KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9 (INS) — Robert Donat arrives here in January from London to make a picture for Paramount. He will star in "Pleasure Island," an original by F. Hugh Herbert, who also will direct him.



Robert Donat

I hope I'm not spilling the beans by giving you this story, but these days, if you don't grab news quickly, someone else will snatch it from you.

Donat hasn't made a picture for an American company since "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," and hasn't been in this country for almost ten years. That's because he was under contract to Edward Small and Small said Bob would do a picture for him "or else." Now that contract is beyond the statute of limitations, Donat is free to come and go in Hollywood as he pleases.

An amusing letter from Paris says it took John Gunther to get Greta Garbo out of hiding. When she first arrived she shut herself up, wouldn't see anybody. Then John took her to a dinner given at Maxim's, with many prominent French society people, and Garbo was a sensation when she came in on John's arm.

She wore a plain but fairly low-necked gown, a diamond necklace, and she clapped her hands like a delighted child when they brought in the lighted sherbert on a block of ice in the Maxim manner.

The story that John Gunther wants Garbo to do for MGM is the great love story of Eleanora Duse, Italy's greatest tragic actress, and the Poet Gabriel D'Annunzio.

When I called George Jessel to congratulate him on the new theater near San Francisco which Charles Skouras is naming for him, George also told me about Ava Nooring, the Hungarian war bride who just signed to a 20th contract.

Every producer apparently wants the beauty, who is a young Ingrid Bergman in looks, but she has yet to learn to speak better English before tackling a picture.

She is causing so many laughs over the way she murders the English language that she's being referred to as "Greta Garble." For example, when she was having trouble trying to figure out her bank balance recently, Ava told a friend:

"I have an awful time with figures because I just can't distract."

Harry Lewis, who made more money feeding our town hamburgers than he ever did as an actor, has been secretely married for the past three and one half months to a pretty and young free lance actress, Marilyn Conrad.

After he finished his role as the baby-faced killer in Warner Brothers "Key Largo," Lewis took his earnings and opened the first of a chain of plush hamburger eateries.

The wonderful part about Hollywood's great heart is that many of our citizens do so many of their best deeds in secret.

I just learned that Rod Cameron will adopt every single child inmate of the Charlotte, N. C., orphanage this Christmas for one day. He and his wife will play Santa and Mrs. Claus, providing more than 80 tykes with everything a child would want for Christmas.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

More Everything Than Ever

There's a nasty little rumor running around, conceivably hatched and nurtured in Hollywood, that movies are better than ever which, when you examine it, is one of the dimmest compliments the movie people ever paid themselves. Anyhow, in an attempt to shoot down this canard before it took wing, I investigated a movie, the first I've seen since the days when movies were worse than ever, "An American In Paris."

John Crosby

The selection of "American In Paris" was not entirely arbitrary. I wanted to see it, partly because I'd just been to Paris and wanted to observe just what improvements Hollywood could make on it, partly to hear again George Gershwin's music and partly because I was drugged in a saloon and then dragged to the picture by a rapscallion of a press agent, one of whose aliases is Mitchell Rawson.

* * *

For a man who has spent the last five years chained in front of a 14-inch screen, it was quite an experience. Movies are not only better than ever but bigger than ever, more technicolored than ever and more—I can think of no other word for it—populous than ever. To us TV addicts, three is a crowd and six is a mob. In the movies—you'd never believe this, Mabel—they toss two or three hundred people at you at once, all extravagantly caparisoned. (Caparisons are odious, except in Hollywood where they are beautiful beyond description).

Where Milton Berle is eight inches high, Gene Kelly is roughly 14 feet straight up and terribly, terribly distinct—perhaps more visible than seems strictly necessary. I was more impressed by his size and his clarity than by his dancing which is technically superb but occasionally limited in range.

No doubt about it, though, "An American In Paris" is a perfectly gorgeous picture—full of magnificent shots of Paris (all, except a few process shots, filmed in Hollywood), of some fine Gershwin music and of eye-filling pageantry. It's also as good an example as any of the things Hollywood can do that television couldn't conceivably attempt and also, I'm afraid, of the weaknesses Hollywood can't seem to avoid.

* * *

After getting off to a fine heady start with a magnificently comic song and dance number in a Paris sidewalk cafe, Mr. Kelly, who plays the part of an American artist starving gallantly in a Montmartre garret, gets bogged down in love which Hollywood takes more seriously than it should, especially in a picture of this nature. I have nothing against love, you understand, but I'd rather have seen a good deal more of Oscar Levant, who was being funnier than he has ever been before, than of Leslie Caron, the cuite little French dish Mr. Kelly was mooning over.

The picture ends with a ballet which may be the longest in picture history—a full twenty minutes—which must contain all the dancers in Hollywood, all the costumes they hadn't dragged into the rest of the picture, all the process shots left over from Paris and about twelve changes of costume for Mr. Kelly who leaps into the fountains in the Place de la Concorde roughly twenty-two times and emerges dry but, I expect, tired. It was a stupefying experience and also rather an interminable one. Sometimes I harbor the suspicion that Mr. Kelly should let someone else help out with his choreography. He has only so many ideas and when he runs through the collection, he's inclined to repeat them in different dress against different scenery.

* * *

Having got these carping comments off my mind, I'm forced to admit I had a wonderful time at the picture. Pictures are not only better than ever but bigger, costlier, more opulent, more colorful and more vivid than ever. Also milder, mellower and more satisfying. All right, Rawson, cut out the business with the rubber hose and get off my chest. I may even go back and see a picture of my own accord some time, clutching my own money in my damp little hand.

And now—back to Ed Sullivan, all nine inches of solid muscle. Nothing but black and white, verging around the chin into suitable shades of gray. Perhaps it's better that way. I don't think I'm emotionally equipped to take Mr. Sullivan if they blew him up to fourteen feet and shot him along in four colors.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

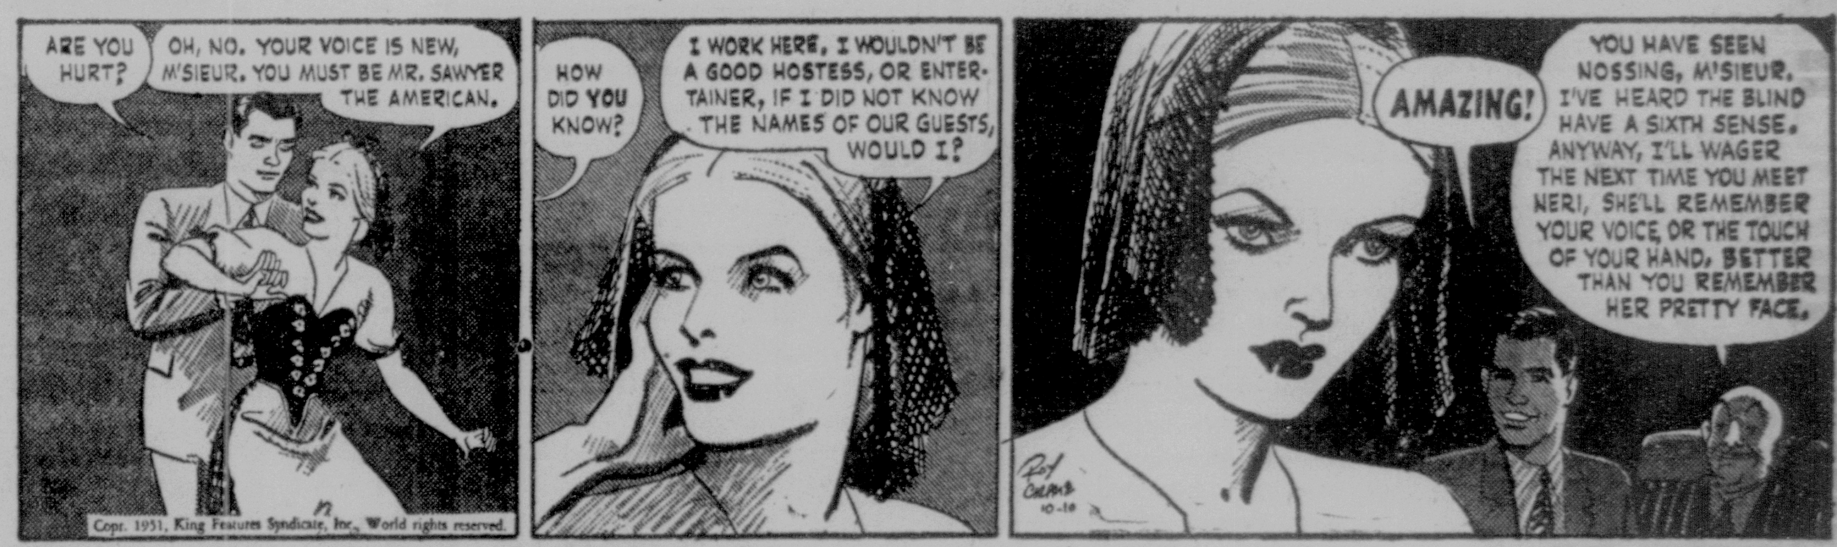
BUZ SAWYER

By ROY CRANE



ARE YOU HURT?
OH, NO. YOUR VOICE IS NEW, M'SIEUR. YOU MUST BE MR. SAWYER THE AMERICAN.
HOW DID YOU KNOW?
I WORK HERE. I WOULDN'T BE A GOOD HOSTESS, OR ENTERTAINER, IF I DID NOT KNOW THE NAMES OF OUR GUESTS, WOULD I?
AMAZING!
YOU HAVE SEEN NOSSING, M'SIEUR. I'VE HEARD THE BLIND HAVE A SIXTH SENSE. ANYWAY, I'LL WAGER THE NEXT TIME YOU MEET NERI, SHE'LL REMEMBER YOUR VOICE, OR THE TOUCH OF YOUR HAND, BETTER THAN YOU REMEMBER HER PRETTY FACE.

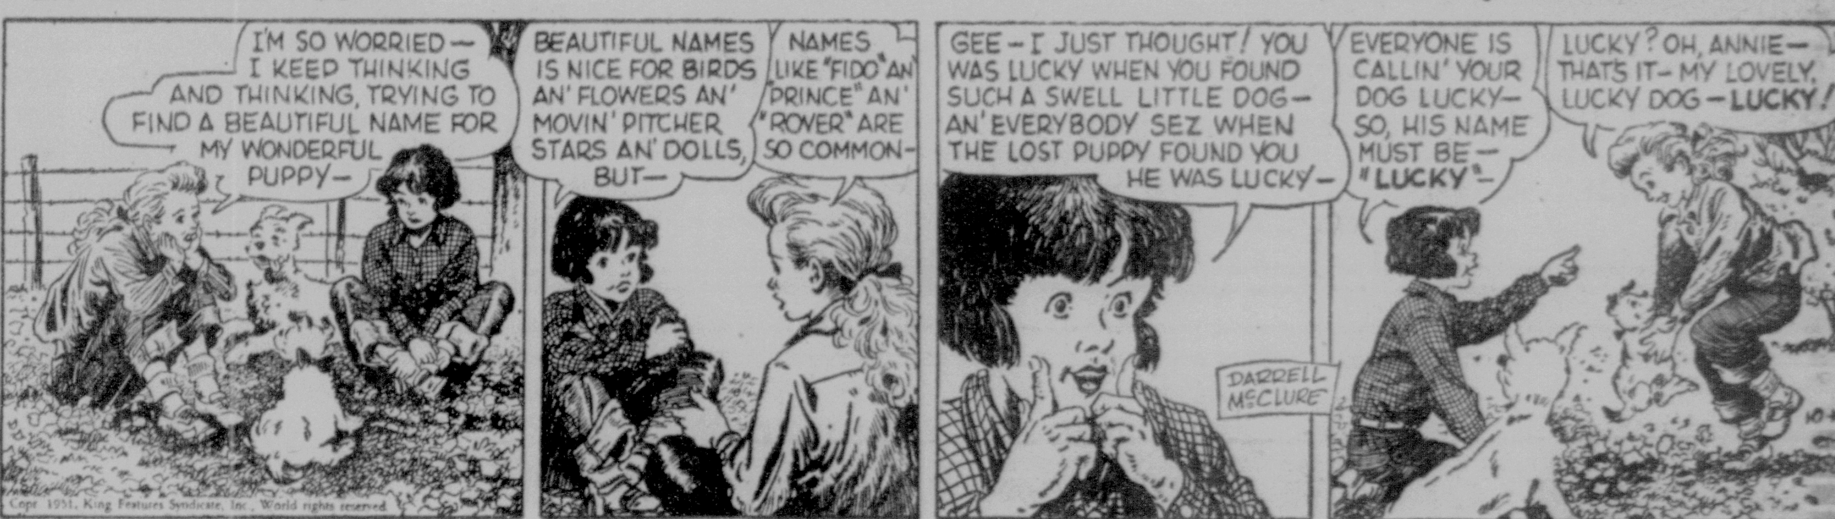
LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

By BRANDON WALSH



I'M SO WORRIED— I KEEP THINKING AND THINKING, TRYING TO FIND A BEAUTIFUL NAME FOR MY WONDERFUL PUPPY—BEAUTIFUL NAMES IS NICE FOR BIRDS AN' FLOWERS AN' MOVIN' PITCHER STARS AN' DOLLS, BUT—NAMES LIKE "FIDO" AN' "PRINCE" AN' "ROVER" ARE SO COMMON—
GEE—I JUST THOUGHT! YOU WAS LUCKY WHEN YOU FOUND SUCH A SWELL LITTLE DOG— AN' EVERYBODY SEZ WHEN THE LOST PUPPY FOUND YOU HE WAS LUCKY—
DARRELL McCLURE
EVERYONE IS CALLIN' YOUR DOG LUCKY— SO, HIS NAME MUST BE— "LUCKY"— LUCKY? OH, ANNIE— THAT'S IT— MY LOVELY, LUCKY DOG—LUCKY!

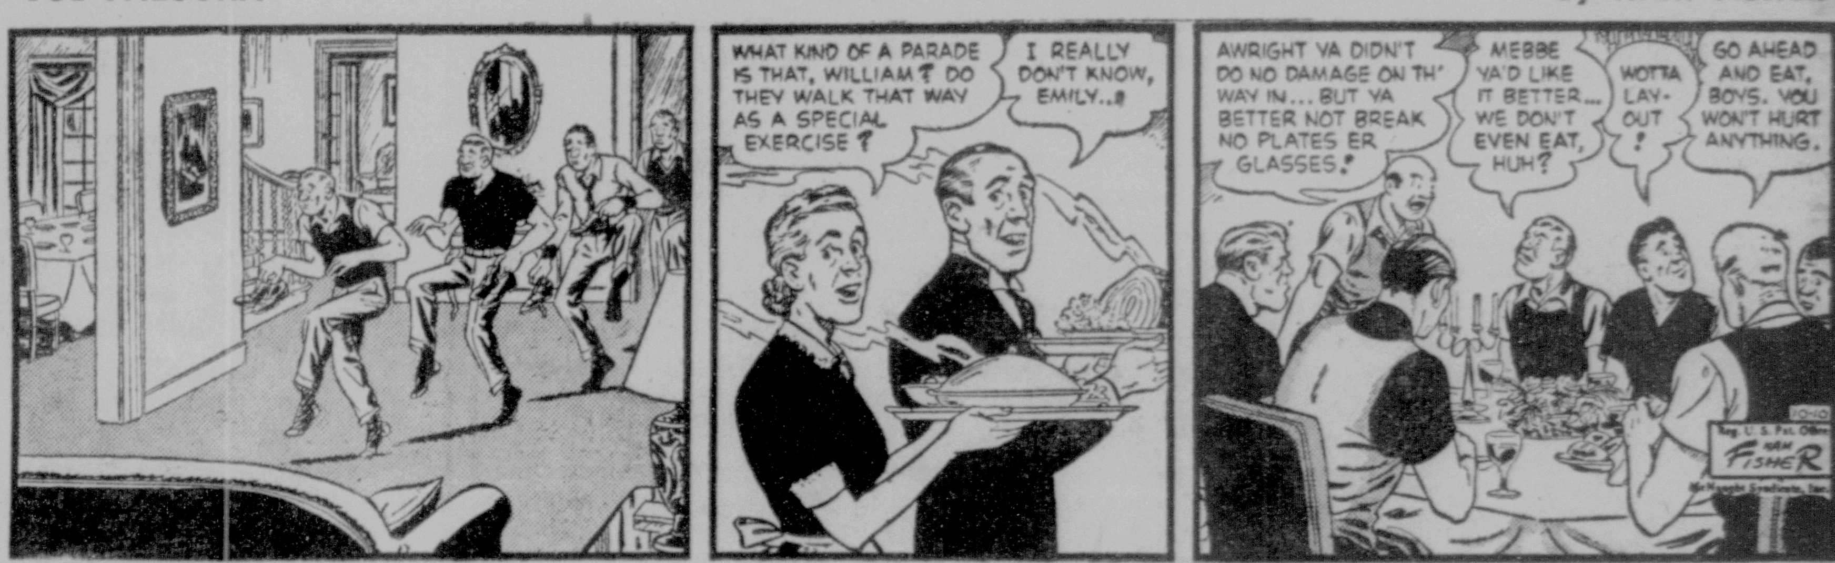
JOE PALOOKA

By HAM FISHER



WHAT KIND OF A PARADE IS THAT, WILLIAM? DO THEY WALK THAT WAY AS A SPECIAL EXERCISE?
I REALLY DON'T KNOW, EMILY..!
AWRIGHT YA DIDN'T DO NO DAMAGE ON TH' WAY IN... BUT YA BETTER NOT BREAK NO PLATES ER GLASSES!
MEBBE YA'D LIKE IT BETTER... WE DON'T EVEN EAT, HUH?
WOTTA LAY-OUT!
GO AHEAD AND EAT, BOYS. YOU WON'T HURT ANYTHING.
HAM FISHER

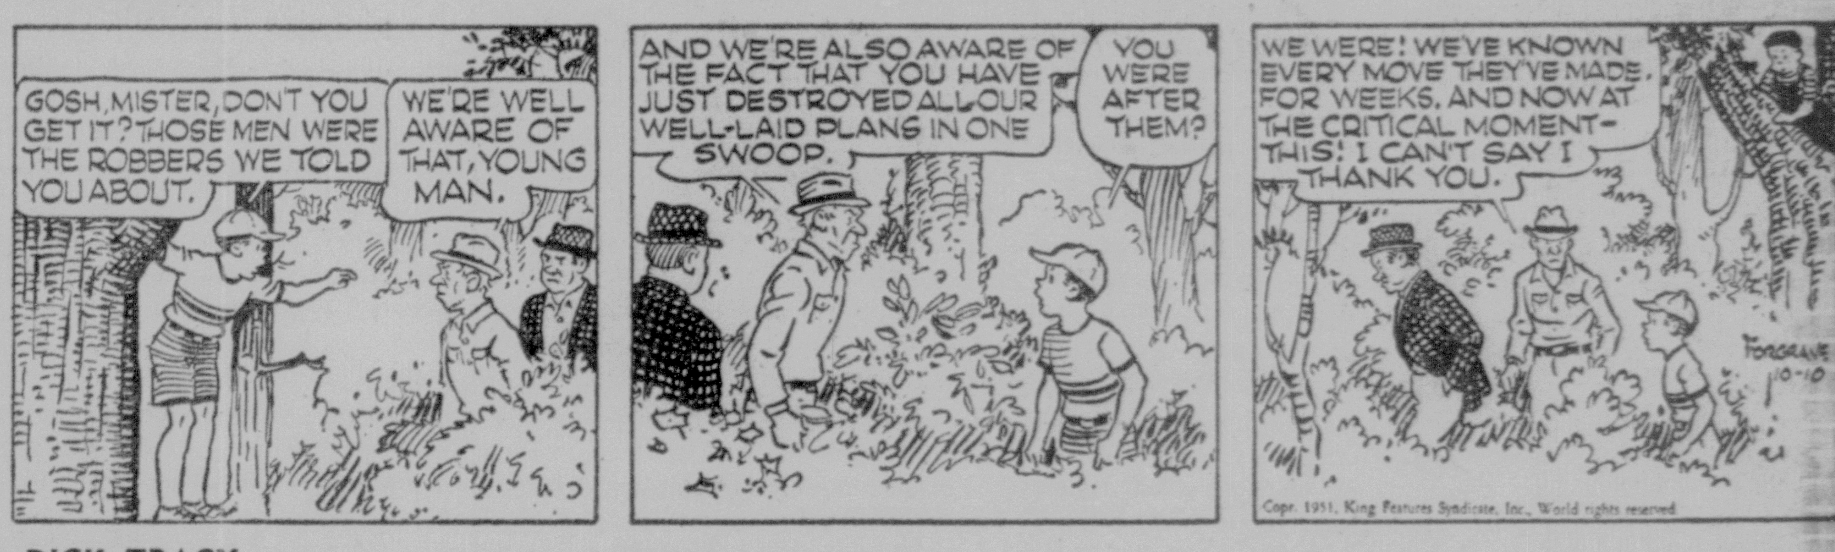
BIG SISTER



GOSH, MISTER, DON'T YOU GET IT? THOSE MEN WERE THE ROBBERS WE TOLD YOU ABOUT.
WE'RE WELL AWARE OF THAT, YOUNG MAN.
AND WE'RE ALSO AWARE OF THE FACT THAT YOU HAVE JUST DESTROYED ALL OUR WELL-LAID PLANS IN ONE SWOOP.
YOU WERE AFTER THEM?
WE WERE! WE'VE KNOWN EVERY MOVE THEY'VE MADE, FOR WEEKS. AND NOW AT THE CRITICAL MOMENT— THIS! I CAN'T SAY I THANK YOU.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

There's no reconciliation in the cards for Patsy Lydon and Johnny (Pick Up The Check) Meyer. Patsy has consulted Attorney Maurice Freeman about a divorce and will start immediate proceedings. Johnny is now living in Washington.

The haggard appearance of Frankie Sinatra in New York is causing his friends concern. Probably nothing wrong that a visit from Ava Gardner won't cure.

Hank Mann, the veteran Keystone Cop of Mack Sennett comedies, must undergo another operation. Hollywood has responded magnificently with money and blood donations.

Skippy Homier, the little boy who played the Nazi brat in "Tomorrow The World" is no longer a little boy. He is marrying Nancy Field, a non-professional.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Howard S. Rodeheaver v. Dorothy M. Rodeheaver. No. 22382 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to obtain a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII of the plaintiff from the defendant, and custody of the minor child of the parties.

The bill states that the parties hereto were married in the 24th day of February, 1946, in Cumberland, Md., and that one child was born of the said marriage, namely; Harry Leroy Rodeheaver, age 4 years; that although the plaintiff has always been kind, affectionate and his conduct above reproach, the defendant has been guilty of adultery and the plaintiff has not lived or cohabited with the defendant since he discovered her adulterous conduct; that the plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, and has been for more than one year prior to the filing of these proceedings, the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and her present whereabouts are unknown to the plaintiff.

IT IS THEREUPON, this 18th day of September, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this Order to be published in some newspaper in Allegany County, Md., once in each of four successive weeks, before the 20th day of October, 1951, giving notice to the absent defendant of the object and purpose of this suit and warning her to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 7th day of November, 1951, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Anita Bernadine Anta, Plaintiff vs. Estevan Anta, Respondent, No. 22342 Equity In the Circuit Court of Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is for the Plaintiff, Anita Anta, to procure a Decree for a Divorce "A VINCULO MATRIMONII" from the Defendant, Estevan Anta, a Non-Resident of the State of Maryland, and to obtain custody of her infant Daughter, Elaine Anta.

The Bill states that on or about the 7th day of August, 1935, the Plaintiff, Anita Anta, was married to the Defendant, Estevan Anta, and lived with him in Canton, Ohio, where one child, namely, Elaine Anta, was born. That about September 15, 1942 her husband, Estevan Anta, deserted and abandoned her and she and her daughter were compelled to return to her parent's home in Luke, Maryland. That the separation and desertion has continued uninterruptedly for over eight (8) years, and is deliberate and final, and that the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That her husband, the Defendant, is a Non-Resident of the State of Maryland, and is not a member of the Armed Forces, and that the Plaintiff, Anita Anta, has supported and maintained her infant child, Elaine Anta, for the past eight years.

It is thereupon this 2nd day of October, 1951, ordered by the Circuit Court of Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in said Allegany County, once in each of four successive weeks before the 3rd day of November, 1951, give notice to the said absent Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 19th day of November, next, to show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, Shirley Virginia Freed vs. Gerald B. Freed. No. 22410 Equity.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Complainant Shirley Virginia Freed, from the Defendant, Gerald B. Freed.

The Bill of Complaint states that the parties hereto were married on December 29, 1945, at Beaver Falls, Pa; that they resided together until June 17, 1948; that since said marriage the Defendant has committed the crime of adultery in Allegany County, Maryland; that the Complainant has not condoned the Defendant's action; that the Complainant is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland; that the Dedendant is a non-resident of the state of Maryland, his whereabouts being unknown.

It is thereupon ordered this 2nd day of October, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, that the Complainant by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the city of Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, once a week, for four successive weeks before the 3rd day of November, 1951, giving notice of the object and substance of this Bill to the said absent non-resident Defendant, warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 19th day of November, 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Drooping Drawers Halts Ball Toter

GREELEY, Oct. 8—(AP)—A pair of drooping drawers prevented Les Wall, Colorado state halfback, from making a touchdown in Saturday night's game with Adams State.

Wall had spun off one Adams State defender and was about to go all the way when he stopped and grabbed his pants. Later it was learned that the elastic in his pants had ripped.

About the only thing lost, though, was Wall's dignity. Colorado State won 64-13.

Heavy Trade In Low-Priced Mining Issues Sparks Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Heavy trading in mining issues, especially the low-prices variety, today highlighted a falling stock market.

Gold and non-ferrous metal issues were generally higher with lower-priced stocks advancing and the higher-priced stocks declining as a rule.

Steels and rails were active and lower while automobiles, oils, rubbers, and chemicals headed down.

At the top of the most active list was Park Utah Consolidated Mines unchanged at 4¼ with 33,300 shares traded. It was followed by South American gold and platinum up ⅜ at 6, New York Central unchanged at 20⅛, St. Louis-San Francisco Railway off 1 at 29⅞ and the Milwaukee Road up ⅜ at 22⅞.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 40 cents at $100.90 with the industrial component off 70 cents, rails off 40 cents, and utilities off 10 cents.

Volume came to only 1,750,000 shares as compared with 1,860,000 shares yesterday. The list narrowed to 1,133 individual issues traded (there were 1,151 yesterday) of which 308 advanced and 572 declined with 40 new highs and 9 new lows.

Stocks losing ground included Baltimore and Ohio off ⅝ at 21¼, Amerada Petroleum 1⅜ at 136, Phillips Petroleum 1⅜ at 49⅞, Loew's ½ at 19, American Telephone ⅜ at 158⅝, American Smelting ⅞ at 101½, Butte Copper 1⅜ at 17⅝ Howe Sound 3 at 78½, Newmont Mining 2 at 132, American Cyanamid 1⅜ at 112⅛, U. S. Steel ⅝ at 43⅛, Bethlehem Steel 1 at 54⅜, General Motors ¼ at 52½, Chrysler ⅞ at 72⅝, U. S. Rubber 1 at 77, and American Viscose 2½ at 67.

Higher were such issues as Anaconda Copper up ½ at 50⅜, Consolidated Coppermines ¼ at 13⅝, Alaska Juneau ⅜ at 3⅜, Homestake Mining 1¼ at 39¼, Dome Mines ⅜ at 19¼, Calumet and Hecla ⅛ at 11⅝, International Mining ¼ at 4⅛, and Eastern Corp. 2 at 31.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT IS YOUR ENTRY?

IT'S ALL well and good to consider the problem of necessary entries to the dummy, which arises on a great proportion of all deals. But how about the entries to your own hand? Are you going to be able to get back there when you want to? Sometimes that does not occur to players of fairly high grade. They are so used to having any desired number of entries into the holding which bought the contract, that they don't often have to face the problem of locating one there.

Could you imagine yourself sitting in the West when that bidding occurred, as he reported it to us? Little would you expect to prove the happiest man of the four when the play was over. His lead was the diamond 3, which the A won, and then all he could do was wait and hope, with hopes which proved not futile.

South followed the diamond trick with the spade A and K. He scored the heart A next, then led the Q, prepared to discard a club if the K did not cover. It did, so he ruffed with the dummy's last trump. Now he had no way to get back in his hand except with a club. This happened to be one of those peculiar decks which contains only thirteen cards of a suit, and he could see all the clubs. His sole chance was that West would revoke. He did not, however, so the contract was beaten by West's ruff.

Chances of making that contract could have been multiplied by scoring only one trump before operating on the hearts. When he did try hearts, it would have been better, perhaps, to lead the Q, prepared to discard a club if it was not covered or ruff if it was, before ever laying down the A. Playing hearts then until the K was put on and ruffed, he would have been able to get back in his hand at any time by leading the dummy's last trump. But wasn't that some hand?

Grand Jury Asks County Drugs Curb

Suggestion Made In Court Report

A suggestion that the youth of Allegany County "actively protect and to a large extent police the use of habit-forming drugs which might now or hereafter exist" was featured in the 13-page report of the Circuit Court grand jury, which wound up its seven days of investigation of county crime late yesterday.

A number of other proposals and compliments were included in the report of the grand jury, which was one of the hardest working bodies of this type in the county in the past 25 years. The grand jury report notes that 113 witnesses were heard and 55 indictments returned during the seven days of activity.

Suggestions Listed

Other major suggestions of the grand jury:

1. That the Allegany County delegation in the State Legislature sponsor legislation designated to permit the county commissioners to participate in determining the amount fixed for school budgets and for school expenditures generally.
2. That the Allegany County Welfare Board exercise extreme care in cases where the father has absconded until a thorough and complete investigation has been made.
3. Proposals for improvement of certain county-owned institutions.
4. An expression of regret at the recent death of Frederick C. "Buck" Dreyer, who for many years had served as county treasurer.

"This body recommends that the student organizations in all of the high schools throughout the county and in the City of Cumberland report immediately to their principal or to the chief of police, sheriff, state's attorney or constable and communicate any information which they may receive indicating the use of any narcotics or the smoking of marijuana cigarettes by any person of their acquaintance," the report stated. "It is the feeling of the grand jury that the youth of the county can actively protect and to a large extent police the use of such habit-forming drugs which might now or hereafter exist. By this, we do not wish to infer or even indicate that any person, child or adult in Allegany County is, at the present time, engaged in such activity."

School Expenditures Noted

In another section, the long report states that the county commissioners have stressed that out of every tax dollar for the year ending June 30, 1951, 57.36 cents was expended without the necessity of applying to or receiving the approval of the county commissioners.

Noting that this is the only procedure that can be taken under existing state law, the grand jury then recommends that the county delegation in the State Legislature sponsor legislation designated to permit the county commissioners to participate in determining the amount fixed for school budgets and for school expenditures generally.

A reference to the problem of absconding fathers also was emphasized in the grand jury report. In about 61 instances, the grand jury reports, it has not been possible to obtain any information as to the father's whereabouts. Then, the body urges that the Allegany County Welfare Board "be very careful of its granting assistance in such cases where the father has absconded until a thorough and complete investigation has been made of every source that would lead to the location of the father."

Commissioners Lauded

An early section of the report compliments the county commissioners for their foresight in establishing a long-range program for repairs and capital improvements to the properties owned by Allegany County and under their supervision.

Total overall expenditures, made or authorized during 1951, amount to $74,713.74, the report says.

Included are $5,294.55, Court House; $4,396.56, County Jail; $464.09, Union Street Building; $13,671, garage; $6,895.30, Infirmary; $26,286.73, Sylvan Retreat; $10,382.91, County Home, and $7,322.60, Welfare Building.

Included in the report were certain suggestions for relatively minor improvements in the various county buildings. Commendations were listed for Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grimm for conditions at the County Home, where they are in charge; for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Messmer at Sylvan Retreat and for Grimm as superintendent of the County Infirmary.

Suggestions for improvements at the County Jail included elimina-

Births

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cook, 35 East Baltimore Street, Hagerstown, formerly of this city, announce the birth of a daughter Monday in Washington County Hospital. Mrs. Cook is the former Edith Webb, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. N. E. Webb, Narrows Park.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, 11 Meadow Drive, Cresaptown, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. William V. Smith, 638 Fayette Street, a son yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. Blane M. Schindler, 303 Schley Street, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard R. Wilt, Midland, a daughter yesterday.

CLOSING PROPOSED—Seen above is the Williams Street crossing which would be closed under a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad proposal for improvements in the Cumberland yards. The Mayor and Council has instructed city officials to study the plan which railroad officials said would eliminate delays to trains and speed the movement of trains over the Baltimore Street crossing. Railroad officials said closing of the crossing would permit the construction of additional tracks on which trains could pull into the terminal. The B. and O. proposed the construction of a pedestrian bridge across the crossing if it were closed to traffic. Mayor Post asked the city officials to consider also an alternate plan involving the closing of three crossings and the construction of an overhead bridge in the area.

Third Flood Control Phase Is Discussed

Plans Reviewed At City Hall Meeting

Corps of Engineers representatives and officials of this city conferred here yesterday on proposed plans for the third phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project.

Present at the meeting in City Hall were A. E. Steere, head of the Design Section, Corps of Engineers, Washington District; Sidney Beck, attorney, and Ted Becker, realtor, both of the Appraisal and Legal section of the Corps of Engineers.

Mayor Thomas S. Post, W. Earle Cobey, city solicitor, and Albert S. Paye, liaison engineer, represented the city.

Study Proposed Plans

Steere brought with him preliminary plans for the proposed third phase of the work, which embraces a section of Wills Creek channel from the Route 40 bridge at the Narrows to a point below the Western Maryland Railway bridge at City Junction.

Purpose of the conference was to review the plans and agree on necessary surveys and title examinations leading to necessary property acquisitions and easements needed for the construction of the third phase of the flood control job.

The project would embrace about half a mile of channel work. The proposed plans for the job call for making the channel generally 11 feet deeper than the present bed of the stream, Paye said.

Dredging Is Planned

This would be accomplished by dredging the channel about seven feet deeper and raising the walls of the stream about four feet.

The effect would be to increase the capacity of the stream and its velocity, thus allowing flood waters to speed through Cumberland without overflowing the banks of Wills Creek.

Cost of the project, the smallest phase of the flood control job, is estimated at about $1,000,000.

Phase II should be completed by December 1, officials said.

Albright Warns Of Vandalism

A crackdown on Halloween vandalism in the Mt. Savage area is being conducted, Charles L. Albright, constable-at-large, said last night.

The officer said destruction of property in that area will not be tolerated and offenders who are caught will be given a hearing before Judge Alban C. Thompson of the Juvenile Court in Cumberland.

Thus far, several gates have been torn from their hinges, Albright added, and he is now patrolling the area nightly in an effort to break up the vandalism.

Albright commented that the residents usually affected the most are older people unable to get about and repair the damage.

Movie Projectors Will Be Available

The City Recreation Department yesterday urged groups who wish to borrow movie projectors or loud speakers to apply at least a week before the equipment is needed.

Edmund F. Hoey, director, said available equipment is often inadequate to meet all applications.

The department has two 16 mm. movie projectors and three loud speakers available for use of parties and clubs.

Hoey said the department will be glad to arrange for films but that organizations must pay rental fees for such film. No charge is made for equipment, except for repairs.

Overhead Bridge Proposal Is Announced By Defibaugh

Suggests Closing Three Crossings

Details of an overhead bridge for vehicular and pedestrian traffic which would permit the closing of the Williams, Harrison and Union Street railroad crossings were announced yesterday by J. T. Defibaugh, former chief of the Cumberland Fire Department.

Mayor Thomas S. Post on Monday asked the City Engineer and City Solicitor to give "serious consideration" to the plan in connection with their study of a B. and O. proposal for the closing of the Williams Street crossing.

Defibaugh said the overhead bridge could be built on B. and O. property and would not involve the acquisition of additional land.

The bridge would begin at Park and Harrison Streets, pass over the site of the present B. and O. medical examiner's office and the railroad tracks, and end on South George Street near the site of an abandoned feed store.

He said construction costs would be partially met by elimination of maintenance costs at the three abandoned crossings.

If the Baltimore Street crossing were blocked, Defibaugh said, traffic would pass over the overhead

Power Failure Affects PE Precipitator

The Smoke Abatement office was deluged with complaints early yesterday morning when a power interruption knocked out the electric precipitators at the Potomac Edison Company's River Plant.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said 11 fly ash calls were received after the power failed.

The incident occurred about 8:20 a. m. after a crane working on a Flood Control job on Lehigh Street hit a high tension wire feeding the Thomas Street substation. Several sections of town were affected by the power failure.

Hitchcock said the situation righted itself before 9 a. m. after the electric precipitator went back into operation.

Court House To Close

The Court House will be closed Friday in observance of Columbus Day, the County Commissioners announced yesterday.

40 & 8 Names Committees For Halloween Parade

Committees for the annual Halloween Parade sponsored by Voiture 164, Forty and Eight, were announced yesterday by Thomas F. Conlon, parade chairman.

At the same time, Conlon announced receipt of a letter from Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn praising the parade and celebration as a way of minimizing vandalism, and promised his cooperation.

The city has donated $200 for the celebration. Emphasis this year will be placed on mummers, rather than floats, and no prizes are being offered for floats or musical organizations.

Marshals and voyagers include:

For the assembly on Centre Street facing George Street made up of the Allegany High School Band, Edgar Reynolds will be marshal and Wesley Abrams, Lawson Creighton and William Carscaden will be voyagers.

Henry Hart Drum and Bugle Corps will assemble on Centre Street facing Union Street. Howard M. Spiker will be marshal with J. Patrick Farrell, Bashor Cross and Robert Wilson being voyagers.

Assembling on Harrison Street facing Centre Street will be Fort Hill High School Senior Band. Marshall will be J. Robert McConnell, and Willard Engle, James Jenkins and Leslie Clark will be voyagers.

Marshal for Fulton Myers Drum and Bugle Corps assembling on South Centre Street will be Ambrose Burkey. Voyagers will be Charles O. Donnell, Joseph Ressig and John Shumaker.

Assembling on Salem Street facing Centre Street will be Allegany Junior High School Band. William Goble will be marshal and Thomas Blacklin, Jack Devlin and William Rankin will be voyagers.

Fort Hill Junior High School Band will assemble on South Centre Street with Paul Weisenmiller as marshal. Voyagers will be Frank Powers, Galen Storer and Roy Whitson.

The parade will form at 7 p. m. October 31 at the State Armory and will march off at 8 p. m.

Half-Way Mark Passed In Chest Drive

$53,378.64 Realized In Second Report

The Community Chest-USO campaign total passed the half-way mark at yesterday's second report when $22,955.21 was recorded on the scoreboard at the noonday meeting, bringing the total to $53,378.64 or 51 per cent of the objective.

Audited totals following the report by sections are:

Residential, Mrs. Morris L. Barnes, chairman, $2,831.26 or 53% of goal; Sales Army, Henry K. Duke, chairman, $2,618.90 which is 35% of goal; Classified section, Edward L. Ewald, chairman, $11,825.78 or 37% of goal; Advance Gifts Committee, Edmund S. Burke, chairman and Henry C. Swearingen, co-chairman, $35,700 which is 63% of goal. The Allegany County USO campaign of which Harry G. Shupe is chairman reported a total of $402.70 this being 12% of the $3,500 quota.

Rotary Attends Meeting

James M. Pitkethly, president of the Cumberland Rotary Club, opened the meeting and expressed the interest of Rotary in the success of the Chest-USO campaign, stating the work of the Chest and the USO was essential to the well-being of the entire area.

George L. Buchanan, general chairman, presided for the campaign meeting and pointed out the acceptance which is being given the in-store and in-plant solicitations. He emphasized the fact that the appeal covered two campaigns and that where the payment of pledges was made easy through small contributions each week or month, many could give what they really wanted to.

Complete Returns Given

A number of campaigns are just getting underway according to Henry Price, chairman of the "A" group of the classified section, but

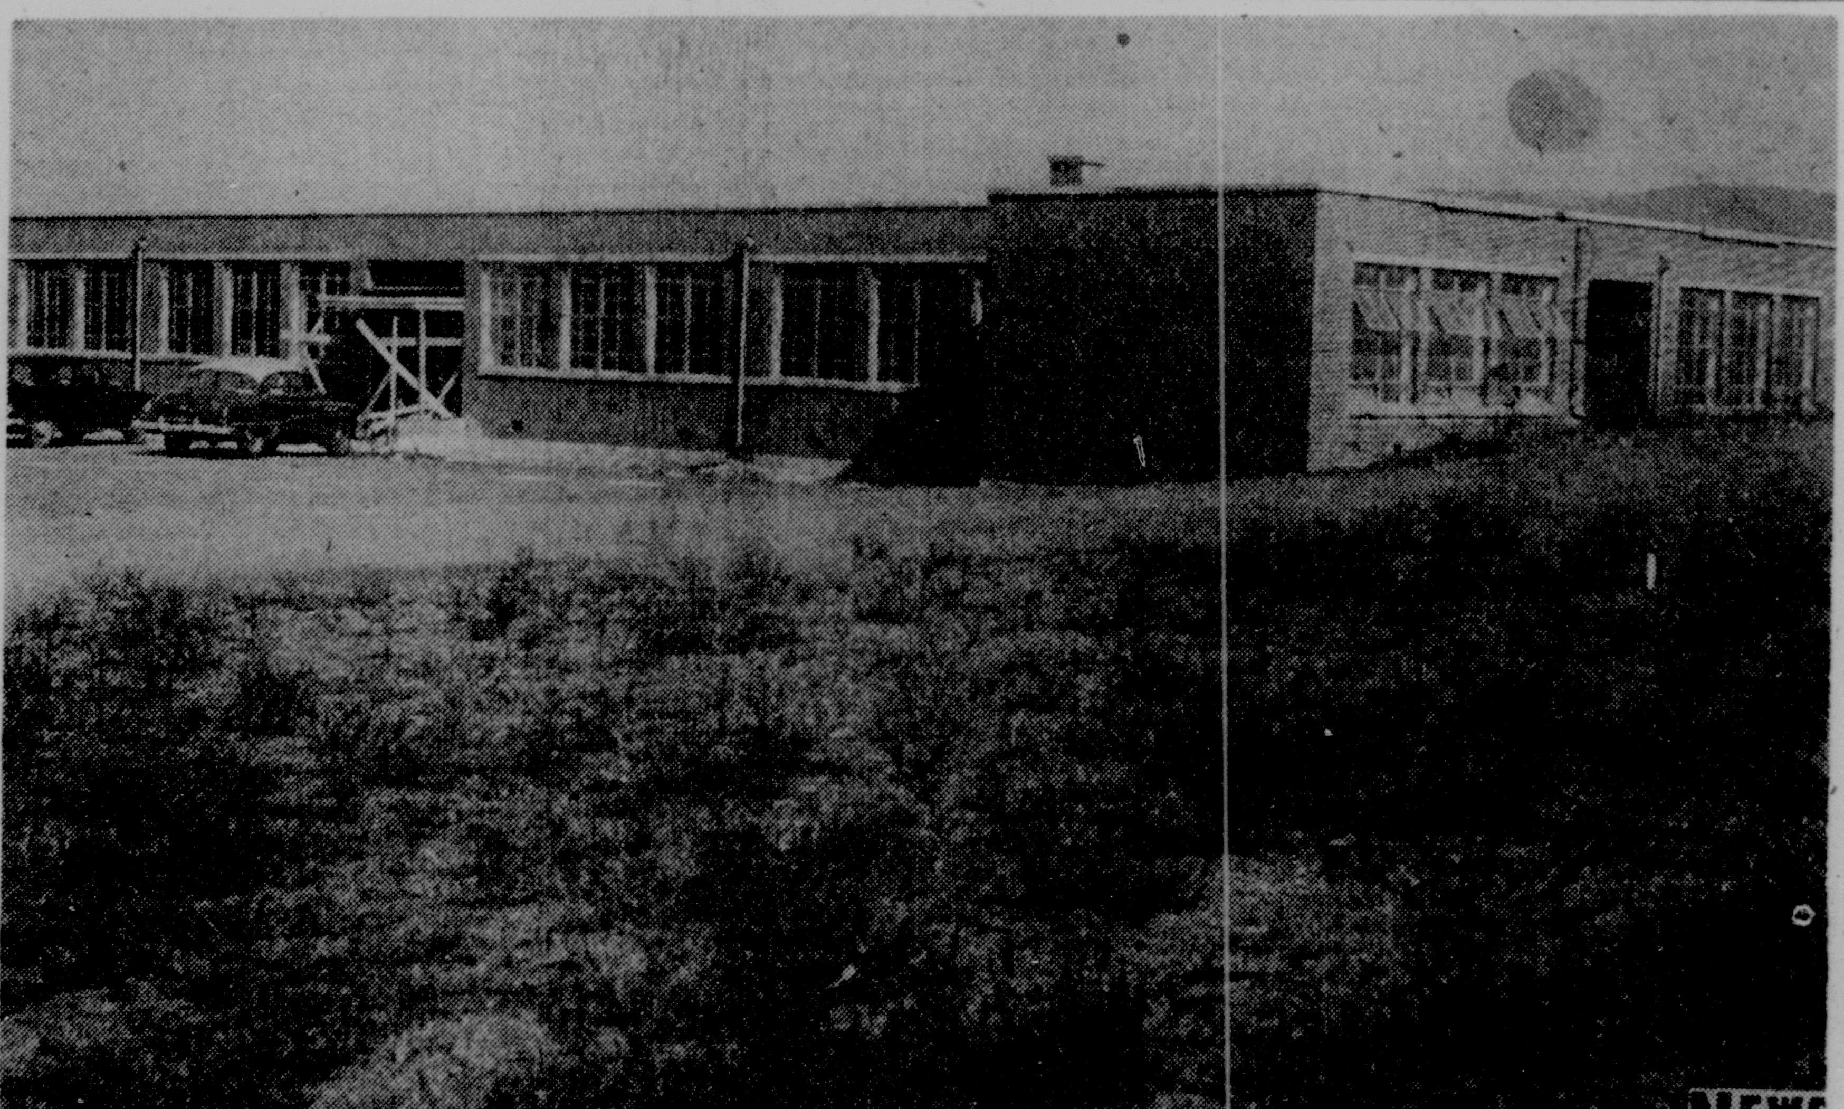
Bus Drivers Union Will Meet Today

Regular meetings of Local 1110, Bus Drivers and Shopmen Union (AFL), will be held today in Trades Council Hall, James Morrison, president, announced yesterday.

The morning session will be held at 10:30 o'clock and the evening meeting at 7:30 o'clock.

The union termed the meeting important and urged all members to attend one of the sessions.



SCHOOL WORK PROGRESSES — Work on the new Wiley Ford (W.Va.) school building is progressing rapidly, with most major parts of the construction already completed. Educators hope to be using the new building for classes by Christmas. The school PTA will hear a progress report on the project at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the old school hall.

Screen Actors Are On Tour Here Today

Kibbee, Wood Taking Part In Movie Jubilee

Screen actors Guy Kibbee and Donald Wood will be in Cumberland today in connection wtih Movietime—Maryland, USA, the observance of the golden jubilee of the American cinema.

Kibbee is nationally famous as hero of the Scattergood Baines movie series. Wood is a well known character actor.

Their first public appearance today will be at a noon luncheon of the Lions Club at Central YMCA.

At 2 p. m. they will appear at a joint assembly of students of students of Catholic Girls Central High School and LaSalle High School at Carroll Hall, North Centre Street.

The rest of the afternoon will be devoted to interviews and meetings with city officials. At 6:30 p. m. they will be guests of the Tri-State Traffic Club at a dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Ray Light, general chairman of the Western Maryland jubilee observance, said the stars hope to visit other points in the Tri-tSate area if their schedule permits.

Kibbee, however, must leave tonight for New York to appear on his radio show tomorrow afternoon.

The appearance of the two stars here will mark the first visit of screen actors to Cumberland since the bond drive of World War II.

Western Maryland theaters are cooperating to further the observance of Movietime in this area. Light and John Manuel, publicity chairman, will be in charge of the stars' appearance here. C. Elmer Nolte, Baltimore, is state chairman.

Judge Withholds Decision In License Appeal

Agreement Action Will Be Followed

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris took under advisement in Allegany County Circuit Court an appeal by Reon Glessner, operator of a junk yard at Wrights Crossing, from a decision of the Board of County Commissioners in refusing him a permit for operation of his business.

Judge Harris said the case will be held in abeyance pending the outcome of an agreement reached between the commissioners and Glessner. Under this arrangement, Glessner is to operate his business in line with restrictions laid down by the commissioners.

The only evidence heard at the trial was the testimony of William H. Lemmert, board president.

The constitutionality of a county law pertaining to the licensing and regulation of junkyards was attacked by attorneys for Glessner.

Clarence Lippel and Milton Gerson, attorneys for Glessner, toid the court that the regulation on junkyards is broad and not clearly defined and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners can exercise arbitrary powers in licensing these establishments.

Lippel quoted from numerous Maryland cases bearing on the regulation and licensing provisions of ordinances similar to the county junkyard law and he claimed that the Maryland Court of Appeals has reversed most boards and other governmental units in such cases where the rules and regulations were not clearly defined.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners, told the court that the commissioners had at no time refused Glessner a permit to operate but said Glessner had failed to abide by an agreement he made with the commissioners to enclose the junkyard and not to burn any materials on the property.

PLAYS GRATIANO — Taking the part of Gratiano in the Barter Theater production, "Merchant of Venice," Friday at 8:15 p. m. at Allegany High School will be John Holland.

LaVale Pupil To Appear In Barter Play

Judy Youngblood Is Active In Dramatics

A third grade pupil at LaVale School has been assigned a bit part in the forthcoming Barter Theater production, "Merchant of Venice."

Judy Youngblood, eight-year-old daughter of Alvin G. Youngblood, Jr., will appear in the play scheduled Friday at 8:15 p. m. at Allegany High School auditorium, Floyd V. Cozad, Jaycee chairman, has announced.

Judy, a student at the Moyer Dance Studio, has taken part in various productions of the studio as well as in school and church activities.

She will be coached for her part by stage manager Eric Halbig of the Barter Theater troupe.

Fifteen members of the Junior and Senior Classes of West Virginia School for the Blind at Romney will attend the performance, Cozad added. They will be accompanied by J. Roten Kelton and another member of the faculty.

Numerous seats are still available and tickets are on sale at the S. T. Little Jewelry Store or may be purchased at the door Friday evening. Both season and single performance tickets are available at the door, Cozad said.

Sixteen members of the troupe are traveling to Cumberland. The wardrobes are new and elaborate, with the latest lighting effects being used, Cozad said.

Wire Larceny Charges Added To Court Docket

47 Indictments Included On List

Three indictments charging larceny and receipts of stolen copper wire which belonged to the Celanese Corporation of America were added to the open docket of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Leo F. Welsh was named in all three of the true bills. He was accused of stealing a total of 582 pounds of copper wire—180 pounds on March 26, 120 pounds on March 30 and 282 pounds on April 2. Joseph Welsh was charged in the March 26 and April 2 offenses. Also named in the April 2 charge were Russell J. Collins and Marvin Collins.

Service has not been made against two other men listed in the March 29 charge.

Two indictments charging Reon Glessner, operator of a junk yard at Wrights Crossing, with receiving stolen mine supplies, also were docketed yesterday. Glessner was accused of getting stolen supplies worth $542.20 on March 28 and other supplies worth $86 on the following day. The property, all belonging to the Consolidated Fuel Company, was reported by State Police as having been stolen from a Klondike mine. Two National youths already have been indicted in the actual theft of the property.

Also placed on the open docket yesterday was an additional charge involving paternity of an infant.

Forty-seven indictments already are on the open docket. The grand jury reported yesterday that 55 indictments were returned during its investigations.

The Weather

The low temperature of 32 degrees was accompanied by frost yesterday morning, flushing the autumn colors of the area woodlands. A firm breeze continued to sweep Cumberland all day yesterday carrying with it crisp leaves that made scratching noises on the sidewalks as they were being blown about. The high temperature of 63 degrees reported by Constitution Park's weather station was aided somewhat by a cheerful sun most of the afternoon. By 8 p. m. the thermometer had dropped to 47 degrees. Low temperatures were also reported in Thomas and Davis, W. Va., and Deal, Pa., which had 32-degree readings yesterday morning. Elkins, W. Va., had a low of 28 degrees. Little change in temperatures is predicted by the Weather Bureau for today.

Air Pollution In City Shows 5-Ton Increase

September Dustfall Averages 12.8 Tons

An increase in air pollution in this city last month was reported yesterday by the Smoke Abatement Office.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said averages for the month indicate an increase of 5.. tons per square mile for the period.

During September, he said, dustfall averaged 12.8 tons a square mile as compared to August's low mark of 7.5 tons.

Hitchcock said the Smoke Abatement Office is checking to learn what was responsible for the increase.

The major part of the dustfall increase, he added, was in the South and Central sections of the city, with improvement noted in several sections.

Jar B, located at Avirett Place, gave a reading of 24 tons during September as opposed to a 20-ton-a-square-mile reading during August.

Officials said the dry weather which plagued this area last month may have been a factor in the dustfall increase.

Railroad officials, Hitchcock pointed out, report that they have a difficult time during July and August with combustion problems due to the hot weather and lack of humidity. Climatic conditions usually found during those months continued into September.

Average dustfall in Cumberland during 1949 was 28.87 tons, and in 1950, 31.24 tons. Air pollution this year has varied from 30.33 in February to 11.55 in May and 7.5 in August.

Dr. Walters Is New TB Group Vice President

Glenn K. Davis Is Named Seal Chairman

Dr. Hilda Jane Walters was elected vice president of the Allegany County Tuberculosis Association at a meeting of the executive committee yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Walters replaces Mrs. Julia Abramson, who resigned last summer because of illness.

At the meeting, Mrs. Harry Barton, president, appointed Glenn K. Davis, vice president of the Cumberland Lions Club, chairman of the association's 1951 Christmas Seal Sale Committee.

Davis was chairman of the 1950 Seal Sale and was commended for his work in distributing coin banks throughout the county.

In the financial report discussed at the meeting it was shown that $3,846.69 was spent for various activities from the $9,529.92 allotted, leaving a balance of $5,683.23.

Discussion of the various activities of the association showed that approximately 3,000 new names have been added to the Seal Sale mailing list.

More than 4,000 names have been dropped from the list because of death or because of moving from the community, showing that nearly 21,000 people will receive Christmas Seals this year.

From July 12 to September 6, a county-wide X-ray survey was conducted by the Health Department and the association with 8,023 people being X-rayed in Allegany County.

Approximately 800 more X-rays were taken in Cumberland this year than last. In other communities of the county, however, approximately 1,600 fewer X-rays were taken.

During the last three weeks of July and the first week of August, the association conducted a daily health education program at the Kiwanis Camp. The program included films, demonstrations and daily recording of the children's weight on individual weight charts.

In social service the association helped the Cumberland Girl Scouts provide Camperships for several underprivileged girls in the community.

Court Room PA System Approved

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday agreed to provide the funds for the installation of a public address system in the Circuit Court room, Associate Judge George Henderson reported.

Immediate steps for installation will be taken in hopes that the system will be ready for the first criminal trials next Monday.

Briefs

The Carver School Parent-Teacher Association will meet at 8 p. m. today at the school. Committees will be appointed and plans for the year will be discussed.

The Ridgedale Playground Association will meet at 7:30 today at the home of Mrs. Rose Diehl, 819 Manns Terrace, to elect officers. The group also will complete arrangements for a rummage sale Friday at 7:30 p. m. in Canada Hose House, North Mechanic Street, and for a Halloween celebration.

The Kiwanis Club will hear the third report of the Community Chest-USO drive at its dinner meeting tomorrow at 12:15 at Central YMCA.
